Transportation and Your Safety

CAR SHORTAGES have already developed at many of the coal mines of the United States. Without cars to load, the mines cannot produce; without production of coal, the welfare of the public cannot be conserved.

So far the shortages have not been serious in proportions, but with cold weather arriving, it can be expected that they will increase and may materially hinder the movement of coal.

Safety to your family can be secured by immediately stocking your coal. Coal prices will not decrease, and they may advance, if a transportation emergency arises.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 1248, or write The Intelligencer.

USE YOUR MUSCLES

B.B.—I never would have believed there were so many weak-armed-men and boys in this city but after taking a squint at the majority of walks which are still snow and ice-covered, I'm forced to believe that such is the case. It is really sorrowful to see so many wives, mothers and sisters forced to ply the shovel or scraper, when if the masculine gender would only arise about ten minutes earlier than usual they could shovel the walk while the lady of the house was coaxing up the fire. Then a man will groan when a woman demands equal rights! She may do all the work she likes, but let her mention equality in pay and bingo, he's off again!

LIVE OR NOT?

M.E.—I see the surrounding cities, towns and villages are vigorously working up the makings of hockey teams. Our city has one of the best assortments in this part of the province yet not a whisper do we hear as yet (middle of November) of our hockey team. The Belleville sports are the shortest in the matter of "pep" that I have ever heard of. Get the teams lines up and work them into shape! Let Belleville fans back the boys to the limit of pocket and lung. Go to it and show 'em that Belleville is on the map, wide awake!

A NEAR SQUEAK

C.H.—Going up Catharine street hill just as the youngsters were let out of school I received a nervous shock when I saw a little tot of very tender years start to cross the road tugging along a sleigh, half way up the hill. A large touring car was coming at a moderate speed and when the motorist saw the school was out he honked repeatedly. Luckily the little one moved quick enough to clear the danger. But what a trial for the motorist who encounters so many like incidents in a day.

Y.M.C.A. BOWLING

The typo team of bowlers of The Intelligencer Office were off color last night and as a result went down to defeat before the Knights of Columbus team to the tune of 161 pins. It was rather uninteresting game from the spectators' point of view as neither team were playing a first class game. In the first game the printers had a slight margin over their opponents but in the second game the Knights came back strong securing a margin that would have been difficult for any team to overcome. Thomas Barrett of the winning team had the highest single score, namely 201 and F. Domenico the best three string, 457. For the typos Harrison had the best score for one game namely 184 and was high for the three games with a score of 421. The losers state that they will do much better when they play again and are by no means downhearted over their defeat. The players and scores were as follows:

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

Product of Canada

It was known many years ago that yeast is an excellent thing for the many ills that result from disordered stomach or run down blood condition. Lately eminent scientists have been investigating the matter thoroughly and their conclusions point to the fact that the beneficial effect of yeast has not been overrated. The yeast treatment is very simple and economical - and altogether harmless.

Before each meal eat a Royal Yeast Cake, or take a cake dissolved in water or fruit juices. The scientific investigators say that the curative elements in Royal Yeast are the vitamines and nuclein which it contains. It is certainly well worth a fair trial by those who suffer from any of the ailments mentioned above.

APPOINTMENT OF MEDICAL HEALTH OFFICER DEFERRED

H. B. Stock Appointed Permanent Auditor—Dundas Sewer Work Authorized.

At the City Council meeting last night Mayor Hanna and all the members were in attendance. One of the matters under consideration was the appointing of a Medical Health Officer to take the place of the late Dr. Yeomans. At a recent meeting of the Board of Health, Dr. Cronk, who has been acting for some time was recommended for the position.

The Great War Veterans' Association of the city also recommended Dr. Cronk as a returned man, and the nominee was supported by Lieut Liddle, Secretary of the G.W.V.A. who pointed out that Dr. Cronk served in France, Belgium and China and had been mentioned in despatches for his action in preventing an attack of cholera in a camp in China.

The appointment was referred to the Executive Committee for further consideration.

William street residents complained over the condition of a portion of William street.—Referred to Public Works Committee.

Wharf Street Debating Club was given authority to erect a small building at the foot of the ferry slip, the rental of the site to be $1 per year.

CITY AUDITOR

The recommendation that Mr. H. B. Stock be appointed by bylaw permanent auditor caused considerable discussion.

Ald. Bennett said he was against the appointment of a permanent auditor at this time. He would say this for the present auditor that he did not believe there was a better man in the city for the position.

Ald. Adams was told that the permanent appointment would enable Mr. Stock to go over the 1922 books his appointment being only for the 1921 book.

Ald. Woodley spoke in support of the permanent appointment.

Upon a vote being taken the recommendation was adopted, the vote being as follows to refer the matter back.

For—Bennett, Ballinger, French Fisher.

RECOMMENDATIONS ADOPTED

That Wm. Tracey be refunded the sum of $40 overpaid on taxes.

That a bylaw be prepared and submitted to the electors at the next election authorizing the expenditure of $25,000 for the purpose of acquiring industrial sites.

That the Council take a membership in the Ontario Municipal Association at the sum of $25.

In regard to the latter recommendation there was some discussion as to municipal matters to be considered by the Association.

A PROTEST

The City Council believed that the system adopted by the Legislature in charging a portion of the costs of suburban roads to towns and cities is wholly unfair and places a burden upon towns and cities which they should not be asked to bear and from which they should be relieved and the Council protested against being called upon to contribute towards the construction or maintenance of suburban roads and decided to join with Sarnia Council in a request to the Legislature to pass an act abolishing such system.

This step was taken on motion of Ald. Woodley, seconded by Ald. Treverton.

MOTIONS

Ald. Woodley moved, seconded by Ald. Bennett that the clerk extend to Mr. W. H. Ireland the thanks of the Council for the splendid map of the Province of Ontario presented by him to the city.—Carried.

LETTER OF CONDOLENCE

On motion of Ald. Ostrom, seconded by Ald. Woodley, the City Clerk was authorized to write Mrs. (Dr.) H. A. Yeomans a letter of sympathy and appreciation of the late Dr. Yeomans' services to the city as Medical Officer of Health.

DUNDAS STREET SEWER

Ald. Treverton and City Engineer Mills reported on the condition of a sewer crossing Dundas street, stating that there could be laid a tile across the street, that might help the situation and the cost would be $150.

Ald. Bennett wanted the work done at once.

The report was adopted.

There were sixteen applicants for the position of assistant assessors, so Ald. Ballinger was informed by the Mayor when the enquiry was made.

Ald. Ballinger—Have the applications been considered.

Mayor Hanna—Personally I do not know. No appointment has been made.

TREE TRIMMING

Tree trimming was turned over to the Parks Department by bylaw. The work has hitherto been in charge of the Public Works Committee.

BYLAWS

Ald. Wensley was in the chair in committee of the whole on bylaws. The bylaw regarding the appointing of Mr. H. B. Stock as permanent auditor was introduced.

Ald. Bennett was opposed to the bylaw stating he would fight it step by step.

Ald. Ballinger thought the public believed the appointment was for six months not permanently.

Upon a vote being taken it was a tie 4 to 4. Ald. Wensley gave the casting vote in favor of the bylaw.

When the committee arose and reported the report was adopted on division as follows:

Against—Bennett, Fisher, Ballinger and French.

APPEAL CHEQUE CASE DISMISSED

Farmer Wins Against the U. F. O.—Alleged Altered Cheque.

The case of Hoover, the sales agent for the U. F. O., against Edward McInroy, of Rawdon, for the return of $170.00 claimed by Hoover to have been paid to McInroy on an altered cheque, came before the Appellate Division at Toronto on the 14th inst., before Hon. Mr. Justices R. T. Meredith, Middleton, Riddell and Latchford, when after hearing argument, Hoover's appeal was dismissed. The appeal was staken from a judgment of His Honor Judge Deroche, who dismissed the plaintiff's action. F. E. O'Flynn for the plaintiff, Hoover; W. C. Mikel, K.C., for the defendant, Edward McInroy.

BAKU PEOPLE ARE POOR AND HUNGRY

Baku, Azerbaijan. Nov. 14.—(By a Staff Correspondent of The Associated Press).—The economic keynote to this city is found in a small shop of the broad Nikolaevskaya, a stone's throw from the ancient Palace of the Khans. In the window of this shop are a few bars of soap, combs, hairbrushes, shoe polish, and three tiny bottles of French perfume, one of which, marked "Quelque Violets," is priced at 600,000 rubles.

Baku has neither bread nor clothes but she still hopes to come back sometime. Thanks to her vast oil wealth, now unproductive in the main, she has for many years been like Pittsburgh, a place where men became millionaires overnight.

Everybody is poor and hungry now, as they have been before, but they live on the gambler's hope. One of the specialties of Baku, with its rough citizens of many races, has been the making of revolutions and another may be produced to put out the Soviet and bring back the good old times.

For the present the city wears a down-at-the-heel look. Houses are paintless, windows are boarded up for want of panes. The only color of life is produced by flaring Bolshevik posters, illustrating the evils of alcohol, and demon rum, capitalism and sundry odds and ends, including the necessity of caring for the teeth. As there is no alcohol even for medical purposes nor dentists, nor money circulating among the poor, these posters lose their effect. They are hang-overs from old Soviet educational campaigns.

Baku took up Bolshevism where Moscow left it off and still pretends that it is very, very socialistic and brotherly. The small boys in the streets have taken a liking to the "Tovarish," (comrade) and address passersby with it, when begging a bit of bread or a match.

There are no hotels at all in Baku today. All buildings and homes have been communized and the stranger is hard put to it to find a place to sleep. The city still has a good supply of artists and singers. Some of them are sent from Moscow which has, through tick and thin kept faith to the program that teh public should have first-class entertainment.

Srangers meet courtesy and expedition at the office of the Minister of Foreign Affairs. Youth is in control here. The Foreign Minister is a Tartar, aged 23. The War Minister is 26 years old, the Minister of Industry and Commerce, 22 and the president of the parliament of the republic is 24.

When oil is mentioned, the old-timers explode. "There is hardly any oil left here, in one of the world's richest centers," said one engineer. "After the oil properties of the private companies were requisitioned, workmen who didn't know how to read or write or anything about oil, were put in control, as a committee.

"The Soviet has ruined us and brought us all to starvation. It has ruined the richest wheat section in Russia and now we can't get bread from Samara. If there had been no drought, the famine would have come just the same due to Soviet requisitions of grain that left no seed grain to the peasants.'"

SENTENCED FOR LIFE

Montreal, Nov. 15.—Grace Moreno found guilty of manslaughter in connection with the death of John James Rowe whom she stabbed during an argument over a five dollar bill was this morning sentenced to life imprisonment by Mr. Justice, Monet. The Moreno girl said "thank you sir," when she heard her sentence.

Vanity
and Glasses

The wearing of glasses is one of the best preservers of a youthful appearance. This is because prolonged eyestrain causes wrinkles to appear prematurely and gives the countenance a strained, tired, anxious, drawn, cross look, which is very characteristic and far more to be avoided, from the viewpoint of appearance than the slight disfigurement of glasses. Indeed, so far from being unbecoming, there are some types of faces to which glasses just add the finishing touch.

We have every up to date style.

ROTARY MESSAGE FROM BELLEVILLE

To Go Around Whole World and Draw Tighter in Bonds of Amity the Anglo-Saxon Race.

Rotary Day at the Hotel Quinte was as interesting as ever Monday, the big feature being Guss Porter's Golden Bridge of Friendship exposition which was very interesting and is described in detail in another column. It was made the subject of a resolution sponsored by Mack Robertson and Harry Ackerman to have the design submitted by Rotarian Gus sent to all Rotary Clubs in the British Empire and Canada urging them to pass the word along that eternal friendship and good fellowship must henceforth unite the Anglo-Saxon race with Canada the interpreter, between the United States and the British Isles. New members were introduced as follows:

Bob Graham introduced by Harry Ackerman.

Jack Angus introduced by Dannie Doyle.

President Gordon Moffatt welcomed the new members and instructed them in the ways of Rotary for no man can become a good Rotarian who can not like another in spite of his faults and respect him despite his mistakes.

Visitors included W. A. Spriggs of the Bell Telephone Co., who invited Rotary to inspect Telephone Central; Mr. Rowe, of Smith Hardware; Mr. Lewis of England, returning from California, all of whom made short addresses.

GOLD MEDALISTS

Canadian National—Grand Trunk Rail-Ways Receive Highest Award Toronto Exhibition

The Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways have received from the Canadian National Exhibition the award of a gold medal for their display in the Railways Building at the last exhibition, August to September 1921. The medal is a very handsome one with a life-like bust of Baron Byng of Vimy in bas-relief on one side and on the reverse side a figure portraying the idea of national progress. The Canadian. National-Grand Trunk exhibit at this annual event this year was one of the most outstanding features and created most favorable comment from the hundreds of thousands of people who passed through the Railways Building.

JUDGE MOTT IS CHILDREN'S FRIEND

make the boy a better mechanic or tradesman.

National greatness begins primarily in the cottage, as Boble Burns has so well described, Scotland is an example of cottage greatness.

In Massachusetts where seven years is the educational term a survey of child life showed a standing 260 units as against 170 for the whole of the United States with an average of 4. 4. years educational term, and 116 for Tenessee with three years term.

Where Rotary Helped

As a practical illustration of the physical and mental tests which are a feature of his court Judge Mott told of a boy of fourteen who came before him as a delinquent. An examination showed that one of the boy's legs was shorter than the other, and that the ankle was weak, in favoring the ankle while walking he bent over to such an extent that curvature of the spine was beginning to mark him for a hopeless cripple. Physical pain and disability induced restlessness, irritability and longing for things beyond his reach. The boy's case was referred to a famous Toronto surgeon, a Rotarian, and he joyfully volunteered to operate free of charge as a privilege of that Service above Self which Rotary stands for first, last and all the time. The operation was successful and the boy now has a fair chance to make good. This is just an example of the work that is going on as the result of the Juvenile Court of Judge Mott and the child welfare societies all working toward the same goal.

Judge Mott related a number of instances illustrating the work of the juvenile court and the widespread efforts to help children to become good citizens and give them a better chance all of a very interesting nature, and he made a strong plea for additional interest in the child, practical and united interest pointing out that the nation's future depended upon the child of to-day and the right development of that child. This was a challenge to every full blooded Canadian to see that every boy and girl had an opportunity to develop as God intended they should, giving all a fair chance.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speaker on motion of Mrs. W. H. Nugent and Rev. Mr. Marshall.

BRITAIN READY TO ACCEPT

Telling how he heard Secretary Hughes' proposals, Mr. Balfour said he suddenly realized he was participating in a great historical event. The United States stood solidly impregnable, completely protected from any conceivable attack. "It is not merely that you have one hundred and ten million people," said Mr. Balfour; "it is not merely that you are the wealthiest nation; geographically the position of your country makes you wholly immune from the perils to which the British Empire is subjected.

After drawing the position of Britain depending on overseas trade and overseas communication for raw materials and practically for its food, Mr. Balfour said: "Then you will understand why it is that every citizen of the British Empire, no matter where he lives, never can forget that it is by sea communication he lives and without it he cannot live. I do not want any audience to think that I am lamenting over the weakness of my country. Far from it. We are strong in the hope and ardent patriotism that binds us together. We have considered the great scheme of our chairman with admiration and approval. We agree with it in spirit and principle and look upon it as the basis of the greatest reform in armament and preparation for war that has ever been conceived or carried out."

Admiral Kato, who followed, accepted the proposal in principle and declared it would make for peace of the world. "Japan has no desire for a fleet equal of Britain or the United States and is ready for a sweeping reduction in the naval armament," he declared. This remark was wildly cheered. Baron Kato continued, however, that he would shortly present certain modifications to the proposals. Representatives of all other Allied Nations accepted the proposals.

The Conference adjourned at 12-45 to meet at the call of the chairman.

Justice Demands 8%

TIME was when 4% interest was all that investors expected with safety.

Governments borrowed at 3% and less.

Now all that is changed. Governments pay 6% and more. High-class Corporation Securities pay 7% and 8%.

Yet present Government interest rates would have been considered the "lure" of "blue sky" promoters ten years ago.

You see, therefore, there is nothing visionary or hazardous about a vast hotel enterprise borrowing money at 8% and offering its Convertible Debentures at this rate of interest plus a Common Stock Bonus.

This policy is particularly sound in the case of The Mount Royal Hotel Company, Limited, which will own the largest fireproof hotel in the British Empire.

The Mount Royal Hotel enterprise is timed to reap all the advantages accruing to Montreal as the greatest seaport, the industrial centre, the railroad headquarters and the pivotal point of all travellers and tourist traffic in Canada.

Consider, too, the list of Directors. You must be impressed by the fact that so able a group of men would never associate themselves with a doubtful enterprise.

Remember also that the hotel will be operated by the United Hotels Company of America, which has made an outstanding financial success of every hotel they have managed—eighteen in all.

Every man and woman who has money earning only 3% or 4% should consider at once the investment of some of their money in these 8% Convertible Debentures.

These 8% Convertible Debentures at par and interest, carrying a 30% bonus of Common Stock are the choicest security that has been offered in years.

Write immediately for a copy of the complete descriptive circular. Address:

MISS TAIT'S REPORT

Annual Report of 1920-21

The staff of the Training School at present consists of superintendent, graduate nurse in charge of second floor, who also acts as assistant superintendent, graduate nurse in charge of operating room, maternity department, night supervisor, also dietitian, pupil nurses, seniors nine, intermediate seven, juniors six probationers four.

With regard to the Training School which I took over on Dec. 2nd, I may say that I found the staff rather depleted, both in numbers and the general health was very poor, consequently during the winter and spring months we had quite a lot of sickness.

The maternity department was opened in December, necessitating more equipment, which was bought as expeditiously as possible, also the services of a graduate nurse to take charge. Everything has been very satisfactory, as there is absolutely no interchange of nurses during day or night.

The operating room on the second floor was also extra equipment bought and is used for clean surgery. The operating room on the main floor is used for accident, pus cases, table dressings, and is run by the senior nurse.

There is a general improvement in the Hospital and the utility room on the second floor with modern sterilizers, also an office for the nurses helps along the line of advancement.

First and second floor bath rooms were in bad shape but with replastering and painting ought to place them in a sanitary condition.

The basement diet kitchen has been completely overhauled and with a new electric range and ice box, meals can be prepared to the satisfaction of all. The large refrigerator installed this summer has done wonders in the way of preserving all perishables, especially in the line of milk. The nurses' dining room is much too small and there is noticeable discomfort when there are many special nurses in the Hospital.

The laundry is now under Chinamen and the work being done is commented on as good, the linen being a nice color.

Regarding the nurses, six of whom graduated in July, and did very creditable exams., the others are getting regular class and demonstration work daily, and the course of dietetics is now taken up and regular lectures are planned for the winter. We are all very sorry that Miss E. W. Rodgers has been unable to return owing to ill health.

I thank the Ladies' Board and the medical men for their continued help and cheer in trying to build up our Hospital to the required standardization.

MARGARET TAIT,
Superintendent.

ROYAL EXILES REACH MADEIRA ON BRITISH WAR SHIP

CARL AND ZITA AT MADEIRA

Their Place of Exile a Paradise Compared to St. Helena.

ON TRADE ROUTES

Recent History of Deposed Emperor of Austria and Present Plight.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

Funchal, Island of Madeira Nov. 16.—Former Emperor Charles and wife have arrived here on the British cruiser Cardi.

NAPOLEON AT ST. HELENA

Banishment of trouble-making former monarchs to islands of the sea far from their one-time dominions is an uncommon procedure, but precedent for the plight of former Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary who has been exiled to Madeira, is found in the historic case of Napoleon I, who passed six years on St. Helena in the south Atlantic, 700 miles from the nearest land, a prisoner more than a century ago.

A DEVIL'S ISLAND

St Helena is not only much smaller than Madeira, but, compared to the latter, is as "a devil's island" to paradise. Five-sixths of its area is devoid of vegetation and, aside from any army garrison, there are no big towns or other evidences of life.

Madeira, five times the size of St. Helena, is an ocean garden spot. Funchal, its chief city, has a population of more than 20,000 and the island, one of a group of four owned by Portugal, produces some of the most famous wine and laces in the world as well as an abundance of fruits, grains and sugar. Oxen are mainly used for agriculture, instead of draft horses and other farming methods are primitive. Less than two per cent. of the people can read and write.

The Portugese military garrison is very small and Charles, Zita and their six small children, if the Allied powers permit, may have every freedom except an unchaperoned ocean voyage. Napoleon was guarded day and night by soldiers.

ON TRADE ROUTES

Madeira, the Portuguese word for "forest," is directly in the Atlantic ocean trade routes. St. Helena, a British naval coaling station, often doesn't see a ship for days. Madeira is a port of call and thus is kept in daily touch with the outside world. The island, 400 miles west of Morocco, has a temperate climate. It is twelve miles wide and thirty-five miles long and elliptical in shape. Three other islands nearby complete the Madeira group. They are Porto Santos which, with Madeira, have a population of 170,000 and the Desertas and Selvagens, two smaller islands of volcanic origin. The latter are uninhabited rocky formations jutting out of the sea.

CARL AND ZITA'S WANDERINGS

After the collapse of the Central Powers in 1918, Charles and Zita sought refuge in Switzerland where, for three years, they lived with their children Last March the former Emperor attempted a coup d'etat by crossing the Swiss border and reaching the town of Steinmanger, Hungary, where with prominent monarchists he planned to enter Budapest. The plot failed and Charles returned to Switzerland. Again, on October 22nd last, despite his "word of honor" given to the Swiss authorities that he would attempt no further escapades, the former monarch and his wife, during the dispute over Burgenlad, flew in an airplane from Lucerne to Oedenburg and ultimately reach Raab, Hungary, where Charles was received by an armed party of royalists. In sanguinary effort to enter Budapest, the Carlists were defeated. The former emperor and empress were captured and finally, at the behest of the Little Etnente, placed aboard a British monitor in the Danube. On November 3, the ex-royal pair sailed for their future home in the mid-Atlantic. On November 4 the former Emperor, who had persistently refused to renounce his hereditary "rights" was dethroned and the Hapsburg dynasty was ousted from Hungary by a law passed by the Hungarian National Assembly.

NAPOLEON'S BITTER CUP

Napoleon's banishment in 1814 was no less bitter. The former Empress Josephine who died and his living consort, Marie Louise, with her son, the little Prince of Rome, had gone from

CANADA BACKS BALFOUR'S VIEW

Washington, Nov. 16.—It is understood that Canada strongly favors the view that by arrangement for periodical conferences the proposals put forward by the United States should become continuous and permanent. This would involve consideration of the diminution of naval armaments at fixed periods. It would also involve the calling into conference of any nations that might from time to time develop considerable naval power. The proposal would give permanence and continuity to the United States plan, and it is expected that it will meet with the strong approval of the nations whose representatives are now assembled in Washington. It is believed that this idea has been embodied in a memorandum by Sir Robert Borden, Canada's representative at the conference.

The position limiting the number and size of submarines, broadly outlined by Mr. Balfour, is believed to be one upon which the British delegation will take a firm stand. It is of particular importance to Canada and the other overseas dominions. The days when German U-boats were hovering off the Nova Scotia coast have not been forgotten, and it is felt that the dominions and some of the smaller outlying portions of the Empire might be placed in a very awkward position if submarines capable of long distance travel were constructed.

FACES CHARGE OF POISONING

Rosemont Woman on Trial—Accused of Killing Her Husband.

PASTOR'S EVIDENCE

Tells of Woman Rousing Him and Condition of Dead Man.

ORANGEVILLE, Ont., Nov. 15.—Dufferin County Fall Assizes opened in the Court House here before Mr. Justice Latchford at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The only civil case on the list was adjourned by consent of the litigants, so that the only business for the court was the murder trial of Mrs. Mabel Lee, the Rosemont woman who is charged with administering strychnine to her husband, Robert Lee, on the night of August 22nd last. The accused was indicted before a grand jury shortly after the court opened and two hours later the jury reported a true bill.

Mrs. Lee was immediately brought from her cell and placed in the prisoners box in the court room. Pale and somewhat suffering from the effects of her confinement, the prisoner appeared nervous and kept clasping her hands as she stood in the box. She is a dark-eyed rather good-looking woman of about 45 years of age. When asked to plead to the charge she replied "not guilty" in a low but quite distinct voice.

Twenty-six jurors were called before a jury was finally secured. Mr A. Monroe Greer, K.C., of Toronto and Mr. J. L. Island, Crown Attorney for Dufferin, represented the Crown. Mr. C. R. McKeown, K.C., of Orangeville, is defending the prisoner.

Four of the Crown witnesses had been examined when the court adjourned shortly after six o'clock. A. P. Someren of Brantford, High Secretary of the Canadian Order of Foresters, produced a policy register of his society. This showed that Robert J. Lee, husband of the prisoner had been initiated in Court Invincible, located at Shelbourne, in November, 1908, and had taken out a life insurance policy for $1,000 in favor of Margaret Jane Mabel Lee, his wife

George A. Berwick, Financial Secretary of Court Invincible, produced books, showing that the deceased made the last payment on his policy on August 16th, 1921, and was therefore in good standing at the time of his death.

CLERGYMAN'S EVIDENCE

Rev. G. L. Gray, Anglican minister in Rosemont, and a close neighbor of the Lees, was examined at length. Mr. Gray is one of the chief witnesses for the Crown and it is thought that the prosecution will rest its case largely on his testimony. Mr Gray described Lee as a man of cheerful nature whom he had never seen in a moody or downcast frame of mind. He had never shown any suicidal tendency.

About 11.30 o'clock on the night of Lee's death witness and his wife were wakened from their slumbers by the sound of a woman's screams. He recognized Mrs. Lee's voice and heard her cry: "Robert is poisoned; he is dying." When he opened the door the woman repeated the remark and asked him to come to her house at once. When witness reached the Lee home Mrs. Lee met him at the downstairs entrance and exclaimed: "Oh, Mr. Gray, we're all poisoned." She then made an attempt to vomit but didn't succeed.

At this stage Mr. McKeown protested against admitting evidence as to the conversation between Lee and the witness when the latter entered the room.

The court ordered the jury to retire while the point was discussed. Mr McKeown held that there was nothing to show that the defendant was dying or thought he was dying when he greeted witness with the words, "I am poisoned; I am dying." The court ruled that the statement was admissible as evidence.

Mr. Gray swore that Lee was lying across the bed with his head drawn back. His body arched and his feet over the side of the bed, with the heels resting on the floor in a turned in position. He was apparently in great pain and objected to being touched. When witness and Norman Palmer attempted to move him and make him more comfortable, Lee cried out, "No, No." They were unable to move him as the body was perfectly rigid.

CONCERNED ABOUT INSURANCE

After Lee's death witness said that

HOME-MAKING A PROFESSION

ACTIVITIES NUMEROUS

Movement Begun in 1897 Has Had a Remarkable Development.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—"We shall not allow class divisions to prevent our working together for the things that are worth while," said Lady Falconer in welcoming the splendid gathering of Women's Institutes assembled at Foresters' Hall, College Street, yesterday for the twentieth annual convention in Ontario. A resume of the history of the movement from the founding of the Saltfleet Township Institute in 1897, to the recent forming of the Canadian Federation, was given by the Superintendent, Mr. G. A. Putman. The Dominion President, Mrs. Wm. Todd, presented an inspirational address also, emphasizing that, while the members of the organization might differ along sectarian or party lines, they were a collective unit in the essentials regarding the welfare of home and country. Reports from the northern, eastern and western districts of Ontario, embracing the activities in community, school, civic and home affairs, were given by Mrs. Edwards, of Komoka; Mrs. Willet and Mrs. Allan for the northern section, and Mrs. Yates for the east. Mrs. Charles Macoun, gave a comprehensive account of the Dominion Federaiton, its aims and efforts to promote the home as the cornerstone of the nation, and agriculture as the country's greatest asset. "University Extension" was dealt with by Mr. W. J. Dunlop, of Toronto University.

Lady Falconer delighted the large audience with her graceful appeal for high ideals in home and country. She would like the Women's Institutes to introduce a spirit of joy in work. Young people today wished to hurry through their work to spend hours in pleasure. There was no lasting satisfaction in life without earnest work. Self-discipline must also be introduced into the life of the present day, in which so many of the old traditions and conventions had been wiped out. Home-making must become a profession. Not to judge everything in dollars and cents but in the light of its practical value to humanity, should be the aim of Canadian women.

STRIVE TO KILL M'GILL SAVANT

Would-be Assassin Then Put a Bullet Through His Own Head.

Montreal, Nov. 16.—Suffering from monomania, in the form of violent hallucinations, and, and described by his brother as having been "queer" for some time, and to have been obsessed with the idea that some "terrible monster" was following him, Louis Ogulnik, aged 38, son of a prominent tailor of this city, shot Sir Andrew McPhail, professor fo medicine at McGill University, through the right shoulder at the latter's office at 216 Peel Street yesterday afternoon.

Immediately after the shooting Ogulnik turned the revolver on himself, pulling the trigger twice. One bullet lodged in his chest, the other in his brain. Death was almost instantaneous.

Four shots were fired. Of these the first went wide. Professor McPhail had time to partly dodge the second, and as he rushed through a door and was closing it behind him the second shot rang out and struck him in the shoulder, just above the armpit. He was not seriously hurt, being able to telephone for an ambulance for himself. A few minutes later he was on his way to the Royal Victoria Hospital, where the bullet was extracted.

The dead man had known Sir Andrew fairly well, but as to whether he had consulted him medically the family could not say.

Aid to unemployed is national problem says Lloyd George.

PATRIOTISM AND PROTECTION.

The Spirit of Canada: "Let us sustain the Government that will wisely control the resources of Canada for Canadians."

NO WHITTLING OF MAIN PLAN

WAS IN RARE FORM

Convincingly Voiced Adherence to Disarmament Proposals.

Washington, Nov. 16.—A Rupert in debate, a master of exposition, Arthur Balfour at yesterday's public session of the conference, amply demonstrated his fitness to lead the British Imperial delegation in the absence of his chief, David Lloyd George. The Prime Minister would have been more colorfully eloquent, would have revealed more oratorical imagery, would have played more deeply on the feelings of a great world audience; but he would not have more lucidly stated the supreme British interest in sea communication nor more convincingly voiced the British adherence to the Hughe's plan than did Balfour yesterday.

The acting British leader spoke in his best House of Commons manner. Searching his mind for his words as he went along, glancing now and then at a half sheet of note paper bearing the headlines of his statement he worked up, with an easy flow of ideas, to the announcement of British acceptance in principle of the United States' proposals, and then to a rather summary sketching of the reservations. Matter of detail, he called them; nothing that would narrow or whittle down the Hughes' plan.

The occasional pause, the dainty effort to clutch at verbal niceties, the appealing sweep of the right arm, the hoisting of the coat lapels with both hands—all were truly charisteristic of the Balfour we knew in the House of Commons and on the public platform. Aand all who know him agreed that And all who know him agreed that yesterday.

He made his first hit when, turning to the right and bending gracefully over Secretary Hughes, he said in jocular tones, "The secret was well kept" (a reference to the dramatic surprise of Saturday last). Then came a disquisition aimed at convincing the conference of Great Britain's paramount interest in matters naval. "Not, believe me," he said appealingly, "for any reasons of ambition, not for any reason drawn from history or tradition, but from the harsh necessity of a plain and obvious fact."

Chorus: By Babylon's Wave—Choir.

Song: Serenade by Mr. R. J. F. Staples

Chorus: (Ladies' Voices)—Husheen.

Aria for Soprano Solo and Chorus—Inflammatus—Winnifred Lugrin-Fahey and Bridge Street Choir.

It is impossible to pick a favorite from the varied repertoire of Madame Lugrin-Fahey. Each and every number was equally well-executed, mere words falling far short of conveying any idea of the wonderful voice which she possesses. Madame Lugrin-Fahey is delightful to look upon, very much so, but when she sounds the first note one is carried out of one's self. For range and tonal beauty the voice of this great Canadian singer surpasses any heard in this city for many years. Her enunciation is clever and was a joy to those at the back of the church. Her expression is amazing, her control perfect and in personality all will agree she is one in a thousand.

The two readings given as only Miss Jessie B. Tuite can give were most enthusiastically received. Mr. Staples received deserved applause on singing the "Serenade" and graciously gave an encore. Miss Bogart, both as organist and accompanist proved herself as one of Belleville's foremost musicians. The numbers presented by the choir were well taken, the voices blending delightfully and being evenly balanced.

Belleville music lovers are indeed very lucky in having the privilege of hearing Madame Lugrin-Fahey on this her second appearance in the city. It is sincerely hoped we may hear her often.

Professor and Mrs. Hunt entertained the guest of honor Madame Lugrin-Fahey, and the members of the choir after the concert. A dainty luncheon was served which was greatly enjoyed by all present.

"EVERYWOMAN" MADE INTO GREAT MOTION PICTURE

The famous morality play, "Everywoman," has been made in a motion picture and will be shown at Griffin's To-morrow to Saturday, with a matinee Saturday. The story is declared to have been filmed on an extremely lavish scale and to abound in beautiful settings, lovely women attired in handsome gowns, and spectacular effects. Against this extravagant background Walter Browne's celebrated allegory of life and its temptations is acted by an extraordinary cast of players.

The role of Everywoman is played by Violet Heming, a beautiful actress well known on the stage and screen. Monte Blue has the part of Love, Wanda Hawley is Beauty, and Theodore Roberts is wealth and Bebe Daniels, wealth. Other famous names in the cast include Irving Cummings, Clara Horton, Margaret Loomis, Tully Marshall, Edythe Chapman, Raymond Hatton, Charles Ogle and Noah Beery, and one hundred of the most beatiful women in the world. It is a Paramount Artcraft 9 reel special.

Clyde Cook in a 2 reel comedy "The Huntsman," Kineto Review, Fox News and other selected attractions.

CHARLES RAY AT GRIFFIN'S TONIGHT

In "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway," George M. Cohan's famous Broadway success, a First National picture, Charles Ray, in the title role is at his very best. Countless theatregoers will remember with pleasure this characterization of an ex-pugilist from the Bowery-Kid Burns by name. Victor Moore first created the part in 1904 and eight years later, George M. Cohan, the author of the play assumed it in a big revival of the show.

But Mr. Ray has given it his own interpretation and from all accounts is the best the old play has yet had. George M. Cohan has expressed his gratification over the fact that Ray is the interpreter of his old role, in the picturization of "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway" and considers him the ideal man to give the proper touches to this lovable character.

A two reel Sunshine comedy "Pals and Petticoats," the latest chapter of the Western serial "Vanishing Trails" and "Syria The Land of Religious Hatred" a very interesting Travelogue are also being ~~exhibited on the~~ same program.

JIGGS AND MAGGIE

Advertising makes the world go round and the wonderful advertising which the newspaper cartoon service gives to the cartoon shows every day of the year was given a striking illustration Tuesday evening when George McManus' meal ticket and Gus Hill's gold mine, Jiggs Mahoney struck town with "Bringing Up Father in Wall Street" Griffin's Theatre was beseiged with a clamorous crowd which began to gather before six o'clock and stood in line until half-past seven when the rush seat sale began. At eight o'clock the street was blocked from Church street to Pinnacle street, and hundreds were turned away, every seat in the house being occupied and the S.R.O. sign could have been hung out at eight o'clock. People came in motor cars from a distance of thirty miles and the audience was of the type which always takes joy in the antics of Jiggs and Maggie. The play was the usual popular price musical cartoon comedy production.

TWO VETERANS TO MEET

Thomas J. Gallagher, veteran professional billiard player of this city, feels that his preserves are being encroached upon by Louis A. Servatius, veteran amateur. Tom has learned that Louis recently celebrated his 73rd birthday. Tom celebrated his last April. "Now that I realize that I haven't any advantage in age or experience over Servatius I hereby wish to challenge him for the septuagenarian championship of New York and all points west, north and south," said Gallagher yesterday. "I have hesitated to do this until now, believing I was somewhat older than Servatius, and therefore, had had more experience. I realize that I am a professional and he is an amateur. If he fears to risk his amateur status I will play him an exhibition. That will answer the same purpose." Boy, page Mr. Servatius.—New York Times.

ORGANIZATION MEETING IS LARGELY ATTENDED

The campaign of Mr. E. Guss Porter K.C., the Government candidate for West Hastings was off to a good start in the city last evening. A meeting of his supporters was called for at the committee rooms east Robertson block, and those spacious quarters were filled by all classes of citizens. It was an organization meeting to appoint committees for the various Wards and also to arrange other matters appertaining to the campaign.

One of the matters attended to was the appointing of a Vice-President on the Executive of the greater West Hastings Association. Mr. G. A. Reid was unanimously selected. A lady will also be chosen by the ladies Association of the city.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson general chairman presided over the gathering and stated its object namely to organize for the campaign. He also spoke briefly on various matters of proper organization.

Mr. Porter the candidate was present and received a most hearty reception. He gave a brief address dealing with some phases to the tariff issue clearly demonstrating that it was to the benefit of all to vote for protection. Mr. Porter als referred to his visit to various parts of the riding and that the prospects were exceptionally bright for his reelection.

Mr. Robert Stevenson of Toronto, an old Belleville boy who is intensely interested in labor was present and being called upon gave a most practical talk. His appeal was particularly addressed to the working men present and it was clear denunciation of a free trade policy. He stated that in order for the industries that are located to be kept going it was necessary to have protection and he gave concrete examples of what would follow in the trail of free. His advice to all labor men would be to support the candidate that stood for protection. How the Labor and U.F.O., could unite in this election he (the speaker) could not understand.

Mr. W. C. Mikel, K.C., also gave a brief address dealing with the protective tariff and the benefit which many countries had been deprived by adopting such a policy. Even England which for years was a free trade country had now a protective tariff for some 6,000 articles which are produced there. He emphasized the fact that it was necessary for all to do all they could in the coming election for the protective candidate.

This concluded speech-making and the business for which the meeting was called was transacted.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Each Troop of Boy Scouts consists of three or more patrols with from six to nine members in each patrol. Each patrol is lead by an older boy who is known as the patrol leader who is assisted by a corporal. Each patrol is named after an animal or bird and chooses it's own motto which generally applies in some way to the patrol animal. The patrol leader has a small white flag on his staff with the head of his patrol animal shown on it on both sides.

Each scout in a patrol has to be able to make the call of his patrol animal. Thus for instance every scout in the Wolf patrol must be able to imitate the howl of a wolf which is a long drawn How-ooooo. This is the sign by which the Scouts of a patrol can communicate with each other when hiding or at night. No Scout is allowed to imitate the call of any patrol except his own. The Patrol Leader calls up the patrol at any time by sounding his whistle and uttering the call of the patrol.

The signal that a scout is wanted in case of emergency is one long and three short blasts on a whistle or the call of the Kangaroo Coo-ee. So if at any time a citizen needs a scout in case of emergency whistle or Coo-ee.

NOTES

The committee of gentlement who are behind the 1st. Belleville Argyle Troop Boy Scouts are Capt. McManus, Mr. W. C. Mikel, Mr. Davie, Editor of Intelligencer.

On account of a large number of Scouts taking the Signalling Course, Scout Meetings will be held on Thursday nights up to Christmas. Bugle Band practice on Tuesday nights. Every boy in the city is invited to join the Scouts regardless of creed or color. If there is such a thing as real brotherhood it is certainly being displayed in this troop.

Mr. Chas. Hayes is not known as Mr. but "Byng" or his Scout nickname of "wasm without a shirt mister." Mr. J. H. Wells is known as Bertie or Hunk, Mr. Ray Buskard as Chummy or Jiggs, Mr. W. George as Bill or just Elephant.

MARQUIS LIVING ON BORROWED MONEY

London, Nov. 15.—The plight of some of the landed proprietors of England was illustrated here when the Marquis of Northampton, in returning thanks for a wedding present from the tenentry on his estate, said that at the present time he was living on borrowed money.

"We are passing through difficult times," said the Marquis. "I try to excuse myself because I feel that people must hate me. I hope they do not. My grandfather had a great deal of money to play with. My father had some too. I have none. I have to live on borrowed money. I have to be rather pinching.

"The cost of living has arisen, and with it wages, and it is just as well I should tell you that in order to employ you at present wages I have to borrow money all the time. The money will have to be repaid but I do not quite see when that will be possible."

BEAVERTON WANTS RINK

Beaverton Express: It appears after all there is no prospect of the parties who sidetracked our efforts of last spring for the construction of a modern skating rink making good. Other and possibly more profitable investment has interviewed and so far as the rink is concerned there is nothing doing. This is regrettable from every point of view, there being an absolute absence of winter amusement either for the young or old in town. Beaverton is now the only town in the district that has not an up-to-date skating and curling rink. The village council should get busy and take advantage of the recent legislation by the provincial Government giving municipalities the power to borrow money on debentures for the erection of such structures. The skating rink is self-sustaining everywhere and no doubt it would prove so in Beaverton.

EUROPE WILL SEE FILMS OF CANADA

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—Another link in the worldwide distribution of the "Seeing Canada" series of films being produced by the Exhibits and Publicity Bureau of the Department of Trade and Commerce has been forged.

Official announcement has just been made by R. S. Peck, the director of the bureau, that an agreement has been entered into with one of the largest European distributors of films in Paris, France.

The three countries of France, Belgium and Switzerland will now have an opportunity of seeing many thousands of feet of "Seeing Canada" films, which are produced in their entirety in Ottawa at the local film plant.

Health!

Comes to you and the children if you have Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the house. For "little-ones" and "grown-ups" this old fashioned vegetable tonic and blood-maker is still used by the million bottles every year. Make your blood better and your health better by going to your nearest druggist and obtaining Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in tablet or liquid form.

A healthy stomach turns the food we eat into nourishment for the blood stream and the nerves. No one suffers from colds or catarrh who has plenty of red blood corpuscles and good digestion. Catarrh in all its forms is a stagnation of the blood. Introduce pure, redder blood into the system, and health is assured. Dr. Pierce, over fifty years ago, gave to the public this alterative and blood tonic which he named his "Golden Medical Discovery." It is sold by all druggists the world over in tablets or liquid, and is just the thing to put the body in the best of condition. It is a tonic, alterative and nervine, which contains no alcohol, and has the ingredients printed on the label. "Golden Medical Discovery" assists the digestive functions, assimilating the food and taking from it what is necessary for feeding the blood. Thus the blood takes on a new vigor and vitality. This corrective remedy nature put in the forest for keeping us healthy. One feels strong, vigorous and full of "pep," instead of weak nervous and "played out." Send 10c for trial pkg. of tablets to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., or Branch Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ontario.

PLANNING A THANKSGIVING DINNER

Our grandmothers used to plan their Thanksgiving dinners fully two or three weeks ahead of the great event—indeed, many of them began actual preparations that far in advance. But we housekeepers of this age, when Hustle is the answer to our problem of meeting high prices, consider ourselves quite forehanded if we have decided upon our Thanksgiving menu even a week in advance! The following menu and recipes may help you in making your plans:

Iced Grape Fruit
Oysters on the Half Shell
Salted Almonds Olives Celery
Roast Turkey Sage Dressing
Brown Gravy Cranberry Jelly
Baked Potato Cake
Browned Sweet Potatoes Baked Corn
Alligator Pear Salad
Hot Mince Pie Pumpkin Pie
Hot Coffee Fruit
Candies

The Iced Grape Fruit and Oysters may be dropped from the menu if desired, and a hot soup substituted. Again, for reasons of expense, the Turkey may be supplanted by a Roast Loin of Pork—which, accompanied by apple sauce, makes a delicious main course. The salad may also be left out if the housekeeper wishes. Sweet cider may be served with the dinner, or Grape Juice.

But, whatever changes you make, do not drop the Baked Potato Cake! This is so good that, to my mind, a Thanksgiving Dinner is not a Thanksgiving Dinner without it. To make it, boil and mash 12 medium-sized potatoes. Put this potato in 2 bread pans and make a hole in the center of the mound in each pan; into these two holes stir the following ingredients, mixed: 2 eggs, 1 tablespoon bread crumbs, ¼ onion chopped, 1 teacup butter, 1 teaspoon salt, and 1-8 teaspoon black pepper. Use half this mixture for each pan of the mashed potato. Butter the top of each "loaf" and bake 20 minutes in a hot oven. (The chopped onion should be simmered o the range in a little butter—not browned—until almost tender before being added to the above ingredients).

Although some housewives declare that there is nothing as delicious as an Oyster Stuffing or a Chestnut Stuffing for turkey, I believe that the majority of cooks prefer the old-fashioned Sage stuffing. To make this, moisten 3 cups of finely-rolled bread crumbs with 1 egg add season with 1 teaspoon salt, a little pepper, ¼ teaspoon sage, and 2 tablespoons of finely chopped raw onion which has been coked in a little butter until almost tender—as above described. Mix these ingredients well, then stuff the bird with them.

If a Roast Shoulder of Pork is chosen instead of Loin of Pork, this sage stuffing can be used in the meat It is not an easy thing to see all of the Shoulder of Pork has a pocket in it (left by the removal of the bone) and the stuffing fills this pocket. The Roast Shoulder of Pork, however, is not as tender a cut as the Loin of Pork, so for this reason many housekeepers prefer the Loin cut.

Two women write, "Greatly Benefited by taking Carnol"

The following letter is of special interest to those who are run-down in health—whether from over-work, worry or general weakness:

Dear Sirs:—Myself and friend, would like to let you know how very highly we think of Carnol. We are now taking our sixth bottle and the great benefit we have derived from it is wonderful. It certainly does do everything the advertisements say and more. It is a genuine tonic and body builder. For my part it has warded off a Bronchial trouble I am subject to every Spring.

We feel it would interest you to know this, also you are at perfect liberty to use this unsolicited testimonial, if you should so wish. We both of us take pleasure in recommending to any one whom we know are feeling below par.

Wishing you every success, Yours truly,

(Name on request)

CARNOL

is indeed a true strength-giver. A course of Carnol will soon bring you back to strength and vigor. THE FOREST FOLK GATHER

It was a jolly affair, this frolic time and Tinker Bob, King of the Forest, was so anxious that every creature should have a place that he was just running his legs off to invite them. It is not a neasy thing to see all of the creatures of the forest at this season of the year for they are busy getting ready for their Winter homes. Then too so many have moved from their Summer homes and established new ones. So the King had to run from tree to tree and send Major Pole Cat and Chief Porky in every direction. But I want to tell you that when Tinker Bob wants to do anything he just goes ahead and does it and never says it can't be done. If he did say that he never could be the King for the forest dwellers would have no confidence in him.

Jack, the Rabbit, was first to arrive with his family. They were full grown children now but very shy. They didn't like to be talked to very much. They had learned from their father that it was wise to keep quiet until they were able to care for themselves a little better.

Sammy Squirrel was there with Susie Chipmunk. They weer more for talking than Mr. Rabbit. In fact Sammy was so much of a talker that Susie said she would never go any place with him again unless she could have a word sometimes.

O Possum came along with his children riding on his back. They were getting to be quite big also but their father and their mother allowed them to act like babies. So they carried them on their backs till they were so large that they fell off.

Well Jerry was on hand but it wasn't the time in the day that suited Jay birds and he was quiet for once, so quiet that someone thought he was sick. He wasn't sick but he was not pleased with the crowd.

Snoopy, the Bob Cat, didn't arrive till it was very dark. And when they saw his eyes shining in the dark as he approached the great fire that the King had built many of them were afraid. But the King called him closer and the other creatures knew that it would be safe for them while the King was about. But what do you suppose Snoopy was doing? He was looking over the crowd and seeing if there was anyone there he could capture on their way home from the frolic. He spied Jack, the Rabbit, and his children. And if there is anything in the world that Snoopy likes it is young Rabbit. He licked his chops and said to himself: "I'll have a feast of Rabbit tonight or I'll know why." We will see.

COVERS HELP CLEANING

One of the essential points in cleaning, whether it be the seasonable house-cleaning or the regular weekly cleaning, is to prevent more dust from landing upon furniture than is necessary. Especially is this true in the case of upholstered and other types of furniture that do not have a smooth, hard surface from which the dirt may be easily removed.

As a preventive measure, grey paper cambric cloths to throw over the furniture during the cleaning process, may be used. Of course, other materials may be used, but when made of a special material, their use is limited to the original purpose and there is less danger of their getting mixed up with sheets and other linens or being used by some careless member of the family.

To mend lace place a piece of paper under lace and stitch on machine until the holes are filled. Pick out paper.

Charming touches of bright color appear in the lining of many capes and coats, and there is an increasing fancy for crepe de chine as a lining.

Complete woman suffrage is expected to prevail in the New Central American Federation, which is to start its career next February.

When a Japanese maiden desires to show marked attention to her lover, she uses the sharpened point of one of her finger nails in writing to him.

When girls appear on the streets in Berlin with skirts too short their mothers are summoned to court.

Amendment of the British North America Act is proposed in order that women may become eligible to sit in the Senate of Canada.

To Thicken Soup

Even a spoonful of cereal is worth saving to thicken soup, gravy or sauce.

Loose Belt on Machine

When the belt on the machine gets loose, rub the belt with soap, and it will tighten it.

Lightens the Labor

For An Aching Corn

A slice of lemon bound over an aching corn every night will cool the fevered spot and soften the corn so it can be removed.

Bake the rice pudding slowly if you would have it creamy. Leave the skin which forms on the surface intact, for that keeps the milk from evaporating.

Keeping Milk Fresh

To keep milk fresh try adding to it a spoonful of grated horseradish. This will keep it fresh for a day or two.

Leather Boots and Shoes

To soften the leather of boots and shoes, rub castor oil into them and lengthen their lives. Any oil can be used, but castor oil is the best.

Corks Will Soften

When corks are too large for bottles, throw them into boiling water for a few minutes and they will soften.

PREMIER HUGHES' APPEAL FOR WORK FOR EX-SOLDIERS

London, Nov. 14.—A Reuter cable from Melbourne, Australia, says that Premier W. M. Hughes has, on the eve of Armistice Day, issued an eloquent appeal to the employers to provide employment for 2,600 returned soldiers still out of work, who stood by Australia for five years.

OSHAWA HIGH SCHOOL WINS FROM PETERBORO

Oshawa, Ont., Nov. 12.—Oshawa High School sprang a surprise here this afternoon when they defeated the fast Peterboro Collegiates 9 to 2 in an interscholastic O.R.F.U., fixture. By taking this game P.C.I. would have cinched the title to this group, but should the local squad trim Belleville on Saturday next, they will be on even terms with the Petes.

To-day's contest was a strenuous battle from start to finish, with Oshawa having the edge of the play in the first and last two quarters, while the visitors secured their only two points in the second 15 minutes. Browne's kicking for Oshawa featured, while Jamieson and Hubbel did effective work on the line. Ridpath and Young were the most consistent for the Petes.

The line-up:

BETTER BOYS AND BETTER GIRLS FOR A NEW AND GREATER CANADA.

No finer or more necessary Christian work can be found than that which seeks out neglected children and takes them from squalid and unsafe surroundings and gives them a chance to become good and useful citizens. The nation spends a vast amount of money on prevention of crime, and punishment for crime, great organizations of police are kept up as well as courts of justice with an army of attendants and officials and great castles of stone and iron where men and women are confined and guarded by armed men because they trangressed man-made laws. With all this time, thought, effort and money spent upon crime prevention, detection and punishment, it seems impossible to get sufficient money to properly finance the efforts of societies which have for their object the saving of the children from lives of crime and leading them in the paths of good citizenship.

Slowly, very slowly, the people are awakening to the value of child welfare societies and the fact that real nation-building begins with the child. Slowly, very slowly, the purse strings are being opened to supply funds for the great movement which is founded upon the slogan "Better Boys and Better Girls for a New and Greater Canada."

The Children's Aid Society of Belleville and Hastings County has a wonderful record of effective work and many children who might otherwise have been liabilities, became, through the work of the society, wonderful assets in good citizenship. A few individuals have been large contributors to the funds of the Children's Aid Society and others have helped to the extent of their ability, besides comparatively small contributions from city and county councils and government, but the mass of the people do not contribute anything to this wonderful work in which all should delight to have a part. Just at the present time the society needs two thousand dollars to meet its obligations. This deficit of two thousand dollars can be wiped out and an additional two thousand dollars surplus added to the fund to carry on the work without the handicap of restricted finances, if only every citizen awoke to the duty which child life demands.

The children are entitled to a fair chance to make good and those who are not helping in this great work are losing a great opportunity to assist in the right kind of nation building, a greater and better Canada peopled by better boys and girls grown up into the better class of citizens because the helping hand of Service above Self was handed out and people recognize their obligations to the community.

The Children's Aid Society needs two thousand dollars at once; five thousand dollars would not be any too much. The membership fee is one dollar, and few there are who can not afford to invest one dollar in good citizenship.

DISTRUST THE UNCERTAINTIES.

Ontario manufacturing or other industrial producers have a big stake in this election. Many of them, Liberals ordinarily, have come forward to champion the cause of Meighen candidates. They know full well that the Meighen Government is the only safe, constant support of a stable protective tariff, and that "revision downward"—as promised by Mr. King and Mr. Crerar—will not only increase foreign competition, but will lead to new demands from the western "free trade" group for fresh cuts in tariff duties.

Some of the manufacturers who are strongly Liberal have shown disbelief that the King or Crerar group would damage our industry. They take apparently at full value the many broad generalizations by W. L. M. King regarding safeguarding of industry, and Mr. Crerar's assurance that progress toward free trade would be made only in instalments. The platforms are there for any one to read. Either the pledges of the leaders to carry out those platforms, which are almost identical, are meant to be repudiated, or the measure of free trade to be introduced will have an immediate depressing effect on Canadian industry.

The Progressive leader denounces Protection as an iniquity and openly declares that his ultimate goal is Free Trade. Hon. George Langley, now associated with the Saskatchewan Progressives, once declared that a 30 per cent. cut in the tariff generally might satisfy the West. Ontario industrial interests deceived by the "moderation" posture are too credulous.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

CRISP COMMENT

Men and women who gossip, said Dr. E. H. Bullock, of Chicago, City Health Director, cannot be in their right mind, and should be given the closest attention to get them back to normal. They have been called "assassins of character," and E. C. B. Jenkins, a psychologist and secretary to the Board of Police Commissioners, Chicago, says, in the Detective, February, 1921, that the neighborhood gossip and the anonymous letter writer have one of the nastiest, lowest and most vicious forms of insanity known to medical circles. Their distorted imagination visualizes scenes which they would have come true, and their insane mind immediately grasps the story and they repeat it as if it were true. Gossip and anonymous letters, says the New York Medical Journal, are a constant pest at Police Headquarters, but reports registered with police offivers in an attempt to injure character by these means or false teelphonic reports are a failure; in fact, the police take more pleasure in tracking the informers than the one informed about.

Back of the belts that sing,
Back of the hammers drumming,
Back of the cranes that swing,
There is the eye which scans them
Watching through stress and strain,
There is the mind which plans them,
Back of the brawn, the brain!

Force of the engine's thrust,
Strength of the sweating toiler,
Greatly in these we trust,
But back of them stands the schemer,

Fontainebleau to Vienna following the Emperor's abdication. Meanwhile the Allied powers had ceded to Napoleon the island of Elba in the Mediterranean and there as a "sovereign" he might have passed the rest of his life in peace and tranquility. Eleven months of retirement, however, sufficed to spur him to escape new adventures.

He had been brought to Elba aboard the British warship "Dauntless" on April 20, with royal dignity and consideration. On the night of Februa y 26, j815, with 1,000 followers he slip-26, 1815, with 1,000 followers he slipgan the famous "One Hundred Days" in which he sought to regain the his reign as a "constitutional monarch" was of short duration. Great Britain, Russia, Austria and Prussia declared him an outlaw and raised 150,000 troops to crush him. The lost battle of Waterloo the following June saw the end of his power.

The former Emperor threw himself upon the mercy of the British, failing in an effort to flee to the United States. He made overtures to Captain Maitland of the warship "Bellerophon" who took him to Plymouth, Eng., pending disposition of his case by the Allied powers. It was finally decided to send him to St. Helena and there, guarded by a strong British force he landed on October 17, 1815. For six years he lived in practical solitude, writing his memories and monographs on military campaigns and political affairs, dying on May 5, 1821, of a cancer which had been aggravated by deep periods of hatred and depression. The British General Wilkes, the first governor of St. Helena, proved too lenient with Napoleon and "too amenable to his influence," and as a result, was displaced some years before Corsican's death, by Sir Hudson Lowe.

Action Appreciated

W.D.—I see that many citizens residing on Church street and streets adjacent are taking advantage of the walk that has been provided south of the Armouries, leading from Pinnacle to Church streets. This is much appreciated as it is not only a saver of time but has another great advantage, namely, the doing away of climbing Bridge street hill. This gangway was used as a means of traffic at one time, but eventually was closed to the public. Through the efforts of Mr. E. G. Porter, K.C., Parliamentary representative for West Hastings, he secured from the Militia department the privilege of having the space re-opened, and his efforts in this direction will not soon be forgotten. At the entrance off Church street there was a considerable drop but this has been overcome by the erection of a slanting board walk which was built by Mr. William Alford at Mr. Porter's suggestion. I understand that Mr. Porter obtained permission from the Militia Department for the passageway and paid for the improvements out of his own pocket. Good boy, Guss.

Industrial Sites

J.S.—I see by the City Council report that that legislative body is going to introduce a by-law and submit it to the electors at the municipal election to provide $25,000 for the purpose of purchasing suitable industrial sites. The idea is no doubt an excellent one providing the property to be purchased is not held at an exorbitant price. I understand, although I may be mistaken, that the city has not in its possession property that would be suitable for a large concern if such could be induced to locate here. Let the electors support the project and then those who are in a position to do so, could make inducement to manufacturers who contemplate the establishing of their concern in the city.

HASTINGS ORE ATTRACTS CAPITALISTS

Development of the iron resources of North Hastings on a huge scale appears imminent. Mr. Charles Lahey, representing the Carbon Alloy Steel Company of Niagara Falls, Ontario, was in Belleville this week and laid details of prospective activities before the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce. Prospectors and specialists have been making extensive investigations of the territory adjacent to the old Wallbridge Mine near Eldorado and have become convinced that vast deposits of iron ore underlie this whole section. Following this gratifying report, Mr. Lahey has visited the district and secured options on thirty-three thousand acres of land between Eldorado and Malone Station on the Central Ontario line.

Among the options secured was that on the Dufferin Mine, the property of Mrs. Lillian Coe at Malone Station. The Dufferin Mine yields a magnetite ore of wonderful richness and was operated some years ago by the late A. W. Coe. The ore assays seventy-five per cent. iron and occasionally ran as high as eighty per cent. When it is recalled that eighty-four per cent. is the highest yield known in iron ores it will be understood how excellent is the mineral deposit of the Dufferin Mine. In addition to the territory about the Dufferin Mine, Mr. Lahey secured from Mrs. Coe an option on two hundred acres of a hematite property in the same vicinity. Options were also secured on the following properties:

Geo. A. Ketcheson, 100 acres.
Irvine Fraser, 200 acres.
W. A. Blair, 200 acres.
Alfred Holland, 100 acres.
Dan McCrimmon, 100 acres.
Hugh Morrison, 50 acres.
Eileen McGrath, 450 acres.
Joseph Armstrong, 800 acres.
Coe Bros., 200 acres, and several others.

All this acreage is located in the Eldorado and Malone neighborhood and forms part of what appears to be a continuous range. Nine of the twelve properties specified have hematite deposits; the other three magnetite.

The deposits of hematite iron ore do not usually extend to very great depth rarely more than thirty feet, but the hematite deposits of Madoc Township are exceptional. The Wallbridge Mine, near Eldorado, which was extensively operated about thirty-five years ago had its main shaft down ninety feet and did not then reach the bottom of the deposit. The impression gained at that time was that the Wallbridge Mine was merely a great pocket of hematite but these later investigations of experts would indicate that it was part of a great ore body extending over several miles, somewhat similar to the famous Massaba range in Minnesota.

The Hematite of the Massaba range, which by the way has supplied the great majority of the smelters of the United States including those of Gary, Ind., and Pittsburgh, is approaching exhaustion. They are comparatively shallow but extended over many miles of territory. It is said that nine-tenths of the steel produced in the United States is manufactured from Massaba ore.

Tudor Prospects

In addition to the options on the properties about Eldorado, Mr. Lahey has secured further options on twelve hundred acres in the neighborhood of Millbridge in the Township of Tudor. The ore at Millbridge contains a considerable percentage of titanium. The titanium has in the past been the barrier against the successful employment of the Millbridge ore but Mr. Lahey's associates have evolved a process whereby the titanium can be incorporated as an alloy with actual advantage to the resultant iron or steel. Associated with Mr. Lahey in the Carbon Alloy Steel Company is Col. J. R. Gordon, formerly of Toronto but now of Niagara Falls, and a brother of the Rev. C. W. Gordon, the well-known author who writes over the pen name of Ralph Connor. Mr. Gordon is in possession of the details of a process now being successfully employed at the Carbon Alloy Steel Company at Chippewa Creek whereby the crude ore is converted directly into the finest grade of cutlery steel. This has been the dream of metallurgists for centuries and has now become an accomplished fact. The steel produced at Chippewa has undergone the most severe tests not only on this continent but by the experts of Great Britain and the latter have reported upon it most enthusiastically.

British Interests

The Carbon Alloy Steel Company which is capitalized at one million, five hundred thousand dollars, is now negotiating for the sale of its interests to a British steel corporation with practically unlimited resources of capital. Just what this may mean in the way of steel producing works in this vicinity remains to be seen but the possibility of great development is in sight, at least in the matter of mining the deposits that are known to exist.

Much credit is due to Mr. Robt. Phillips of Madoc for his persistent efforts to interest outside capitalists in the Madoc and Tudor ore fields. Mr. Phillips has been working towards this result for several years and it is to be hoped that he will now reap an adequate reward.

It was Mr. Phillips who first interested Mr. Lahey and through him the other corporations and capitalists mentioned. While Mr. Lahey has been securing these options personally it is expected that he will shortly turn them over to the larger organizations in which he is interested.

Overfilling The Battery

Keep The Plates Covered, But Don't Keep The Cells Full

EVERYONE SHOULD REALIZE that the liquid in a storage battery, when its cells have become fully charged, is decomposed into hydrogen and oxygen, by any further passage of charging current. These gases exist in the liquid as bubbles and cause it to increase in volume and foam like soda water. When heavy overcharging occurs, the gassy liquid boils over like a freshly opened bottle of ginger ale, but with more serious results. The escaping electrolyte covers the top of the battery, causing leakage of current and corroding the cable terminals, and still worse leaks down into the wood case, eating it away and perhaps destroying its supporting straps. Boiling over is also aggravated by the heat expansion of the liquid which accompanies overcharging. To prevent escape of the destructive acid, overfilling of the cells must be guarded against, and the safest rule is never to supply water enough to bring the level higher than one-half inch above the tops of the plates. By using a short piece of stick, having a notch cut at one-half inch from its end and using this as a gage, when filling, it is easy to prevent the liquid level from being brought too high. Another evil of spilling electrolyte is that acid is lost with it and, as pure water is added to replace this loss, the strength of the electrolyte falls off and the battery weakens.

HOW GASOLINE IS TESTED

F. W. L. asks: Is there any way in which the quality of gasoline can be determined by the ordinary user? What tests are employed and what instruments used?

Answer: The most vital consideration is how fully the gasoline in question will evaporate at engine manifold temperature or, to put it in another way, what temperature is required to vaporize it all or a certain percentage of it. To determine this, the fractional distillation test must be applied, which consists in measuring what proportion of its volume passes over from the distilling flask at each of a certain number of stated temperatures, ranging as high as necessary to distill practically all the liquid. Unless one has access to the required distilling apparatus, we know of no way in which test results can be obtained, particularly as the hydrometer test, giving the density of the fuel in Baume degrees, gives practically no information as to the volatility characteristics referred to above.

CHANGING CYLINDER HEAD

T. J. writes: I have a 1919 ——— but have been greatly dissatisfied with it, because the engine knocks so badly unless it has just been cleaned of carbon and because the plugs foul so frequently. Is there anything I can do to relieve these troubles?

Answer: We understand that the manufacturer of this car has recently brought out a new form of cylinder head, interchangeable with the old one, which has larger clearance spaces, thus reducing the compression pressure and no doubt diminishing the tendency to knocking. The plugs are, we believe, relocated so as to be less subject to oil fouling and better means are provided for preheating the incoming charges. Adopting this new head should give you improved results.

A CASE OF SELF-IGNITION

J. K. writes: After my car has been run pretty fast or has pulled a steep hill, the engine backfires and keeps on running for a time after the ignition has been shut off, although the water does not boil or the engine seem to be overheated. How do you explain this and how can it be prevented?

Answer: It seems likely that there is local overheating somewhere in the combustion spaces, which causes self-ignition. Something probably becomes red hot, after the engine has worked hard for a time and fires the incoming charges, but there being no general overheating, there is no tendency to boil the water. There may be heavy carbon deposits that do the self igniting or it may be that the spark-plugs are of a type the ends of which become red hot. Sometimes an exhaust valve, which does not quite seat, becomes overheated and a defect in the casting of the head may have the same effect. If you are not using plugs of a kind recommended by the manufacturer, this is quite likely your trouble.

HISTORIC INCIDENTS IN ONTARIO POLITICS

Bogus Ballot Boxes of West Hastings and Other Sensations.

London

(By Canadian Press)

The city of London has always taken its politics seriously with the result that some of the most notorious battles in the history of Dominion politics have been fought there. Two outstanding contests were the by-election of 1896. C. S. Hyman was elected over Sir John Carling in 1891 but his election was protested and he was unseated. When the by-election came on in 1892, 237 names on the voters' list were protested by the liberals and the question of the validity of this protest was carried through several courts. During the campaign which divided London into two hostile camps charges and counter-charges of boodling were made and the meetings were marked by unusual heat. After the polls closed the Carling followers claimed victory by 9 votes without the protested votes and there followed a demonstration which will always remain memorable in the history of the riding. Next day the Liberals claimed victory for Hyman by 16 votes and they forthwith organized a celebration which lasted until well into Sunday morning. Several persons were injured by exploding fireworks and flying stones and three were carried to the hospital. The courts eventually awarded the bulk of the protested votes to Carling and also the seat.

When Sir John Carling retired the Conservatives brought out Major Thomas Beattie in 1896 to oppose Mr. Hyman. Beattie got a majority of 41 votes but the Liberals protested the election and laid 2075 charges of wrong doing against Sir John Carling and his friends. After a trial lasting 23 days, the longest on record in an election court, in which the most eminent counsel appeared on both sides, the protest was dismissed, with costs and Beattie retained the seat.

Carleton

Only five Federal ridings dating from Confederation have refused to change their politics down to the present. Carleton, South Simcoe and South Lanark, now Lanark have always voted Conservative, while Lotbiniere and St. Johns-Iberville in Quebec have never elected any but Liberal candidates. North Oxford might properly be put in the confirmed Liberal column as none but a Liberal has ever been elected in that riding though E. W. Nesbitt a Liberal varied the traditional stripe slightly by standing as a supporter of the Union government in 1917.

Carleton's friendliness of the Conservative cause induced Sir John A. Macdonald to seek endorsement there when as leader of the government in 1882 he decided not to risk his fortunes in Kingston where he had been defeated in the previous election. It was to Carleton 22 years later that another Conservative leader, R. L. Borden went for comfort and a seat after he was defeated in his old constituency of Halifax in the election of 1904. Sir John, in the election of 1887 stood for both Carleton and Kingston and Mr. Borden adopted the idea and stood for both Carleton and Halifax in 1908. Both leaders were elected in both ridings in those elections and both returned to indulge local aspirations in the by-elections.

Haldimand

In five years, 1886-91 there were six Federal elections in the riding of Haldimand which probably stands as a Canadian record. The first five were noteworthy as marking the struggle between C. W. Colter, Liberal and Mr. W. H. Montague, Conservative which for tenacity and bitterness had not perhaps been equalled elsewhere in Canada. Colter, a young lawyer from St. John, N.B., won the constituency in a by-election in 1886 and in the general election of 1887 he defeated Mr. Montague by a majority of 1. A recount was demanded and the decision was given in favor of the Conservative. The Liberals, however were not ready to throw up their hands. They laid charges against Montague and his friends of wrong-doing in connection with the election and following an investigation the Doctor was unseated and a new election was ordered. This time Montague won out by 17 votes but the Liberals again protested the election and after a famous fight through the courts which lasted more than a year the Conservative again lost the seat. It was in January 1889 that the next by-election was held and in this contest Colter was victorious by 46 votes. Charges of boodling and personation were again lodged, this time by the Conservatives and the battle in the courts was renewed resulting finally in Colter losing the seat. Colter met his Waterloo in the next by-election held on February 20, 1890 when Dr. Montague won the seat by 227 votes. Montague was re-elected in the general elections of 1891 and 1896 and became a member of the Bowell and Tupper cabinets in succession.

An interesting fact is the re-appearance of Colter, now Judge Colter, in the political arena after a lapse of 31 years. He is the Liberal candidate in the present campaign in the riding of East Elgin.

South York

The riding of South York since its organization in 1903 and prior to that date, East York since 1892 have been represented by W. F. MacLean who is now the father of the House of Commons in length of membership though not in years. East York was the stronghold of the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie for ten years before his death in 1892 and MacLean made his first run for a federal seat against the great liberal in the general election of 1891, and lost by only 26 votes. The by-election following Mr. Mackenzie's death took place in May 1892 and MacLean captured the nomination from a big field by adopting in his speech the practice he has always followed in his newspaper writing, of getting to the point immediately, while the other speakers wearied the audience with the brand of eloquence commonly known as "well-chosen remarks" Mr. MacLean with his opening sentence plunged into an exposition of the National Policy which won him the nomination and the seat.

West Hastings

One of the big sensations of the 1904 general election was the discovery of bogus boxes in West Hastings. On the morning of the election, November 3, Conservative headquarters in Toronto received a telegram from E. Guss Porter the Conservative candidate in that riding saying that great conspiracy to steal the election for his opponent Byron Lott had been unearthed. The scheme was found to involve the Liberal candidate and some of the election officers and a number of arrests were made. Lott fled to a safe place in the United States but in the investigation which followed disclosures were made which led to the finding of some of the fake ballot boxes. They had, it was said, been designed by Lott himself and contained a secret chamber from which ballots, already marked for himself could be let down into the box by pulling a concealed wire.

Nine of the boxes were fished up out of Sydenham Lake where they had been sunk after the exposure. The judicial investigation was held at Belleville and provided the newspapers with big headlines for several days. One Toronto paper printed 10 columns of the evidence in one issue. Lott was the only one connected with this bit of election rascality who found it advisible to clear out.

Kingston

The riding of Kingston is famed as the home of the great Conservative leader, Sir John A. Macdonald. Sir John represented the riding in the Canadian Assembly from November 1844 until the union of the provinces in 1867. He was elected in the first general election after Confederation and again in the elections of 1872 and 1874. He was unseated on petition in November, 1874, and re-elected by 17 majority in the by-election of December, 1874. In the general election of 1878 Sir John was defeated in Kingston, but was immediately given a seat in Marquette, Manitoba. After sojourning in Marquette, Victoria, B.C., Carleton and Lennox, he returned to Kingston in the general election of 1887, was elected and continued to represent Kingston until he died on June 6, 1891. Altogether counting the period before and subsequent to Confederation, Kingston was represented by Sir John Macdonald for 38 years.

South Lanark

Although the riding of South Lanark is now extinct it is remembered as having sent one man, J. G. Haggart to the House of Commons for 41 years without a break which at the time of the Hon. Mr. Haggart's death in the summer of 1913 stood as a Canadian record. It has since been exceeded by about three months by Sir Wilfred Laurier's representation of Quebec east, which lasted from November 1877 until his death in February, 1919. J. G. Haggart was first elected in the general election of 1872. He was one of the moving forces behind the construction of the Rideau canal which was considered a boon to Lanark. Mr. Haggart held a portfolio in five governments, the Macdonald, Abbott, Thompson, Bowell and Tupper administrations. The riding was never represented by any but Conservatives.

North Toronto

The federal riding of North Toronto in its brief career of 18 years has been represented in the House of Commons by Sir George Foster who bears the unique distinction of having been a member of more Dominion ministeries than any other man. He joined the second Macdonald government as Minister of Marine and Fisheries in December 1885 and in 1888 was made Minister of Finance. Through the changing scenes that marked the period between the passing of Sir John A. Macdonald and the return of the Liberals to power in 1896, Sir George held the portfolio of finance under Premiers Abbott, Thompson, Bowell Tupper. He was made minister of Trade and Comerce in the Borden ministry in 1911 and held the same portfolio in the Meighen government. Sir George has also performed the duties of acting premier on several occasions. After nearly 40 years of active politics Sir George has decided to rest up by taking a seat in the Senate.

TWO SIX NATIONS HEROES HONORED AT NEW CREDIT

New Credit, Ont., Nov. 11.—Two white marble tablets were unveiled at the Indian Church here by Rev. R. D. Hamilton, President of Hamilton Methodist Conference, and Indian Agent Van Loon, to honor the memory of Lieut. Cameron D. Brant and Pte Maxwell Tobico. The former, aged 27 years, was killed in action in France, April 23, 1915, and the latter, aged 19, on November 9, 1917. The tablets have been erected by the Mississauges of New Credit.

The service was in the hands of the pastor, Rev. James Drew. The veteran native choir leader, Wm. Elliott, now 79 years of age, conducted the musical exercises. Among the addresses was one by Sergt.-Major W. F. Powles, a member of the Six Nations Band, who spoke in glowing terms of the faithfulness and bravery of the boys.

In the audience there were several officers in uniform from the surrounding district, also the mothers and other relatives of the departed heroes.

Arizonia Man Was Simply Down and Out and Couldn't Even Move Himself—Feels Fine Now

Harry E. Scott, a well-known mine boss, whose address is Box 683, Tombstone, Arizona, writes:

"I was down and out nearly all the time with rheumatism and finally got to where I couldn't move, even to feed myself. My wife thought I would never get well again, and she knew my condition better than anyone else.

"I was absolutely helpless when my wife started giving me Tanlac and in four days I ate a hearty meal for the first time in many months. Tanlac put me on my feet and I'm back on the job working hard and feeling just fine. I have gained eighteen pounds in weight, too."

START THEATRE FORMERLY A CHURCH

Toronto, Nov. 12.—(By Canadian Press)—The recently reported sale of the burlesque house, Star Theatre, is but another chapter in the history of Toronto City property that has had about as many changes as Joseph's coat had colors. Originally the building which still forms part of the Star Theatre was a Methodist Church, that was about 60 years ago. Then for many years the church building was occupied as a printing establishment. Later it became a Temperance Hall and justified the name of the Street on which it stands — Temperance St. Some time later it became a show house and the first burlesque theatre in Toronto. During the intervening years there had of course been many additions to the building and the churchified appearance disappeared between the modern theatre walls. For some time, the Toronto Police Benefit Association held a mortgage on the building and there was more or less comment on the fact that the purichritude of the Toronto police should be in any way mixed up with a burlesque theatre.

EIGHT SINN FEINERS ESCAPE FROM PRISON

Dublin, Nov. 14.—Eight Sinn Feiners made a daring escape from Mount Joy Prison last night. Attired in the uniforms of Black and Tans, they overpowered the keeper, took his keys and made their way out of the main gate. Three wardens, whose suspicions were aroused, were attacked and overcome. The Sinn Feiners dashed through the prison avenue, replying to the revolver fire of armed guards, and all escaped. It is not known how they gained possession of the uniforms or revolvers.

Although there were many outside attractions the attendance was one hundred and sixty. Mr. Rutherford inspected the following classes: Auto Mechanics, Show-Card Writing, Business English, Business Arithmetic, Mechanical Drawing, Penmanship, Bookkeeping, Shorthand and Typewriting. Mr. Rutherford commented very highly on the able staff of teachers in these subjects and was especially pleased to see the great interest taken in Auto Mechanics. Mr. Rutherford expressed the opinion that with better accommodation that splendid classes could be organized in Industrial and Technical work for day classes. Miss McKim devoted her attention to Dressmaking, Millinery and Household Science classes and was well pleased with the work that was carried on but emphasized the fact that more successful work could be accomplished in Dressmaking and Millinery if the teachers in charge of these classes would avail themselves of the opportunity of taking instruction in teaching methods at the Summer School. Miss McKim was very much pleased with the work in Household Science. The garage on John street was inspected this morning and pronounced satisfactory until such time as better accommodation can be secured in a more up-to-date building. Mr. McGie, Chairman of the Advisory Vocational Committee was present at the school throughout the evening and accompanied Mr. Rutherford during his insepection.

Vanity and Glasses

The wearing of glasses is one of the best preservers of a youthful appearance. This is because prolonged eyestrain causes wrinkles to appear prematurely and gives the countenance a strained, tired, anxious, drawn, cross look, which is very characteristic and far more to be avoided, from the viewpoint of appearance than the slight disfigurement of glasses. Indeed, so far from being unbecoming, there are some types of faces to which glasses just add the finishing touch.

We have every up to date style.

KILLED VICIOUS HORSE

Further particulars of the fatality of Saturday last at Burnbrae, as reported in Tuesday's Intelligencer, near Peterboro, when John Catton, a farmer, lost his life as the result of being kicked by a horse, indicate that Mr. Catton was assisting a neighbor to control a kicking horse when he received terrible injuries which caused his death shortly after. It is said that the horse had recently been acquired in a trade and was found to have a habit of kicking. This habit was indulged in several times with the new owner and finally the horse's leg went over the shafts and he was thrown to the ground. Mr. Catton who lived near by came to the assistance of the owner and helped unharness the horse which however, refused to get up when freed from the harness. It is said that Catton walked behind the horse and gave him a tap to make him get up. Suddenly the animal jumped and at the same time kicked out behind, his heels catching Mr. Catton in the face, breaking his jaw and severing his jugular vein. A physician was summoned but when he arrived half an hour after the occurence nothing could be done to save Mr. Catton's life and death speedily resulted. It is said that the animal was immediately shot.

he had gone home to tell his wife what had occurred. Returning to the Lee house about three o'clock in the morning, he had sat down with Mrs. Lee and endeavored to comfort her. She suddenly asked him "What will I do. Will it be necessary for me to go to Shelburne tomorrow to see about the insurance?" Witness answered, "Decidedly not, don't think of any such thing until after the funeral."

During another conversation, Mrs. Lee intimated that someone else had been in the house and placed poison in her husband's medicine.

Cross-examined by Mr McKeown, Mr. Gray stated that Lee had not intimated in any way who had poisoned him. Counsel for the defence also elicited the fact that the deceased had been quite ill on the Friday preceding death.

An immense crowd was present when the court opened today, every seat in the court-room was filled, even the gallery was crowded to suffocation and hundreds of people jammed the corridors of the Court House and stairways and entrances to the court, vainly seeking admission.

Two petit jurors who failed to answer when the jury panel was called shortly after the court opened, were fined $25 each for their failure to be in attendance.

For More Business

ONE reason why selling by Long Distance is so surprisingly successful is, that it enables merchants and manufacturers to put their best selling talent on the job of selling possible customers not on the travellers' routes.

The real salesman sells them by Long Distance a standardized stock of the best-selling goods. As they are well advertised, these goods, if well displayed practically sell themselves. Duplicates, odd sizes, and additions to stock are ordered by Long Distance, and are shipped immediately by express, parcel post or fast freight.

Long Distance has become the Salesman's right hand. It reaches everyone you could hope to do business with. The Telephone Directories are a complete guide to "Who's Who In Business".

Reach out for more business! Go beyond your present selling radius! Put your best salesman on the job of selling by Long Distance!

BILLIARD TOURNAMENT.

The greatest billiard tournament since 1905, and the biggest real test of Willie Hoppe's long held world's championship at balk line play was inaugurated at Congress hotel, Chicago, on Tuesday, when seven of the most notable experts who have ever chalked a cue began competition for the laurels now held by the New Yorker in 18-2 competition. The event will undeniably rank with the memorable match play in Paris sixteen years ago, when Hoppe wrested the world title from Maurice Vignaux. In addition to Hoppe those who will compete are Edouard Horemans of Belgium, champion of Europe; Roger Conti, of Paris, champion of France; Young Jake Schaefer of Chicago, son of the late Jake, himself one of the best balk line players in history; Welker Cochran of San Francisco; Ora Morningstar of San Diego, Cal., and George Sutton of Chicago.

SASKATCHEWAN TO SPLIT FOR HOCKEY PLAYERS

Saskatchewan will have two amateur hockey associations to govern sport if the suggestion adopted at the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Amateur Hockey Association held yesterday afternoon goes through. The proposition is to divide the province into two sections, a line to be drawn so that one body, to be known as the Northern Saskatchewan Amateur Hockey Association, will have control of all teams, games and other matters pertaining to the north; vice versa will rule for the southern association.

KINGSTON RUNNER'S SUCCESS

"Jack" Meredith, son of Albert Meredith, Redan street, Kingston, made a splendid showing in the five mile road race in Montreal on Monday last. Mr. Meredith, who is only eighteen years of age, finished in third place and at times led the ten contestants. The race was run in 26.36 minutes, which, considering that the ground was covered with snow and very slippery, was excellent time. Mr. Meredith's time was 31.11, and according to the Montreal Gazette, he finished a long distance ahead of his opponent.

Y.M.C.A. BOWLING

By piling up a commanding lead in the opening game the Bowlers were winners over the K.V.A. team in last night's struggle, at the Y.M.C.A. The K.V.A. won the second and third games but not by sufficient margin to overcome the Bowlers' lead in the first game. With eight out of ten men bowling in the four hundred class, they made an all-round good showing. The game to-night is between the Teachers and Curlers.

HERMAN GETS DECISION AGAINST ROY MOORE

Peter Herman, New Orleans' former world's bantamweight boxing champion, received the judges' decision over Roy Moore of St. Paul, in a 10-round bout at New York, Saturday night. It was Herman's first appearance in the ring since he lost his title to Johnny Buff last September.

Herman held a safe lead in every round but the eighth in which Moore had a shade the better, and the 9th which was even. The former champion's in-fighting was effective, with Moore taking severe punishment from fast right and left hand body blows.

FAN'S VIEW

"A Varsity supporter who witnessed the McGill-Queen's game at Kingston on Saturday stated that never in his experience had he seen the breaks remain continually with one team in a Rugby game as they did Saturday with Queen's. The latter in his estimation were dead lucky to win, as McGill had much the best of the play and deserved to win, but just when teh crucial point came just when the crucial point came Toronto Mail. Sounds like the same old line.

Transportation and Your Safety

CAR SHORTAGES have already developed at many of the coal mines of the United States. Without cars to load, the mines cannot produce; without production of coal, the welfare of the public cannot be conserved.

So far the shortages have not been serious in proportions, but with cold weather arriving, it can be expected that they will increase and may materially hinder the movement of coal.

Safety to your family can be secured by immediately stocking your coal. Coal prices will not decrease, and they may advance, if a transportation emergency arises.

CHINA SPEAKS FOR OPEN DOOR

TEXT OF THE PROPOSAL

Wants an Opportunity to Develop Her Political Institutions.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Preservation of "territorial integrity and political and administrative independence," together with preservation of the open door policy and a prohibition against secret treaties in the Far East were included in the Chinese proposal outlined at the initial session of the armament conference committee on Far Eastern questions.

China in return would agree "not to alienate or lease any portion of her territory" to any foreign power, and "all special rights, privileges, immunities or commitments" now held in China by any foreign power are to be carefully re-examined.

All "existing limitations upon China's political, jurisdictional and administrative freedom of action" would be removed and provision made for future conferences from time to time for the international discussion of the Far Eastern situation.

Other elements of the Chinese proposals provide for full respect for China's rights as a neutral in all future wars to which the nation is not a party and for peaceful settlement of international disputes in the Pacific and the Far East.

Dr. Wellington Koo, who presented the Chinese proposals, said they were made in the interest of all powers involved in the Far East, as well as of China and if adopted "would pave the way toward solving some of the perplexing problems in laying a firmer foundation of the Pacific and Far East".

LATE NEWS FROM THE TELEGRAPH

They were Grenda and Clarke, McNamara and McBeath and Lang and Lands and they had travelled 165 miles from eleven o'clock last night to seven this morning.

CONFIDENT TRAFFIC BROKEN

Detroit, Nov. 17.—Concluding his conferences here today with Michigan and Canadian Liquor Officers, Roy A. Haynes, Federal Prohibition Commissioner, expressed confidence that illicit liquor traffic on the border was being borken up. He renewed his appeal for public support of the Liquor Law Enforcement.

ULSTER FIRST.

Liverpool, Nov. 17.—With the question of Ulster foremost, the Unionist party's attitude toward the Irish settlement was under debate today at the national conference of the party, attended by two thousand delegates.

LOWER FREIGHT RATES.

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—It is probable that the question of reduction of freight rates on Canadian railways will shortly be taken under consideration by the Dominion Railway Commissioners.

KITCHENER WOMAN DROWNED

Kitchener, Nov. 17.—Poling across the Grand River with her husband at their summer home near Chicopee Falls, last evening, Mrs. Carl Ahrens, of this city, fell into the water and was drowned before her husband could reach her. The body was recovered twenty minutes later.

MEIGHEN SPEAKS IN HOME RIDING

WAS GIVEN OVATIONS

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man., Nov. 16.—Premier Meighen spent today in the constiuency of Portage La Prairie, which he has represented in Parliament since 1908, and delivered his evening address in this town, which was his home before public duties took him to Ottawa. The Prime Minister is opposed by a Progressive in the present election, but his task as his party's leader has prevented him from making an extended stay in the riding. He spoke in Portage La Prairie at the close of September, and is able to hold only nine meetings in this large district during his present tour. He has now had eight of the number. On Saturday morning he will address the ninth. His county will see him no more between that day and the day of the election, and the campaign will have to be carried on thereafter by his constituents without his aid. To this circumstance both the Prime Minister himself and Edward Anderson, K.C., of Winnipeg, alluded tonight in the first of the two meetings held here. Mr. Anderson drew attention to the fact that the Premier was being attacked in one section of the riding, which is populated by French-Canadian electors, on the ground that he was largely responsible for the enforcement of the Military Service Act. Oddly enough, that appeal was being used in the interest of the followers of Hon. T. A. Crerar, who himself was a member of the Government which enforced that act.

RESULT OF FREE TRADE

Speaking on free trade he contended, as did the late Hon. Edward Blake that with the progress of dependence commercially upon the United States would come dependence nationally. "If saying that is waving the flag of animosity to the United States, it is only common sense and in the interests of Canada."

Speaking of the proposed Grain Board, Mr. Meighen anonunced that, if returned to power, he would ask James Stewart, of Winnipeg, who headed the Canada Wheat Board to accept the chairmanship of the new body to be established to handle the grain grown by the farmers of the Dominion. That Board, he said, would see that the farmers obtained the advantage of an overages which might accrue and of any profits from promotion of grades.

He vigorously attacked Hon. George Langley, a former member of the Saskatchewan Government, who was reported to have told an audience that James Stewart, of Winnipeg, had declined to be a member of the Royal Commission appointed to investigate the grain trade because he would not be a party to dishonorable proceedings. The Premier read a telegram for Mr. Stewart who stated that he had declined to accept the post because he was connected with certain grain companies which would be subject to investigation. Mr. Stewart further said he had communicated that fact to Mr. Langley who had denied having made the statement attributed to him. Mr. Crerar, too, was not too scrupulous, the Premier declared. The Progressive leader had attacked the Government's shipbuilding program, although he had been a member of the Government which prepared that program. Mr. Crerar had said that the policy was promulgated that the Government might award fat contracts to its friends. "The man who takes part in doing a thing and then attempts to cast aspersiosn upon his fellow-members of the Government has something to learn of the ethics of public life," asserted Mr. Meighen He remarked that he was being represented as a very rich man.

"I am not," said the Premier, "I have not tried to be. I have tried to get on and I am not a poor man. I want my boys to make their way in the world as I have had to make mine. But I scorn as I scorn a yellow dog, a man who goes around scattering in my absence, fictions to the effect that I am a millionaire."

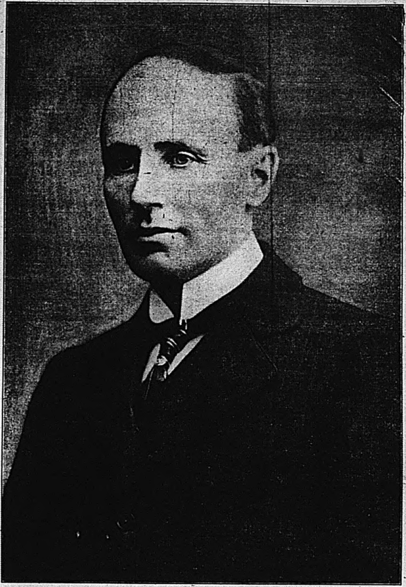
THE SAFE PILOT



Canada is on the threshold of national greatness, the development of which will be speeded or retarded just in proportion to the wisdom of the people and the national leaders.

The ship of state has passed safely through the perils of war with honor and distinction, but the breakers of reconstruction period still threaten.

Much depends upon the calibre of the national leaders and the soundness of the policies to be followed in the building up of a greater Canada.

We know the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and his safe and sane policies of national development. The future of the nation is at stake, the question of food and clothing and comfortable housing for our families is bound up with the prosperity of the nation. This is no time for doubtful experiments which may injure or wreck our industries, force Canadian mechanics to go to the United States for employment and destroy the home markets for the farmers.

As a sound business proposition and in self-protection thinking Canadians will vote for a safe and sane and sound business executive in Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen.

A VOTE FOR E. GUSS PORTER IS A VOTE FOR RT. HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Johnstown, Pa., Nov. 17.—Six persons were killed here early this morning when the auto in which they were riding crashed through the guard rails of Woodvale Bridge spaning Pennsylvania Railroad cut, and fell to the tracks, fifty feet below. The car overturned as it fell, pinning the passengers underneath.

CONFIDENCE SUSTAINED

London, Nov. 17.—Confidence that the Prime Minister's attitude toward Ulster in the Irish peace negotiations will be sustained in the National Conference of Unionist parley increased among Government supporters as convened at ten o'clock this morning at Liverpool

ALLEGED FORGER WANTED HERE

Charged with Passing Bogus Cheques on Merchants of P. E. County.

Percy Allard who was arrested a few days ago at York and committed for trial on a charge of forgery is wanted in this locality for the same offence, also Alice Giberson, whom it is alleged is an accomplice. On the 14th of October, Allard passed a forged check on Mr. James Eaton, a store keeper at Consecon, Prince Edward County, for $49.50, and on the 17th of October, passed a worthless check on F. Westfall, a merchant at the Carrying Place, also in Prince Edward for $17. The warrants for the arrest of Allard are in the hands of Inspector Naphin of this city. It is alleged that other parties in this locality were victimized by Allard who apparently has been for some time pursuing the practice of presenting forged checks.

Unionists gather at Liverpool for convention.

Manilla, P.I. Nov. 17.—Fifty-eight persons, many women and children, are believed to have perished in the wreck of the inter-Island steamer "Maria Luisa" which foundered yesterday near Mariveles, close to the entrance to the bay. Seventy-two others were picked up by the steamer "Setkai-Maru", bound for Japan.

CANADA FAVORS LONG HOLIDAY

Would Have Limitation Agreement Made Perpetual.

LIKE VIEW BY CHINA

Pekin's Proposals Find A Degree of Sympathy in the Dominion.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Canada's proposal of the formulation of a plan to secure the permanence and continuity of the ideas of diminution of naval armaments, expresed in the United States project, which is now before the special committee of the conference, was reflected in one paragraph of a statement of policy made by Minister Size, chief of the Chinese delegation at the first meeting of the committee on Far Eastern and Pacific problems.

It is understood that a memorandum has been submitted by Sir Robert Borden, suggesting that arrangements be made for a conference, to be held before the expiration of the proposed ten-year naval holiday with the object of perpetuating the agreement for the limitation of armament, and avoiding a possible competition in naval building at the end of the ten years. To this conference nations not now represented in the present conference, but which in the future might attain any considerable naval force, could be called. The Chinese statement revealed the fact that the Chinese delegation considers a similar arrangement in regard to Far Eastern matters.

Certain details of this morning's meeting of the Far Eastern committee including the text of the Chinese statement, have been made public. Other than the fact that Mr. Hughes opened the meeting with a brief address, however, nothing has been disclosed regarding the part which was played by he delegates of the United States.

As to Canada's attitude toward China's declaration it appears altogether likely that most of its points will meet with a sympathetic response from the Dominion delegates. It declares for the open door, and equal opportunity in China is known to be Canada's desire. As for its bearing on the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, if indeed i has any bearing on that much discussed compact, Canada is not in favor of the continuation of the agreement.

IS ACQUITTED OF POISONING

Rosemont Woman Found Not Guilty of the Death of Her Husband.

SHE TAKES THE STAND

Claims He Was a Suicide and Other Relatives Testify to Same Effect.

Orangeville, Ont, Nov. 17.—Mrs. Mabel Lee, of Rosemont, charged with murdering her husband, Robert Lee, by administering strychnine was last night acquitted by a jury at the Dufferin Fall Assizes. The jury retired at 9.30, and at 11.30 p.m. two hours later, returned their verdict. The verdict was heard in silence by a densely crowded court room. The silence was broken by a half-hysterical exclamation from the accused, who grasped her counsel's arm and exclaimed excitedly, "Charlie, Charlie, God bless you." Mr. Justice Latchford's comment on the finding was brief: "Gentlemen," said his Lordship, addressing the jurors, "it was difficult in the absence of the medicine bottle for you to arrive at any other verdict."

Mr. McKeown asked for the discharge of the prisoner, and Mrs. Lee left the court room at once, being escorted outside by her counsel and the friends who hastened to her side to congratulate her upon her acquittal.

The line of examination followed by Mr. C. R. McKeown, counsel for the prisoner, was for the purpose of showing that the prisoner's husband committed suicide. Nearly every defence witness was examined respecting statements that Lee had made in conversation. The tenor of these statements was to the effect that the unfortunate man was tired of life and in the mood to end it.

Suicide the Defence

Victor Hamilton, a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Lee, testified that when his horse and buggy broke through the ice into a running stream, from which he escaped with great difficulty, Lee had told witness that he wished he had been in the buggy, instead of witness, adding that he would have remaind there.

On another occasion he had told witness and his wife that he wanted them to understand that their homecomings were getting short.

Mrs. Hamilton confirmed her husband's evidence, and also said that her father had been in the habit of making threats to end his life for several years. On one occasion, some years ago, she had taken a razer from under his pillow when she thought him in a dangerous mood.

C. W. KERR, LIBERAL IN NORTHUMBERLAND

Mr. C. W. Kerr, well-known barrister of Toronto and Cobourg, has consented, at the request of prominent Liberals of Northumberland to contest that seat as a sraight Liberal candidate, with the endorsation of W. Mackenzie King. Mr. Kerr's friends declare that Liberal conventions have been prevented from selecting a candidate, through being being packed with U.F.O. delegates, who had previously asted as delegates when Fred Slade was nominated as Progressive candidate. Mr. Kerr's nomination meeting will be held at Warkworth next Tuesday, and the fight in Northumberland will, according to present indications, be a three-cornered one.

Mr. Kerr is the son of the late Senator William Kerr, of Cobourg, who represented Northumberland in the Commons for many years.

LADIES' ORGANIZATION

At the Town Hall, Sidney Township, a ladies' organisation was yesterday formed for the purpose of assisting Mr. E. Guss Porter, the Government candidate for West Hastings and in the afternoon at Trenton, a similar organization meeting was held. There was a large attendance at both meetings and the influence of the ladies in the campaign will do much for the success of the candidate. This afternoon the ladies of Belleville organized.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 1248, or write The Intelligencer.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

D.M.—I saw two little girls on Victoria avenue engaged cleaning out the entrance to a storm sewer which had become blocked with leaves. The water was backing up and people's cellars were in danger besides making a muddy mess. The girls cleaned the leaves out and the water ran away. Real community service I calls it.

AN OLD POSTAL CARD

V.G.—We received a post card of the old one cent days before the war vintage and the stamp bore the image of good Queen Victoria, but being only one cent denomination, another stamp had to be added and there side by side with Queen Victoria was the face of King George, rather odd, don't you think so?

JIGGS JAZZY JINGLES

J.M.—I saw that Griffin's Theatre was not large enough to hold the crowd eager to see "Bringing Up Father," and that many stood in obvious discomfort through the entire performance, while just across the street there was no such mad struggle to gain admittance to one of the finest concerts given in Belleville in many moons which was enjoyed by only a comparatively small audience. As between Jiggs Jazzy Jingles and real music the mob demands Jiggs and Jazz but to be absolutely fair isn't the great attraction the opportunity for a laugh, and in comparing "Bringing Up Father" to "Hullo Canada" and other top notchers, the matter of price should also be considered, for there is a long distance between one dollar and three dollars Since the world began the mass of the people have demanded light entertainment, preferably with laughs attached, and particularly is this the case at times of great national stress, wars, famines and unemployment, as a diversion and an opportunity to escape from pressing troubles for a time.

WOODMAN SPARE THAT TREE

H.H.—It seems a crime to sacrifice that beautiful elm tree which, since 1840 has cast a grateful shade over the alcove at the old Hastings Hotel. Planted in the year 1840 by Neil McArthur, a former well known business man, the tree grew and waxed exceedingly in breadth and stature and was an ornament to the street and a relief from the ever-increasing flood of unsentimental commercialism. Now the vandals of the one-hundred-cent dollar have laid their hands upon this wonderful work of nature which took God's greatest and most sublime forces, creation's gardener with his gigantic watering pot of rain and tempest and helpers of sun, wind and weather, over eighty years to perfect,—cut down in a few hours and nothing left but an unsightly stump. This tree belonged to the people, not to any individual, and it was cut down by workmen employed by the city acting under instruction from city officials, I am told. Now the street looks bare and broken and in place of beauty is stark hideousness. And the weary recorder of our blunders will score up another crime against inefficient city government, another crime against the City Hall.

A LOVER OF CHILDREN

J.A.M.—As one deeply interested in the work of Children's Aid Societies, and having some knowledge of what is being accomplished in some of the larger centres, I recently paid a visit to the Belleville Shelter (I prefer calling them Children's Homes) in your city and made an estimate from what I saw. I must congratulate you on the splendid building and its equipment which your citizens have provided as the centre for carrying on the work. Pleasantly situated and substantially and well arranged, it speaks well for the liberality and hearty sympathy of your citizens. But how sad it is that there is so much need for such an expenditure, and that there are seasons when your building is well nigh crowded with needy and dependent children.

I think I can speak with judgment and without flattery when I offer my tribute of praise for the very evident kindness and loving sympathy shown by the matron and her assistants. Without deep love and kindly pity for the helpless children, no such capable and successful management is possible. I know how the children respond to such treatment and all familiar with the work in this province will agree with me that success is impossible without these qualifications on the part of the management.

I hope many of your citizens and also your city and county officials, are frequent visitors at the Home, and that you make evident in this way, as well as by occasional gifts or donations of supplies, your appreciation of the excellent (and sometimes discouraging) work being done by the staff in caring for and training these helpless and often cruelly neglected little ones It is probably the case in Belleville, as in many other places, that the meetings of your Society are but poorly attended. May I remind those who are indifferent to or neglectful of such work, that it is a responsibility which cannot be lightly regarded while we permit conditions to exist, almost unrestrained, which inevitably keep up the stream of these helpless waifs, many of whom cannot but become criminals if left to themselves. Let us show our humanity and our Christianity by active and constant sympathy with this branch of our social reform work. "Inasmuch as ye do it unto these"—you know the rest.

"EVERYWOMAN" CHARMING WIL DELIHT LADIES

Every woman loves beautiful gowns and in "Everywoman," the film version of the famous morality play, which is the feature attraction at Griffin's Tonight to Saturday, with a matinee Saturday, a multitude of the fashionable modistes' most modern creations are shown. In the opening scenes of the picture, before it becomes a purely symbolical story of life itself, a bazaar is shown that is declared to be a verifiable fashion show. The gowns are exquisite and of varying character. Evening costumes of the finest of materials are features of the gaming room, palace of Wealth, and other ornate scenes.

Walter Browne's famous story of "Everywoman" and her search for love is said to have been given one of the most spectacular settings ever shown on the screen. Besides Miss Heming, the cast includes, Wanda Hawley, Theodore Roberts, Bebe Daniels, Monte Blue, Irving Cummings, Raymond Hatton, Tully Marshall, and one hundred of the most beautiful women ever assembled for a picture.

"The Huntsman" a 2 reel Clyde Cook comedy, Fox News, Kineto Review and other varied attractions are being exhibited on the same program.

Needs Repairing

S.L.—I see that one of the piers of the lower bridge near the base is rather badly in need of repairs as some of the stones are out of plumb. Would it not be a wise move for the council or the public works department to attend to this matter before the spring, as the work could be proceeded with to advantage whilst the water in the river is low.

CRIPPLED GIRL FUND

In a Toronto Hospital is a bright lovable girl of seventeen summers, she is in possession of all her faculties but an operation is necessary if she is to have the use of her limbs. The specialists hold out bright promise for her recovery if this operation is made possible. The surgeons do not wish any recompense for their services but about two hundred dollars will be needed to meet hospital expenses and it is sincerely hoped the citizens of this city will dig down in their pockets and contribute—if it be ever so little it all helps. The girl mentioned is a ward of the Children's Aid Society of Belleville. Inspector T. D. Ruston, 28 Cedar Street, gratefully acknowledges the following subscriptions thus far:-

BAY OF QUINTE WINTER SCHOOL

B. of Q. Conference Winter School to Be Held in Cobourg.

The Bay of Quinte Conference Winter School which is to be held in Cobourg during the week of January 9-16, 1922, promises to be one of the biggest things ever attempted by Quinte Methodism. Its staff of enthusiastic officers are putting their utmost into the task of providing such a program of study and inspirations, as will present an irresistable appeal to the young people who live within the bounds of the Bay of Quinte Conference.

The Bay of Quinte' Winter School owes it inception to the success of the Summer School Movement which has done so much in the way of training for Christian Leadership. Then again, the success of the winter school held in Toronto last year, stirred up within the minds of certain of our leaders in Young People's work the conviction that such a venture within the bounds of our own conference would meet with a like success. This conviction was strengthened by the fact that in the rural district surrounding Camborne and Cold Springs a Winter School of Agriculture had met with unqualified success.

Add to the above the imperative demand for Christian leadership in the affairs of Church and State, and the appalling lack of facilities for the training of Young People in Christian leadership and we have the manifold reasons which led to the organization of forces for the carrying out of a Winter School for training in Christian leadership.

But this organization was brought about only by the tireless energy and indefatigable zeal of the Rev. E. Harston, the Secretary for Religious Education in the Cobourg District. This matter had so gripped him that he could not rest until the machinery to bring the whole matter to a successful issue was set up and put in motion. He presented the matter to the Executive of the District E.L. in session at Port Hope and received their hearty endorsation. He then went to the Albert College Summer Scnool and presented the scheme to the Executive of that institution. While favorable to to the idea this body felt that a Winter School ought to be handled by a separate staff, upon which should be representatives of the Conference E.L. the Albert College Summer School and the District in which the school was to be carried on.

The matter was finally brought to a head at the Bi-ennial Convention of the Bay of Quinte Conference E.L., in session at Peterboro, in October, 1921 when temporary machinery was set up to effect a permanent organization This temporary machinery consisted of representatives of:

2.—The Cobourg District E.L. Eldred Lean, Pres.; Elwin Brown Summer School Rep.

3.—(Later)—Albert College Summer School, Rev. D. R. Clare, B.A., B.D.; Rev. R. T. Richards, B.A.

This Committee met at Brighton on Nov. 3, 1921, when the following organization was effected:

Hon. Pres.—Rev. Wesley Elliott President of Conference.

President—Rev. E. Harston, Camborne.

Secretary—Mr. Eldred Lean, Camborne.

Business Manager—Mr. E. Brown Port Hope.

Book Steward—Rev. D. A. Clare, B.A., B.D., Colborne.

Also the following Executive Committee: Rev. R. T. Richards, B.A.; Rev. H. A. Frost, B.A., B.D.; Rev. H. W. Foley, B.A., B.D.; Miss Florence Hall.

Plans were made at the same time for holding the Winter School at Cobourg during the week of January 9-16 1922. The sessions to be held in the Methodist Sunday School rooms.

While under Methodist auspices this school is open to those of any denomination who desire training in Christian leadership. The curriculum will consist of courses in Bible Study, Missions, Y.P.'s work and problems, organizations and methods of work. Men most eminently fitted for leadership in the above are being secured and it is confidently expected that this Winter School will be the biggest thing ever attempted by the Bay of Quinte Methodism.

If a man would only pay his debts as promptly as he pays a grudge his credit would be better.

HOW TO GET MARRIED ON $25.00 A WEEK

Young Woman Makes Everything Look Bright to Newlyweds.

Many folks nowadays figure the impossibility of young people starting married life on a $25-a-week income; and particularly they figure it to be impossible in and around the great cities. Among the social workers who come closest in contact with the homemaking problems of young couples are the women who manage the home saving departments in the front lobbies of New York saving banks. From information gained from these workers and other sources, Henry McMahon tells in the Ladies' Home Journal how to "get married and eat on $25 a week." Here are extracts from the article.

In the long line of thrift folk waiting to be shown how, I noted a young couple that struck me as Hymen candidates inasmuch as they were arguing in animated fashion over a copy of the bank's leaflet on Suggested Budget for Man and Wife.

As their turn came and they approached the home director's desk the young woman's voice was raised in inquiry: "Will you please tell us how we can marry on that income?" her finger pointing to the $100-a-month column.

"In the old-fashioned brownstone houses of our Park Slope," said the director pleasantly, "you will be able to find two-room and three-room apartments that will come within the budget allowance of $30 monthly for rent. They are unheated at that figure; but one and a half to two and a half tons of coal—about $28 a season—will keep you comfortable and a total of a little less than $10 a month, or about $110 a year, will supply you with heat, gas, electricity, ice and so on, for the operation of the household. That's $40 a month so far.

"You will require at least $27 a month for your food. The figure of $15 a month, or $180 a year, for clothing seems quite enough, probably you can cut it considerably the first year, because the wedding apparel will mostly serve you. Figuring you thus far budgeted $82 monthly, that leaves you $10 a month to deposit here against a rainy day and the sum of $8 a month to expend on recreation, reading or culture."

The male member of the prospective partnership grinned. "Mamie and I have spent that much on one night's theatre and ball party," he remarked.

"I believe you will find that recreations the first year of married life will shade quite a little under one hundred dollars a year," replied the director tactfully. Most newly weds don't care for going about as they did when unmarried, and invitations from friends fill up much of their leisure. If you would like a really delightful recreation program, here it is: Three round-trip Saturday or Sunday excursions to the country, a dollar apiece; one day at Coney island with swimming, and so on, two dollars, five movie shows, one-fifty, and two vandeville shows per month, one-sixty; total a few pennies more than eight dollars. More likely in the summers you will cut out all but the country trips with the basket luncheons and the wild-flower-gathering times; for the numberless free recreations of the city—concerts, park games, recreation piers, museums, and so on—will otherwise give you all the fun you want."

"What about candy and soda, and his smokes—must those be given up?" asked the girl. "And you haven't allowed anything for car fares."

"Strict economy in household operating expense—for which the printed budget allows $120—saves ten or twelve dollars for minor luxury indulgences, and the car-fare item needn't be much in this district of shops. You both have employment in the Park Slope section, haven't you? The large item of $50 to $75 a year for business car fare doesn't figure in the case of neighborhood workers, and this sum that would otherwise necessarily be disbursed goes into your ten per centum of savings that you are laying by for the contingency of probably increased expense the second year."

ROBBED OF $1,000 IN RAILWAY COACH

North Bay, Ont., Nov. 17.—Over $1,000 was taken from two railway passengers as they passed through North Bay last night and Monday night. William Corrigan, who was travelling over the C.P.R. from Western Canada on his way to England, was relieved of a bank note for £185 as well as $56 in Canadian money. He was sitting in the train at the station at 10 o'clock at night when three men stopped at his seat. One of them, ostensibly to pick up a parcel, leaned over Mr. Corrigan and took the note and money from his inside vest pocket. The victim of the theft did not stop over at North Bay, but proceeded East.

Another man who did not give his name to the police, reported that on Monday night he was jostled as he was leaving the second-class car on the Engleheart to Toronto C.N.R. train. The lights were out at the time and he had his pocket-book containing $107 taken from him. C.N.R. Constable Illidge, upon investigating, found the empty purse on the floor of the lavatory of the car. Still another traveler, by the name of Mckinnon, telephoned from Chalk River on Monday night that he had lost $110 between North Bay and that place.

"Tinker Bob" Stories

by Carlysle H. Holcomb

THE FROLIC OVER

Such a time as the forest folks had. Tinker Bob built a fire and they danced about it. Susie Chipmunk and Sammy Squirrel wanted to get away from the crowd and talk by themselves. The King knew what that meant. He knew that Sammy wanted to marry Susie and take her to his nest in the chestnut tree for the Winter. He would be asking the King about it some of these times.

Mr. Weasel, the Great, was there in all of his glory but there were a few folks who were not altogether happy to see Mr. Weasel. One was Rufus, the Tree Mouse, and another was Bobby, the Little Shrew. All were safe however, so long as the King was near.

Mr. Frog and his players were on time and such playing you never heard. Fatty, the big Warty Toad was there with his toad-stool on his shoulder. He was not afraid of anyone of the forest dwellers save Mr Black Snake, and he had gone in for the Winter. No one ever harmed Warty for he had a poison fluid that all the creatures of the forest were afraid of. They had been told by their parents that any of this fluid on them would make them have warts so they kept away from Mr Toad.

Little Billy Mink was there but he never danced with the other creatures for he was too proud and was never very sociable. Bobby Owl was watching from a limb of the tree near the fire He thought they were a foolish crowd to be spending their time dancing when they ought to be home sleeping. He had his eye on that fat, little tree mouse. Rufus was a fat fellow and he enver saw Bobby for if he had he would never have rested easy all evening for he knew that Bobby was after him.

Red Fox was there and so was Billy Gopher. Billy was such a clumsy fellow that he couldn't take any part in the frolic but he did like to watch the others. Then there was Mr. Wood chuck! He was so fat that he couldn't dance if he wanted to. He had just eaten so much that he could scarcely walk. And two or three times he fell asleep while watching the others and O Possum whacked him beside the head with his tail to make him wake up. This pleased Tinker Bob so much that he nearly broke up the frolic by laughing. Mr. Chuck couldn't see anything funny about it

Well the frolic was over and the forest folks went their way but Tinker Bob called Snoopy, the Bobcat to one side and kept him there till Mr. Rabbit and his family were safe in their hole in the hollow tree. Poor Snoopy didn't have a chance to eat Rabbit before he went to bed.

Mr. Frog will not have his orchestra play again till next Spring.

Tomorrow—Silky Breakfasts With Hunter.

Of Interest to Women

At the opera the other evening I noticed a very pretty girl, at least she was very pretty seen full face. When she turned her head, though here profile was not so pleasing. The reason appeared to be that her hair was dressed too flat at the back to balance her features, and the result lacked the symmetry necessary for the effect of beauty. This point of considering the profile as well as the full face is one that is lost sight of by many girls and older women. There is no excuse nowadays for not dressing one's hair becomingly. Never was a time when fashion had so little to say in regard to the way a woman does her hair. She can arrange it high on her head and deck it with a Spanish comb, or coil it low on the back of her head, or do almost anything she likes with it so long as the effect achieved is becoming. But that effect needs to be studied from the different points of view, full face, profile, and also the lines it gives to the back of the head.

If you want to bring a last winter's frock up-to-date, provide it with a new pair of sleeves, the wider the better, and you will have gone a long way to camouflage its age. These sleeves may be of the same material as the original or they may not. A frock of serge or tricotine may have sleeves of black satin; a satin dress can be provided with new arm coverings of georgette, and so on. There should be some attempt to establish a harmonious relation between the newly introduced sleeves and the body of the frock, by trimming one with a few "motifs" of the other, or embroidering both in the same way, only putting most of the decoration on the sleeves. It isn't every last winter's dress that lends itself this kind of camouflage. But most straight one-piece frocks, with the bodice portion built in a way that makes it possible to enlarge the arm-holes for the wider sleeves, admit of this transformation.

In preparation for the winter season many fascinating accessories now make their appearance. These little touches do much to enliven the costume and give a sparkling touch where ever they are placed.

Among those that are particularly interesting is the new comb. This is made of tortoise-shell and the top is resplendent with many tiny colorful feathers. These radiate from the centre like the resplendent feathers of the peacock.

Bracelets are shown in innumerable styles, for, while the sleeves may be longer, yet, in many instances they are slashed apart so that the arm is revealed.

Jade is one of the favored stones and makes its appearance on various baubles destined to add to the charm of women.

Sometimes, a black line is the distinctive touch which is called for in certain costumes. This can be attained by the use of a belt fashioned from black velvet. However, that may, if desired, be enlivened with a sparkling buckle. This type is illustrated and the sparkle is attained by the use of a rhinestone buckle.

Shoes, too, may flash with a sparkling ornament. One shown, shows a broad tassel of tiny cut steel beads. This ornament is detachable and may be worn on the strap or in the front of the slipper.

"SALADA"
TEA
is equalled by no other tea on sale for Quality and Flavour.

Another unusual pump is depicted. The original is fashioned from American broadtail. This fur is very flat, although prettily marked and lends itself well to such development.

The veil is another of the most delightful accessories which permits great freedom of treatment. One model pictured is made of brown chiffon ornamented with a deep border of chenille. Besides the part which veils the face there are two loose, blow-away ends that on occasion might be used for holding the hat on. ings be provided with new arm c .

Efficient Housekeeping

BY Laura A. Kirkman

THE HOUSEKEEPER WITH IN GROWING THOUGHTS

The housekeeper, unlike the business woman, does her work in practical solitude. The business woman is surrounded by other workers and by an office atmosphere that in itself is conducive to concentration on the work at hand; but the housekeeper, in most cases, is alone while she cooks, cleans or sews, and this loneliness is conducive to thoughts that wander away from her work—and, too often, that center upon herself.

And it's not good for us to analyze ourselves too much From self-analysis, it is only a short step to magnifying conditions and "making mountains out of mole-hills."

Now, Reader Friends, I am writing upon a subject for a very definite purpose: I want to help those of you who have this habit of thinking "in-growing thoughts," to get rid of the habit. For such a habit is bound to make a person miserable.

And perhaps the best way to help you to get rid of the habit is to tell you how another woman got rid of it. I have a letter from this woman on my desk as I write. It reads:

"Dear Miss Kirkman: I wonder if you remember answering a letter of mine some six months ago? I wrote you then anonymously to ask you to suggest a way that I could make money without going out of my home and you suggested in your reply through the column that I take a roomer.

"Now I am writing to tell you that I followed your advice—and that things have looked so much brighter to me ever since. As I am not signing this letter, I am going to write the truth in it and you are at liberty to publish it in your column if you want—it might help other women. I do not even live where your paper is published (a friend sends it to me) so none of my neighbors see the paper—a most important point!

"Six months ago when I wrote you for advice on earning money, my husband and I were pretty "hard up." But it wasn't our restricted financial state that made me wretched; it was the fact that my husband didn't seem to be sympathetic with me any more—or so it seemed at the time. Not caring much what I did anyway—I had let things get on my nerves so—I followed your advice and took an elderly lady as a roomer in our home. I didn't suppose it would make any particular difference to me from a standpoint of happiness.

"But it did! The minute I began to work harder, keeping the house spotlessly clean so that my roomer should not think me a poor housekeeper, and planning nice dinners, (for I agreed to give her dinners, allowing her to get her own breakfast and supper in her room) I began to feel happier! The little, seemingly heartless things my husband said to me, didn't "sink in" as they had done before. His hasty criticisms of me didn't "rankle" any more. I was too busy to mope over little things that hurt!

"So I am writing to thank you for making that suggestion about taking the roomer. By following it, I have made myself over from a worrier to a cheerful woman. My husband notices the difference and often says: "You're not half as sensitive as you used to be, thank goodness! You're a good little sport now." "

I think this letter proves my point: that "in-growing thoughts" are curable. At least one woman has cured herself of that misery-bringing malady!

Tomorrow—Helpful Letters From Readers

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP FACTORY— PHYSICAL, MENTAL, SPIRITUAL

That the Belleville Y.M.C.A. building is a real community centre is amply evidenced by the manifold activities which take place there. Monday evening, for instance, the visitor could see an athletic meeting going on in the office, pool and billiards in the room adjoining, a rehearsal for "The College Widow" wending its tuneful way in the parlors, a bowling tournament progressing in the basement, also pool and billiards, boys' gym. classes and the gymnasium full of young and budding athletes, another meeting or two in the side rooms upstairs, and in the assembly room a largely attended meeting of the Children's Aid Society.

Too few people realize the importance and benefit of the splendid Y.M.C.A. building and equipment to Belleville. Manly character is developed and a better basis for good citizenship laid. The girls are also benefitted in being taught to swim and the right way to develop their bodies to ensure perfect health.

The service rendered by the Belleville Y.M.C.A., with its world-wide connections and specialists in physical training and equipment is available at fees which are not more than half what the service is worth, but the great object of the Y.M.C.A. is to keep the work democratic and not for a privileged class able to afford high fees. Even the boy who hasn't the price will not be turned down by the Y.M.C.A., and all that he is asked to do is to make good.

Good citizenship does not consist of providing solely for ourselves and our own and sitting down at night satisfied before the glowing coals of our prosperity reflected in the cheery grate, or sitting on the front stoop in summer and listening to the crickets and the hardening of our arteries. Good citizenship includes taking an active interest in and helping every good movement for the benefit of the community.

ENJOYING AN ESTATE.

My next door neighbor works for a queer old man. He is a sort of a banker—the old man is—and my neighbor began as his errand boy and has become his right hand. The other day the old man called him in.

"You ought to be drawing more money, John," said the old man.

There is nothing that an employee can say in reply to that. John wriggled happily and smiled. Then the old man went on to ask what John had saved. He was not pleased with the report. John hadn't saved nearly enough.

"This is what I've thought of doing," said the old man. "I'll increase your salary $150 per month, provided that you put that entire sum in good, sound bonds each year, and obligate yourself not to sell until after I am dead. Or I'll increase it $100 a month and you can do as you please."

John took the proposition home to his wife and she voted for the cash. She said that with his life insurance she would be secure if he died and as long as he lived he would be secure anyhow.

"That extra hundred dollars each month means the difference between genteel poverty and a fuller, kindlier, happier life," she said. "We can buy the books we want and you can have an Airedale and a little car, and I can go to the city now and then and buy a gown and see the shows I have been reading about in the daily papers. We will not leave much of an estate when we pass away, but I have never cared much about leaving an estate. I'd rather enjoy the estate than leave it."

John isn't quite sure the decision was a good one. He is too much of a banker for that. But he certainly is enjoying the Airedale pup.—John Pilgrim in Toronto Star Weekly.

CRISP COMMENT

Toronto Star remarks that "Many Ontario towns are putting up large signs of welcome to motorists. This is quite a change from the old plan of elevating a culvert about two feet at each entrance to the town to break motor springs and keeping a magistrate employed nailing fines on every car that passes through." At the Belleville city limits westward a large sign, erected by the Lions' Club, extends a hearty welcome to all travellers on the highway, which is as it should be.

The fund for a city ambulance keeps growing and the Nurses' Association keeps working toward the goal they have set for themselves—that of providing a modern ambulance for Belleville. Sunday night's sacred concert brought that goal nearer by a hundred odd dollars, but still there is need of money. That sick and injured people should be taken to the hospital in anything but the most comfortable and easiest riding of ambulances is unthinkable and all should help to make a modern ambulance possible in the near future.

John Newton, who for many years served Belleville faithfully and well as Chief of Police and never was known to fall down upon any occasion in the performance of his duties, has just been celebrating his half century of residence in Belleville. This week Mr. Newton, himself an enthusiastic member of the craft, visited the Toronto Masonic lodge, of which his son is Worshipful Master. A good citizen, a good friend, and an all-round good fellow is John Newton; a Britisher by birth and inclination, and still a worthy official of the City of Belleville, which he has served this past forty-five years as police constable, chief constable, and now as police court clerk and supernumerary officer. Here's hoping the next half century comes easier, John.

At this crisis in the country's hostory, it is pitiful to hear some men express the cynical view that, although Crerar and King talk Free Trade and lower Tariff they would not put either in operation if they got into office. A MORAL

Montreal Herald (Lib.)

The officers of the United Farmers of Ontario Co-operative Association admit large losses in connection with the concern, placing it around $300,000. Mr. Burnaby contends that the complaint of a shareholder is a political dodge to injure the farmers, but his admission of losses, undertermined as yet, coupled with the financial record of the farmers' Government of Ontario will not tend to inspire confidence in the ability of the farmers to manage the affairs of the Dominion.

"THE SEA AND HER DEAD"

Guy N. Pocock

Years ahead, years ahead,
Who will honor our sailor dead?
For the wild North Sea, the bleak North Sea,
Threshes and seethes so endlessly,
Gathering foam, and changing crest,
Heave and hurry, and know no rest.
How can they mark our sailor dead
In the years ahead?

Times goes by, time goes by—
And who shall tell where our soldiers lie?
The guiding trench-cut winds afar
Miles upon miles, where the dead men are.
A cross of wood or a carven block,
A name-disc hung on a rifle stock—
These shall tell where our soldiers lie.

Days to come, days to come—
But who shall ask of the wandering foam,
The place of our sailor dead to tell
From Jutland reef to Scapa Flow
Tracks of the wary warships go—
But the deep-sea wastes lie green and dumb
All the days to come.

Years ahead, years ahead
The sea shall honor her sailor dead.
No mound of mouldering earth shall show
The fighting-place of the men below—
But a swim of seas that gather and spill;
And the winds wild chantry whistling shrill
Shall cry "Consider my sailor dead"
In the years ahead.

BASKETBALL

Last night at the Y.M.C.A. Gymnasium, two games of basketball were staged and considering that the teams have not played together before it promises that Belleville will not be lacking for basketball material when the O.A.B.A. series commence.

The first game was between the K. V. A. (Hydro Electric) and the Money Wrestlers (Banks). It looked as though the bank boys had a shade the advantage and earlier in the game had things all their own way. But the sturdier K.V.A. backed up by such men as Brown, Alexander and Badgely of O.A.B.A. fame condition told.

K.V.A.: Brown 8; Alexander 4; Lazier; Badgely 6; Roblin 2; Frost 2; Asselstine. Score 22 points.

Banks: Jefferies 9; Holland 2; Myles 2; Jamieson; Watson. Score 13 points.

In the second game the Grand Trunks showed that practice makes perfect. Although only a light team they are very fast and will bear some watching. Weir was the star player with 10 points to his credit with Meagher 8 points.

The Merchants with the Finkle, Marshall, Hollway combination will be the team to beat. Last night's game was the first time they had played together.

Score: G.T.R.—28; Merchants—22.

THE·THREE GUARDSMEN

By ALEXANDRE DUMAS

the neighborhood. At the door stood two horses, fresh, strong and fully equipped. These would just have suited them. He asked where the masters of them were and was informed that they had passed the night in the auberge and were then settling with the master.

Athos went down to pay the reckoning, while D'Artagnan and Planchet stood at the street door. The host was in a lower and back chamber, to which Athos was requested to go.

Athos entered without the least distrust and took out two pistoles to pay the bill. The host took the money which Athos offered to him and, after turning it over and over in his hands, suddenly cried out that it was bad and that he would have him and his companions arrested as coiners.

But the host stooped, took two pistols from a drawer, pointed them at Athos and called out for help.

At the same instant four men armed to the teeth entered by lateral doors and rushed upon Athos.

"I am taken!" shouted Athos with all the power of his lungs. "Go on, D'Artagnan! Spur, spur!" and he fired two pistols.

D'Artagnan and Planchet did not require twice bidding. They unfastened the two horses that were waiting at the door, leaped upon them, buried their spurs in their sides and set off at full gallop.

"Do you know what has become of Athos?" asked D'Artagnan of Planchet as they galloped on.

"Ah, monsieur," said Planchet, "I saw one fall at each of his shots, and he appeared to me through the glass door to be fighting with his sword with the others."

"Brave Athos!" murmured D'Artagnan. "Forward, Planchet, forward! You are a brave fellow!"

Both, with free use of the spur, arrived at St. Omer without drawing bit. At St. Omer they breathed their horses with their bridles passed under their arms, for fear of accident, and ate a morsel in their hands, standing in the road, after which they departed again.

At a hundred paces from the gates of Calais D'Artagnan's horse sank under him and could not by any means be got up again, the blood flowing from both his eyes and his nose. There still remained Planchet's horse, but after he stopped he remained quite still and could not be urged to move a step.

Fortunately, as we have said, they were within a hundred paces of the city; they left their two nags upon the highroad and ran toward the port. Planchet called his master's attention to a gentleman who had just arrived with his lackey and preceded them by about fifty paces.

They made all speed to come up to this gentleman, who appeared to be in great haste. His boots were covered with dust, and he inquired if he could not instantly cross over to England.

"Nothing would be more easy," said the captain of a vessel ready to set sail, "but this morning an order arrived that no one should be allowed to cross without express permission from the cardinal."

"I have that permission," said the gentleman, drawing a paper from his pocket; "here it is."

"Have it examined by the governor of the port," said the captain, "and give me the preference."

"Where shall I find the governor?"

"At his country house. Look, you may see it from here—at the foot of that little hill, that slated roof."

"Very well," said the gentleman.

D'Artagnan and Planchet followed the gentleman at a distance not to be noticed, but when he was out of the city D'Artagnan quickly came up with him just as he was entering a little wood.

"Monsieur," said D'Artagnan, "you appear to be in great haste?"

"No one can be more so, monsieur."

"I am sorry for that," said D'Artagnan, "for, as I am in great haste likewise, I wished to beg you to render me a service."

"What service?"

"I want that order of which you are the bearer, seeing that I have not one of my own and must have one."

"Let me pass!"

"You shall not pass."

"My brave young man, I will blow out your brains. Hola, Lubin, my pistols!"

"Planchet," called out D'Artagnan, "take care of the lackey—I will manage the master."

Planchet, emboldened by the first exploit, sprang upon Lubin, and, being strong and vigorous, he soon got him on the broad of his back and placed his knee upon his breast.

Seeing this, the gentleman drew his sword and sprang upon D'Artagnan, but he had more than he expected to deal with.

In three seconds D'Artagnan had wounded him three times, exclaiming at each thrust:

"One for Athos, one for Porthos and one for Aramis!"

At the third hit the gentleman fell heavily to the ground.

D'Artagnan believed him to be dead or at least insensible and went toward him for the purpose of taking the order, but at the moment he stretched out his hand to search for it the wounded man, who had not dropped his sword, plunged the point into his breast, crying:

"And one for you!"

"And one for me! The best for the last!" cried D'Artagnan in a rage, nailing him to the earth with a fourth thrust through his body.

This time the gentleman closed his eyes and fainted. D'Artagnan searched his pockets and took from one of them the order for the passage. It was in the name of the Count de Wardes.

"Now," said Planchet, "let us gag this Lubin and bind him to a tree."

This being properly done, they drew the Count de Wardes close to his servant, and as night was approaching and as the wounded man and the bound man were at some little distance within the wood, it was evident they were likely to remain there till the next day.

"And now," said D'Artagnan, "to the governor's house."

"But you appear to me to be wounded," said Planchet.

"Oh, that's nothing! Let us dispatch that which is most pressing first, and we will attend to my wound afterward, besides, I don't think it seems a very dangerous one."

And they both set forward as fast as they could toward the country house of the worthy functionary.

The Count de Wardes was announced, and D'Artagnan was introduced.

"You have an order signed by the cardinal?"

"Yes, monsieur," replied D'Artagnan, "here it is."

"Yes, a certain D'Artagnan, a Bearnese gentleman, who left Paris in company of three of his friends, with the intention of going to London."

"Do you know him personally?" asked the governor.

"Oh, yes, perfectly well."

"Describe him to me, then."

"Nothing more easy."

And D'Artagnan gave, feature for feature and in every way, the most minute description of the Count de Wardes.

"We will keep a sharp lookout for him, and if we lay hands upon him his eminence may be assured he shall be reconducted to Paris under a good escort."

The governor signed the passport and delivered it to D'Artagnan, who lost no time in useless compliments, but thanked the governor, bowed and departed.

When once out he and Planchet set off as fast as they could and by making a detour avoided the wood and reentered the city by another gate. Five minutes after they were on board. And it was time, for they had scarcely sailed half a league when D'Artagnan saw a flash and heard a detonation. It was the cannon which announced the closing of the port.

He had now leisure to look to his wound. Fortunately, as he had thought, it was not dangerous. The point of the sword had met with a rib and glanced along the bone. D'Artagnan was worn out with fatigue. A mattress was laid upon the deck for him. He threw himself upon it and fell fast asleep.

At 10 o'clock the vessel cast anchor in the port of Dover, and in a few hours D'Artagnan and Planchet were in the capital.

D'Artagnan did not know London. He was not acquainted with one word of English, but he wrote the name of Buckingham on a piece of paper, and every one to whom he showed it pointed out to him the way to the duke's mansion.

The duke was at Windsor hunting with the king.

D'Artagnan inquired for the confidential valet of the duke, who, having accompanied him in all his voyages, spoke French perfectly well. He told him that he came from Paris on an affair of life and death and that he must speak with his master instantly.

The confidence with which D'Artagnan spoke convinced Patrick, which was the name of this minister. He ordered two horses to be saddled and himself went as guide to the young guardsman. As for Planchet, he had been lifted from his horse as stiff as a rush. The poor lad's strength was almost exhausted. D'Artagnan seemed to be made of iron. On their arrival at the castle they inquired for the duke.

"Whom must I announce to my lord duke?" asked Patrick.

"The young man who one evening sought a quarrel with him on the Pont Neuf, opposite the Samaritaine."

Patrick galloped off, reached the duke and announced to him in the terms directed that a messenger awaited him.

Buckingham at once remembered the circumstances and, suspecting that something was going on in France, rode straight up to D'Artagnan, Patrick keeping in the background.

"No misfortune has happened to the queen?" cried the duke.

"Take this letter," said D'Artagnan.

"From her majesty!" said Buckingham.

"What is this rent?" showing D'Artagnan a place where it had been pierced through.

"Ah, ah!" said D'Artagnan, "I did not see that; it was the sword of the Count de Wardes that made that hole when he ran it into my breast. It is only a scratch."

"Just heavens—what have I read!" cried the duke. "Patrick, remain here, or, rather, join the king, wherever he may be, and tell his majesty that I hereby beg him to excuse me, but an affair of the greatest importance calls me to London. Come, monsieur, come!" And both set off toward the capital at full gallop.

CHAPTER XVI.

The Countess de Winter.

As they rode along the duke endeavored to draw from D'Artagnan, not what had passed, but what D'Artagnan himself knew.

The horses went like the wind, and in an incredibly short time they were in London. On entering the court of his house, Buckingham sprang from his horse, and, without taking heed of the noble animal, threw the bridle on his neck and sprang toward the vestibule. The duke walked so fast that D'Artagnan had some trouble in keeping up with him. He arrived in a bedchamber which was at once a miracle of taste and of splendor. In the alcove was a door in the tapestry, which the duke opened with a small gold key.

D'Artagnan found himself with the duke in a small chapel covered with a tapestry of Persian silk worked with gold and brilliantly lit with a vast number of wax lights. Over a species of altar and beneath a canopy of blue velvet, surmounted by white and red plumes, was a full length portrait of Anne of Austria, perfect in resemblance.

Upon the altar and beneath the portrait was the casket containing the diamond studs.

The duke approached the altar, fell on his knees as a priest might have done before a crucifix, and opened the casket.

"There," said he, drawing from the casket a large bow of blue ribbon all sparkling with diamonds. "Here," said he, "are the precious studs which I have taken an oath should be buried with me. The queen gave them to me, the queen requires them back again."

The Duke Approached the Altar and Fell on His Knees.

Then he began to kiss, one after the other, those dear studs with which he was about to part. All at once he uttered a terrible cry.

"All is lost! All is lost! Two of the studs are wanting! There are but ten of them!"

"Can you have lost them, milord?"

"They have been stolen," replied the duke, "and it is the cardinal who has dealt me this blow. See! The ribbons which held them have been cut with scissors."

"If milord suspects they have been stolen perhaps the person who stole them still has them."

"Let me reflect," said the duke. "The only time I wore these studs was at a ball given by the king a week ago at Windsor. The Countess de Winter, with whom I had had a quarrel, became reconciled to me at that ball. That reconciliation was nothing but the vengeance of a jealous woman. I have never seen her from that day. The oman is an agent of the cardinal's. When is this ball to take place?"

"On Monday next."

"On Monday next! Still five days before us. That's more time than we want. Patrick!" cried the duke, opening the door of the chapel, "Patrick!"

His confidential valet, who had that moment returned, appeared at his call.

"My jeweler and my secretary!"

Although the jeweler had been mentioned first, it was the secretary that first made his appearance, simply because he lived in the mansion. He found Buckingham seated at a table in his bedchamber writing orders with his own hand.

"Master Jackson," said he, "go instantly to the lord chancellor and tell him that I desire him to execute these orders. I wish them to be promulgated immediately."

"But, my lord, if the lord chancellor interrogates me upon the motives which may have led your grace to adopt such an extraordinary measure, what reply shall I make?"

"That such is my pleasure."

"Will that be the answer," replied the secretary, smiling, "which he must transmit to his majesty if by chance his majesty should have the curiosity to know why no vessel is to leave any of the ports of Great Britain?"

"You are right, Master Jackson," replied Buckingham. "He will say, in that case, to the king that I am determined on war and that this measure is my first act of hostility against France."

The secretary bowed and retired.

"We are safe on that side," said Buckingham, turning toward D'Artagnan. "If the studs are not yet gone to Paris they will not arrive till after you. I have just placed an embargo on all vessels at present in his majesty's ports, and without particular permission not one can lift an anchor."

D'Artagnan looked at him with stupefaction.

"Yes," said he, "yes, Anne of Austria is my true queen. Upon a word from her I would betray my country, I would betray my king."

"Master O'Reilly," said the duke to him, leading him into the chapel, "look at these diamond studs and tell me what they are worth apiece."

Preventing Running Gear Noise

A Rattly Car Condemns Its Owner

THE FOLLOWING SUGGESTIONS RELATE to the most common sources of rattles and to how such noises can be stopped. Side play of body spring-eyes and shackle plates along their bolts is probably the most usual cause of the rattling produced by a car traveling over rough roads. This play can be taken up by adjusting the spring bolts. At the shackled end of a spring, the cotter pin should be removed, the nut loosened and the bolt itself, which is threaded into the further shackle plate, screwed in far enough to draw the parts into contact, but not tightly enough to bind, the nut being then tightened and cotter pinned. At shackled ends of springs, there are two operations like this required. At unshackled ends where the spring goes directly into a frame fitting, the pin is usually not screwed in, and tightening is effected by unpinning the nut, taking up on it as much as required and re-pinning it in its new position. When all side play has been removed from spring bolts and they still rattle, the pins themselves or their eye bushings, or both, are evidently worn and the remedy is to remove the springs, drive out the old bushings and replace with new ones, using new bolts as well. One of the parts that develops a rattle most quickly is the tie-rod of the steering gear, which connects the two front wheels. Its forked ends wear on the steering arms and up and down backlash develops. This can be taken up by removing the cotters from the nuts of the two bolts which pass through the forked ends, and setting up on these nuts until they pinch the forks together so that they are snug, but do not bind on the steering arms. Pinning the nuts in their altered positions is of the utmost importance. Lost motion of the steering connection-rod or drag-link at its end connections, is a source of heavy rattling. These ends are ball and socket joints, fitted with spiral springs that are supposed to keep all play taken up, but once in a while, these springs require cleaning, lubrication or even renewal to make this action effective. The end connection of the torque rod constitutes a "rattle point," when worn, but there is usually some means of taking up the play. Excessive play in front wheel bearings causes "chucking" noises and these bearings should always be kept so adjusted that, when jacked up, no more than a just, perceptible end shake can be noticed.

GRABBING CLUTCH

A. C. R. writes: I have had a new clutch installed in my car, but it causes such a jerk at starting that it stalls the engine. The use of neatsfoot oil on the lining gives only temporary relief. Can you tell me why it grabs so?

Answer: This is a leather lined cone-clutch, with six spring plungers under the lining to give easy engagement. The most usual causes of grabbing are failure to countersink the band rivets deeply enough to prevent their making contact with the flywheel face and improper adjustment of the plungers. These latter should be so set as to raise the leather considerably, almost as much as allowable without causing dragging when the clutch is disengaged. Unless the three engagement springs are tightened about equally trouble may be caused by the clutch entering unevenly. If a complete new clutch was put in and this was from the factory and right for your car, we are surprised that you have this trouble, but if only the lining was renewed the trouble may be that the material or the fitting were not right.

RAN CAR WITH CHOKER CLOSED

S. T. W. writes: I loaned my car to a friend to do some errands about town and later in the day he called me up and said that there was something wrong and that it would hardly run at all. On going to his assistance, I found that he had had the choker closed all the time. Having heard that this is likely to damage an engine, I wish to inquire whether you think any harm was done and, if so, how it can be set right.

Answer: We do not think you will find any permanent injury. The worst possibility is the scoring of the cylinders, caused by the oil on their walls being washed off by the excessive amount of raw gasoline drawn in. If you find that the compression in all cylinders is as good as before, no scoring has occurred. One thing you should do immediately is to draw off the engine oil and put in fresh, as the old oil is doubtless much thinned. No doubt the plugs need cleaning.

Questions of general interest to the motorist will be answered by Mr. Clough in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

YOUNG MAN ON FARM KILLED BY TRACTOR

Falls Off in Front of Plow —Found Hours Later by Father.

Beaverton, Nov. 16.—This afternoon, on the farm of Mrs. Kenneth McRae, about two miles east of Gamesbridge, Dan McRae, 20 years old, son of Finlay McRae, of Bolsover, was operating a tractor, plowing sod on the farm, which his father had rented, and it is supposed, somehow, in operating the lever on the plow, being run D n shr eta aaa plow from the tractor, fell in front of the plow, being run over and killed while the tractor was in gear.

He was found by his father in the evening about tea-time. The tractor had left the furrow at the place of the accident and travelled about 20 rods, and, owing to one side being tilted up, the oil supply was cut off, causing it to stall.

The father, seeing the tractor stopped, and not seeing his son, went over to investigate and was horrified to find the plow had run over and killed him.

How to Be Rid of Dangerous Dandruff

If you have dandruff you must get rid of it quick—it's positively dangerous and will surely destroy your hair if you don't.

Dandruff heads mean faded, brittle, gray, scraggly hair that will not grow—then you are bald and nothing can help you.

The only sure way to abolish dandruff for good is to destroy the germ that causes it. To do this quickly, surely, and safely there is nothing as effective as Parisian sage, which you can get at any good druggists such as McKeown's Drug Store who guarantees it to keep away all drandruff, stop itching scalp and falling hair, and stimulate a new growth, or the cost, small as it is, will be refunded.

Parisian sage is a scientific preparation that supplies all hair needs—an antiseptic liquid, neither sticky or greasy, easy to use, and daintily perfumed. 1-212

NEW ACT FOR CHILD PROTECTION

By this Act the Provincial Officer, J. J. Kelso with such Deputies as he may appoint is placed entirely in charge of the protection of children of unmarried parenthood throughout the province. All expenses of the administration and enforcement of the Act will be paid out of the revenue of the Province. All litigation arising out of the Act will be tried before a Senior Judge or County Judge or Judge of the Juvenile Court. All hearings under the Act are to be by the Judge in his chambers and in camera. By the provisions of the Act the Division Registrar of the Division must notify immediately the Provincial officer or his representative of the birth of every child born out of wedlock so registered or of every birth registered in such manner as to suggest that the parents were not married.

It is realized that this clause will not reach the unregistered births, but in recent years there has been a great increase in the extent and efficiency of birth registration in the province and it is also felt that it would not be feasible at the present time to place the obligation of this notification on the medical attendants at birth. The Provincial Officer thereupon is required to take such proceedings as he thinks advisable in the interest of the child.

ADVICE TO MOTHER

The unmarried mother may apply to the officer for advice or assistance at any time before or after the birth of the child and the Provincial Officer himself may be appointed the guardian of the child alone or with the mother. Where it is utterly impossible to find the father of the child, or where adequate support cannot be provided for several reasons, the Provincial Officer has power to deal with the child as a neglected child under the Children's Protection Act.

One of the weaknesses of the old Act was the necessity of this application for affiliation being made within six months. This term is now extended to one year, but two very fine clauses are added viz:

Or within a year after the doing of any act on the part of the putative father which affords evidence of acknowledgement of paternity.

Or if the father has been absent from the province for the year following the birth of the child, he may be proceeded against within one year after his return to the province.

This latter clause is particularly valuable. This makes it unsafe for the man to return if he has decamped. Upon application the Judge fixes the time and place for the hearing of the case.

DECLARE PATERNITY

The Judge is empowered to proceed with the case in default of the father's appearance: or when he appears to try the case and declare paternity after investigation as well as fixing liability of the father. This liability is fixed at the expense of maintenance care, etc., of the mother three months preceding and as long after birth as the Medical Officer of Health may certify is necessary also weekly maintenance grant until the child is sixteen years of age. In fixing the sum the Judge shall consider the father's ability to provide as well as his prospective means, the sum for maintenance being such as shall enable the child to maintain a reasonable standard of life considering what he would have enjoyed by birth in lawful wedlock. The order may also include the expense of burial of the mother should her death result from child-birth or the burial of the child. If a lump sum payment is accepted it must be such that it shall form a principal consuming annuity, the income of which would be equivalent to the weekly maintenance order of the court.

DEATH OF CHILD

In case of death of the child before sixteen years this sum shall revert to the province, unless countermanded by a court order. This clause is admitted to prevent the payment of small "hush money" amounts by wealthy fathers. Of course these orders may be varied from time to time by the Judge. The father may be required to bond himself for the payment of the order and in case of failure to do so shall be proceeded against for contempt. The payments of grants are to be made to the Provincial Officer or under his direction. This will prevent the necessary meeting of the father and the mother. Where there is default in payment, the father of the child may be summoned and committed to a common gaol for at least six months. The Bill also provides for the Judge ordering a joint maintenance from the mother as well as the father or making an order for the care and custody of the child.

FATHER SUMMONED

The important clause of the Bill is that which allows the putative father to be summoned as a material witness. This prevents the present practice of the father fleeing to the next municipality even before his trial. Another clause provides that in all proceedings instituted no matter by whom the Provincial Officer must be notified and he has the right to appear to intervene or to employ council in any such proceedings. This means he may assist either the mother or the father in such case should reasonable cause for him so doing arise. Another interesting clause provides that in the death of the father this weekly maintenance order shall bind his estate as an ordinary debt subject to the review of the Judge.

A TRAGEDY

The tragedy of the whole Bill was the striking out of Clause 21 which provided for the distribution of liability to payment in case of two or more possible fathers. This clause was struck out by the opposition in Parliament and already two social agencies have lined up to obtain its reinsertation at the next session of the House. It is not necessary to comment on the disaster of this being omitted.

ADOPTION OF CHILDREN

An interesting companion Bill is the Act Respecting the Adoption of Children. This Act granted that we were to have one, is one of the most modern adoption acts in existence. It interlocks with this Act only in one detail where the mother of a child born out of wedlock may adopt it herself but in ALL cases such adoption must be certified by the Provincial Officer.

GOVERNMENT REPORT ON CROP CONDITIONS

The following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

The comparatively heavy snowfall of the past week has for the time being halted the great activity which has been prevailing on farms. Happily most farmers have their fall work well in hand.

Some turnips are still out, and in a few instances sugar beets are yet unshipped. Representatives are more or less disappointed with the quality and general prospects of the former crop but sugar beets are turning out to be of good saccharine quality. Of this the Kent representative has the following to say: "The later harvest of beets are showing considerably more sugar content than did those harvested earlier in the season; this is probably due to the fact that they have to a certain extent overcome during the past few weeks the effect of the drought earlier in the season."

Wheat

Fall wheat is regarded as being in good shape for entering the winter, only the very early fields having suffered from the Hessian fly

Hay is selling all the way from $17 a ton, baled, in Haldimand, to $20 on the market in Kent, $25 in Victoria and $30 in Kenora.

Some activity in the handling of grass seed is reported. Dealers in Haldimand are buying red clover for $12 a bushel, and small quantities of alsike at from $9.50 to $10 a bushel but practically no alfalfa is offering.

Potatoes are selling at from $1.50 to $1.75 a bag, and are plentiful on some farms and scarce on others, even in the same county. Fort William reports a large quantity on hand with little prospect of sale at present.

Apples

Haldimand quotes good winter apples at $6 a barrell, with various prices for lower qualities. Leeds says that No 1's are bringing from $7.50 to $9 a barrel, according to variety and quality.

Many farmers have housed their cattle owing to the winter-line conditions prevailing, although, some are leaving their animals out to get the benefit of the bare spots in pasture fields, with supplementary feed. There is a tendency to get rid of all surplus stock before the winter actually sets in.

Livestock

Three carloads of live stock were shipped from Plantagenet, Prescott and Russell Co., during the week. Some were sold on a graded basis.

Norfolk states that fair cows, fresh or due to calve shortly, were sold recently at from $40 to $65 each, and dairy cows at from $25 to $40. Halton quotes sales of milch cows at from $60 to $80.

Oxford reports good grade dairy cows changing hands at from $75 to $100, and pure-breds at from $150 up. A car load of cattle were shipped from that county to Brandon during the week.

Cream

The Lennox and Addington Representative says: "Some of the cheese factories have closed, and as a result many farmers are sending cream to the Napanee Creamery. Farmers are disposing of their surplus stock which they will be unable to winter over, at next to sacrifice prices."

Hogs are moving a little livelier than earlier in the fall, but raisers are not pleased with the prices paid, which range from $8 to $8.60 a cwt.

Norfolk states that breeders of pure-bred sheep are discouraged as they are unable to dispose of surplus breeding stock at remunerative prices.

Labor Plentiful

There is no trouble in securing all the labor needed for fall and winter work.

TWO GREAT RUNNERS.

Anecdotes About Alfred Shrubb and Tom Longboat.

One of the most novel races of recent times was that between Alfred Shrubb, the famous runner, and a horse specially trained for the purpose.

This race took place near Winnipeg. The runner had found it hard to get competitors, so when someone suggested he might race a horse he took up the idea immediately.

The original intention was that one horse should compete. But, as the race was a ten-miler, it was thought the animal could not last the distance. So the race was conducted in relays, a second animal taking up the task at the end of five miles.

It was Shrubb who was successful in lowering the ten-mile record in 1904.

The affair was staged at Glasgow. The runner had read of the valiant deeds done by Scots inspired by the music of the bagpipes. So he arranged to get a piper to play at intervals.

From the start Shrubb ran well. He reeled off mile after mile, each one being punctuated by roars of delight from the crowd. But at the seventh mile he had fallen behind schedule to the extent of about fifteen seconds.

In answer to frantic appeals, he managed to pull himself together, making up the leeway. Then, as he entered upon the last mile, he caught up and passed the limit-handicap man.

On the last lap he put in a gigantic spurt, and breasted the tap in the record time of 50 min. 40⅗ secs.

But Shrubb wasn't finished. Encouraged by the spectators' calls to "go for the hour record," he continued for the few minutes that remained to complete the hour.

He was suffering from reaction, however. The strain was beginning to tell. But just at the right moment he heard the skirl of the pipes.

Spurred on to greater efforts, he completed the task, and laid low the world's amateur record for the hour. He completed eleven miles 1,137 yards.

Straight away Shrubb made the pace, steadily increasing his lead until at the end of twenty miles he was nine laps ahead.

But Longboat was a most imperturbable runner, and, as he said after the race, he was certain his opponent could not last it out. He was right. At the twenty-third mile Shrubb became sick and collapsed. The Indian finished the distance, and won. In the course of his career Shrubb trained many amateurs by mail. This once resulted in a rather humorous situation.

On a visit to Harvard University, Boston, he volunteered to pace a young man on the track.

Some words of advice were given to the young man, who turned and smiled rather sardonically.

"You seem to know something about the game. Have you ever taken lessons from Shrubb of England? I have."

Shrubb laughed outright, and the youth was obviously annoyed.

"Don't you think this man Shrubb is any good?" he asked.

"Well," Shrubb replied, "I have heard a good deal of him. But before we go any farther, may I ask what your name is?"

"My name," he answered, "is J. W. Johnson, of Rochester, N.Y."

"And mine," Shrubb added, "is Alfred Shrubb, of England, the man who has been giving you written tuition."

The Lure of Crime.

What is the reason for crime apart from material benefit? Is it due to inherit wickedness or moral perversity, or to an artificial force of circumstances brought about by our social system?

Crime, to a very large extent, is due to a pathological craving for excitement, and is indirectly caused by a weakened nervous system.

The society woman, neurotic, morbidly restless, and ever in search of new sensations, has no need to gratify her disease by practicing crime in its punishable form. Her money will procure for her a respite from her hysterical ennui.

But to poor people the restless craving for excitement cannot be gratified without money, and therefore crime offers a twofold inducement—it provides excitement of a sort, and material gain—perhaps.

There is far too much excitement in our everyday life, although we are so accustomed to it that we do not realize its harmful extent.

Late dances, one-steps, jazz, and a hundred other crazes leave in their wake a long list of diseased nervous systems that are not only harmful to the individuals, but present a growing menace to the race.

Inventor of the Telephone.

Mr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1847, and is still living. He settled in Canada in 1870 and in 1874 was appointed professor of vocal physiology in Boston University. He invented the telephone in 1872 and placed it on exhibition at the Philadelphia Exhibition in 1887. He has served as president of the American Association for the Promotion of Speech to the deaf, also as president of the National Geographic Society and regent for the Smithsonian Institution. France awarded him the Volta prize in 1881.

WOMAN HAD THREE HUSBANDS

Mitigating Circumstances Cause Imposition of a Light Sentence.

Dora Amanda Wannamaker, who gave her age as 36 years, was this morning before Police Magistrate Masson charged with bigamy. Mr. E. J. Butler, counsel for the accused, admitted the charge and asked the Magistrate to deal leniently as it was apparent the woman owing to her rather limited intellectual abilities did not seem to realize the gravity of the offence she had committed. In answer to an enquiry from the Magistrate, the accused stated that she first married Wannamaker who left her and she did not see or hear from him for seven years. She admitted that she subsequently married a man named Brown and went through a marriage ceremony with another man named Bedore. The more the case was investigated the more matters became complicated. Mr. Carnew, County Attorney, stated that it was not the intention of the Crown to press for a severe sentence in the case as there were some mitigating circumstances. The Magistrate imposed a sentence of three months.

"She talks intelligently on all subjects." "Converstile, so to speak."—Boston Transcript.

CAR BURNED

A Chevrolet car, the property of Mr. Johnson, a storekeeper, on the corner of Chatham street and Victoria avenue, was in the early part of last evening destroyed by fire. The auto was in front of a garage on the Market Square and gasoline was being placed in the tank when, from some cause, it ignited. In a flash the car was enveloped in flames and destroyed. The fire brigade from No. 1 station was called to the scene, but could do nothing to prevent the destruction of the auto

SHOT BY SHERIFF'S SON

A tragedy which has stirred deeply the whole district, occurred in Sheen on Friday last, when Daniel Sullivan, wanted by Sheriff B. J. Sloan, Vinton, on a warrant charging him with assault on a neighbor last spring, was fatally shot by the sheriff's son, Willaim J. Sloan, while forcibly resisting arrest, and died about five minutes later. The sad and unfortunate affair was preceded by a sanguinary encounter between the officials of the law and Sullivan, in which the sheriff nearly met death from a bullet fired by Sullivan.

GIANT SNOW MAN'S

Major Harold Hackett, of 5th Gurkha Rifles, stationed at Abbattabad in India, visited at Kingston with his wife at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Hagne, has built a giant snow man for the edification of his daughter, which requires a stepladder and spade to keep it within bounds. Queen's students and staff and citizens generally are going out of their to admire the gigantic seated figure, reminiscent in varying degrees of the grace and beauty of the Elgin marbles, the brute force of the Roman arena and the calm repose of a buddhist idol, whose ears temple bells are ringing.

CELEBRATE 50TH ANNIVERSARY

Monday evening was marked at the Queen's Hotel, Toronto, by a dinner party unique even in the annals of that historic house. The guests numbered twenty, gathered to celebrate the golden anniversary of the marriage at Port Hope, November 14, 1871, of Hugh Ross (now of 24 Woodlawn avenue west), Toronto, and Margaret Adams, the newly weds that same evening reaching Toronto, the honeymoon objective. Their wedding dinner was served in the same memory-crowded dining room where Monday night members of the Ross family circle and especially intimate friends gathered to extend felicitations and congratulations. None of the original wedding trip was present, for, save the bride and groom, Mrs. W. F. Walker, Port Hope and Mrs. Davidson of Hamilton, these all have passed from earth. Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ross have two sons, but one of whom could be present Monday evening, Donald M. Ross of the Dominion Textile interests. His brother, Harry, an officer of the Vancouver Portland Cement Company has his home at Victoria, B.C. Mrs Ross, being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchall, Tod Inlet, whose sunken gardens are rated the floral masterpiece of all America.—Port Hope Guide.

WILL BE SENT BACK

Mrs. Chevier of Montreal, who is connected with the Dominion Immigration Department was in the city today and returned with Mrs. Percy James Pinge, a young Englishwoman, who was married to Pinge, upon her arrival from the Motherland. Pinge it appears was already a married man having a wife living in England. The second wife will be sent back to her relatives in England.

GILEAD

If the present weather continues the winter will be a long one.

The Rev. Farnsworth of Cannifton conducted Quarterly service in Gilead Church on Sunday last.

Mr. George Allord of Uncle Sam's domain visited at J. W. Hutchinson's on Sunday.

The Sunday Schools of St. Andrews and Gilead intend holding a concert in St. Andrews church in the near future.

There is not much talk in election circles in this district at present.

Mr. Charlie Hick and Mr. Armstrong of Belleville made a flying trip through this vicinity on Tuesday last and made a few friendly calls.

Vanity and Glasses

The wearing of glasses is one of the best preservers of a youthful appearance. This is because prolonged eyestrain causes wrinkles to appear prematurely and gives the countenance a strained, tired, anxious, drawn, cross look, which is very characteristic and far more to be avoided, from the viewpoint of appearance than the slight disfigurement of glasses. Indeed, so far from being unbecoming, there are some types of faces to which glasses just add the finishing touch.

We have every up to date style.

FORTY YEARS OF MARRIED LIFE

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bailey Honored by Friends on Wedding Anniversary.

A very interesting event occurred on Tuesday at the residence of Mrs. (Dr.) G. O. Duprau, 32 Hillside street, where a surprise party was tendered her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bailey on the occasion of the fortieth anniversary of their wedding day. A number of relatives and friends had gathered for the occasion and Mr. and Mrs. Bailey were taken very much by surprise. An enjoyable banquet was served and congratulations tendered this popular couple who are in their sixties and enjoying life to the full. A pleasant feature of the occasion was the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Bailey on behalf of the members of Holloway street Methodist church of a handsomely bound Methodist hymn book and Bible, accompanied by an address of appreciation which was read by Miss Ida Martin, the presentation being made by Mrs. F. Masten and Mrs. G. Lloyd. A short address of congratulation and appreciation was also given by Rev. A. H. Foster, pastor of Holloway street church, and appropriate replies were made by Mr. and Mrs. Bailey.

Among the guests present from out of town were Mrs. Bailey's brother, Mr. A. Herity, of Moira, and his son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Herity, also of Moira; Mr. and Mrs. John Foster and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Foster, of Moira, cousins.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey were married forty years ago at Stirling by the Rev. Mr. Walker, and they have many friends in the district as well as in the city for to know them is to respect and admire them.

LIONISM · ITS OBJECTS AND OPPORTUNITIES

Being the Summary of an Address Given Before the :: Belleville Lions Club by Dr. Norman Neilson. ::

Lionism, what it means to the Cubs and to society in general, its objects, aims and opportunities, was discussed by Dr. Norman Neilson, himself a Lion, before the Belleville Lion's Club on Wednesday at the weekly junglefest. Cub Neilson's address was brimful of inspiration, helpful and instructive, and pointed the pathway of service which every good Cub should tread. Dr. Neilson's address was in part as follows:

The most valuable thing which ever comes into a life is that experience, that book, that sermon, that person that incident, that emergency, that catastrophe—that something which touches the springs of a man's inner nature and flings open the doors of his great within, revealing its hidden secrets.

> "To be good is noble, to teach others to be good is more noble and less trouble.—Mark Twain.

We have been saying for 2,000 years after the ancient philosopher, that "Knowledge is Power". But modern education does not teach that any more, as we know it isn't so. Knowledge is not power—of itself. "Link knowledge up with a soul on fire, however, and then power does result. A man with little knowledge and unbounded enthusiasm is a greater power than a man with much knowledge and no fire in his soul.

Now the chief and first object of Lionism is to develop the individual members to help them catch that vision, that something which will stir them on to greater usefulness to themselves and to the community in which they live.

And so we have our weekly meeting that we may be intelligently informed regarding the big issues of the day, which of course will better fit us for life's battles and to adjust ourselves harmoniously to our environment.

Unique Age

We are living in a unique age at present. Here is a man giving all his time to studying electricity, with a wonderful revelation, here is a man spending all his days looking through a microscope with equally wonderful revelations, specialists all down the line of human endeavor.

Compared with former times we are living in a wonderful age, the age of the printing press and penny newspapers, the age of motion pictures, wireless telegraphy and talking machines, the age of automobiles, skyscrapers, flying machines and appendicitis, a wonderful day. Each man is busy with his own little sphere.

I am mentioning these things merely to remind us how complex modern civilization and life is becoming and that consequently all men are becoming specialists. But this very fact that we are becoming specialists, that every man is limiting (for the sake of efficiency) his efforts to a certain definite and comparatively narrow sphere means also that we have a tendency to become narrow in our thinking, unless we take measures to overcome this. And I wonder if this is not one reason for so much of the chaotic thinking and reasoning we find everywhere today, that most of us can only see things from our own little point of view, which is often so prejudicial and narrow.

Now, to me Lionism offers a remedy for that condition in almost every community.

Lion Classification

In the first place the members are made up of only one or two from any business or profession and the only object for this is that by mingling in good fellowship with each other we may catch the other fellow's point of view, that our own vision will consequently become enlarged and that we will be happier, more intelligent and better citizens in every way. To help accomplish this effect, and the International Organization urges it, that every man in the club should be given an opportunity and urged to talk, for a few minutes at least on his specialty.

Vocational talk would make each member a little more interesting to us, would inform us regarding the little world in which he thinks and lives and would show us often where we could be of help to him.

For the second object of Lionism is that we may be of help to each other —Co-operation. And from helping each other that the spirit may spread abroad in the Community in the country, in the world.

Best Book of Decade

Maeterlink's "Life of The Bee" is said to be the best book of the decade and this illustrates that the bee is nothing separated from the hive. Similarly man alone, separated from his kind, has no intelligence. Separated from the mass, our reason reels and our mind totters. The badge of sanity is the ability to co-operate and co-operation means getting along with the other fellow instead of scrapping with him. When you give him a lift don't do it with a No. 9 boot.

The Golden Rule

Perhaps the finest thing in Lionism is this effort to utilize and teach and preach the greatest moral law of the Universe—the application of the Golden Rule.

Every thinking man knows that we are living under great moral, spiritual and physical laws whose workings are just as sure and certain as the rise and setting of the sun.

We hear men talking about breaking the ten commandments. No man can break the laws embodied in the ten commandments. If he runs counter to them they will soon break him.

A man might just as well talk of breaking the laws of gravity. I might stand on the chandelier up there and say "I'm not afraid of the laws of gravity and suiting the action to the thought jump off into space. For one brief moment I may "kid" myself with feeling that I am free from such a law but I will soon be disillusioned.

Once Upon A Time

Two things happened in the year 500. One of them was that three little German tribes sailed down around the coast of the Baltic, where they lived, and the Angles, the Saxons and the Jutes, with their wives and children with them, their horses and their cattle and they landed off the coast of Brittany. They made peace with the brawny Britons, they sowed and reaped.

In the year 1066 William the Conqueror came and conquered England. He married an English wife—co-operation. Now, as Webster says: "The drum tops of the British union circle the globe and greet the rising sun." We are one people.

Proud Babylon Perished

Rome went down and Greece is gone; Assyria and Babylon are in the dust; regal Egypt is merely a dream; but these ancient tribes lived on! We are still one people, a great commonwealth of nations, living together in harmony and co-operation.

What Doth It Profit—

When Charles the Great died he was buried at Aix la Chappel. Many years later when Auto III. came to the throne he ordered the tomb of Charles the Great opened. When it was opened it was found in a sitting position; tradition says, in a marble chair arrayed in his full Imperial robes; with an ancient copy of the scriptures open on his lap and with his finger pointing to this passage:

> "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul."

Caveat Emptor

For a thousand years we have been living under the caption, as Mr. Bergling told us the other day of "Caveat Emptor"—Let the buyer beware. But now we are getting away from that; now we are getting the idea that service must always be rendered; that the buyer must be satisfied and profit as well as ourselves; that he who would be greatest among us now, must be the greatest servant. Some day we are actually going to try the Golden Rule in business. Will it pay? Ask someone who has had nerve enough to try it. Ask Wannamaker, ask Henry Ford. Some day we are going to do business with our souls in it, and then we will have discovered a great secret of happiness—success with real satisfaction behind it.

Catch The Vision

We are gathered together as Lions that we may study these fundamental principles, these great laws of the Universe, from different points of view, and that we may be helped to catch the vision and the truth and the beauty of working in harmony with them and so make our lives happier and better and more efficient in every way.

Transportation and Your Safety

CAR SHORTAGES have already developed at many of the coal mines of the United States. Without cars to load, the mines cannot produce; without production of coal, the welfare of the public cannot be conserved.

So far the shortages have not been serious in proportions, but with cold weather arriving, it can be expected that they will increase and may materially hinder the movement of coal.

Safety to your family can be secured by immediately stocking your coal. Coal prices will not decrease, and they may advance, if a transportation emergency arises.

JAPANESE WANT MORE TONNAGE

Baron Kato Will Ask for Modification of U. S. Proposals.

ISSUES A STATEMENT

Right to Maintain Type of Defensive Vessel Also Sought.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Admiral Baron Kato, head of the Japanese delegation to the armament conference announced that Japan would ask modification of the United States naval limitation program, which would permit Japan to maintain a "general tonnage slightly greater than sixty per cent." of that of each of the other two powers.

Japan would also ask, Baron Kato said, for the right to maintain "a type of vessel of strictly defensive character," with tonnage approximating that maintained by the other two powers.

A statement giving Japan reasons in detail was issued to the delegates.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ELECTION

The annual nominations for the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce is now being held. The nominations will close Monday, Nov. 21st at 4 p.m. Blank nomination ballots have been sent out from the Manager's office and are now in the hands of the members.

There are in all nine directors of the Chamber of Commerce, of these, four were elected a year ago for a two-year period. The other five were elected at the time the Chamber of Commerce was organized in 1919 and were to retain office for two years. These five will retire on Dec. 1st. The five directors to retire this year are Messrs. Jamieson Bone, H. W. Ackerman, O. H. Scott, J. G. Moffatt and Mackenzie Robertson. All five will be eligible for renomination and re-election.

Four directors, Messrs. W. B. Deacon, H. F. Ketcheson, C. M. Reid and D. V. Sinclair were elected last year for a two-year term and will therefore remain in office another year. These, of course, are not now eligible for nomination or election.

Messrs. I. L. Moore, A. Y. Snider and S. Licence are expected to act as a committee on election.

The system of elections carried out by the Chamber of Commerce is the most democratic imaginable. First, the members, by secret ballot, send in nominations, five on each ballot paper for the office of director. The election committee goes over and counts the ballots and the ten who receive the highest number of votes are taken as nominees. The ten names are then sent out on the second or final ballot and the members vote for five of the ten names submitted. The five receiving the highest number of votes are declared elected.

The selection is thus absolutely secret and makes every member eligible for nomination to the directorate. The election will be held one week later. The polls will close for final returns on Monday, Nov. 28th, at 4 p.m. Ballots may be sent by mail or taken personally to the Chamber of Commerce at any time during office hours prior to the dates mentioned.

The Chamber of Commerce year closes on Nov. 30th. According to the Constitution the Annual Meeting should be held on the first Monday in December. As this is the day immediately preceding the Dominion election the Directors thought it wise to postpone the Annual Meeting unil Monday evening, Dec. 12th.

At this meeting the annual financial statement will be presented to the members and a review of the work accomplished this past year will be given by the President and the Manager.

BRUTE AT LARGE

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 18.—The police are scouring this district for a man who is said to have taken two little girls into the bush and criminally assaulted them, and when later confronted by Raymond Lawson of St. David's, a brother of one of the girls, shot him in the groin. Lawson is now in the St. Catharines hospital.

..COMMON DOG CENTRE OF $1,000 LAWSUIT

Brockville, Ont., Nov. 18—The ownership of a cocker spaniel dog was in dispute throughout the day at a sitting before Judge Dowsley, and excited more than ordinary interest, from the fact that over 150 witnesses were subpoenaed to give evidence.

The parties to the action are two farmers from the Township of Elizabethtown, named Debruge and Davis. The animal had no pedigree, and its value would hardly compare with the costs of the court, which are expected to exceed $1,000.

MUST NOW FACE MURDER CHARGE

Injuries by Escaping Desperadoes Cause the Death of Guelph Jailer.

Guelph, Ont., Nov. 17.—As the result of the injuries he received on the afternoon of Thanksgiving Day at the hands of the desperados who attempted to escape from the county jail while waiting to be removed to the Kingston Penitentiary, Governor John McNab died at St. Joseph's late this afternoon. He was severely bruised about the head and body, and while he was able to be around for a few days, he took to his bed immediately after he had given his evidence against the men at the police court. On Monday morning he was removed to the hospital, where he continued to grow weaker until he passed away.

Two of the men, Samuel McArdle and Joseph Hobson, are at present serving a ten-year term at Kingston. The third member of the trio, John Bedard, however, made good his escape.

Both McArdle and Hobson will be brought back to Guelph and tried on a charge of murder.

John McNab was born in Waterloo County, 63 years ago to-day. When a young man he took up farming in the Township of West Luther, Wellington County, and at once became interested in municipal matters, serving on the Township Council for several years, and in 1890 was elected reeve, which position he held until 1897, when he was elected warden of the county. It was while he was worden that he received the appointment as governor of the county jail. He leaves a widow and five children, Michael, of Belleville; John, of New York; Mrs. Frank Clancey, of Chepstone; Mrs. A. J. Kempt, of Timmins, and Miss Julia, at home.

TRENTON LADIES WELL ORGANIZED

Wednesday evening the Trenton Town Hall was filled to capacity by the ladies of the town to organize for the approaching Federal election. Councillor Roenigk called the meeting to order and requested Mrs. Grieves, vice-president, Greater West Hastings, Belleville, Miss Briodigan Toronto; Mr. W. H. Ireland, M. L. A. and Messrs. Jarrett, of The Sun and Statia, of The Advocate newspapers to be seated on the platform along with the candidate E. Guss Porter, M.P. Mrs. Grieves was chosen chairman of the meeting and after a short, but timely address on the issues before the ladies in the election called upon the organizer, Miss Brodigan for some remarks. This lady was conversant with great policy of the Conservative Party and gave an address full of excellent advice to her hearers. She was followed by Mr. Porter, who outlined the policies of the many Parties before the people, comparing the platforms of each with that of the Great National Liberal Conservative Party whose great aim and object was the betterment of Canada and her people. Protection was the main and decided plank. Protection for the farmer, the laborer and the manufacturer. His remarks were listened to with much interest. Mr. Ireland also made a short but timely address, speaking of the great good accomplished by the Conservative-Union Government during the war and the re-construction period. GOVERNMENT LINE WILL HANDLE LIQUOR EXPORT TRADE

Montreal, Nov. 18.—In connection with the embrago on export of alcoholic liquor in bond went into force last Tuesday, Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Minister of Marine, stated here today that the Government Merchant Marine was arranging to place two boats on the service to the West Indies and Mexico which could handle this traffic, the rates on which would be placed at a figure to compete with the lines from New York. Mr. Ballantyne said that the ships would use Montreal in the Summer and Halifax and St. John in the Winter. Further information as to the cause of the embrago came to light here to-day to the effect that much of the exportation in bond traffic was directed to bogus addresses in Mexico and elsewhere, and that the cars containing wet goods were subsequently broken open in the United States, the liquor being spirited away in motor cars. No complaints were ever received as to loss incurred in this way. A hurry up telephone call was received today from the United States customs officer at Rouse's Point that large shipments of beer consigned by Montreal breweies were being raided by thirsty United States citizens, and that if the cars were not recalled at once, there would be little left.

TRADE BOARDS IN SESSION

Ontario Associated Boards of Trade in Annual Meeting

AT BRANTFORD

Eloquent and Optimistic Address by President John Elliott, of Belleville.

A cheery, optimistic note was sounded by Mr. John Elliott, President of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, at the annual convention which opened in Brantford, on Thursday in the annual address. Last year the convention was held in Belleville and was one of the most successful ever held in point of attendance, interest and work accomplished. Mr. John Elliott, who had previously occupied the position of Vice-President was elected President at the Belleville Convention, and during the year has ably filled that position. In making his annual address to the delegates assembled at Brantford, President Elliott referred to the resolutions passed at the Belleville meeting and the disposition of them, also to the proposed trip of the members of the Associated Boards to the West Indies in 1922. Other matters referred to in the President's report were permanent chairmanship of the Canadian National Railways, cattle embargo, shipment of chilled beef, deaths of Sir William Gage and G. F. McKim, executive meetings, president's visit to Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island and opening up of trade negotiations, also visit of president to Temiskaming and Northern Associated Boards of Trade meeting at Haileybury.

President Elliott also did not forget to mention the glories of old Belleville cheese which is now known and highly respected wherever Boards of Trade or Chambers of Commerce meet under the British flag.

Speaking of present conditions in Canada, President Elliott said:

Transition Period

Canada just now is passing through a period of re-adjustment. The volume of trade is not as large as it has been in recent years. There is a falling off in the deposits in our Canadian Banks as shown by the statement Sept. 30, 1921, of over $200,000,000, when compared with September 30 1920. Our National Debt has increased by over $2,000,000,000, since 1914 and now is about $2,400,000,000, but the increase is all accounted for by our financial contribution towards the defeat of the German Emperor, and others who were associated with him.

Not only were we willing to increase our National debt during the great war, but Canada sent men, her bravest and best, to the number of 500,000 in defence of the Empire. While we mourn the loss of many of our boys, and regret the increase in our National debt, if necessary, each one of us would be willing to double the debt for the same cause, for what would Canada be under German rule? With the natural resources which abound in this Dominion, developed with care and economy, we will soon wipe out the debt. I believe our liabilities have reached their maximum, and hereafter will show a substantial annual reduction. My reason for venturing this opinion is, that in September, 1920, there was an increase of $22,000,000 in the National debt, while in the corresponding month of 1921, there was a reduction of $12,000,000 consequently September, 1921 showed an improvement of $34,000,000 as compared with September, 1920.

I mention a decrease of $200,000,000 in the deposits in our chartered banks as compared with September 30, 1920, but a comparison with 1914 shows an approximate increase of $1,000,000,000, and in addition to that, $1,900,000,000 has been invested by our people in Dominion of Canada War Loan Bonds, which further represent the savings of our people. In view of these figures, we have no cause for pessimism, but on the contrary, we should be deeply grateful for the condition Canada is in, compared with the other nations of the world.

STOPPED WORK ON WARSHIPS

London, Nov. 18.—The Admiralty announced today that it had ordered the cessation of all work on four warships of the Super-Hood type. The shipbuilders were notified not to incur further liabilities on new naval construction until further notified.

MAN ENABLED TO SOAR BY MEANS OF OXYGEN

Paris, Nov. 18.—Flight to rarified altitudes, and even to the moon, is now possible for human beings without being equipped with special breathing tanks, through a discovery by Dr. Bayeux, which has been communicated to the Pasteur Institute. An injection of oxygen replaces the artificial respiratory tanks hitherto in use. Dr. Bayeux has proved the feasibility of his discovery by its use in the Alps, where he ascended 18,000 feet without the slightest difficulty.

PRINCE BUSY IN INDIA

Civic and Social Functions and Hunting Big Game.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales will have a strenuous time during his four months' stay in India, beginning with Bombay, where the battle cruiser Renown, on which he sailed from England on October 27, arrived yesterday morning. He was greeted by Lord Reading, the Viceroy, and the ruling Princes on the staff of his Royal Highness. The initial ceremony upon his landing at the Gateway of India, on the Bunder, which was built to commemorate the durbar visit of the King and Queen, was the presentation of an address by the Bombay municipality. A State drive through the city to Government House at Malabar Point was followed in the evening by a reception, preceded by a quiet dinner. To-morrow morning the Prince will hold a durbar of the ruling Princes. A dinner and ball at Government House at night will conclude the Prince's initial visit in Bombay, and shortly after midnight he will leave for Poona.

WILL UNVEIL MEMORIAL

After a public welcome to the Prince in Poona his Royal Highness will unveil the Mahratta War Memorial. He will attend the races in the afternoon and will then return to Bombay. Among his engagements in Bombay will be his attendance at the quadrangular cricket match (so called from the competition of European, Parsee, Mohammedan and Hindu elevens), and the sports tournament at the great Bombay Maidan. In addition to attending numerous functions in Bombay the Prince will extend his tour to Jullunder where he will come into touch with the war veterans, who are largely concentrated in the Punjab. It is expected that his Royal Highness will lay the foundation stones of schools for soldiers' children erected in connection with the Kitchener Memorial Fund. A similar ceremony may form part of the program at Delhi.

WILL HUNT BIG GAME

The Prince will leave Bombay on the night of November 22 for Baroda which last received a visit from the then Prince of Wales in 1875. After some formal engagements in Baroda the Prince will go into the country and have some black-buck shooting. He will then proceed to Udaipur, whose venerable Maharaja is considered the leading ruler in Rajputana on account of both of his legendary descent from the semi-divine Rama and the great traditions of chivalry associated with the ruling house. Through all the generations of Mogul domination it was the only ruling Rajput family which gave no daughter in marriage to any member of the Mohammedan Imperial dynasty.

STEEL FOR PEACE.

New York, Nov. 18.—Addressing the American Iron and Steel Institute today, Elbert H. Gary, of the United States Steel Corporation, urged the negotiation of a treaty which would prevent future wars, in conjunction with an agreement to limit navies. He belittled the suggestion that armament limitation would reduce the manufacture of steel, saying that it was unworthy of passing notice. Business was improving, but there must be further adjustments.

LOST HAND IN SHREDDER

Chatham, Ont., Nov. 18.—Ray McIntyre, a young farmer, residing near Highgate, suffered a painful accident, which necessitated the amputation of his right hand. McIntyre endeavored to take some stalks out of a corn shredder, when the machinery was in motion.

MANY FARMERS HEAR MEIGHEN

Rural Centres of Brandon and Boissevein Impressed By His Arguments.

GROUP GOVERNMENT

Premier Indicates Its Danger in Producing Administrative Weakness.

BRANDON, Man., Nov. 17.—Premier Meighen spoke today in the constituencies of Souris and Brandon, both of which are largely rural in character and in both of which the Grain Growers' organizations are highly developed and the Agrarian propaganda has been industriously carried on. Yet he was obliged to address two meetings in Boissevain and two more in Brandon in order that those who desired to hear his expression of his policies might do so.

In Boissevain, he confronted an audience which included perhaps more persons who derive their livelihood from agriculture than electors of any other class. Many of these people had driven into Boissevain from the surrounding country for miles around in order to be present at the meetings.

Mr. Meighen was cordially received and warmly applauded.

In Brandon he addressed an audience in which residents of that city predominated.

In both places the Prime Minister developed his views on the tariff and his argument in support of the retention of the protective principle.

To all appearances that argument impressed his hearers.

His proposal to establish a Grain Board throughout Canada would have the option of disposing of their grain very evidently appealed to the Souris electors assembled at Boissevain.

"I would like the support of the farmers for that proposal," Mr. Meighen declared. "If I do not, I won't have any support in advocating it There are no hats in the air and no cheers for it at the Grain Exchange." He declared that Hon. T. A. Crerar and his company, the United Grain Growers Limited were prominent in the Grain Exchange. "When they go to the courts for an injunction, Mr. Crerar leads the way," he said. And his allusion to the action taken to stop the grain enquiry evoked a laugh. Mr. Meighen was not heckled at any of his meetings today. At Boissevan, one elector, R. Franklin, put some questions and received his answers with a promptness which delighted the crowd.

LADIES ORGANIZE IN SIDNEY TOWNSHIP

Town Hall Filled With Lady Voters Favorable to the Meighen Government

Mr. Porter the Government Candidate held an organization meeting for the women electors at Sidney Town Hall, Sidney Township on Wednesday, which was largely attended, the hall being comfortably filled. The meeting was under the presidency of Mrs. G. A. Reid of Belleville, vice-President for greater West Hastings for Dominion purposes, and the able manner in which she conducted the proceedings shows that the electors at the Stirling convention made no mistake in electing her to that high office. Her work was not only efficient, but her manner of handling large assemblages was pleasing and encouraging. Miss Brodigan of Toronto presented the issues of the day, not only in a forcible but practicable manner. Mr. Porter's address was punctuated with applause, which was an evidence of their approval of his candidature. Mr. R. J. Graham also gave a practical address, whilst Mr. Clem H. Ketcheson and others spoke briefly.

After the speech making, organization was proceeded with and the following officers were appointed:

President—Mrs. Walter Grass.

Vice-President—Mrs. V. Finkle.

Secy-Treas.—Mrs. Hawley Wright.

Chairmen of polling sub-divisions—Avondale—Mrs. Percy Mott; Gilberts—Mrs. J. Sargeant; Harders—Miss Edna Reid; Town Hall—Mrs. Blake Ketcheson; Snyders—Mrs.; W. Reynolds Glen Ross—Mrs. George Meggison; Turner's—Mrs. Fred Campbell.

WET WIRES

Weather conditions today played hob with the telegraph wires and as a consequence late press despatches failed to come through in time for the current edition of The Intelligencer.

LADIES ORGANIZE FOR COMING CAMPAIGN

Enthusiastic Gathering in Oddfellows' Hall Hear Miss Brodigan.

A well attended meeting was held in the Oddfellows Hall on Front street on Thursday afternoon, beginning at 2.30 p.m. and closing at tea time, of the lady supporters of the Meighen Government and incidentally Mr. E. Guss Porter. The object of this meeting was to organize the ladies of the city in preparation for the approaching election which takes place on December 6th, 1921. Ladies were present from every ward in the city and they were most attentive and enthusiastic throughout the session.

Mrs. Reid, as vice-president of the Liberal-Conservative Party of South Hastings in Belleville, opened the meeting giving a very few words, but though few, her remarks were direct and explanatory. She introduced Miss Brodigan of Toronto who has been doing good work in explaining the platform of the Conservative party in the present campaign.

Miss Brodigan began by congratulating the ladies of this city by turning out in such large numbers. She talked straight to the ladies present, explaining the "tariff question" in a brief, but perfectly clear manner, saying this is a most critical issue. If we Canadians have no tariff we will have no homes as the abolishing of the tariff wall would mean the 700 American branch factories in Canada would close down and 700,000 workmen would be out of work, therefore their families would most certainly be homeless. Miss Brodigan concluded by saying she firmly believed the feminine citizens would follow the lead of those who fought and died that we might live and vote for the Meighen administration as there is not one thing in the history of this Government that one might point a finger at. Everything is absolutely clear and above board. "Mr. Crerar cannot get in," said Miss Brodigan. Great applause greeted this statement. The ladies by their applause showed their appreciation of Miss Brodigan's address.

Mr. Porter then came forward and started immediately on the business of the day. He touched on Mr. King's policy most aptly, saying he changed his suit politicially, every place visited and his policy varies equally. He was as changeable as the wind. Next he dealt with Mr. Crerar, who, he compared to the chameleon which every time you look at it it changes in color. Mr. Crerar was like it in that way, he changed so often. He admits his policy is free trade. He said there was no use in discussing it, the women are going to do all they can. Loud applause showed the approval of all present. He also said the ballot was not given the women of this country as a favor, but simply as their right and they should certainly use that privilege. He appealed for a thorough investigation by every lady before they decided on which way their ballot would be marked, but he was perfectly confident for whom the ballots would be marked (applause).

Mr. Porter then brought his speech to a close by remarking that he would have the opportunity of addressing them again at public meetings which will be held between now and the date of the election.

Mrs. G. A. Reid, lady vice-president of the Executive of Greater West Hastings, took charge of the meeting and discharged the duties of her office in a charming and most efficient manner.

Mr. Porter received a rousing reception and the ladies followed his eloquent and convincing arguments with the deepest interest and showed their approval by frequent outbursts of approval.

The organization proceeded as follows:

President—Mrs. J. A. McFee.
Vice-President—Mrs. Dr. Kinneer.
Secretary—Mrs W. H. Nugent.
Treasurer—Mrs. Arthur McFarlane.
Chairmen of Wards:
Foster—Mrs. Cousins; Mrs. [illegible]egan.
Samson—Mrs. Buckley; Mrs. F. Miller; Mrs. E. Williams.
Ketcheson—Mrs. A. Kerr; Mrs Carry; Mrs. Adams.
Baldwin—Mrs. J. Barlow; Miss E. Ferm; Miss K. Fisher.
Bleecker—Miss P. Doctor; Mrs. Wm Taylor; Mrs. H. McGinnis.
Coleman—Mrs. E. Holt; Mrs. A. Hinds; Mrs. C. Kennedy; Mrs. Amy Gulliver.
Murney—Miss M. B. Falkiner; Mrs E. Drewry; Mrs. B. Backus; Mrs. R. Ketcheson; Mrs Harry Thompson; Mrs. J. Hurst.

The meeting broke up with cheers for the Premier the Candidate and the singing of God Save Our King.

"BELL" DANCE

The Bell Telephone of this city held their annual dance on Thursday evening at Bennett's Dancing Academy. A large crowd of telephone operators and line men from various stations were present. The Ben Hokea Novelty Sextette of Toronto provided the music for the dancing and entertained the crowd during lunch hour. Telephones on the platform rang at intervals. The music was excellent although Mr. Ben Hokea was not present himself. The dance broke up at the usual hour which was 3 o'clock.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 1248, or write The Intelligencer.

Brain Food

X.T.—As the government is conducting an educational campaign on policies and politicians it is only fitting that gray matter be encouraged by a fish diet, hence the sale of fresh fish at the government hatcheries.

A Live Wire

S.T.D.—Passing the City Hall I saw a little sparrow alight upon an overhead wire and immediately fall to the ground dead. This dead sparrow suggests a live wire and no doubt the menace has been removed ere this.

Some Slush

I.X.L.—Now that our snow fall is rapidly vanishing with the warmer weather people ought to see the advantage of cleaning their sidewalks. I see some sidewalks all covered with a layer of snow which is both a nuisance and dangerous. If people don't take more precaution some one is going to get a broken neck or an attack of pneumonia.

Moved Policeman

W.G.—I see some smart aleck took the dummy policeman from the corner of Front and Victoria Avenue and set it on the sidewalk. The "no parking sign" was placed in the dummy policeman's place in the road. It did not make much difference as they are both the same shape and color, but nevertheless it's an offence.

Knock H. C. A.

T.P.—I see that the people have been getting fish while the getting was good at the government hatcheries. This is the second time the government has given people of this city and vicinity an opportunity to secure fish at a few cents a pound while the hatchery was being stocked with spawn. Many secured large quantities of the fish and salted it down for the winter which will make an agreeable variant to their menu and a big saving in food bills. Thousand of fish were disposed of absolutely fresh at about five cents per pound. The Meighen government deserves credit for being practical and thoughtful, and it cannot be called an election dodge for the government did the same thing three falls ago when many people were out of work.

WHERE DID MONEY GO?

E.R.—What I haven't seen yet is an explanation of that immense civic overdraft at the bank, December 31 1920, of nearly three thousand dollars. The previous overdraft December 31 1920 was seventy thousand dollars. Banks charge interest on overdrafts of course. Let's have some light on the subject, financial statements are no good without the translation and the council of 1920 sure did make the money fly. Surely the people are entitled to know what they got for it.

GREAT CAST AND LAVISH SETTINGS IN "EVERYWOMAN"

The news that Walter Browne's famous morality play, "Everywoman", had been made into a motion picture was no surprise to those acquainted with this dramatic masterpiece. Its striking story and manifold opportunities for spectacular scenic effects make make it admirable screen material. The basis for a magnificent cinema spectacle was there. It remained for the directing skill of George H. Melford, the acting ability of an unusually excellent cast, "Everywoman" into the beautiful photoplay that is being shown at Griffin's this week-end.

Here is a dramatic production that is manifestly even better suited to the screen than it is to the stage. It requires an expansiveness that the cramped quarters of the largest stage will not admit. Quite probably the screen version of "Everywoman" has realized more perfectly the author's conception of his story than have all the productions of the play since its famous premier in New York in 1911.

The title role is portrayed in masterly style by beautiful Violet Heming, the young actress who made such favorable in "Three Faces East" and "Under Cover". Miss Heming lends the dignity and universatility to her interpretation of "Everywoman" that the allegorical character of the story demands. The remainder of the cast is as far above the usual in merit, including as it does such names as Theodore Roberts, Wanda Hawley, Monter Blue, Bebe Daniels, Charles Ogle, Raymond Hatton and Tully Marshall. Scenes of lavish splendor form the setting for the story. The revels in the magnificent palace of wealth, where scores of beautiful women disport at a monster banquet board, one part of which encircles a swimming pool and the other a dance hall, and the episodes in the great gaming hall are among the most elaborate ever screened.

NOT ANY MAN

The contemplated trip of Jack McAuliffe to Ireland to find a man who will whip Dempsey reminds one of the story they used to tell about the father of John L. Sullivan.

The day after John defeated Paddy Ryan and became the world's champion an old friend met Sullivan Sr., on the street in Boston and began congratulating him.

"Just think, Mr. Sullivan," he said, "your son, John, is the champion. He can whip any man in the world."

John's father shook his head. "No," he said, "there are lots of men in Ireland who can whip him."

U.F.O. GOVERNMENT BUYS KENT FARM

Ridgetown, Nov. 17.—The Ontario government has bought the 190 acre farm of A. D. Brien, noted livestock breeder, at a figure understood to be $40,000 and will proceed at once to convert it into an experimental farm for the development of the various specialized crops for which the section of Ontario is becoming noted. The purchase, details of which were made public this morning for the first time marks the fruition of plans which have been under consideration for some time. In the opinion of agriculturists the establishment of the experimental farm will mean one of the biggest steps toward history of Ontario farming.

"The deal only went through last night," said Hon. Manning Doherty, minister of agriculture, today, "and it means a big thing for Ontario agriculture. It has always been recognized that there was necessity for an experimental farm in that section of the province because of the particular climate and soil and because of the special crops which cannot be grown at Guelph at all.

"The price paid for the Brien farm, which we believe is the best for the purpose, was $205 an acre. It was selected by a committee composed of the presidents of the bean growers, the tobacco growers, the sugar beet growers and the corn growers' associations, the organizations most vitally concerned in the venture, because it will be those special crops on which the farm will concentrate.

"These men, along with Lionel Stevenson, secretary of the department, made the final selection of the farm. There are five different kinds of soil on the place. It is close to the railways, close to the provincial highway and close to the town of Ridgetown.

"Immediate improvement," continued the minister, "will be made, although we do not get possession until the first of March. An administration building and offices for the staff will be built at once and work will be commenced on a tobacco curing plant."

The staff, said Mr. Doherty, would not be installed until March. The men in charge will be "the very best it is possible to obtain." But Mr. Doherty would not give the names of any of the experts likely to be placed in charge.

The cost of the improvements to be made in the Brien farm will be in the neighborhood of $50,000, it is believed.

Mr. Brien, who is one of the best known live stock breeders in the province, states that he will accept the presidency of the Eastern Ontario Live Stock Association and will take charge of their work as soon as possible.

MRS. MARY WILHELM,
Pittsburg, Pa.

"I never dreamed it possible for a medicine to restore me to the splendid health I now enjoy. In fact, I had almost resigned myself to being an invalid, as I could see I was losing weight and strength every day, and no relief was in sight. For three years stomach trouble, headaches and nervousness made my life miserable.

"The first bottle of Tanlac acted almost like magic and it wasn't long until I was so well and strong that I could hardly realize I had ever known a sick day. I am like a different person in every way now, eating, sleeping, feeling and looking better than in years."

TEN THOUSAND PROTEST

Belfast, Nov. 11.—Ten thousand loyalists in three meetings emphatically protested against the British Cabinet's treatment of Ulster. Great enthusiasm was displayed. The Lord Mayor of Belfast, presiding over the principal meeting in the Assembly Hall, declared that Ulster never would be the vassal of a Sinn Fein Parliament. Resolutions to this effect were adopted unanimously. These included a resolution confidently relying upon the Liverpool conference to repudiate the idea of placing Ulster under the Dominion of an all-Ireland Parliament. The mention of Lloyd George's name was greeted with groans.

A resolution was also adopted endorsing the action of Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, and his colleagues in the peace negotiations.

RUTH WINS SKIRMISH, SAYS BILLY EVANS

"Babe Ruth does not confine his home-run hitting to mere baseball. The Sultan of Swat packs a punch in other activities.

"I have in mind Ruth's recent skirmish with "His Honor," Judge Landis, doing the pitching. Technically "Babe" lost the decision to the judge. However, he scored a moral victory for a principal, that is sure to work disadvantageously. The rule is that participants as individuals or as a team in exhibition games cannot play during the year in which the world championship was decided.

If you were a great ball player like Babe Ruth, possessing unusual ability as a batsman, that rule wouldn't make much of a hit with you. In the above clause you have the reason for the recent difference of opinion between Judge Landis on the side of the magnates and "Babe" Ruth for the ball player.

OFFERED $40,000

Ruth received about $3,200 for his losing share of the world series. If the Yankees had failed to win the American League pennant Ruth would have received $40,000 for playing 25 exhibition games at the close of the American League season. There was nothing of the gamble about the proposition, the money was to be placed to Ruth's credit in a bank before the start of the tour.

When the Yankees won the right to play in the series, the offer still held good as far as the promoters were concerned, but the rules of baseball said nothing doing.

Babe Ruth is unquestionably the biggest man in baseball, from the playing standpoint. He resented the manifestly unfair rule. Anyone with a bit of common sense would have taken the same attitude, with a $37,000 loss staring him in the face. He decided to test the clause forbidding to the advantage of the ball player.

At the close of the world series Judge Landis, doing the hurling for the magnates, served the following assortment of mixed English for the "Babe's" consideration.

"Both teams that contest in the world series are required to disband immediately after its close, and the members thereof are forbidden to barn-storm.

YANKS OFFER BONUS

The New York Club realizing Ruth's enormous value to the club and the American League, offered him a bonus of $25,000. I understand, to cancel the tour. There was a principle at issue with Ruth and he turned down the offer. Ruth had no grievance against Judge Landis for his refusal to sanction the trip, but he seriously objected to the rule which the judge was compelled to enforce.

Ruth called off his exhibition tour after playing only four of the scheduled games. At first it might appear that Babe was "keyoed" by the judge. As a matter of fact Ruth accomplished the very thing he set out to do. He secured world-wide publicity of a manifestly unfair rule. I am positive Judge Landis entertains that opinion. It is almost certain the rule will be changed. However, it would probably have continued to exist had not Ruth had the courage of his convictions.

The rule was inspired in 1910 because of the sorry showing made by the Philadelphia Athletics in Cuba After having won the world championship with what was admitted to be one of the greatest teams in the history of the game, the Athletics were beaten in six out of ten games by the Cubans. The Athletics did not go to Cuba until seven weeks after the close of the season and were in poor physical condition. I was umpiring in Cuba at the time. It was a decided reflection on the world series to have the winners trimmed in such a decisive manner. That trip caused the legislation against barn-storming.

It is apparent why the magnates do not desire a world champion team to barn-storm They are absolutely right. However, to say that the individual cannot play is hardly fair. The test case made by Ruth is sure to bear fruit.

MADE HIS DEBUT

Young Bob Fitzsimmons, the son of Old Ruby made his debut in the professional prize ring a few nights ago, but he was not the son of dad in his ability as shown in the ring. He is said to be painfully lacking in hitting power. Old Bob's great asset, and to be without any knowledge of ring generalship. He has no force behind fist, and his exhibition was more one of shadow boxing than dangerous punching. Bob used to hit with every ounce of body weigh behind the punch. Young Ruby also appeared, so 'tis said, to be rather afraid of the return blow.

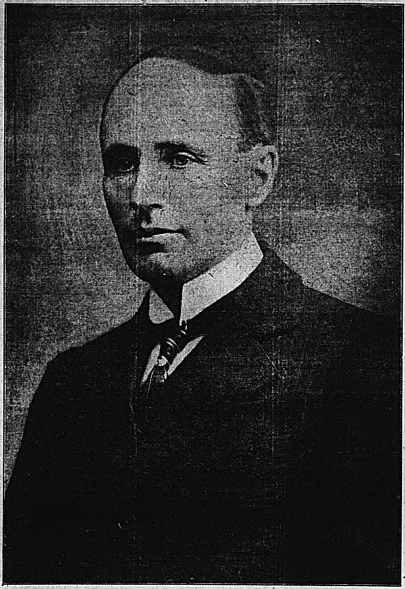
THE SAFE PILOT



THE CALL OF BATTLE

The battle is on.

It will not be fought with muskets, swords or cannon, but by the votes of men and women.

Every man and woman who has a vote is enlisted under one banner or the other.

Protection or free trade—that is the issue. There is no neutral ground.

King, Crerar & Co. are out to smash the protective policy of this country, or be smashed in turn.

Men and women voters—which banner are you travelling under?

Protection or free trade—that is the issue.

Anything else is subterfuge, and all the quibbling, evasion and lurid rhetoric of King, Crerar & Co. cannot deceive sensible thinking men and women.

The next Cabinet must not be a partnership of tariff tinkerers.

Thirty days free trial of the tariff tinkering-free trade fallacies of King, Crerar & Co. would stop the wheels of every factory, and close the doors of every warehouse in Canada.

The battle is on.

Men and women voters, under which banner are you enlisted?

The question to be settled is whether this nation is to maintain its place in the sun of commerce and industry, or its people to become hewers of wood and drawers of water for our neighbors to the south.

Every voter must realize the vitally important part that he or she is destined to play in this election.

He or she is the Samson that can pull down the whole structure of commerce and industry.

The National Policy is the life-blood of every artery of trade. Destroy it and it means dead business, factories closed down, wages gone, positions lost and Canada a slaughter market for the surplus products of the United States.

The battle is on.

Men and women voters, under which banner are you enlisted?

A VOTE FOR E. GUSS PORTER IS A VOTE FOR RT. HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN.

O'Connor, former vice-chairman of the Board of Commerce, declared here last night in replying to charges made by James Murdock, Liberal candidate in South Toronto, and former member of the Board, that the Government had attempted to guide the course of that body. Mr. O'Connor was speaking in support of John H. Findlay, Government candidate for Renfrew South.

ARE YOU GUNNING FOR SOMEBODY ?

Let's take stock of ourselves and see if we have any kinks which need straightening out. Are we careful to speak well of everybody, or do we speak slightingly of others when we could just as well have given them a boost? Let's be builders, and even if the other fellow despitefully uses us, take the higher level, and speak well of him if we can or not at all. Some people are always gunning for somebody, and that somebody probably knows all about it and does a little gunning on his own, but the spirit is wrong and has no place in that broad charity which we should all try to cultivate. If we can like a chap despite his faults and respect a man notwithstanding his mistakes, and do unto others as we would that others would do unto us, we are headed on the right road.

DEEDS AND DOLLARS.

Community service can be measured partly in deeds and dollars, and an incident of the recent drive in Toronto for nearly half a million dollars for the associated charities and welfare organizations is worth recording as coming under the heading of deeds and dollars. The Toronto Rotary Club, in common with other service societies, had been doing one hundred per cent. work in the drive, and at the final roll call the announcement was made that the grand total still lacked a large sum of money. Three hundred Rotarians were present and the suggestion was made that these three hundred workers who had already given to the extreme limit of their time and money, should squeeze another ten dollars each for the cause out of their own pockets. It went with a shout, and in two minutes three thousand dollars swelled the fund. Deeds and dollars and enthusiasm are needed in community service everywhere.

IF FARMER LOSES HIS HOME MARKET, HE WILL NOT NEED ANY IMPLEMENTS

The emergency tariff of the United States is operating disastrously to our export trade in farm products to that country. During the four months, June to September, inclusive, of this year our exports to the United States amounted to only $12,770,040, as compared with $31,284,208 in the same period last year.

During the year ended March 31st, 1921, the total of our exports of farm products affected by the emergency tariff to the United States was $168,000,000.

At the rate of decline in these exports shown for the four months of this year, our total exports for the year will be in the neighborhood of $40,000,000, as compared with $168,000,000 for last year.

Isn't it as plain as the nose on one's face that the Canadian farmer is laboring under a severe handicap? Isn't it obvious that he must find a market for the products he has heretofore sent to the United States? Isn't it as clear as day that now more than ever before he is dependent on the home market? Why, then, do the Farmer leaders preach trade doctrines which are really dangerous to the stability of that home market? Free trade or substantial lowering of our tariff would surely result in larger imports from the United States and other countries, and the greater the imports the less employment there would be for Canadian workmen, and consequently a lessened home market for the Canadian farmer. For the life of us we cannot see any sense in the Liberal and Farmer trade platforms. The great want of Canada is more employment of all kinds, and that is the problem we should all address ourselves to. The more employment there is at home the more market there will be for Canadian farm produce. Just as surely as that two and two make four, the Liberal or Farmer platforms, if put into operation, would diminish employment in Canada, and thereby shrivel up the home market for the Canadian farmer. Think it over.

Mr. Mackenzie King has failed to stand by the tariff platform he helped to make and has failed to repudiate it. He failed to get the farmers to join him; he failed to get Burnaby to resign in his fight against conscription; he failed in his attempt to blacken the Government's reputation over the shells he discovered at Levis; he failed to keep his Quebec supporters in line on the tariff pronouncement of the party; he failed to bring wise old man Pugsley into the fight in New Brunswick; he has failed in all his attempts to weaken the strength of the Prime Minister's arguments. Some failure is the boy leader!—Ex.

We are sorry for many of our contemporaries. With a general election raging around them, they are still devoting their editorial columns to bank clearings, the latest fashions and the weather. To be sure, some of them bravely tackle the Irish question, but they are singularly silent on the tariff and other Canadian problems. They have articles appraising the British and French delegates to the disarmament conference at Washington, but have no opinion to offer as to which of the leaders of the three political parties is best qualified to head the Government at Ottawa. What a lot of fun they miss. Seriously, how can the press of Canada expect to retain influence and respect if the newspapers are going to adopt this Laodicean attitude? These papers boldly avow that their columns are open to whatever party will pay for putting their platform before the electors. But as for themselves, they have no opinions—at least none with any teeth in them. This policy of commercializing the newspapers may be the most profitable, but if it becomes general it will rob the press of all claim to leadership. The public will not long pay much attention to the wishy-washy platitudes of leaders who are afraid to lead.—Orillia Packet.

The Calgary Herald supports Premier Meighen wholeheartedly and unreservedly, not only because of his personal qualifications for the high office of Prime Minister, but because of the national Policy which he represents. The policy, in any case, is of more importance than any individual, but at the present time there is a great necessity in Canada of having both the right man and the right policy. Premier Meighen represents the only sound fiscal policy for Canada. The free trade of the economic theorist is impractical for a country situated as Canada is. Canada should aim at becoming as independent and self-sustaining as possible in every direction, in manufactured as well as in agricultural products. The tariff policy of Premier Meighen will assure Canada the all-round development which it is this country's ambition to attain.

Down Kingston way things political are beginning to warm up since the Liberal Whig decided to don election war-paint once again. The Whig call the Tory Standard "The Old Woman of Princess Street," and says the Standard is a very excitable and garrulous old dame, and what the Standard calls the Grit Whig is hot stuff. Altogether, it looks as if a nice time was about to be had by everybody with the odds strongly in favor of Brigadier General Ross bringing home the bacon.

At one of Belleville's public schools one day this week a bunch of girls were discussing the relative merits of children's stories in the newspapers entering their homes. This bunch of girls were unanimously of the opinion that "Tinker Bob" in The Intelligencer was the best by long odds of any series yet published. "Tinker Bob's" friends are legion, and every day in The Intelligencer is a new story of this little King of the Forest, and the Forest Folk have new and surprising adventures to unfold for the edification of the young and the delight of their elders, for Pop and Mom are also reading Tinker Bob every day. Get the Tinker Bob habit; it is good for what ails you.

Vancouver Province

We know in this province what kind of a task it is to impose new or additional taxes for provincial or municipal purposes. For several successive years taxation problems have been before the people and their representatives. The question of providing the necessary revenue remains unsettled

This gives us some idea what will happen if a federal government and Parliament should sweep away the greater part, or any considerable portion of the revenue derived from customs. Those who destroy tariff revenue decree more and higher direct taxes. The Dominion already levies heavy burdens in the way of income taxes and other direct imposts. Only the obligations resulting from the war could justify such taxes on the earnings of the people.

An addition of a hundred millions a year to these war taxes would involve a taxation of earnings now exempt. It would increase the levy now paid on moderate incomes. We should expect a federal tax on personal property or real estate or both. It would become necessary for the Dominion to invade the sources of revenue now left free for the provinces and municipalities.

Some tariff speakers leave the impression that in the matter of customs taxes there is only the question whether the people shall pay these duties, or be free from them, whereas the question is whether they shall pay these customs duties or additional direct taxes.

The Poets' Corner

NOD

Softly along the road of evening,
  In a twilight dim with rose
Wrinkled with age and drenched with dew,
  Old Nod, the shepherd goes.

His drowsy flock streams on before him,
  Their fleeces charged with gold,
To where the sun's last beam leans low
  On Nod, the shepherd's fold.

The hedge is quick and green with briar,
  From their sand the coneys creep;
And all the birds that fly in heaven
  Flock singing home to sleep.

His lambs outnumber a moon's roses
  Yet when night's shadows fall,
His blind old sheep-dog, Slumber-soon
  Misses not one at all.

His are the quiet steeps of dreamland
  The waters of no-more-pain,
His ram's bell rings 'neath an arch of stars,
  "Rest, rest and rest again."

—Walter de la Mare.

Not His Fault

Young Housekeeper—I am afraid those soles I bought from you yesterday were not fresh. We had them for dinner, and my husband said they weren't at all nice.

Fishmonger—Well, ma'am, that's your fault, not mine. I've offered 'em to yer every day this week and you might 'a' 'ad 'em on Monday if you'd a liked.—London Answers.

CANADA STEAMSHIP LINES FROM SMALL BEGINNINGS NOW ONE OF WORLD'S LARGEST TRANSPORTATION SYSTEMS

Growth of Company's Services Tell the Story of the Growth of Water Transportation For the Waterways of the Dominion —Complete Unit of Transportation Under One Central Management.

Water-borne traffic is of such vital importance to the industrial life of the Dominion of Canada that it becomes a national duty to see that the various waterways are maintained in the most efficient manner and that the various classes of ships which utilize them are of an up-to-date and efficient character. Furthermore, it is equally as important that the service be effectively financed in order to give the country, in conjunction with railways, that service which is so essential to the maintenance of a healthy condition of trade, both of a domestic and export and import character.

Canada Steamships Lines, Limited having fallen heir to the important task of national provider of waterway transportation facilities, it can be stated without fear of contradiction has risen to the occasion by providing the trade converging on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence with a class of steamers befitting the importance of the business it is called upon to handle. It is a task of national importance and it has been met in the spirit in which it was imposed.

Like the majority of great corporations this service has grown from small beginnings, the structure built by early interests being enlarged in later years on broader lines and augmented by the addition of scattered units operating in a comparatively small way until Canada Steamships as it has been known for the past few years, has become the most important individual service of its kind on the North American continent.

Pioneer on Water Route

The history of the company dates back to 1845, when a small boat, the Richelieu of 125 tons, was put on the route between Montreal and Chambly, on the Richelieu River, which gave the company part of its title some years later enlarged to the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company with the inclusion of boats running to Toronto and Hamilton in 1875.

Three years after the venture with the entire triffic of the route, in 1858, cess the Jacques Cartier was built to serve between Montreal and Berthier. In 1855 the company added two greatly improved boats, the Victoria and Napoleon, 350 tons each, to ply between Montreal and Quebec.

As a result of the keen competition thus produced the Torrance Company, which had, prior to this, controlled the entire traffic of the route, in1858, sold their boat, the Quebec, for $30,000 to the Richelieu Company, which by this time had a capital of upwards of $125,000. During 1860-61 two additional boats, the Columbia and the Europa, were added and the capital of the company considerably increased.

Early Consolidation

During 1862 the company was enlarged by the fusion of the Terrebonne and L'Assomption and Lake St. Louis Lines with the Richelieu Company. In 1861 the original steamer Montreal was placed on the line, in 1863 the Francois Yamaska was added, and in 1864 the Quebec was constructed at a cost of $172,000.

In 1875 the company was further enlarged by the taking over of the line of boats running from Montreal to Toronto and Hamilton. This amalgamation took the name of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company and had a capital of $1,500,000 and eight steamboats. Four more were added a few years later. Such noted figures as Sir Hugh Allan, L. A. Senecal and L. J. (afterward Senator) Forget, acted as presidents, and in later years Sir Rodolphe Forget headed the company.

In 1898 the company launched the handsomest steel steamer it owned up to that time. This was the Toronto, which cost the company $250,000.

In 1912 which was the last year of the the company's operations under that company's operations under that title, it reported the following subsidiary lines as part of the system: The Northern Navigation Company, Limited; Inland Lines, Limited; Niagara Navigation Company, Limited; Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company of United States; St. Lawrence River Steamboat Company, Limited; Thousand Island Steamboat Company. The paid-up capital having virtually reached the amount authorized, $10,000,000, it was announced that application had been made to Parliament for authority to increase the amount to $15,000,000. There was at that time a debenture indebtedness of $2,000,000 authorized, of which $1,376,780 was outstanding.

Tremendous Growth Enjoyed

Some idea of the growth of the organization under the present regime may be obtained from the fact that the capital stock now amounts to $24,500,000, of which 125,000 shares are 1 per cent. preferred and 120,000 share common stock. The funded debt consists of $5,516,877 five per cent. consolidated first mortgage debenture bonds and $6,000,000 seven per cent. ten-year serial first mortgage collateral bonds, representing a new issue, which are secured by pledge of $8,400,000 five per cent. consolidated first mortgage bonds. Sufficient funds have been deposited with joint trustees to redeem all out-standing underlying bonds amounting to $931,000.

The company's steamships, which now form a long list of passenger and freight boats, are now valued at $27,208,969, while the value of real estate, buildings, docks, wharves, etc., adds another $5,543,855, or a total of $33,468,716. The Canadian Appraisal Company gives the whole property a value of $41,870,348, which gives some idea of the growth of the company since the time of merger.

IN MEMORIAM

Pte. J. T. Hutchinson, who died of Pneumonia in Scotland on Nov. 18th, 1918.

Three years have slowly drifted past,
Since our darling son was called away;
But in our hearts and memories still,
He's living yet and always will.

Three long years since first the great call came
And took from us our only boy;
But one sweetly solemn thought comes to us o'er and o'er:
That we are nearer him to-day
Than we have ever been
In these three years before.

On the resurrection morning,
We feel sure we'll meet again;
No more sorrow, no more weeping, no more pain;
Here awhile we must be parted,
But the time wont be so long;
Until we're reunited, darling on the Heavenly shore.

To that brightest of all meetings,
Bring us Jesus Christ at last;
To Thy cross through death and judgement—
Holding fast.

MAID OF THE MOUNTAINS

An interesting announcement was made by Trans-Canada Theatres last week that a revival of the "Maid of The Mountains" was to be made with a great number of the original cast including Miss Viva Daron, Mr. Mortimer White and others together with the original production.

"The Maid of The Mountains" will open Christmas day and will proceed right through to the Pacific coast. The tour extending about sixteen weeks.

"The Maid of The Mountains" is to be produced by Mr. Walter Dolphin, who made the original production for Trans-Canada Theatres.

Nervous Breakdown

The extreme depression and discouragement which comes over one at times is the most alarming symptom of nervous exhaustion.

This letter is a message of hope to all who find themselves in this unfortunate condition.

Mrs. Geo. T. Tingley, Albert, N.B., writes:—

"For years I was in a very nervous, run-down condition, was much depressed in spirits and suffered a great deal at times. The least noise would irritate me and at times I felt as though I certainly would go crazy. I consulted different doctors to no effect.

"A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and I can truly testify today to the great benefits received. There was a marked change before I had finished the second box and when I had used a dozen boxes my nerves were thoroughly restored and I was entirely relieved of those terrible feelings I used to have. I shall ever be ready to testify to the benefits of this wonderful medicine, feeling sure that it will give to others the quick and permanent relief it has given me."

THE GREAT LAKES.

Mountains, Plains and Valleys Exist Under Water.

The mysterious disappearance in Lake Superior, during recent years, of many vessels, never afterward heard of, has cause mariners to make a study of that sheet of water, with numerous soundings, in order to locate submerged and uncharted rocks.

Not very long ago the magnificent steam yacht of William L. Harkness, a Standard Oil multi-millionaire, ran upon one of these rocks, a "pinnacle" rising to within five feet of the surface, and sank, though all on board were saved.

The water area of the five great lakes, taken together, is equal to that of the Mediterranean. Lake Superior, the largest of them, is a veritable fresh-water sea, covering 31,200 square miles, with 1,500 miles of shore line and a maximum depth of 1,008 feet.

Strange though it may seem, only 20,000 years ago the Great Lakes did not exist. A mighty river, an upper extension of the St. Lawrence, flowed from the neighborhood of Duluth southeastward to what is now Lake Ontario, thence pouring through the present valley of the St. Lawrence to the sea. Its north bank was the present highlands along the north shore of Lake Huron, and its south bank was a high ridge which now runs (submerged) across Lake Huron in a southeasterly direction, rising 400 feet above the general level of the bottom.

Since that early day all that region has been slowly tilted toward the southwest, the north end of Lake Michigan being uplifted and the south end correspondingly depressed. As a result of this geologic change the greater St. Lawrence ceased to flow, being unable to reach Lake Ontario on account of the altered level, and the waters thus impounded spread over the surrounding country, forming the Great Lakes.

The water dammed up in this way sought the lowest levels in the landscape, and the biggest hole became Lake Superior. Lake Erie is shallowest—a flat plain not much below the level of the surrounding land, except for a marked depression directly south of the west end of Lake Ontario.

If one could take a sponge the size of the moon, soak up with it all the water in the Great Lakes, and squeeze it out into the Atlantic Ocean, it would be found that the floor of Lake Ontario is a broad valley continuous with the St. Lawrence Valley, having a breadth of thirty to forty miles and bounded on the south side by precipitous cliffs.

The floor of Lake Huron would present the appearance of a plain, with a range of hills (already mentioned) running across it from northwest to southeast. To the southwest of this range is now the shallow part of the lake; the deep part is northeast of the range.

It would be found that the floor of Lake Michigan is divided into two basins, separated by a high plateau across the middle, the northern part being considerably deeper than the southern.

Best Indian Flints.

Clayton McCall, D.C.M., of St. Williams, Ont., has made a collection of Indian relics found in Norfolk County. Their interest is in their workmanship, the most highly finished flints of the continent being those found on the north shore of Lake Erie. The Attiwandaron, who, until their extinction in 1650-1651 by the Mohawks, dwelt in that region, were called by the French the Neutral Nation. This was because they supplied the Hurons and Five Nations with arrowheads, and consequently remained neutral in the wars between these rival nations, writes Mr. Williams in the Simcoe Reformer.

Perhaps another way of looking at this practice of theirs is to say that they were becoming a race of handicraftsmen rather than of hunters and fighters. A few generations more and they would have been securing their food from the other tribes in return for weapons and other articles of manufacture. Soon they would have hired other nations to do their fighting. Later on they would have developed into a capitalist empire, but that is getting ahead of the story, for the tomahawks of a more virile race cut short this development in racial history.

The art of chipping flint was quite an accomplishment in itself. Perhaps it came from Africa by way of the lost continent of Atlantis, or from Asia via Behring Strait. It did not become obsolete in Ontario until the French introduced firearms. How paradoxical it is that civilized man, even with twentieth century instruments at his command, cannot duplicate this common product of the Stone Age.

Doctor's Biggest Fee.

Full of adventure and the feel of salt air and the humor of people who live far away in the wilds is Dr. Wilfred Grenfell's "Labrador Days." But the quality of it which lingers longest on the palate is its beauty. Take the story of "The Doctor's Biggest Fee." Called to a lonely settlement, he found an old couple needing his attention. They were in the house of a fisherman, and when he had doctored them he asked the host:

"Skipper John, what relation are those people to you?"

"Well, doctor, no relation 'zactly."

"Do they pay nothing at all?"

"Them has nothing," he replied.

"Why did you take them in?"

"They was homeless, doctor, and the old lady was already blind."

"How long have they been with you?"

"Just twelve months com Saturday."

"Thanks, skipper," was all I could say, but I found myself standing with my hat off in the presence of this man. I thought then, and still think, I had received one of my largest fees.

Transportation and Your Safety

CAR SHORTAGES have already developed at many of the coal mines of the United States. Without cars to load, the mines cannot produce; without production of coal, the welfare of the public cannot be conserved.

So far the shortages have not been serious in proportions, but with cold weather arriving, it can be expected that they will increase and may materially hinder the movement of coal.

Safety to your family can be secured by immediately stocking your coal. Coal prices will not decrease, and they may advance, if a transportation emergency arises.

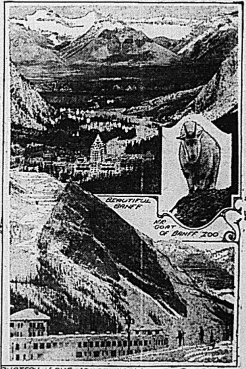
CANADIAN ROCKIES RESORT KEEPS OPEN HOUSE ALL YEAR

CLIMBING WITH A SWISS GUIDE



CHATEAU LAKE LOUISE IN WINTER GARB

Banff, the Beautiful, is rapidly becoming an all-the-year-round resort. The summer months during which its palatial hotels are open, will always be the leading season, with Winter Carnival weeks as second, but the balance of the year sees an ever-increasing number of travelers detraining at the picturesque log station that blocks the town's clean, wide Main street.

Autumn among the mountains that encircle Banff, is a season of pure joy. There is a tang in the air and the hoary giants wear their cloaks of mist more frequently, but the crispy coolness invites to more strenuous exercise in the open.

When the snow falls, a trip to Lake Louise on skiis or snowshoes permits a tete-a-tete with the Pearl of the Rockies. Swiss guides are available if climbing is desired.

With the departure of the throngs of summer guests, the wild game which is protected in Rocky Mt. Park in which Banff is located, become more venturesome and it is a common sight to see deer grazing along Main street.

The Government swimming pools are open all winter and late visitors enjoy the novel experience of splashing in open-air, glass-enclosed pools of warm water from Nature's own hot kettle, while onlookers are wrapped in furs.

There is always plenty of hotel accommodation at Banff and travelers will find a between-seasons stop at Banff a pleasant interlude on trans-continental journeys. This is particularly true during Winter Carnival days when merriment and healthful sport fill every waking hour.

It will be one storey high and of Milton pressed red brick. The interior will be divided into two sections, a library and a rest room. Inside the main door is a vestibule, which has been laid out as a repository of a mural tablet upon which Percy Township's honor roll in the war will be inscribed. W. H. The cost has been estimated at $5,000.

"I have always contended that Canada was not a melting pot," said the speaker. "It is a great laboratory." Col. Ponton referred to his visit to Washington last week and the manner in which the Union Jack, bedecked with flowers, was saluted. "Something came into my mouth and I guess it was my heart," said the colonel. "The right men over there are just as Anglo-Saxon as we are."

Vanity and Glasses

The wearing of glasses is one of the best preservers of a youthful appearance. This is because prolonged eyestrain causes wrinkles to appear prematurely and gives the countenance a strained, tired, anxious, drawn, cross look, which is very characteristic and far more to be avoided, from the viewpoint of appearance than the slight disfigurement of glasses. Indeed, so far from being unbecoming, there are some types of faces to which glasses just add the finishing touch.

We have every up to date style.

CALLED BY DEATH

MARY HELENA FOSTER

Miss Mary Helena Foster, familiarly known as Mayma Foster, passed away last night. Deceased was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Foster, 136 Albert street and was born at Camden in 1887. Over 8 years ago she came to Belleville with her parents. Miss Foster was a graduate nurse of a New York hospital and had followed her profession in New York and New Jersey with success. Some two weeks ago she came home ill and all that medical skill could suggest was unavailing. Deceased was a bright and sympathetic nurse and a general favorite with all whom she came in contact with. She was a member of St. Michael's Church. In addition to the parents two brothers and five sisters survive. The brothers are Philip and John and the sisters are Mrs. Chas Hungerford, Mrs. M. A. McNabb, New York, Mrs. John Kearns and Mrs. Charles O'Brien of Toronto and Miss Stella Foster of Toronto. To the bereaved will be extended the heartfelt sympathy of many friends.

CORDIAL RELATIONS SHOULD BE FOSTERED

New York, Nov. 18.—Sir James Aikins, Lieut.-Governor of Manitoba, and President of the Canadian Bar Association, was the guest of honor at a banquet given by the Canadian Club, of New York, in the Biltmore Hotel.

Sir James made a plea for devotion of more effort both in the United States and Canada to the fostering of cordial relations between the two countries.

Lieut.-Colonel F. S. G. Piggott, D. S. O., a member of the British Advisory Committee to the Washington Conference, spoke of the work being done by the delegates. He referred to the present strength of the British land forces, which, he said, consisted of 200,000 men for the policing and protection of 12,000,000 miles of territory, populated by 460,000,000 human beings. This, he said, cannot be considered more than a necessary strength.

Lieut.-Colonel Piggot is British military attache at Tokio.

MILLIONS OF FISH SPAWN IN HATCHERY

Many Million Spawn Collected from Quinte Whitefish.

BIG SALE OF FISH

Government Sale of Fish at Hatchery a Great Success.

Exceptionally busy days at the Dominion fish hatcheries have come to a close with the completion of the annual task of stocking the hatchery with white fish spawn. This year, on account of widespread unemployment the government repeated its action of three years ago in disposing of the fish to the people of the vicinity who cared to come to the hatcheries for them. As a result more than twenty thousand pounds of whitefish were disposed of. In addition to stocking the Thurlow hatchery with white fish spawn, sixty million were sent to the hatcheries at Kingsville and Sarnia.

Chief Inspector Alex. Finlayson of the Dominion Marine and Fisheries Department, has been here during the busy period, also Mr. T. A. Auclair, of the department.

The superintendent in charge of the Thurlow hatchery is Mr. Joseph M. Oakes, who came here from Sarnia.

White fish eggs to the number of between eighty-five and one hundred million, and between eight and ten million salmon trout eggs have been deposited in the local hatchery this fall to be developed for stocking purposes. The white fish spawn were all secured in the Bay of Quinte and the salmon trout from Meldrum Bay, near Owen Sound. A shipment of spring salmon eggs is expected shortly from British Columbia.

The department officials who have been here state that the catch has been a record one and that the spawn are the finest and most promising they have ever seen. The nets have all been removed now from the Bay as the hatchery is filled. During the spawning season the staff was increased at Thurlow hatchery by thirty additional men, the normal staff being Superintendent Oakes, three assistants, and two engineers. In a short time about fifteen girls will be employed at the hatcheries to pick over the salmon eggs, eliminating the bad ones, and saving the fertile ones for propagation purposes.

The records show that this has been the most successful year since the establishment of the hatchery in 1914.

THE RITCHIE COMPANY, Limited

BIG MARKET DEVELOPED FOR PUBLIC UTILITY ISSUES

Nesbitt, Thomson & Co., Limited, who Specialize in Particular Field, Have Built Up Big Investment Demand for Issues of Larger Power Undertakings. Have Been Identified with Large Public Utility Companies in all Parts of Canada.

The broadening tendency of the market throughout Canada for public utility issues is reflected in the announcement that the well-known house of Nesbitt, Thomson & Co., Limited, and associated firms were placing an issue of $7,500,000 of Manitoba Power Company bonds.

Owing to the success of public utility undertakings in Canada, there has been a good demand for Canadian issues in New York market as well as in Canada and this has resulted in the placing of a portion of the Manitoba Power issue on the American market.

For some years past a big investment market has gradually been built up by Messrs. Nesbitt, Thomson & Co. for public utility issues. A short time ago the firm placed a large issue of the preferred stock of the Winnipeg Electric Railway Company Among the large undertakings, with the financing of which they have also been identified, are the Southern Canada Power Company, which operates in the entire Eastern Townships of the Province of Quebec; the Laurentian Power Co., which is developing a power below Quebec and is disposing of a large portion of its production to the Quebec Railway, Light, Heat & Power Company; the Dominion Power & Transmission Co., which serves the city of Hamilton and surrounding territory; the Cedar Rapids Power Co., situated to the west of Montreal which sells its entire production through the Montreal Light, Heat & Power Co. in the city of Montreal and surrounding territory; the Laurentide Power Company, which was developed by the Laurentide Paper Co. and disposes of a large portion of its power through the Shawnigan Water & Power Co., and the New Brunswick Power Co., which operates in the city of St. John, N.B. and surrounding territory

In connection with the issue of $7,500,000 of Manitoba Power Company bonds, the announcement is made that the issue is being guaranteed by the Winnipeg Electric Railway Company. The latter company will also take a very large amount of the power which will be developed. According to present plans of the engineers, the Manitoba Power Company will have a capacity of 156,000 h.p.

Council of Women's Executive Says They Have Demoralizing Effect.

WOODSTOCK, Nov. 17.—The principal item of business at the annual meeting of the executive of the Provincial Council of Women held here today was the election of the officers for the coming year. The following were elected;

President, Dr. Stowe-Gullen Toronto.

Treasurer, Mrs. Lamont, St. Thomas.

Recording Secretary, Mrs. Tweed, Kitchener.

Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Apps Toronto University.

A deputation from the local council of Brantford asked the council to protest against the bill now in force whereby a married man is forced to support his illegitimate children. This law, it was claimed, was an insult to his legitimate wife. At the noon day luncheon today Mrs. Becker of Toronto gave a splendd address on the necessity of getting better films for the motion picture theatres of Canada.

At the clearing business session of the executive of National Council of Women, many recommendations were put through which will be passed on to the general meeting of the council which will be held in West Algoma, 11th June next.

The executive backed up by resolution the recommendation from the Brantford Cahmber of Commerce, that street and traveling shows be prohibited from entering Canada. The members freely expressed the opinion that such shows have a demoralizing effect and the fact was referred to that young boys and girls spend much money foolishly at these street fairs.

Undesirable films came in for censure and the members were appealed to make a united effort to have the undesirable films weeded out.

The question of having women on juries, with the same exemptions as the men, was passed without discussion.

Provincial aid in the way of education was advocated for new arrivals i this country. It was pointed out that ignorance of the English language of parents often resulted in children taking advantage of their guardians. The Kitchener delegate pointed out that already the I.O.D.E. in that city has opened a school for non-English-speaking adults and the results have proved very satisfactory.

Miss Joan Arnoldi, of Toronto, drew the executive's attention to the fact that much objectionable literature from Hamburg, Germany, was finding its way into Canada. This delegate also suggested that the women make more persistent demands for more British films. She claimed that as long as the women of Toronto had persisted they had received British films, which were cleaner and better, but as soon as their demands were allowed to lag, theatre managers ceased to supply the films.

Mrs. McIvor urged the delegates to take into consideration the economic conditions of the country when they were striving to observe economies in the home. She strongly advised buying Canadian-made goods.

At the noon day luncheon Edgar Middleton, of the Canadian Authors' Association, made a plea for more authors, and Mrs. Parsons urged the members to make Authors' Week a success by the purchase of Canadian books

At the morning session, a resolution was passed conceding to the individual members the right to take active part in political campaigns on the understanding that they did so on their own individuality, and not because of their official position.

Resolution were passed asking that legislation be passed raising the age of consent and also the question of redress.

The publication of evidence in certain cases was referred to and a resolution passed calling on the Canadian Press Association and its members to refrain from publishing offensive particulars.

The further advancing of telephone rates was also protested against, and the econmic position of the wife in the home was touched on with a suggestion that this be defined and an income provided for wives.

STILL HOPEFUL

London, Nov. 18.—The Irish peace situation is not deemed to have been made actually worse by Ulster adherence to the previously declared position. The overwhelming majority given the Government's policy yesterday by the Unionist parly at Liverpool is looked upon as creating a better atmosphere for the continuance of peace negotiations, although the possibility of the resignation of the Gabinet is rot ignored.

Canada's Example.

Leslie's Magazine of Oct. 8 contains a striking article by William S. McNutt on "What Canada is Doing for Her War Veterans." The article describes the soldier land settlement scheme and also outlines briefly the work of soldier re-establishment, including vocational training, pensions, gratuities, insurance, etc. Commenting on what Canada has done Leslie's says editorially:

"Canada's Example: To readers who are familiar with Uncle Sam's sins of omission and commission in his treatment of ex-service men, the account of what Canada is doing for the survivors of her heroic army, set down by Mr. McNutt in this issue, will prove highly interesting and enlightening.

"The keynote of the Canadian program is self help—the provision of opportunities by which the Canadian soldier, or his widow, can become as useful and honored a citizen in peace as in war, an asset instead of a liability. It is a program that has already stood the test of time, as compared with our own which, so far as it exists at all, is still in a tentative stage. It is one which we, with greater singleness of purpose and less politics, might have adopted in its essentials with equal success.

"Now, when maybe half a million of the men who served us are out of jobs, when thousands of those who were wounded in our behalf are suffering from neglect, it will do us no harm to regard with humble gaze the wiser, more generous, more efficient, course of our neighbor and ally to the north."

Held Great Lakes Against Fenians.

Admiral Sir Algernon de Horsey, Britain's oldest admiral, celebrated his 94th birthday at his home at Cowes, Isle of Wight, recently. "Eat and drink whatever you like; take all the good things of life and enjoy them rationally," is his recipe for long life. Sir Algernon's physical and mental powers are so little impaired that it is difficult to realize that more than 80 years have passed since he first went to sea and that he did 52 years' active service before leaving the navy.

As far back as 1840 he was helping to make fighting history off the coast of Syria. Fifty-six years ago he served during the Jamaica rebellion. A year later found him senior naval officer on the Great Lakes of Canada during the Fenian troubles, and in 1877 he took part in the historic duel with the Peruvian rebel ship Huascar. Subsequently he held various commands, and was knighted in 1903.

Sir Algeron and Lady de Horsey celebrated the 60th anniversary of their wedding in April last.

Get the Land Settled

By Observer.

But for the war the population of Canada might easily have been from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 greater than forecasts of the forthcoming census returns indicate. For five years before Germany precipitated the world conflict, the Dominion had been receiving from 300,000 to over 400,000 immigrants a year. Even if this average had not been fully maintained, the tide of immigration/during the past seven years must have continued strong. Not only did the war stop the influx, but for a time it turned the trend of population the other way. Aside from the terrible wastage of man power and the decline in the birth rate following our participation in the war, newly arrived foreigners left the Dominion in tens of thousands. A considerable proportion joined the allied colors in other countries. The rest took their departure to escape conscription. As an inevitable consequence an inadequate population scattered over half a continent now finds itself confronted with heavy burdens—unable except with difficulty to meet the overhead charges of a huge war debt, a costly pension list and a serious deficit on a tremendous mileage of public-owned railways.

The proper course to pursue under the circumstances is surely obvious. The ground lost during the war must be regained, and that with the least possible delay. The tide of immigration must be quickened towards our shores. Scrapped immigration machinery must be reconstructed and abandoned colonization agencies got into action once more. Nor must it be imagined that this can be accomplished in a moment. The flow of immigrants cannot be turned on and off at will like water through a tap in the kitchen sink. It is only by sustained effort over a considerable period that an important movement of desirable classes of settlers can be got under way. At present the stream of British immigrants has set towards Australia and New Zealand. The time has arrived to begin preparations for diverting our share of them this way and for carrying out effective immigration work in the United States and other approved countries. Months will be required to get the necessary machinery in operation. Nor should the measure of unemployment existing to-day be allowed to stand in the way of such forehanded preparations.

If there were enough people on the land in Canada to-day, there would be fewer people out of work in the towns and cities. That much is clear. The larger the rural population, the larger the home market for the products of domestic industries. The greater the purchasing power of the farming population and the villages, the greater will be the activity in mill, in factory and in city building trades. More people will mean an increased volume of freight and passenger traffic for the railways, more business for the merchants, more money for everyone, and a progressive decline in the individual burden of taxation.

The immediate business of the nation, therefore, is to make timely arrangements in advance for pumping in the right kind of settlers for the land. Not only this! Care must be taken to see that the newcomers are placed on the land under favorable conditions and that they stay on the land and make good there. Thirty million acres of fertile prairie soil lying close to existing railway lines cry out for the plough. The older provinces of confederation have the land and the resources to support many times their present populations. So has British Columbia. The thing to do is to get busy. Let everybody help — the Federal and Provincial Governments, the railways, the press, the Western Canada Colonization Association, and every other immigration organization capable of effective mobilization.

British Columbia—Total crop 100 per cent. in excess of last year, or approximately 1,009,000 barrels (3,027,000 boxes).

Ontario—Total crop 60 per cent. of last year, or approximately 960,000 barrels. Eastern Ontario, 70 per cent. of last year's crop. Spys heavy. Western Ontario, 45 per cent. of last year's crop. Practically all sold. Considerable scab and high percentage lower grades.

Quebec—Total crop is from 35 to 40 per cent. of last year, or approximately 35,200 barrels. Color and size fair. Demand and prices good.

New Brunswick—Considerably improved since last report. Total estimate about 110 per cent. of last year, or 33,000 barrels.

Nova Scotia—Total crop will be 110 to 115 per cent. of last year, or 1,300,000 barrels. No change in condition during September.

OHIO STATUTES RECOGNIZE OSTEOPATHS

Ruled That an Osteopath is a Physician Without Limitation.

Columbus, O., Nov. 15.—The Attorney General of Ohio had just rendered an opinion setting a long and bitter controversy in Ohio, which will have a far-reaching effect as a precedent in many other states. He rules that an osteopath is a physician without limitation as to what disease he may treat and that he may sign death certificates and all other such documents.

The opinion was requested because of the refusal of the State Registrar of Vital Statistics to accept a death certificate signed by an oteopathic physician. This decision is overruled by the opinion of the Attorney-general who says in part:

"The osteopathic physician who complies with the educational qualifications of the general code which requires of an osteopath a preliminary education as is required by law of applicants for examination to practice medicine and surgery, and which enumerates the subjects in which he is examined by the state medical board, and who passes such examination, receives a certificate from such board. Such certificate shall authorize the holder thereof to practice osteopathy and surgery in the state, but shall not permit him to prescribe or administer drugs, except anesthetics and antiseptics.

"It will be noted that there is no limitation as to the diseases an osteopath may treat. He takes the same examination in diagnosis as is taken by the physician for the practice of medicine. He is as fully equipped under the law for diagnosing of any disease or ailment, if he meets the educational requirements outlined by the statute, as any other person can be. The present statutes relating to osteopathy refer to the practitioner thereof as a physician, the only qualification thereto being the term 'osteopathic.'

"From the above considerations no reason is apparent why the osteopathic physician is not included within the terms of Section 210 G.C. He is qualified and the tendency of the law to recognize him as a physician is apparent. You are therefore advised that an osteopathic physician who meets the educational requirements of the law, can properly sign a death certificate."

MEIGHEN ANSWERS G. W.V.A. QUESTIONAIRE

Replying to questions on soldier problems put forward by the dominion command, Great War Veterans' Association, to the leaders of the three political parties, Rt.-Hon. Arthur Meighen declares that he is in favor of legislation enabling the permanent addition of the present bonus to the pension rates if, after a reasonable time, experience shows that the cost of living is not going down.

"It seems to me, though," Mr. Meighen states, the best way to deal with such a subject and to receive such recommendations as to making it permanent or not, is through the medium of a joint parliamentary enquiry such as has been adopted with success."

Mr. Meighen does not think that the relation established by past committees between the total received in pensions and the cost of living should be affected to the disadvantage of the pensioner.

Dealing with the question relating to the pension proposal of a monthly rate of one dollar per one cent. of disability, Mr. Meighen says that he is advised that pensions awarded to married disabled pensioners are in virtually every case higher than the payment suggested.

The prime minister replies in favor of immediate steps toward the relief of unemployment by assisting in municipal works through the winter months.

With regard to housing and legislation providing small holdings for ex-service men and women Mr. Meighen points out that existing housing legislation has been put into effect in many parts of the country with the very best results." He is in favor of continuing this policy.

The G.W.V.A. asked if Mr. Meighen favored immigration and naturalization legislation "ensuring preservation of British traditions with rigorous application of such policy as regards Asiatic immigration." Mr. Meighen replies that he is in favor of such laws as ensure the preservation of British traditions, and also favors the honest enforcement of those laws as regards all classes of immigration.

Mr. Meighen says he is in favor of action, where necessary, providing for the complete re-establishment of all ex-service men and women.

MOTOR NEWS

WINTER MOTORING

"To drive or not to drive" becomes less of a question to the Canadian motorist with the advent of each winter. In the early days of motoring none was so foolhardy as to contemplate driving in the coal weather and through the subsequent years there was an ever-diminishing proportion of car owners who took advantage of the lower rates offered by garages for "dead" storage. Now that proportion has grown so small in the urban centres as to be almost negligible, and except for the short period that country roads are really snowed up cars are on the move in the rural districts throughout the year. It is quite possible that they might move all the year around could some arrangement be effected whereby the track of sleighs would be increased so as to be similar to that of motor vehicles Horses and sleighs quickly beat down a hard track on the most snowed-up roads, but the motor vehicles is unable to travel that track because its the tread of the sleigh. Driving with two wheels on a track and the other two buried in snow is not practicable.

But the principal contribution to winter use of the automobile, apart from the closed car, has been that of the automobile equipment manufacturer who has put on the market innumerable and ingenious devices to make the car comfortable in cold weather. Foremost among these is the car heater, which is available in a great variety of designs. Some of these are elctrical. Other heaters derive their heat from the fumes in the line from the motor to the muffler. They are available at a considerable range in price.

Equally important in making for comfort in winter driving is the permanent top for the touring or roadster car. This, too, is manufactured in a variety of designs and the advance scored in its design and construction during the past two years is almost incredible. Permanent tops have been brought to such a point that they give all the comfort available from a closed car and also they add greatly to the appearance of an open car. The most important accomplishment of top designers has perhaps been the development plate glass side curtains which fasten securely and snugly and which add greatly to the appearance of any machine.

There are a thousand devices intended to make for efficiency and ease of automobile motors during the cold weather, and these have done much to popularize winter use of the car. Among the best known of these is the hood cover which helps prevent too great a radiation of heat from under the bonnet of the car. As any motorist knows, his motor must attain to a certain heat before it will operate at its best, and in this country winter weather is too cold, usually, to permit to the motor attaining to that heat. Radiator shutters are also in great favor and very useful. Most of these are adjustable from the driver's seat and they can be set so as to give the motor just the proper amount of cooling. Priming plugs and other devices are available to simplify starting the motor in cold weather after it has become thoroughly chilled.

Windshield cleaners are also important in winter, for their use will keep enough of the windshield clear when wet, sticky snow or rain is falling, and permit of the driver's seeing where he is going. Tire chains will protect him from the menace of icy pavements.

In recognizing the fact that winter use of the car is now quite practicable one should not overlook motordom's debt to the automobile engineer who has accomplished so much in improving the internal combustion engine so that it operates under conditions that are anything but favorable to it.

Social Surveys of the World

Rt. Hon. C. J. Doherty was Canada's representative during 1921 at the assembly of the League of Nations in Geneva. Mr. Doherty took an important part in the proceedings, both on the floor of the assembly in reference to article 10, and in committee work.

Mr. Doherty indeed was chairman of one of the six committees of the assembly, the fifth, dealing with "humanitarian" questions. The agenda for the committee included traffic in opium, deportation of women and children in Turkey, traffic in women and children, the typhus campaign and international co-ordination of intellectual work.

At one of the meetings of the committee Mr. Henry Lafontaine of Belgium made a survey of the evolution and scope of the movement for this co-ordination of intellectual work.

Mr. Lafontaine is closely associated with the "Union of International Associations," an organization with headquarters in Brussels, to secure the betterment of material conditions in intellectual work and also to develop a spirit of international union, and to encourage the co-ordination of the efforts of these associations to achieve within their own sphere—that of scientific, moral, legal, economic, social and charitable movements—the organization of intellectual life upon stable and sure bases.

At Brussels there has been established a bibliography comprising twelve million titles, a collection of inestimable value to intellectual workers all over the world. The diffusion of the information thus collected presented considerable difficulty, and this had led to the establishment at Brussels of an international university.

This institution is in no way intended to compete with other universities. It provides post-graduate courses for students who have already completed their studies and who wish to take advantage of the collective learning of the professors who, to the number of eighty-four, during the current year have assembled to give courses of lectures. It is hoped that in the future the organization will number among its members no fewer than 1,000 professors, members of universities in all parts of the world. Another objective is the fuller recognition of intellectual research, which is at present far from being recompensed or even recognized on the same terms as technical research, although it frequently occurs that the latter is inspired and brought to fruition only as the outcome of intellectual work, carried on perhaps under obscure and even penurious conditions.

Capital and labor, according to M. Lafontaine, are not the two essential factors, as is generally supposed, but intellect must in the first place provide the impetus for all human progress and production, and thinkers have, therefore, the right to a privileged position among the workers of the world, in order that they may be in a position to render services of still greater value than those which they have already rendered.

This Belgian authority hopes that the League of Nations may be able to build upon the foundations already laid, in such a way that both the material and the intellectual resources of every country may be pooled and distributed to the mutual advantage of intellectual workers all over the world.

M. Alvarez of Chile, another member of the committee, thinks there should be a standard to which students everywhere must attain in order to qualify for the pursuit of higher education. He also favors the unification of existing legislation with regard to literary property.

M. de Yanguas of Spain takes a similar view.

Mlle. Bonnevie of Norway emphasizes the viewpoint that freedom is one of the most important conditions of intellectual work. Too great a degree of centralization might be dangerous, especially if it were established too hastily.

The vice-chairman of this committee on humanitarian questions, headed by Mr. Doherty, is his excellency M. Tang-Tsai-Fou of China. Other prominent members of the committee are Mr. Malcolm Lindsay Shepherd of Australia; Count Monsdorff, of Austria; Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour, of Great Britain; Mr. Gabriel Hanotaux, of France; Rt. Hon. Srinavasa Sastri of India; Baron Hayashi of Japan; Prince Giovanelli of Italy; Prince Arfa-ed-Dowleh, of Persia; Prof. Jonesco, of Roumania; His Excellency Phya Bidadh Kosha of Siam, and Prof. George G. Murray, representing South Africa.

When West Was Young.

When McKay, of Formosa, and Bryce, of Manitoba, were ordained in St. James' Square Presbyterian Church, Toronto, in 1871, their friends said that the Formosa missionary would have the better of it. The Red River country seemed just as far away and the climate much worse. Covering an immense parish through blizzards on unfenced trails was trying work, but Rev. James Bryce had great energy and endurance and found time to teach chemistry, history, mathematics, philosophy and the classics in the back room of the Kildonan schoolhouse. This first home of the college was called "The Kitchen," writes Rev. R. G. MacBeth, M.A., in reminiscences of student days under the great Bryce.

After several years, Prof. Hart was sent out by the Presbyterian General Assembly to assist in the teaching which was being done in two rooms in Donald Murray's home. Kildonan was almost heartbroken when Winnipeg had taken such a lead that it became wise to remove the college to the metropolis. But there always remained the memory of the great sandy-whiskered Dr. Bryce, with his incessant activity and dauntless spirit, and Manitoba College prospered in its new home under his guidance.

Ocean In Alberta.

While the giant dinosaur reptiles had their being on the lowlands of central Alberta, some million of years ago, a shallow and warm sea divided Canada in the west into two parts, 'tis said. A very common fossil found by many in central Alberta to-day is the so-called "fossil fish," a flattened cylindrical object with green and pink pearly shell. This is not fish in the true sense of the word but fragments of the long shell of a cuttlefish or squib of the Pierre Sea, which reached as far east as central Manitoba. There is only one genus of this order of creature now living, viz.: the pearly Nautilus or man-of-war, as the sailors name it, which is common in some tropical seas.

In the good old days there was ocean from Mexico to the Arctic, with shores near Banff and Field. The fossils are found in the region between Gleichen and Tilly and south as far as Lethbridge.

Bears Fastidious.

Bears, especially those of the white species, are rather fastidious about their toilets. They comb their hair with their curved claws and lick themselves to make their hair shine.

Doctors Advise—patients, suffering from acute throat or lung troubles, to get away from the cities to the pine-forest mountain resorts, and there live in the open-air as much as possible. Why? Because there is a wonderful exhalation from Pine trees, which, breathed into the lungs and air-passages, heals, strengthens and re-invigorates them.

To-day, by the wonderful aid of Science, these volatile fumes and other medicinal agents are compressed into unique breatheable tablets known as Peps. These bring the healing pine forest air into your own home. You strip Peps of their silver wrappers and dissolve the tablets in your mouth. The germicidal air-like medicine which is liberated is carried with the breath into your air-tubes and lungs where it quickly stops the most troublesome cough, relieves soreness and tightness, and soothes and heals the inflamed bronchial tubes.

Peps are the direct scientific treatment—the remedy that has revolutionized treatment of coughs, colds, chills, bronchitis, and all soreness or irritation of throat or chest. 50c. box, 3 for $1.25.

RHEUMATISM

Physician Believes a Real Remedy for the Distase Has Been Found

Rheuma, the wonderful rheumatism remedy now sold by druggists everywhere, gives quicker and more lasting relief than other remedies costing many times as much.

Rheuma passes teh deadly poisonous secretions into the bowels and kidneys, from which they are quickly thrown off in a natural, healthy way.

Read what a reputable physician says about Rheuma: "I have made a most careful investigation of the formula employed in the manufacture of Rheuma, and I heartily recommend it as a rememdy for all forms of rheumatism. I find Rheuma far in advance of the methods generally employed in the treatment of rheumatism, and altogether different in composition from the remedies usually prescribed."—Dr. M. C Lyons.

This should give any rheumatic sufferer confidence to try Rheuma on the no-cure-no-pay plan. McKeown's Drug Store will supply you.

HELPFUL LETTERS FROM READERS

Mrs. B.: "I like to make chocolate cream candies and when I dip the fondant into the chocolate, I always use a toothpick, stuck into the candy. After the chocolate sets on the candy, I dip the toothpick back into the chocolate and fill in the little hole made in the candy by the toothpick in dipping. I also make the little extra curl over the top of each coated candy with a toothpick; I dip the toothpick back into the chocolate, put a little dab on each chocolate-covered candy, and twist slightly."

Reader: "Here is my recipe for Nut Jelly: 6 tablespoons granulated tapioca, 3 cups hot water, 2 cups of brown sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup English walnut-meats broken, ½ teaspoon salt. Place the hot water and the salt in a double boiler and stir in the tapioca and brown sugar. Cook until clear, stirring frequently. (This requires about 45 minutes of cooking). Then turn the mixture into a bowl and let cool. When cold but not jellied add nuts and vanilla. Chill thoroughly and serve with plain cream poured over it, or with whipped cream."

Old Housekeeper: "I have made silkaline bed comforts for many years and I find they last longer and need to be washed less often if I buy an extra yard of silkaline to match the comfort, hem this neatly and keep it over the folded comfort during the day at the foot of the bed."

Original: "Everybody who ever tasted my oatmeal cookies has asked me what I did to give them their rich, 'nutty' flavor Here is my secret: Before mixing the cookies I put the raw oatmeal in the oven on a pan and leave it there until it is crisped through, then I crumble it between my hands before mixing it with the other ingredients."

Frequent Hostess: "My children are always bringing their young friends home to supper, so I have to keep a well-stocked Emergency Shelf for these unexpected guests. Here is the main standby on that shelf. Whenever I bake beans I cook more than we need for one meal, and the surplus I put in hot, sterilized pint-sized glass jars, adjust rubbers and glass covers, put the top wire down; then I boil this jar for 2 hours under boiling water in a large soup kettle on a small wooden rack that my husband made for the purpose. At the end of the two hours I remove jar from pot, press down side wire, let cool, and put on the Emergency Shelf. It is always ready to be reheated at a moment's notice."

Economical: "My husband's salary very small, so I have to make my possessions do double duty. Instead of buying a new carpet for the living room I have brightened the faded colors of the old one by the following method, which a neighbor suggested: I went to the drug store and bought a prepared weak solution of sulphuric acid, and with this I went over the carpet; I dipped the cloth into the weak acid to apply (wearing gloves on my hands) and then I rubbed the carpet briskly with a rough towel to dry and freshen. This acid is dangerous to use in the raw state, so have a druggist weaken it for you."

Tomorrow—"What Shall I Serve With Poultry?"

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

"Tinker Bob" Stories

by Carlysle H. Holcomb

SILKY BREAKFASTS WITH THE HUNTER

Tinker Bob had one more thing on his mind that was very important to a certain forest dweller whom we mentioned a few days ago. It was to visit the Hunter and find a place for Bobby Owl to stay thru the Winter. You see Sammy Squirrel had taken Bobby's Winter house in the great tree of the forest for Sammy was going to marry Susie Chipmunk. Of course when a man marries he needs a bigger house to live in. That was the reason Sammy wanted the hole in the chestnut tree.

Bobby Owl had been watching for Sammy but hadn't a chance to catch him out of his house. In the early morning is the time when Sammy comes out and Bobby Owl is just going to bed about that time.

Tinker Bob arose early one morning and took Silky, the Monkey, with him to see the Hunter. He had told Silky about the Hunter and that it would be necessary for him to perform some tricks to please the old fellow. Silky promised to do this if he could be assured that no harm would befall him. "I will see to it that the Hunter does you no harm Anyway he will not want to do you harm when you show him how you can perform," the King replied.

"I'll do anything you say, O King. What do you want me to do first?" Silky was hanging to the King's hand as they walked thru the forest.

"I want you to show him how you can handle his gun and use his pipe and climb on his house and stand on your head and all of those funny things you have done for me at night before the fireplace."

This so frightened the Hunter's wife that she fell from her chair and rolled on the floor.

"I'll make him laugh more than Jack, the Wood Rat, when I stand on my head. You remember, O King, that Jack was sick all day for laughing so hard?" Then Silky turned a hand-spring.

The two arrived at the Hunter's house before he had finished his breakfast and to the surprise of the King of the Forest the Hunter seemed glad to see tehm and invited them in to have some breakfast too.

Well the King had eaten some breakfast before leaving the forest but he could never refuse such an opportunity as this and then Silky never saw so many things in all of his life as were spread over the Hunter's table. When the King announced that they were invited to eat with the Hunter at his table Silky was so happy that he sprang from the floor and landed right in the midst of the table. This so frightened the Hunter's wife that she fell from her chair and rolled on the floor. And it was some moments before Tinker Bob could get Silky to understand that he wasn't to eat from the middle of the table but was to sit on a chair.

We will see what the Hunter said tomorrow.

The cotton weavers of the little city of Guingamp, in France, first hit on the idea of dyeing the thread before it was woven and then placing it in the loom so that it would form a pattern of stripes and checks. Hence the ginghams so popular to-day.

Mme. Tetrizanni, the famous opera star, was a prima donna when she was 16 years of age, having at that time filled the chief role at the Florence Opera House.

Mrs. Cordelia H. McDonald, the original Little Eva of the first dramatic production of the celebrated "Uncle Tom's Cabin" first made in 1852, is still hale and hearty at the age of 73. She was only 4 years of age when she first played the role of Little Eva.

A beautiful lampshade, simple of construction, can be made by any woman who enjoys making lovely things for the home. The wire frame is properly covered with soft old gold silk—three thicknesses of the thin china silk is sufficient. To give a particularly soft and rosy light make the middle thickness of rose colored silk. The shade will then give an old gold appearance, but the light will be slightly modified by the layer of rose colored silk. Then on the shade are placed four lengths of narrow Chinese embroidery—a little over an inch wide. It is that sort of strip embroidery done on silk, with the edges turned in, worked in blue and white and gold. These strips are caught at the top of the shade under the gilt binding and at the bottom they are bound in a point with gilt braid and end in tassels.

After silk has been washed, let it lie for half an hour in warm milk to which has been added a very small quantity of gum water. Then squeeze almost dry and iron on the wrong side on a board covered with several thicknesses of clean flannel.

THE THREE GUARDSMEN

By ALEXANDRE DUMAS

"Fifteen hundred pistoles each, my lord."

"How many days would it require to make two studs exactly like them! You see, there are two wanting."

"A week, my lord."

"I will give you 3,000 pistoles each for two if I can have them by the day after tomorrow."

"My lord, you shall have them."

"You are a jewel of a man, Master O'Reilly, but that is not all—these studs cannot be trusted to anybody—it must be effected in the palace."

"Impossible, my lord. There is no one but myself can execute them so that the new may not be distinguished from the old."

"Therefore, my dear Master O'Reilly, you are my prisoner. Name to me such of your workmen as you stand in need of and point out the tools they must bring."

The goldsmith wrote to his wife, charging her to send his most skillful apprentice, an assortment of diamonds, of which he gave the names and the weight, and the necessary tools.

Buckingham led the goldsmith to the chamber destined for him and which, at the end of half an hour, was transformed into a workshop. Then he placed a sentinel at each door, with an order to admit nobody upon any pretense but his valet de chambre, Patrick.

Buckingham assigned D'Artagnan a chamber adjoining his own. He wished to have the young man at hand, not that he at all mistrusted him, but for the sake of having some one to whom he could constantly talk about the queen.

In one hour after the ordinance was published in London that no vessel bound for France should leave the ports—not even the packet boat with letters. In the eyes of everybody this was a declaration of war between the two kingdoms.

On the day after the morrow, by 11 o'clock, the two diamond studs were finished. They were imitated perfectly to look like the others.

Buckingham immediately called D'Artagnan.

"Here," said he to him, "are the diamond studs that you came to fetch and be my witness that I have done all that human power could do."

"Be satisfied, milord; I will tell all that I have seen. But does your grace mean to give me the studs without the casket?"

"The casket would only incumber you. Besides, the casket is the more precious from being all that is left to me. You will say that I keep it. And now, how shall I ever acquit myself of the debt I owe you?"

D'Artagnan colored up to the eyes. "Let us understand each other, milord," replied he. "What I have done has been for the queen and not at all for your grace. And, still further, for one who is my lady, as the queen is yours."

"I understand," said the duke, smiling, "and I even believe that I know that other person. It is"—

"Milord, I have not named her!"

"That is true," said the duke, "and it is to this person I am bound to discharge my debt of gratitude."

"You have said, milord; for truly, at this moment when there is question of war I confess to you that I see nothing in your grace but an enemy, whom I should have great pleasure in meeting on the field of battle, all which, however, will not prevent me from executing to the very point my commission or from laying down my life."

D'Artagnan bowed to the duke and was retiring.

"Well, you are going away in that manner! But where and how?"

"I had forgotten that England was an island, and that you were the king of it."

"Go to the port, ask for the brig Sund and give this letter to the captain. He will convey you to a little port, where certainly you are not expected, and which is ordinarily only frequented by fishermen."

"What is the name of that port?"

"St. Valery. But listen: When you have arrived there you will go to a mean inn, without a name and without a sign, a mere fisherman's hut. You cannot be mistaken; there is but one."

"And then?"

"You will ask for the host and will repeat to him the word 'Forward!' That is the password. He will give you a ready saddled horse and will point out to you the road you are to take. You will find in this manner four relays on your route. If you will give at each of these relays your address in Paris the four horses will follow you thither. You already know two of them. They were those we rode on, and the others are not inferior to them. These horses are equipped for the field. However proud you may be, you will not refuse to accept one of them and to request your three companions to accept the others. That is in order to make war against us besides."

D'Artagnan made his way as quickly as possible to the port. Fifty vessels were waiting to set out in momentary expectation of the removal of the prohibition. When passing alongside of one of them D'Artagnan fancied he perceived on board of it the lady of Meung, the same whom the unknown gentleman had styled milady and who D'Artagnan had thought was so handsome; but, thanks to the tide of the river and a fair wind, his vessel passed so quickly that he had little more than a glimpse of her.

The next day, about 9 o'clock in the morning, he landed at St. Valery. D'Artagnan went instantly to the inn and pronounced to the host the word "Forward!" The host instantly led him to the stable, where a ready saddled horse awaited him.

"I want to know the route I am to follow," said D'Artagnan.

"Go from hence to Blangy and from Blangy to Neufchatel. At Neufchatel go to the hotel of the Herse d'Or, give the password to the host, and you will find, as you have done here, a horse ready saddled."

"Have I anything to pay?" demanded D'Artagnan.

"Everything is paid," replied the host, "and liberally. Begone, then, and may God conduct you safely."

"Amen!" cried the young man and set off at full gallop.

It was the same at Neufchatel, at Ecculs and at Pontoise. At the last named place he changed his horse for the last time and at 9 o'clock galloped into the yard of M. de Treville's hotel. He had performed nearly sixty leagues in little more than twelve hours.

CHAPTER XVII.

The Ballet of La Merlaison.

On the morrow nothing was talked of in Paris but the ball which the aldermen of the city were to give to the king and queen.

At midnight great cries and loud acclamations were heard in the city. It was the king, who was passing through the streets which led from the Louvre to the Hotel de Ville and which were all illuminated with colored lamps. Immediately the aldermen, clothed in their cloth robes and preceded by six sergeants, holding each a flambeau in his hand, went to attend upon the king, whom they met on the steps, where the provost of the merchants offered him the compliment of welcome. Everybody observed that the king looked dull and preoccupied.

A closet had been prepared for the king with a masquerade habit. The same had been done with respect to the queen.

Half an hour after the entrance of the king fresh acclamations were heard. These announced the arrival of the queen. She entered the great hall, and it was remarked that, like the king, she looked dull and, moreover, fatigued.

At the moment she entered the curtain of a small gallery, which to that time had been closed, was drawn, and the pale face of the cardinal appeared, he being dressed as a Spanish cavalier. His eyes were fixed upon those of the queen and a smile of terrible joy passed over his lips. The queen did not wear her diamond studs.

All at once the king appeared at one of the doors of the hall. The cardinal was speaking to him in a low voice, and the king was very pale.

The king made his way through the crowd without a mask and the ribbons of his doublet scarcely tied. He went straight to the queen and in an altered voice said:

"Why, madame, have you not thought proper to wear your diamond studs when you know it would have given me so much gratification?"

"Sire," replied the queen with a faltering voice, "because, in the midst of such a crowd as this I feared some accident might happen to them. I can send for them to the Louvre, where they are, and thus your majesty's wishes will be complied with."

"Do so, madame—do so, and that at the quickest; for within an hour the ballet will commence."

The queen bent in token of submission and followed the ladies who were to conduct her to her closet. On his part the king returned to his.

The king came out first from his closet. He was in a hunting costume of the most elegant description.

The cardinal drew near to the king and placed in his hand a small casket. The king opened it and found in it two diamonds.

"What does this mean?" demanded he of the cardinal.

"Nothing," replied the latter; "only, if the queen has the studs, of which I very much doubt, count them, sire, and if you only find ten, ask her majesty who can have stolen from her the two studs that are here."

The king looked at the cardinal as if to interrogate him, but he had not time to address any question to him. A cry of admiration burst from every mouth. The queen was, without doubt, the most beautiful woman in France. It is true that the habit of a huntress became her admirably. She wore a beaver hat with blue feathers, a surtout of gray-pearl velvet, fastened with diamond clasps, and a skirt of blue satin, embroidered with silver. On her left shoulder sparkled the diamond studs upon a bow of the same color as the plumes and the skirt.

The king trembled with joy and the cardinal with vexation. Nevertheless, distant as they were from the queen, they could not count the studs. The queen had them. The only question was, had she ten or twelve?

At that moment the violins sounded the signal for the ballet. The king advanced toward Madame la Presidente of the ball, with whom he was to dance, and his highness Monsieur the Count of Soissons, a relative of the king, with the queen. They took their places, and the ballet began.

The king figured opposite the queen, and every time that he passed by her he devoured with his eyes those studs, of which he could not ascertain the number. A cold sweat covered the brow of the cardinal.

The ballet lasted an hour. It ended amid the applause of the whole assemblage, and every one reconducted his lady to her place. But the king took advantage of the privilege he had of leaving his lady to advance eagerly toward the queen.

"I thank you, madame," said he, "for the deference you have shown to my wishes, but I think you want two of the studs, and I bring them back to you."

"How, sire!" cried the young queen, affecting surprise. "You are giving me then two more. But then I shall have fourteen."

In fact, the king counted them, and the twelve studs were all on her majesty's shoulder.

The king called the cardinal to him.

"What does this mean, M. the Cardinal?" asked the king in a severe tone.

"This means, sire," replied the cardinal, "that I was desirous of presenting her majesty with these two studs and that, not daring to offer them myself, I adopted this means of inducing her to accept them."

"And I am the more grateful to your eminence," replied Anne of Austria, with a smile that proved she was not the dupe of this ingenious piece of gallantry, "from being certain these two studs have cost you as dearly as all the others cost his majesty."

Then after bowing to the king and the cardinal the queen resumed her way to the chamber in which she had dressed and where she was to take off her ball costume.

D'Artagnan, to whom Anne of Austria owed the extraordinary triumph she had obtained over the cardinal, was lost in the crowd gathered at one of the doors. He looked on at this scene, comprehensible only to four persons, the king, the queen, his eminence and himself.

The queen had just regained her chamber, and D'Artagnan was about to retire when he felt his shoulder lightly touched. He turned round and saw a young woman who made him a sign to follow her. The face of this young woman was covered with a black velvet mask, but he recognized Mme. Bonacieux.

On the evening before they had scarcely seen each other for a moment at the apartment of the Swiss Germain, whither D'Artagnan had sent for her. The haste which the young woman was in to convey to her mistress the excellent news of the happy return of her messenger prevented the two from exchanging more than a few words. D'Artagnan therefore followed Mme. Bonacieux, moved by a double sentiment, love and curiosity. She opened the door of a closet, which was entirely dark, and led D'Artagnan into it. There she made a sign of silence, and, opening a second door concealed by a tapestry and which opening spread at once a brilliant light, she disappeared.

D'Artagnan remained for a moment motionless, asking himself where he could be, but soon a ray of light which penetrated through the chamber, together with the warm and perfumed air which reached him from the same aperture, the conversation of two or three ladies in a language at once respectful and elegant and the word "majesty" two or three times repeated indicated clearly that he was in a closet attached to the queen's chamber.

The queen appeared to be cheerful and happy, which seemed to astonish the persons who surrounded her and who were accustomed to see her almost always sad and full of care. D'Artagnan heard her approach and withdrew from the partially open door, and twice or three times he even saw the shadow of a person intercept the light.

At length a hand and an arm, surpassingly beautiful in their form and whiteness, glided through the tapestry. D'Artagnan at once comprehended that this was his recompense. He cast himself on his knees, seized the hand and touched it respectfully with his lips. Then the hand was withdrawn, leaving in his an object which he perceived to be a ring. The door immediately closed, and D'Artagnan found himself again in complete darkness.

D'Artagnan waited. After the reward of his devotion that of his love was to come. The sound of voices diminished by degrees in the adjoining chamber. The company was then heard departing, then the door of D'Artagnan's closet was opened, and Mme. Bonacieux entered quickly.

"You at last?" cried D'Artagnan.

"Silence!" said the young woman, placing her hand upon his lips. "Silence, and begone the same way you came!"

"But where and when shall I see you again?" cried D'Artagnan.

"A note which you will find at home will tell you. Begone, begone!"

HANNA RESENTS DRURY'S SPEECH

Angry at Premier's Reflection on Accuracy of Financial Report.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—D. B. Hanna, President of the Canadian National Railways, stated most positively in a speech to the members of the Canadian National Newspapers and Periodicals Association that the statement of August and September earnings issued by the company "was based on facts only and, is correct.

Mr. Hanna made this announcement in reply to the reported speech of Premier Drury that the "Canadian railways have a trick of piling up a surplus just prior to elections." It was a pity, he said, that the Premier of Ontario should be the first to challenge the honesty of the management in respect to the favorable showing made by the National System.

Complains of Loose Talk

After saying that the Canadian National Railways were made the subject of a good deal of loose talk, which indicated that the speakers did not know what they were talking about, he went on to say that it remained for the Premier of Ontario to be the first to reflect on the honesty of the statements from time to time given out to the public.

"If Premier Drury is properly reported in The Globe of November 9," proceeded Mr. Hanna, "he made a statement in his speech at Napanee which cannot be allowed to go undisputed. In discussing the surplus announced by the Canadian National Railways during September, Premier Drury said: 'I find that Canadian railways have a trick of piling up a surplus just prior to elections . . . This is a matter which we may well question, and whether such a change has occurred so opportunely.'

Reflection on His Honesty

"As this would seen to be a direct reflection on the honesty of the management, I can, of course, say without equivocation that the statements of August and September earnings referred to were based on facts only and are correct. To state or infer that the statements were manipulated to indicate a false situation to assist the political fortunes of the Government prior to an election is grossly unfair and unture.

"From Mr. Drury's statement some might understand that the Government had something to do with the preparation of the figures used in the statement, whereas, of course, it has nothing to di with them and can, therefore, effect no changes for political purposes of otherwise.

Accuracy Beyond Question

"The accuracy of the statements is beyond question, and it is somewhat of a pity that the Premier of the Province of Ontario should be the first to challenge the honesty of the management in respect to the favorable showing made by the National System for the two months of August and September, which has been received so well by the country at large, and even favorably commented upon by those who are openly antagonistic to public ownership, but who recognize a good performance when they see it."

HEALTH LECTURE FRIDAY NIGHT

Over 15,000,000 Pieces of Literature Distributed in One Year.

The Metropolitan Health Extension Bureau, under the supervision of Mr. W. E. Dyer, for many years prominent in Church and Social Welfare Work in Toronto, conducted a most interesting Health Educational Lecture last evening, in the Victoria Ave., Baptist Church, where every available seat was occupied, and a very hearty vote of appreciation was tendered the lecturer.

Following these lectures any two copies of these booklets are sent by request free of charge to those who were present. "The Health of the Worker," "War on Consumption," "First Aid in the Home," "The Child," "Care of Teeth," "All About Milk," "Food Facts," etc., etc., These booklets are prepared by prominent Medical men, nurses and food specialists and are published for educational purposes only and intended to teach the fundamentals of health and the prevention of disease. They contain in advertising matter whatever, and are written in very plain conversational English.

This health educational work is entirely apart from the underwriting division of this great financial corporation and is part of a continent-wide program of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company to co-operate wherever the privilege is extended of doing so, with local Boards of Health, Municipal, Provincial and State organizations. This intensive Welfare Work and co-operative effort are carried on entirely gratis by the company.

During 1920 over 15,000,000 copies of Public Welfare literature were distributed throughout the continent. It is very difficult to estimate in any definite way the financial value of this work, but in conjunction with the company's Free Nursing Organizations in all of the larger cities very conservative statistics indicate the saving of 38,000 lives during last year. Since the organization of the Visiting Nursing Service arranged to care for maternity cases and for those who were ill and incidentally to teach sanitation and hygiene, up to January 1st, 1921, a total of 11,830,684 visits were made.

ALL CONTRACTS WILL STAND LIGHT

"All Rot" to Say 8,000,000 National Railway Ties "Lie Out to Rot"

Toronto, Nov. 18.—Emphatic declartion that remarks in criticism of Canadian National Railways, attrimuted to James Murdock, Liberal candidate in South Toronto, are without basis in fact, was made by D. B. Hanna president of the system. Mr. Hanna added that he had reference to the report in the Globe of yesterday of Mr. Murdock's speech in Kenwood Hall on Tuesday evening, and that in making his reply, he was assuming that Mr. Murdock had been correctly quoted. If this were the case, Mr. Murdock, in Mr. Hanna's opinion, "must be losing his head."

"All National Railways" contracts for equipment and other supplies will stand the light of day. In reply to questions in the House of Commons, full information as to rolling stock purchases was given, and there is nothing to 'come to light,' as Mr. Murdock stated," he continued.

"It is all rot about the ties 'lying out to rot.' They rot altogether too quickly to suit us. But when Mr. Murdock says there are eight million ties rotting on the National Railways, he is quite a long way out in his calculation, if it is the ties under the rails he refers to. There are some sixty million ties throughout the National system doing service every day. If Mr. Murdock is referring to the reserve supply along the lines at the various section points, he is again a long way out, as the purchases of an entire season would not amount to the total he gave in his speech. Mr. Murdock once having been a railway man, knows that on every section there should be some ties on hand, but, short of having all ties creosoted, which we cannot do at present on account of expense, there is no other way to prevent the operation of natural laws.

"If all Mr. Murdock's statements are as inaccurate as his remarks on the railway situation are—according to press reports of his speeches," concluded Mr. Hannt, "it would be difficult to attach any importance to them.

"The speech was made in Toronto and we are here on the job every day; and Mr. Murdock could have obtained authoritative information as easily, no doubt, as he did that secured elsewhere, if he desired the facts.

TUXIS BOYS OF CHRIST CHURCH ENTERTAIN

A Large Crowd Enjoyed Dancing and Games at Bennett's Academy.

Again on Friday evening Bennett's Dancing Academy was the scene of a social evening when the Tuxis Boys of Christ Church entertained their friends. A good crowd of young people were present and enjoyed themselves with games and most of all, dancing. Music for the dances was provided for by Miss Kathleen Diamond, pianist. After the usual dancing from 8 to 11-30 a dainty luncheon, which had been prepared by the girls was served and was thoroughly enjoyed judging from the way it disappeared.

At 12 o'clock dancing was again resumed and as the first part of the program had taken up so much time the second half was rushed through with two dances cut out. At 12-30 everyone entered the last waltz and after the strains of "God Save the King" had died away every one congratulated the boys on the splendid program and entertainment.

TRADE BOARDS SHY AT WEDDINB PUBLICITY

Lt.-Col. Henry Brock of Toronto is President for Next Year.

BRANTFORD, Ont. Nov. 18—Election of officers was the principal business before the associated boards of trade and chambers of commerce at the second day of the convention here. A resolution calling for publicity before marriage for medical examination was withdrawn, partly because it was felt that this was not the business for which the convention was held. The new president is Lt.-Col. Henry Brock, Toronto.

Four resolutions from Hamilton, Peterboro, Guelph and Sault Ste. Marie, were merged into one, with the Guelph resolution as the foundation. It called for greater protection for the investor against fraudulent stock promotions, and asked for a committee of each house to inquire into the whole subject of improper flotations and to make recommendations upon which legislation could be based and that Mr. Thomas Mulvey, K.C., be requested to act with such committee.

The Hamilton resolution calling for the adoption of the Western Canada Colonization Associaton plan for the prevention of alienation of colonization lands to the non-residents, was presented by Mayor Coppley of Hamilton, who pointed out that action was needed to thwart the western land speculators.

CANADIAN MOTHERS GIVEN GOOD ADVICE

Dr. Helen MacMurchy Outlines Work of Federal Health Department.

TORONTO, Nov. 19.—The development of Child Welfare work, under the Department of Health at Ottawa, as reviewed by Dr. Helen McMurchy at the Ontario Women's Institute convention was a revelation of the way in which the needs of rural women are being met by the "Little Blue Books" sent out as a guide to Canadian mothers. Hon. Manning Doherty, Minister of Agriculture, spoke at the evening session, touching on the good result which might be obtained in receiving newcomers to Canada if the women of the Dominion would co-operate with the Government in this respect. A phase of agricultural life which should be of efficient marketing. Discussions were held on constitutional questions pertaining to the National Federation of Women's Institutes, and on the new scheme advanced by the superintendent, Mr. Putnam, for further organization in Ontario. Interesting addresses were given by Miss Mary Yates, of the Ontario Horticultural Society, on "Outside the Country Home," and by Miss Lilian Smith, of the Public Library, Toronto, on "Story Telling."

A feature of the afternoon session was the presentation of a handsome leather travelling case to the retiring Provincial President, Mrs. Todd, of Orillia, who has been appointed to the presidency of the National Association, and of bouquets of flowers to Mrs. Sutherland Ross and Mrs. Macoun.

Dr. MacMurchy's address touched on the different divisions of public health work. A case of leprosy had been found in Canada, many victims of drugs had been discovered, patented medicines containing narcotics had been banned for children, an analysis of food was being made, attention was being given to proper housing conditions to prevention of venereal diseases, to research work, and very particularly to Child Welfare. The Home Series of books published were making their appeal to the men as well as the women. In 1920 there had been 247,291 births registered in Canada, and a card was sent to each mother at the time of the registration telling her of the welfare books for the home.

From one of the Indian reserves came an interesting report, given by Mrs. Hill, showing the development of home nursing, first aid and medical inspection. There were 29 members in the Women's Institute and 300 returned Inidan soldiers in the reserve. The Institute intended to assist in building a memorial hall for the veterans. Mrs. Walker outlined the history of the Stony Creek Institute, formed in 1897. The first meeting had decided to promote hygiene, sanitation, care of children and public health in the homes, and to open each session by repeating the Lord's Prayer. For twenty-five years the work had progressed, and to celebrate the 25th anniversary, a monster picnic would be held next summer.

Mrs. Stocking of East Simcoe, gave an account of the extension work. Mrs. Moffat told of the Sunday School which was kept up by the Women's Institute in North Grey and of the Christmas concert which was to be held. Mrs. Lindsay of Shelburne, spoke of the rest room which had been opened with the co-operation of the council. Mrs. A. B. Rose told of the rest room in Brantford and Mrs. Mainprize spoke on the development of library work. Mrs. Gardiner, Grey County, also told of the establishment of a rest room for the women who had to spend a few hours in town.

Rural beautifications and improvements formed the subject of Miss Yates' address. It was difficult, she said, to introduce the glory of color into home surroundings in the country, but this would best be effected by the use of bulbs against a background of trees and shrubs. It would be wise to ask the Government to organize supplies of vegetables, annual and perennial flower seeds.

"Mary had a little lamb,
That day has passed away;
No lamb could follow the pace that
Mary sets today,
For now she sits at motor wheel, with skirts too short by half.
No lamkin stays her airy flight, but you can see her calf."

The names of the new directors were announced: Mrs. C. A. Bleecker, Marmora: Mrs. E. W. Jennings, Lindsay; Mrs. Gardiner, Owen Sound; Mrs. S. B. Johnston, Islington; Mrs. F. Wilson, Mount Forest; Mrs. McDonnough, Capetown; Mrs. A. B. Rose, Echo Place; Mrs. A. A. Watt, Borbridge; while the remaining members are Mrs. A. H. Robertson, Maxville; Mrs. Dummer, Carleton Place; Mrs. Chas. Yates, Athens; Mrs. Edwards, Komoka; Mrs. Bruner, Olinda; Mrs. Kerstine, Matheson; Mrs. W. J. Nixon, Sault Ste. Marie, and Mrs. A. McTaggart, Fort Francis. The directors will elect the officers later.

REV. BEN SPENCE WRITES OPEN LETTER

Complete Nation-Wide Prohibition Not Receiving Sufficient Attention.

The following open letter has been addressed to the leaders of the three parties by the Rev. Ben H. Spence, Secretary of the Dominion Alliance:

An open letter to Hon. Arthur Meighen, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Hon. T. A. Crerar.

Gentlemen:—

Complete nation-wide prohibition of the manufacture, importation, exportation, and inter-provincial transportation of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes is a vital national issue that, so far, has not received attention proportionate to its importance in the present election campaign. This lack of discussion now, however, will not lessen the insistence with which the people of Canada will press the matter upon the next Parliament.

Past parliaments have debated and resoluted, but have done little. Over and over again the House of Commons has by overwhelming majorities adopted the following or a similar resolution:

> "That this House is of the opinion that the right and most effectual legislative remedy for these evils is to be found in the enactment and enforcement of a law prohibiting the importation, manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes."

If these parliaments were right in so affirming,—and they were,—our next parliament cannot go wrong in implementing these declarations by legislation.

The present situation is intolerable and the legislation upon our statute pitifully inadequate. There are four main points which should be effectively covered:

(1) Manufacture. It is time we went to the very root of this matter and stopped within Canada the manufacture of alcoholic beverages. Science has declared liquor to be unnecessary for human food and the consumption of it, according to the Dominion Parliament, "is productive of serious injury to the moral, social and industrial welfare of the people of Canada."

(2) Importation. What we forbid the making of, we should not allow to be brought into Canada from abroad.

BELLEVILLE FAMOUS AS AN EDUCATIONAL CENTRE

Public Men in Many Lands Remember Belleville Pleasantly as the Birth-place of Their Successful Career, in the Acquiring of a Sound, Educational Foundation—Belleville is Also Famous for Business Education Text Books.

One of Belleville's chief bids for fame is based upon the fact that this is a great and growing educational centre. Rising steadily upon the banks of the Bay of Quinte is a stately pile which will house the new and greater Albert College, a residential school, which is to embrace and enshrine in modern surroundings the old Albert hallowed by many historic associations and interesting tales of the schooling of many men famous since in the councils of this and other nations. Then there is St. Agnes School for girls, that beautiful boarding school which is known far and wide for the excellence and thoroughness of its tuition and its beautiful grounds and buildings.

Belleville High, Public and Separate schools are noted for splendid staffs and equipment, and every department of education is more than well represented in Belleville.

No reference to the educational institutions of Belleville would be complete without mentioning the most widely-known of all, the Ontario Business College. Rich in historical associations and known around the world for its splendid record of achievement in imparting a sound and practical business education, sound enough to serve safely as the stepping stone to active participation in the great and exacting marts of trade and commerce, thousands of graduates of the Ontario Business College at Belleville, scattered to the four quarters of the globe, bear enthusiastic testimony to the thoroughness of this educational institution.

Not the least interesting feature of the Ontario Business College, founded over fifty years ago, is the text books, which are a part of the institution, having originated and developed here, and the fame of their excellence having gone abroad a great demand for them has sprung up and many colleges have adopted them as text books.

Eighteenth Edition

It is worthy of note that the eighteenth edition of "The Canadian Accountant" has just come from the presses of The Intelligencer, which gives a practical illustration of the demand, eighteen editions and not satisfied yet. Then there are the other standard text books which originated in this college, "Joint Stock Company Bookkeeping'., and "Promissory Notes, Drafts and Cheques,".

These books are well printed, (fine coated book paper being used), bound in cloth and stamped in gold. The modern printing and book binding facilities of The Intelligencer are well illustrated in the excellent workmanship of "The Canadian Accountant" and accompanying text books of the Ontario Business College, of Belleville, and it can be said that The Intelligencer has the only equipment of the kind between Kingston and Toronto.

MR. I. L. MOORE
Principal Ontario Business College, Belleville

World-Wide Fame

Mr. I. L. Moore, Principal of the Ontario Business College, informed an Intelligencer representative that the demand for these text books is steadily increasing. The subject matter of the books is thoroughly revised with each edition and brought up-to-date. As pupils of the Ontario Business College during the past fifty years have come from many lands, North America, South America and the West Indies, so the fame of those texts books dies, so the fame of these text books lish-speaking world.

Recent orders filled at O.B.C. included one from The Royal Military College at Kingston for 75 copies of "The Canadian Accountant" and another from the Commerce Department of Queen's University, Kingston, for 40 copies of "Joint Stock Company Bookkeeping". Many other schools and colleges use these text books among them St. Jeroms's College, Kitchener, St. Anne's College, in Nova Scotia, and Ottawa University, Ottawa, for all of which orders have also recently been filled.

Although the new edition of "The Canadian Accountant" came from the press only in September, orders have already been shipped to many of the largest book stores in Victoria, Prince Rupert, Vancouver, Calgary, Brandon, Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax. An order came in last Friday from a Montreal book store for 60 copies of "The Canadian Accountant". A shipment was also lately made to a firm of booksellers in Barbados, West Indies, to be supplied by them to a college there.

The revision of these books and the proofreading was done by Mr. I. L. Moore, Principal of the Ontario Business College. During the past eighteen years Mr. Moore assisted in preparing several previous editions of each of the O.B.C. books.

INTERNAL BATHING, NATURE TREATMENT FOR CONSTIPATION

You can help Nature in Nature's most effectual way by Internal Bathing, and without the use of drugs keep the lower intestine in the celan condition which Nature demands for good health and vigor. Thousands of Canadians testify to the benefits derived from its use in cases of obstinate constipation, piles, indigestion, appendicitis and hardening of the arteries.

Frank Stanton of Port Stanton, Ont., writes:

"I must say that your 'J.B.L. Cascade' has been a great value to me, and I feel indebted to the inventor of this treatment,, since I have made use of your wonderful discovery. I feel twenty years younger and have not taken medicine of any sort."

The J.B.L. Cascade, used with sterilized warm water, is easy and pleasant in its effects. You bathe outside, why not bathe internally, too—it is far more important.

The J.B.L. Cascade is the perfected invention of Dr. Charles A. Tyrrell for Internal Bathing. It is now being shown and explained at McKeown's Drug Store, Belleville Ontario.

Ask them for free booklet all about it—or write to Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College street, Toronto.

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness or if you have roaring rumbling, hissing noises in your ears go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who is threatened with Catarrhal Deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

IT IS FALSE ECONOMY ... ...

To neglect that which is not only the Bread-winner, but the Health Preserver as well, that is the Eye Sight, and yet we hear many people say "I need Glasses or I need mine changed, but I cannot afford it just now." Such people are taking great risks. We are constantly being consulted by those who have been thus neglecting their eye sight until it is too late. It is also false economy not to consult the best Eye Sight Specialist in the beginning. we are Eye Sight Specialists every day in the year, we will not send you away at Christmas or Holiday season because we are too busy selling presents to attend to your Eyes. We specialize in difficult cases of bad vision, and Strain. Alexander Ray, Opt. D. Belleville's Exclusive Eye Sight Specialist..

N.B.—As an evidence that people are more and more patronizing Exclusive Optometrists, a few years ago we signed "the only exclusive E. S. Sp. between Toronto and Montreal", a little later it was between Toronto and Kingston," and now it is "between Oshawa and Kingston". I presume soon we will have more than one exclusive Optometrist in Belleville, in the meantime I am the only one.—A.R.

BOXING

Ted "Kid" Lewis, the English middleweight champion, defeated Boy McCormick in the fourteenth round of a twenty-round bout, at London Eng. The referee stopped the fight in order to save McCormick from further punishment. McCormick bled profusely from a cut over one of his eyes during the final round, and was greatly hampered in his work. In the fourteenth round, Lewis drove a hard blow to McCormick's mouth, knocking out one of his teeth. At the close of this round the referee made an examination of McCormick's injured eye, and then declared Lewis the winner of the bout.

CANADA'S PREMIER PRIME MOVER OF WASHINGTON CONFERENCE.

What may be the greatest event of the century, or of all time for that matter, is in the making at Washington now in the limitation of armaments conference at which Great Britain, the United States, France, Japan, China and other countries are represented. Close observers see in the Washington conference the greatest opportunity for good in gatherings of men since time began. The very opening of the conference was charged with electricity and the world was astounded by the amazing suggestion of the United States through Mr. Hughes that the navies of the world be practically scrapped, giant warships reduced to junk and for ten years not a keel be laid for a floating war machine.

The possibilities for doing away with all war are immense and the events thus far at the United States capital have started the world thinking upon the foolishness and wastefulness of war, no more striking exemplification of which can be had than the present widespread misery and turmoil in Europe and Asia, and unemployment, bitterness and burden-carrying in other countries.

The Voice of Destiny.

With all the great momentous history making at Washington we are liable to forget who made the Washington Conference possible. It was Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Premier of Canada, who by his sane and well-thought-out pronouncement upon the Japanese question at the Imperial Conference of Dominion Premiers when he placed his finger on the only real danger spot to the world's peace and made suggestions which are becoming clearer every day as the only real solution of great world problems and an assurance of a permanent peace, planted the seed which sprouted into this great world's conference at Washington.

Grattan O'Leary, who represented the Canadian Press at the Conference of Premiers in England, was very close to Premier Meighen during the deliberations, and in the best informed circles it is believed that Mr. O'Leary, in his writings, correctly voices the sentiments of Canada's talented Premier. Writing in MacLean's Magazine Mr. O'Leary said:

Inspiration Came From Meighen.

"Without Canada's stand at the Imperial Conference, and even at an earlier date, this Pacific-Disarmament Conference (at Washington) might never have been held. The simple truth is that as early as February 14, 1921, this government (the Meighen government of Canada) acting through the Canadian Department of External Affairs, believing that the Anglo-Japanese Alliance ought not to be renewed, communicated its views to the British Government and suggested that the United States Government be approached as to whether it would be willing to agree to a conference on Pacific affairs with Great Britain and Japan. The suggestion, it is known, was not acted upon at the time. The British Government, although favorable to what was proposed, evidently believed that the difficulties in the way were greater than the Canadian Government supposed; the position of Australia, believed at that time to be strongly in favor of renewing the Japanese Alliance, was cited as an obstacle; and the question was temporarily dropped."

When Mr. Meighen arrived in England in June to attend the Premier's Conference he found England, Australia and New Zealand strongly favoring the renewal of the alliance. Mr. O'Leary maintains that it was only the action of Premier Meighen that prevented the renewal. The following is Mr. Meighen's statement to the Premiers' Conference, in effect, as given by Mr. O'Leary:

Outlived Its Usefulness.

"I am opposed to this alliance because it has outlived its usefulness. It was entered into to curb the Pacific ambitions of Germany and Russia. Today these nations are impotent for evil; no nation menaces British or Japanese interests in the East.

"To-day, broadly speaking, there are three great powers in the world—the British Empire, the United States and Japan. If any two of these enter into a separate alliance, then there can be but one result. The third—in this case it would be the United States—will arm, which means we, too, will have to arm, the consequence being a race in armaments that can produce only misery, if not ruin.

"It is not that I desire to reject the friendship of Japan; it is that I do not wish to purchase that friendship at the price of making enemies of other nations . . . . I therefore urge that we have a conference with both the United States and Japan; that the three governments sit down together and see whether they can not solve whatever difficulties exist on a basis of understanding and good-will."

The Japanese and United States Embassies were asked to sound out their respective governments on the step that Mr. Meighen had proposed, and one week later President Harding, with the Borah naval limitation resolution to work on, issued his invitation for a conference.

Canada was not included in that invitation. It may be argued that Canada is included in the British Empire. But Canada is a Dominion, a nation within a federation of nations, to be sure, but nevertheless a nation with its own voice, its own ideals and its own separate problems. And those problems are more the problems of the United States than of Great Britain.

Japan forms the knot in the international yarn that the Washington Conference must unravel before anything can be done toward weaving a satisfactory garment of peace for the world. There are two nations to whom the intricacies of that knot appear as identical. Those two nations are Canada and the United States.

CRISP COMMENT

Belleville Boy Scouts are a real force in the community. "Do a Good Deed Every Day" is their slogan, and they are always ready to answer the call to worth-while community service. Their latest service was in making the house-to-house canvass for subscriptions to the Muskoka Free Sanitarium for Consumptives. Life in the open and the daily practice of Scout principles make for manhood and ideal citizenship.

It is alleged that the watchmen at the Bay Bridge railway crossing are to be withdrawn and mechanical signals substituted, and that a similar innovation is contemplated for Pinnacle street in the removal of the gates. What we have we should hold, and the civic authorities should take steps at once to combat vigorously any lessening in the protection to life and property now existing. People who flirt with death and ride gaily past a wig-wag and bell signal have a habit of pulling up when a human watchman waves a flag at them.

Visitors to the Bell Telephone exchange this week were at least enlightened upon one point—they found that every day is a busy day with the operators who answer the calls; indeed, every minute is occupied. The idea which might have been held by some that the Hello Girl has a cinch, lolling back in a luxurious chair, chewing gum, reading a novel and languidly answering an occasional call, was rudely dispelled, for it would seem that the girls have only time to think, and think fast at that, as their busy hands manipulate the plugs and keep a multitude of clamoring conversationalists from tearing their hair. Fortunately the Bell Telephone Company has a soul, and the girls are given comparatively short periods at the switchboard, with frequent rests in comfortable rest rooms provided for them. The Hello Girl is a busy girl and merits sympathy, appreciation and all the patience patrons can muster.

Instead of a speedway Belleville's business section could be turned into a shopping zone on Saturday nights. Vehicular traffic is not needed on the main drag this one night of the week when the shoppers are out in force. It may be exciting for a time dodging death trying to cross the street full of motorists aimlessly shooting up and down and rubbering at the maidens on the walks, but the excitement soon loses its charm. Merchants should cut out deliveries after seven o'clock Saturday night and every vehicle should be barred from the street in a well defined zone, and the market place opened as a parking place with a man in charge. Christmas shopping is coming on. Let us make Front Street safe for the shoppers and better for the shop-keepers.

BUT NEVER A SOLDIER

St. John Standard

Mr. King is a trimmer from the word go. He has no settled course, but changes his plans to meet every little variation of political sentiment that he meets with. In his time he has run the whole gamut of tariff policies from free trade to high protection. What he really thinks, nobody knows, and it may be doubted if he knows himself. Except that he is most elastic in his opinions instead of being stiff, Dryden's lines on—Buckingham was it?—would seem to apply very aptly to the honorable Willie:

"A man so various, he seemed to be
Not one, but all mankind's epitome:
Stiff in opinions, always in the wrong,
Everything by turns, and nothing long;
Who, in the course of one revolving moon
Was Chemist, Fiddler, Statesman and Buffoon."

THE WOMEN VOTERS

Halifax Herald

If women are to vote and work with men, it is essential that they should have organization of their own as effective as those of the men. The two are likely to do much better work apart than together. Their co-operation would be made more effective by separation, because of the spirit of friendly emulation which would be aroused in the task of registering and polling voters of the different sexes. Therefore, we commend such organization to the earnest and immediate attention of all thoughtful and patriotic Liberal and Conservative women throughout the province. They have a leader in Mr. Meighen and a cause in his policy of protection for the home industry and home life, of Canada, which demand and are well worth, their utmost exertions.

Ambassador of millions,
We do not know thy name;
O nameless one, who died for us,
Undying be thy fame.

To-day, where sleep our glorious dead,
A King mourns at thy grave;
An Empire bows in grief her head—
An Empire thou didst save.

Ambassadors of Britons,
Who died that we might live,
Foremost within her Hall of Fame
Thy honored place we give.

What shall we call thee, nameless one?
Briton shall be thy name,
Type of her hero warrior sons
And envoy of her fame.

In peace sleep on, O nameless one,
Sleep; thou hast earned thy rest
By task achieved, by victory won;
Sleep, by an Empire blessed.

THE LESSON OF THE WOODS

(By H. D. [illegible])

If you are worn and long for quiet rest,
Away from city strife and business cares
Go to the woods, the sun-clad mountain crest,
And learn the lesson that Dame Nature bares.

If you are weary of life's tinsel craze,
And long for all that's honest, true and best,
Go to the lakes, the bonnie woodland braes;
All nature speaks of hope and heavenly rest.

If you're oppressed and living darksome looks,
With nothing left to memory but a sigh:
Go to the grassy vales, the babbling brooks,
You'll soon forget, and nature glorify.

If you are losing faith in human kind
And doubt that there's a living God on high,
If you are racked with torture of the mind,
And crave for truth and all it may imply:

Go to the woods, where myriad creatures throng,
Where every whisper stirs the swaying trees
The rippling white cascade, the birds' sweet song,
The wondrous forests' growth, the gentle breeze;
The soothing patter of the lake's lapped shore,
All speak to you of God. You'll doubt no more.

KEEP HEALTHY DURING WINTER

Colds and Diseases May Be Avoided If The Blood is Kept Pure

Do not let your blood get thin this winter. For people who have a tendency towards anaemia, or bloodlessness, winter is a trying season. Lack of exercise and fresh air, and the more restricted diet, are among the many things that combine to lower the tone of the body and deplete the blood.

As soon as you notice the tired feeling, lack of appetite and shortness of breath that are warning symptoms of thin blood, take a short course of treatment with Dr. Williams Pink Pills. Do not wait until the color has entirely left your cheeks, until your lips are white and your eyes dull. It is so much easier to correct thinning of the blood in the earlier stages than later. This is well illustrated in the case of Mrs. E. Williams, Elk Lake, Ont., who says:—"I take great pleasure in letting you know the benefit I have found in the use of Dr. Williams Pink Pills. I was in an anaemic condition, and was very weak and run down. The least exertion would leave me breathless and it was with difficulty that I did household work. I was advised to try Dr. Williams Pink Pills and after the use of four boxes I felt like a new person. In fact my system seemed filled with new energy and new life. I strongly recommend this medicine to all who feel weak or run down."

The purpose of Dr. Williams Pink Pills is to build up the blood. They do this one thing and they do it well. They are for this reason an invaluable remedy in diseases arising from bad or deficient blood, as rheumatism, neuralgia, after-effects of the grip or fevers. The pills are guaranteed to be free from opiates or any harmful drug and cannot injure the most delicate system.

You can procure Dr. Williams Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or they will be sent you by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing direct to The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MARY JANE RAY

The remains of the late Mary Jane Ray who passed away early Sunday morning at her home in the 3rd Con. Sidney were laid to rest in the family burial ground at Shannonville. Funeral service was held at the home. Rev. Rural Dean Swayne conducted a very impressive service. The deceased was in her 84th year and was an earnest christian, living a life of patience and fortitude that was in keeping with her religious faith.

Since her girlhood days she had been a member of the Anglican church.

Her end was peaceful, sleeping quietly into the great unknown. She raised a large family and was a loving mother and loyal friend to all. She will be greatly missed by her loved ones but we know and feel that what is an earthly loss is a heavenly gain. She was always ready to lend a helping hand in time of trouble or sickness. Most of her married life was spent in Melrose and Sidney.

She was the widow of the late Irvine Ray who predeceased her fifteen years ago.

SAMUEL DE MILL

The funeral of the late Samuel De Mill took place from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. H. Greenleaf on Friday afternoon. The large number of friends in attendance showed the esteem in which the late Mr. De Mill was held by all who knew him. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. W. Elliott. Burial took place at Belleville cemetery. The bearers being members of the family.

A Young Woman Must Develop

ONE-MINUTE ESSAYS ON HEALTH BY DR. WM. P. REDICK

There seemed to be a conspiracy of both work and recreation in the case of this young woman which prevented her from getting a normal amount of male companionship. She became afflicted with nerves. The eyes twitched, the feet would kick and there were other involuntary acts.

Being advised she was threatened with St. Vitus' dance, she consulted a chiropractor, and he found spinal conditions caused her congested and suppressed emotions which yielded readily. The fact that her natural emotions had no outlet caused a nervous reaction that might have had serious consequences.

Chiropractic spinal adjustments remove the cause of diseases of the head, throat, lungs heart, stomach, liver, kidneys and intestinal organs.

WORK OR UNEMPLOYMENT

The Problem Before 600,000 Canadian Workers and Their 2,000,000 Dependents.

The interest of 600,000 Canadian workers, of their 2,000,000 dependents, and of great elements in the population who depend for their prosperity upon the expenditures of labor and industry in the Dominion, are menaced by the expressed determination of class groups in Canada to destroy the tariff and introduce reciprocity and free trade as the country's fiscal policies. The best minds in the labor movements are alive to the situation, but every effort is being made to conceal the true issue from the great body of workers. Mr. Tom Moore and Mr. P. M. Draper, President and Secretary-Treasurer, respectively, of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, know the true situation. In their statement before the Tariff Committee on behalf of the Congress, they said:

"The development of Canada and the establishment of an ever-improving standard of living are the immediate concern of every citizen, and we are convinced that this would be impossible of accomplishment under a system of free trade unless, and until, the whole world adopted free trade and an equal standard of living which are as yet outside the realm of practical affairs.

"Canada is placed in the centre of competition. To the south, the United States, with its huge and fully-developed industries turning out products in mass and with a great home market fully protected to supply; to the east, the workshop of the world, Great Britain, with a century of industrial development behind her and numberless workers whose wage standard was far below that which Canadian workers should be expected to accept; while to the west the Orient, with its hordes of cheap laborers to flood our market at any time, if there were no bars against them."

TOM MOORE AND PADDY DRAPER.

Mr. Moore and Mr. Draper spoke for labor as a whole, but all over the Dominion there has been individual testimony to the truth of their argument. Mr. J. T. Taylor, President of the Trades and Labor Council of Montreal, has said for his organization:

"We are fully aware of, and widely awake to, the fact that we depend for our existence upon the development and expansion of the Canadian industrial establishment. We consider it our heritage, our inalienable right as citizens of the Dominion to build our homes and to plan for the future in the rearing of our families on Canadian soil. We believe that it is the duty of our Government to so manage our fiscal policy that the Canadian workman will not be compelled through idleness in industry to migrate to foreign lands to find employment and earn his living. . . .

"Just at the present we are in the usual dilemma of tariff excitement. There is a great contraction in industry. There is spreading unemployment. The plans are unfolding for a real tariff conflict. We view the western campaign for indiscriminate tariff reduction and for free trade with considerable alarm. We protest that our connection with industry is more intimate than that of the western farmer. Many of us have worked in American industries. We realize the vastness of their wealth, their tremendous industrial organization, their huge commercial ramifications. By experience we have learned to appreciate the comparative development of Canadian with American and foreign industries. We fully realize that Canadian industry needs to be protected exactly the same as American industries have been protected if we are to be in a position to compete."

TORONTO TYPOS FOR PROTECTION.

Labor representative after labor representative appeared before the Tariff Committee in its hearings all across Canada, and urged the retention of adequate protection in the interests of their own wages and unemployment. The Toronto Typographical Union has a membership of over 1300, practically 100 per cent. of the printers of Toronto, "whose livelihoods as well as those of their families," their representative told the Tariff Committee, "are dependent upon the prosperity of the printing industry." And that union asked not only for adequate protection, but for all possible safeguards to "prohibit the wholesale flooding of the Canadian market with a cheaply produced foreign product."

FORTY-FIVE CENTS A DAY WAGES.

When Mr. Sullivan, the business- agent of Toronto Local No. 28, International Brotherhood of Bookbinders and Bindery Women Workers, appeared at the same hearing, he urged that at least the present tariff should be retained or that if any change were made it should be increased. Mr. R. J. Kirk, representing the British Imperial Association, of Earlscourt, and the workers of that district, was a mechanic working in a brush factory, a branch of an industry located in Newark, N.J. The wages in brush factories in Japan, he told the committee, are forty-five cents a day. "I do not see how we can compete with them without a tariff. I have a stake in the country. I have raised children. We feel we are glad to get employment that enables us to keep our families going."

All over the Dominion there is a wealth of similar evidence of the necessity of adequate protection in the interests of Canadian workers, evidence of practical men concerned to maintain their standard of living and to retain their jobs in Canada. They have no patience with theories that even free trade advocates themselves admit would mean, if put into practice, dislocation of Canadian business, widespread unemployment, and distress.

"The change from protection to free trade," says Dr. F. W. Tussig, of the Department of Economics of Harvard University, appointed chairman of the Tariff Commission by President Wilson, and formerly an out and out free trader, "would be absolutely large. There would be shut-downs, attempts to meet the situation by lowering wages, strikes, slow transfer of laborers to other regions and other industries, buisness failures, empty mills and villages, a trying readjustment of prices, and probably of the general scale of money wages, hard times, and uncertain employment."

Wool and textile workers remember the time when extreme tariff concessions under British preference closed seventy-five per cent. of the Canadian woollen mills and nearly destroyed the industry. When the Tariff Committee appeared at St. John, N.B., workers with long memories came before it urging effective protection for the textile industry and arguing that the prosperity of whole communities would be greatly affected if low tariff closedthe mills and created widespread industrial unemployment.

A HAMILTON MACHINIST TALKS.

Mr. R. Buchanan, a machinist, of Hamilton, with twenty years' experience, appeared before the same committee on behalf of those "who are dependent upon practical employment." "I believe," he said, "that if anything should be done to put us back to the first years of my experience in this country by means of a low tariff, it would be disastrous." So, Mr. L. Lancaster, of St. Mary's, master workman, with no theories to affect his practical vision, urged that any change in the tariff affecting manufacturers was bound to affect workers. Appearing for the industrial workers of the community, he said:

"In our town about 80 per cent. of the residents own their own homes, and it would be a conservative estimate to say that probably from 55 to 60 per cent. of the workers own their own homes. Anything that is conducive to the life of the manufacturers is also conducive to the life of the laborers or workmen. Anything that would tend to the demoralization of our manufacturing industry would tend to unemployment and demoralization among the men because it is bound to have that effect in any industrial centre. Unemployment, by cutting off wages, leads to poverty and crime."

Only a short time ago, nine Canadian companies were manufacturing tractors. They were put on the free list.

Between February, 1918, and June, 1920, close to 22,000 farm tractors valued for customs purposes at approximately $22,000,000, were imported into Canada. If these tractors had been made in the Dominion, employment would have been provided for 10,000 men and at least $10,000,000 would have been distributed in wages. Now it is proposed to put all farm implements and machinery on the free list! Mr. Thomas Findley, President of the Massey-Harris Company, in a public statement which he gave to the press on September 7, said:

""My opinion is that free trade in implements means the inevitable shifting of the manufacture of western Canadian implements from Ontario and Quebec to the Western Middle States. If there is to be neither tariff nor sentimental preference to offset the geographical handicap, we shall be forced sooner or later to establish ourselves on equal terms with our competitors. So far as my company is concerned we are not going to lose our western Canadian trade, even if we have to build another factory in the Western States. Therefore, our workmen, other industries which furnish us with materials, and those generally dependent upon them, are much more vitally interested in this matter than we are."—Canadian Reconstruction Association.

THE COLLEGE GIRL

Once more Belleville is to have an opportunity to see its native sons and daughters display their histrionic ability on a local stage. The Argyll Chapter, I.O.D.E., has given the Belleville public some notable productions in the past. First was "The Golden Age," that wonderful comic opera by our talented fellow citizen, the late J. Wm. Doyle. In 1918, the first of the present series of musical comedy offerings, "The Girl From Kokomo" was presented under the direction of Mr. Wm. L. Doyle, and met with such wonderful success that the following year saw the production of "The Winning Girl." This offering met with such high success as the two original performances that it was necessary to repeat it. At the repeated performance more than five hundred people were turned away, unable to gain admission. As it is felt by the mangement that this year's offering, "The College Girl," is superior to either of its predecessors, it was decided to produce for three nights to give everyone a chance to enjoy this delightful musical comedy. Therefore on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, November 28, 29, 30, "The College Girl" will be presented at Griffin's with the same talented caste and chorus, including all of the old favorites and a host of new ones, the lady principles including Mrs. A. P. Allen, Miss Ivy Dickens, Miss Anna Ponton, Mrs. Jack Williams, Mrs. R. Baker, Miss Davis, Miss Cooper, and the gentlemen of the caste will include J. L. R. "Bob" Gorman, W. L. Doyle, Fred S. Sprague, J. M. Booth, Jack Williams, C. A. Cameron, Harold G. Davison.

During the five previous performances given by this company, there never has been a vacant seat. As such will be the case again, purchasers of seats should secure same in advance. First come, first served. The plan opens Wednesday next, November 23rd at 9 a.m.

The management at a great expense has secured the services of the phenominal Russian violinst, Mr. Harry Adaskin. The citizens of Belleville will indeed be fortunate to hear this wonderful artist and is another evidence that the promise of "the best of all" will be fulfilled.

Famous Waxworks

After providing entertainment for nearly one hundred and twenty years, it has been rumored that Madame Tussaud's famous exhibition will be brought to America and perhaps to Canada.

It was in 1802 that Madame Tussaud, niece of Christoper Curtius, the pioneer artist in wax, arrived in this country with her exhibition.

Everybody who has been anybody in history has been portrayed in wax at Madame Tussaud's, each model being carefully dressed in the style of the period.

The story is recalled of a portly dame who waddled towards the paytable of the exhibition many years ago wearing an exaggerated crinoline. The shuffling of her feet was accompanied by an unaccountable sound of pattering, which led to her being kept under observation. As soon as she found herself among the figures and apparently hidden from view, the woman raised her crinoline and out stepped two little boys.

Sometimes celebrities visiting the exhibition have been mistaken for models. Mark Twain once went to Madame Tussaud's and stood for some time admiring a particularly clever piece of work. He was aroused by a sudden stab in his side. Turning quickly, he found himself face to face with a dumbfounded matron with her parasol still pointed at him.

Such incidents led the late George Grossmith to play a practical joke. At the exhibition he stood still in a line with other celebrities — waxen ones. People stopped and said: "Ah, Grossmith! Capital likeness! How excellent!" "Dear little Grossmith—one would think he was alive!" Then the effigy nooded grotesquely, and slowly extended a hand. Spectators fled as though for their lives.

The famous cricketer, Dr. W. G. Grace, was fond of telling the story of an old servant whom he treated on one occasion to a trip to London. On her return, he asked her what had pleased her most among the sights of the Metropolis.

"Then you must have seen me there?" said her master.

"No, that I did not, sir."

"What! How did you miss me? I am there as large as life."

"Well, sir, to tell you the truth, it cost sixpence extra to go into the Chamber of Horrors."

One of the best stories told by Mr. John T. Tussaud in "The Romance of Madame Tussaud's" concerns Sir Squire Bancroft. Models of Sir Squire and Lady Bancroft, in the character of Peg Woffington and Triplet in "Masks and Faces," had been added to the exhibition, which was shortly afterwards visited by a young man from the country who went straight to the Chamber of Horrors. He said he wanted to see the "Squire who murdered a triplet!"

Mr. George R. Sims, the famous author and dramatist, is included in the collection of waxen celebrities. A woman friend once asked him what his sensations were when he saw his model.

"I felt very frightened indeed," he replied, promptly. "I am sorry I ever promised to become a waxwork, for I have been told since that if the public grow weary of your presence, or the Tussauds get offended with you, they melt you down and build up a more popular fellow out of your dripping. Nasty idea, very!"

When Dr. Jackson was Bishop of London a curate observed that he had just visited Madame Tussaud's, where, he had been told, a figure of his grace was on view.

He regretted he could not find the figure, although he had searched for it high and low.

"Oh," said the bishop, "haven't you heard? They melted me down for Charles Peace!"

Trade Drops.

That Canadian exports per head of the population jumped from $40 in 1910 to $179 in 1918, and down to $132 in 1921, was shown in the monthly trade returns issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce. The figures for the intervening years follow: 1911, $38; 1912, $40; 1913, $47; 1914, $56; 1915, $52; 1916, $91; 1917, 1919, 1920; $138. The basis of population on which these figures were estimated were: 1917, 8,361,000; 1918, 8,593,000; 1919, 8,835,000; 1920, 9,030,000; 1921, 9,223,000.

The Exacting Public.

"Do you agree with the late P. T. Barnum that the public likes to be humbugged?"

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum. "The public likes a little incidental nonsense, but it isn't safe to attempt it unless you are, like Barnum, smart enough to give a regular money's-worth show along with it."

SO MANY PEOPLE ARE NERVOUS

"Fruit-a-tives" the Greatest of all Nerve Remedies

This Fruit Medicine Restores Health

The increase in the number of persons suffering from Nervousness is world-wide; due, in a measure, to the reaction following the war. Sleeplessness, Headaches, Mental Depression, Rheumatism, Nervous Dyspepsia, Bad Heart Action, are the results of a disturbed condition of the Nervous System.

The nerves and the blood are so intimately, so vitally, connected that the condition of one is bound to affect the condition of the other. If the blood is laden with impurities, it is impossible to have strong, steady nerves.

The first essential in treating nervous troubles is to purify and enrich the blood. This, "FRUIT-A-TIVES" will do.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" stimulates the bowels, kidneys and skin and purifies the blood. "Fruit-a-tives" improves appetite and digestion and insures food being properly digested, thus enabling the blood to carry wholesome nourishment to build up the body, particularly the nerves.

Men and women who take "Fruit-a-tives" for some form of nervousness—because they cannot eat or sleep or work or enjoy life—say that this fruit medicine is simply marvellous in its action.

50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa Ont.

New Styles in Veils

Oval veils and triangular veils are shown among the new styles. They have dainty borders and mesh centres with fine dots or delicate handhun patterns. The oval veil is thrown over the hat, falling about to the line of the nose at the front and to a balancing depth at the back, while the sides drape down to the shoulders. The triangular veil has its point just over the chin, and two other points drape over the hat brim behind the ears. Specially smart are veils of silvery mesh with small gleaming dots made of silver thread.

Wash and thoroughly dry medium-sized grapefruits and cut in halves crosswise. Separate the pulp from the bitter white skin and thick membrane with a sharp knife; remove all seeds. Remove the pulp from the shell, cut in uniform pieces and combine with it small amounts of cubed orange-pulp and white grapes cut in halves. Sweeten the mixture to taste; chill. Before serving, refill the grapefruit with the fruit pulp. Garnish each filled shell with a maraschino cheerry.

Efficient Housekeeping

BY Laura A. Kirkman

"WHAT SHALL I SERVE WITH POULTRY?"

Last week I wrote upon the subject of what to serve with the various meats at a company dinner; today I am going to suggest vegetables and sauces appropriate to serve with the various birds.

With Chicken and Fowl: White potatoes in any form, glazed sweet potatoes, rice croquettes, chestnut croquets, hominy croquettes, mushrooms, corn fritters, ilma or shell beans, squash, onions, greens of all kinds, all of the summer vegetables, celery, cranberry jelly and one of the following sauces: chestnut sauce, celery sauce, cranberry sauce, curry sauce, or oyster sauce.

With Turkey: White potatoes in any form, glazed sweet potatoes, onions, baked canned corn, turnip, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, cranberry jelly or sauce, chestnut stuffing, oyster stuffing, old-fashioned sage stuffing, sausage stuffing and celery.

With Squabs, Broiled or Roasted served as the main course at a formal luncheon, serve only light vegetable as the main course at a formal luncheon, serve only light vegetables such as fried potato balls, spinach in pastry shells (like tarts), asparagus on toast, peas in potato nests or creamed in ramekins, mushrooms creamed, string beans and currant jelly. But if the squabs are served as the game course at a formal dinner, they should come upon the table either on buttered toast spread wit ha puree of cooked calves liver; or they should be served in a nest of chestnut puree. Green salad of any kind or salads in which oranges are the chief ingredient, may be served with the squab dish in this game course.

Roasted Grouse or Guinea Chicken: Serve only delicate vegetables such as potato croquettes, sweet potatoes French fried, asparagus tips on toast (the canned will do, with a cream sauce), string beans or peas creamed, celery croquettes, and bread sauce.

With Broiled Guinea Chicken: Serve the same vegetables as for Roasted Guinea Chicken, except serve currant jelly or currant jelly sauce instead of the bread sauce.

With Goose: Serve white potatoes in any form, onions, turnips, squash, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, brown giblet gravy, apple sauce and celery.

With Domestic Duck: Serve onions always—either boiled or as a souffle. Any of the vegetables served with Chicken and Fowl are appropriate to choose from for the other vegetables. Fried hominy and celery are also suitable accompaniments.

With Wild Duck: A salad is generally served with wild duck, instead of vegetables. Or simply such greens as romaine, lettuce, or cress may accompany it in the game course of a formal dinner. If served with a salad, oranges should be the main ingredient of the salad, or cumquats. A delicious salad is a combination of sliced oranges, walnut-meats, lettuce and French dressing.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

REV. BEN SPENCE WRITES OPEN LETTER

There is the same danger from imported liquors as from domestic.

(3) The present border situation outrages our national sense of honor, and is fraught with danger to ourselves. It is shameful that Canada should be the base of operations for unprincipled bandits who avail themselves of our loose laws to carry on what is practically warfare against the government of the United States of America, and that weaker races in other countries should be debauched by Canadian whiskey.

(4) Interprovincial Transportation. Liquor should not be permitted to be shipped between provinces, and by, or to persons authorized by their respective governments, either to ship or receive the same, and for provincially permitted purposes.

The preamble to Dominion war-time prohibition stated that it was passed "in order to prevent waste, to promote thrift, to conserve resources, and thus to increase national efficiency." Surely all this is needed in these strenuous times of reconstruction and depression when we are staggering under taxation and have the war yet to pay for.

Dominion Legislation to be effective must not be sectional, applying only to certain parts of Canada. Nor will the extension and exercise of provincial autonomy (nice as that phrase may sound) solve the problem. A national disease cannot be cured by simply seeking to localize the infection. Rigorous systematic treatment is absolutely necessary. Not only so, but there is, in my judgment, more danger to inter-provincial harmony and good feeling from the present conflicting laws in different provinces, than would result from one comprehensive enactment applying equally to all.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was right when he said he was "strongly opposed to the enactment for any province of legislation that did not apply to the whole Dominion; legislation ought to tend to promote unity rather than separate the different communities."

Why should we rule any province or provinces out of confederation in regard to prohibitory legislation any more than in regard to legislation dealing with tariff, or immigration, or taxation?

Nor have we good reason to suppose that any serious resentment would be felt or opposition expressed by any substantial part of Canada because of the enactment of thorough-going prohibition laws. Indeed the evidence is all to the contrary. Seven provinces now have provincial prohibition and want national prohibition. Two provinces have partial prohibition with strong sections in each favoring a nation-wide law. Every province in Canada accepted war-time prohibition; nor could a distinction be drawn between the loyalty of their acquiescence in this regard.

Rev. Ben—Galley 2

Canada is a nation. Let us think and act nationally. The people of Canada seek not simply the local amelioration of present conditions, but the solution of this great problem. They are not content, nor should they be asked to wait for national prohibition till every part of the country is ready. This is a democracy, in which both individuals and localities subordinate their personal desires for the common good.

You gentlemen have been chosen as leaders of public opinion and the country earnestly looks to you to act as such, not only as in your respective parties, but in great national affairs, not only as leaders of thought, but leaders of action; and thus constructive, progressive statesmen.

We earnestly ask you, gentlemen, to lead us to that higher ground of prosperity, peace, happiness and honor, that can only be reached when there is lifted from our nation this blighting degenerating curse of alcoholism.

What an inspiration it would be to the cause of reform throughout the world if there should be witnessed here in Canada the unselfish emulation of national leaders co-operating for the overthrow of a national evil. In earnest hope that in this Canada we love, we may, through our chosen leaders, work out the solution of this great problem that has defied and defiled too long our Christian civilization.

I am, with much respect,

Yours sincerely,

BEN H. SPENCE.

Rinso

Just Soak the Clothes in Rinso Suds—then Rinse

It's not a cake soap—not a chip soap—not a washing powder, but a wonderful new form of soap—in granules—which washes clothes immaculately clean—gleaming white—without either rubbing or boiling.

These pure granules are so rich in cleansing value that they loosen the hardest dirt while the clothes soak for a few hours. Yet Rinso is so harmless that it doesn't even redden your hands.

It seems almost unbelievable that RINSO cleans so easily. Just soak the clothes for a few hours in the pure, rich, cleansing Rinso suds—then rinse a few times in either warm or cold water and they are as clean and white as though you had boiled and rubbed them for hours. One trial will convince you.

Try RINSO Next Monday

Follow the easy directions on the Rinso package and see how it soaks out the dirt that you used to get out by main force.

If you have a washing machine—

Soak the clothes overnight in the usual Rinso way. The cleansing suds loosen every bit of dirt. In the morning operate the machine for a few minutes and the clothes are perfectly clean—even the most soiled spots.

START ANNUAL DRIVE

On Wednesday and Thursday of next week the annual drive for the local Y.M.C.A. will be conducted. This year the Directors are combining their appeal for subscriptions with a drive for memberships. The details of the campaign are rapidly shaping up. Three teams Captained by Steve License, Phil Brockel and Charlie Keeber will compete for first place in securing memberships among Seniors and Business men. Vern Ferris, the enterprising Boys' Work Secretary will have four teams of the Boys' Department in harness and promises big results from boys of from 10 to 17. The girls and ladies who have tasted the good things which the "Y" has for them will have two teams in the frame and expect to greatly increase their numbers in the membership. The canvaes for subscriptions will be handled by three teams of business men. During the last few days a preliminary canter has been taken by some of the Directors and the reception on the part of Belleville's citizens never was more sympathetic and the response more generous, which augurs wells for the big push all the workers will rally on Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock at the "Y" Building for final instructions.

K. of C. EUCHRE

The K. of C. held another euchre party last night at their club rooms on Front street and a large crowd was in attendance. The lucky winners were 1st—Mrs. Jack Murphy and Mr. Jack Orville, and the consolation prize was won by Miss Anna Hurley.

LAST MEETING OF BOARD

The final meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board for this season was held to-day and was slimly attended. There has been a decided increase in the price of cheese the past few days, 18⅞ c. being the bids to-day. Seventy boxes of white, 50 of colored and 32 twin boxes were offered for sale and sold at 18⅞c. The Board adjourned until the fourth Saturday in April next.

SATURDAY'S MARKET

A large number of our country friends were to-day in attendance at the market and in consequence much produce from the farms was offered for sale. The prices obtained were remunerative and in some cases rather high, especially was this the case of fresh eggs, which sold from 65c. to 70c. per dozen. Fresh dairy butter was quite plentiful, selling from 40c. to 45c. per pound and in a few cases at a slightly lower figure. Dressed poultry was plentiful and fairly reasonable. Chickens sold from $1.25 to $20.0 a pair, according to quality and ducks from $1.10 to $1.25 each. Garden produce found ready purchases. The ruling price for potatoes was $1.85 per bag.

Galician woman, booked to Niagara Falls, Ont., paid $2,000 to come to Canada.

Mr. Motorist

Vanity and Glasses

The wearing of glasses is one of the best preservers of a youthful appearance. This is because prolonged eyestrain causes wrinkles to appear prematurely and gives the countenance a strained, tired, anxious, drawn, cross look, which is very characteristic and far more to be avoided, from the viewpoint of appearance than the slight disfigurement of glasses. Indeed, so far from being unbecoming, there are some types of faces to which glasses just add the finishing touch.

We have every up to date style.

GEORGE WALTON

In the passing of Mr. George Walton at the family residenc, 57 Catharine street, on Friday afternoon, one of Belleville's best known citizens has joined the great majority. The end came peacefully after deceased had been in failing health for some time. Mr. Walton was a son of the late Mr. George Walton and was born in Kingston in 1849, being thus in his 73rd year. Since five years of age he had lived continuously in Belleville, where he was well-known, and had a host of friends. For a number of years Mr. Walton conducted successfully a sash door and blind factory and was himself a capable mechanic. He retired from active business two and a half years ago. Whilst in business he made many friends by his upright dealings with whom he came in contact with. Deceased was a member of Moira Lodge A.F. & A.M., also a member of Oxford Lodge, Sons of England. In addition, he was a veteran of the Fenian raid. A widow and four daughters survive, and also two sisters. The daughters are Mrs. W. A. Maund, North Bay; Mrs. J. S. Kirkham, Lethbridge, Alta.; Mrs. R. L. Brown and Miss Strethel of this city. The sisters are Mrs. M. A. Vapor of Omaha, Neb., and Mrs. E. Goss of Remington, Indiana. The many friends of deceased will join with the Intelligencer in extending to the bereaved their heartfelt sympathy.

[illegible] BREACH [illegible]

A Wooer May Be Sued For a Promise Implied.

After spring, when a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love, comes, too often, the breach of promise case. So it is just as well to know the law on the subject.

An "infant," under twenty-one, cannot be sued for breach of promise. But if on the day he is twenty-one, or afterwards, he confirms his previous promises he can be sued. And let it be noted that although an "infant" cannot be sued, yet an "infant" can sue! Marie, aged eighteen, can sue Adolphus, aged twenty-two. And if the ages were reversed Adolphus could sue Marie. In law, there is no bar to a man suing a lady for breach.

Simple breach lies in declining to fulfil the promise of marriage. But a case is established by not marrying at the agreed time, or, if no particular date be mentioned, then by not marrying within a reasonable time. Laggard swains are thus within the purview of the law!

A "promise" need not be in so many words. Inference of promise may be made by conduct. Courting, in brief.

It is not generally known that if a married man promises to marry a lady, his incapability of contracting another valid marriage does not relieve him. He can still be sued for breach of the promise.

So far, the law seems to be entirely against the man who promises marriage and breaks his promise. But, as cases have been known where susceptible men have been inveigled into making a promise on the faith of representations made by designing ladies, the law provides that any promise obtained through fraud, misrepresentation, or mistake, or threats of violence, does not hold good. Such a promise can be broken.

This should make ladies careful. A widow, minus means, must not expect any help from the courts if she obtained a promise to marry by representing that she was a spinster and wealthy. A flirtatious and injudicious young man must not be threatened with battery and assault if he does not "promise." He may make one, and afterwards break it with impunity.

Breach damages are assessed by taking into account the circumstances in which the promise was broken, and the means and social status of the breaker. A peer would have to pay more than a commoner, although the latter might be much wealthier.

Eat and Judge.

He was only a little man, but he was applying for a separation from a big, horrible-looking woman in the corner of the court.

The judge looked at the little man. Of course, there was no sympathy in his eye, for his was the stern face of justice.

The little court dog barked "Bow-wow!"

The judge cleared his voice.

"Do you mean to say?" he said, "that you have based your claims for separation on the grounds that your wife can't cook a decent meal? That's no ground for separation!"

"But, your lordship," protested the little man, "would you mind coming round and having dinner with us one day?"

A Double Day.

People of all shades of politics have been laughing over the scramble of the Senators at Ottawa to get the full amount of the indemnity for the session. In order to do so, they did not take a holiday on Victoria Day, but made that day do the work of two for them. Each session was counted as a Senate day, and so the Senate Hansard bears the following date line:

"Ottawa, Friday, May 27, 1921. No. 50."

Without 50 days of meeting, the Senators cannot collect the full $4,000 indemnity. It may do just as well to call it 50 days in the way they are doing.

The Parliamentary Way.

A member of Parliament called another an ass in the sacred precincts of the House. The offender was called upon to apologise and withdraw his statement.

He didn't like doing it.

"I withdraw," he said, stiffly, "but I maintain that the hon. member is out of order."

"How am I out of order?" asked the other man, heatedly.

"Probably a veterinary surgeon could tell you!" was the reply.

Lake Baikal.

Lake Baikal, in Siberia, the deepest fresh water lake in the world, contains several species of fish not found anywhere else. Some of these species are very ancient and are supposed to be survivors of a geological age when the region in which the lake is situated enjoyed a semi-tropical climate.

Hang On to His Leg.

Doris—"Ma, may I go boating?"

Fond Mother—"Indeed, you shall not. The very idea! Who invited you?"

Doris—"Mr. Bliffers."

Fond Mother—"Oh, yes; you may go with Mr. Bliffers. He has a cork leg, and if the boat upsets just you hang on to that."

He Deserved a Raise.

A constable, the father of thirteen children, which included triplets, gave evidence before the wage arbitration board enquiring into the salaries of the Quebec City police recently, that he earned $22.50 a week and had actual expenses of $27 a week.

Elms.

Elms should not be planted near dwelling-houses, as the timber has a tendency to decay inwardly, the limbs dropping off suddenly without warning, especially in a high wind.

Transportation and Your Safety

CAR SHORTAGES have already developed at many of the coal mines of the United States. Without cars to load, the mines cannot produce, without production of coal, the welfare of the public cannot be conserved.

So far the shortages have not been serious in proportions, but with cold weather arriving, it can be expected that they will increase and may materially hinder the movement of coal.

Safety to your family can be secured by immediately stocking your coal. Coal prices will not decrease, and they may advance, if a transportation emergency arises.

ORIENTALS IN CANADA

THERE ARE 55,000 CHINAMEN IN THE DOMINION.

Vancouver Is Their Centre of Population, That City Having 10,000 Yellow Citizens, While Toronto and Montreal Possess Only 4,000 Each—Few of Them Become Wealthy, But on the Other Hand They Are Seldom "Vagrants."

DO you know that Canada has 55,000 Chinese? Only a fifth live east of the Great Lakes leaving the greater number in the west. Vancouver heads the list with approximately 10,000. Toronto and Montreal tie with about 4,000 each. Victoria has 3,000 in its Chinatown.

Ottawa and Hamilton have nearly 500 each, while other centres, like London, Kingston, Niagara Falls and Sudbury can count on a hundred each in their respective populations. Not many years ago a Chinaman was almost unknown in the smaller communities, but little groups have found their way everywhere until their laundry or restaurant signs are familiar.

Where have they come from? What part of vast China is feeding this migatory stream? They belonged to a group of six or seven counties in South China that are usually considered fairly and relatively well-to-do. They are often misunderstood because they are Orientals, and therefore enigmas to the Occidental mind. We are all afflicted in degree with race prejudices, and while it does not necessarily lead to opposition or persecution, we are more apt to ignore them—to pass by, in the priest and Levite style of the good Samaritan story, on the other side.

There is a wide-spread idea that the Chinaman in Canada is either comparatively wealthy, or becoming so. One who is in close touch with them, both here and in South China, tells me that while a few have, no doubt, become wealthy, using the term in their limited conception of wealth, yet the majority are having difficulty in making money. One city cafe, which is doing a large business, nets its three partners only a thousand a year each, based on very long hours, the expenses of operation being $15,000. Laundry men have, as a rule harder work and less return than any others of their class.

Chinamen operate on a wider scale in the Canadian West. In British Columbia, they are successful market gardeners, while others serve as railway section hands or as miners. Calgary has a successful Chinese-owned and operating knitting mill, the head of which, a highly respected Chinese gentleman, is an elder in Knox Presbyterian Church. During the war, many Chinese worked in some Ontario manufacturing establishments, but they as a rule do not take to this form of industry.

It should be remembered, in fairness to the Chinaman, that Chinese communities in Canada have the lowest percentage criminal record of any foreigners. Vagrants are practically unknown. Where there is sickness, or other disability, members of the same family or clan will undertake their support.

"To those who are their friends, they show their better natures; to their enemies, or those of whom they are suspicious, they maintain a hidden hatred or a reserved silence. To know them as they are is to sympathize with and to appreciate them." So says Rev. W. D. Noyes, a representative of the Presbyterian church who has been recently appointed superintendent of that denomination's work among the Chinese in Eastern Canada. Mr. Noyes lived for several years, as a child and youth, in South China where he learned Cantonese before he could speak his native tongue. Later, he became a teacher and principal in a high school in Canton, and is now in Canada for a time.

Mr. Noyes has recently visited Chinese in over fifty centres in Eastern Canada in order to ascertain their conditions and to get into sympathetic and helpful touch with them. He has been everywhere welcomed, their Nationalistic League halls being open to him for meetings. In Toronto, Montreal, Hamilton, and Ottawa from one-eighth to one-third of the local Chinese are being reached by Sunday schools of the Protestant denominations, with results that the band of voluntary workers declare to be encouraging, despite the many and obvious difficulties. And many churches are constantly receiving the Chinese as members.

Toronto has a successful Chinese Y. M. C. A.; Montreal also has a fine plant. An organization of fifty young Chinese in Hamilton has opened and equipped a centre; even the Ottawa Chinese have acquired a room to seat 150.

According to Mr. Noyes, there is no question of the generosity of the Chinese. One who has been in their own country and talked to them in their own language as he has, is feted and embarrassed by the warmth of their cordiality. Recently a young Chinese woman in Canada raised several hundred dollars in their Kingston colony for hospital purposes. Montreal Chinese subscribed $2,500 toward a Baptist academy.

In China itself, 25,000 men from one district in South China raised $225,000 for a first-class high school in their county seat. Practically every Canadian Chinese community has responded to the call for funds for China famine relief. Two Sunday schools in Ottawa, for example, have already subscribed over $200 each and many other sums have been forwarded through their own channels for the same purposes.

10,000 MEN LACK WORK

Toronto, Nov. 17.—Although conditions at the present time are an improvement over those which had prevailed for the past year, Captain Meath, superintendent of the local office of the Employment Service of Canada, today described them as superficial and predicted the appearance of unemployment and distress as serious as last winter with the first spell of cold weather.

"There are 10,000 men out of work in Toronto at the present time, and this number is being augmented by at least 1000 fresh applications for work daily.

A GREATER CANADA NEEDS Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen AS PREMIER

Sticking straight out of the picture in this the most extraordinary campaign in the political history of the country is the fact that in Arthur Meighen, Canada has found a real big man and a real big leader. He has demonstrated beyond all question that he is the outstanding figure in our politics. Good judges declare, without hesitation, that he is the best fighter, expounder and debater we have had in our time, and a very worthy successor to the great political leaders of bygone days. Easily he over-shadows King and Crerar. Beside him these men look like neophytes. His marvelous grasp of detail, enormous industry, undoubted sincerity of purpose, wonderful gift of lucid and direct speech, broad national vision and his splendid courage have made a powerful impression on friends and opponents alike.

What He Had to Face

We doubt whether any Canadian political leader has had a more uphill task before him. He became Prime Minister at a time when the whole world was disturbed to a degree never previously experienced in all history; industrial turmoil, unemployment and unrest; class consciousness rearing its head and demanding government by class and for class; trade conditions throughout the world completely out of joint; the currencies of nearly all countries depreciated; the world's credit system endangered; all nations loaded with mountains of debt due to the war; the people still suffering generally from the awful tragedy of the great human holocaust; agitators of all kinds stirring up strife—these were among the many unparalleled conditions he had to face.

Resolutely and with fine native courage he set to work, and it is doing him but simple justice to state that he has well measured up to his great task. Steadily, persistently and without variation, turning neither to the right nor to the left, he has expounded the doctrines of moderate and reasonable protection and of trade independence as the best and only material policies for Canada under present conditions. Just as strongly and consistently has he urged the necessity and desirability of unity among all classes in order that the country may work out its salvation to the best possible advantage. With equal persistence he has told the people that in work, serious, earnest, honest work, lies the hope of the future, not in the frittering away of energy by stirring up class and racial strife and division.

In these days of widely heralded all-star motion picture casts that so often fail to materialize on the screen, it is a relief to find a picture like "Everywoman" showing at Griffin's Tonight, and presenting an array of film favorites that has seldom been duplicated in one picture before. Violet Heming, the charming stage and screen player, has the leading role in this sumptuously produced version of Walter Browne's famous morality play. Theodore Roberts is wealth, Wanda Hawley is Beauty, and Monte Blue is love. Bebe Daniels plays the role of Vice. Others in the company are Margaret Loomis, Mildred Reardon, Raymond Hatton and Irving Cummings. It is a Paramount-Artcraft picture.

Clyde Cook in a 2 reel comedy "The Huntsmen," Thomas Santschi in a 2 reel Western drama, and Kineto Review are also being exhibited on the same program.

"UNDER CRIMSON SKIES" STORY OF HIGH-SEAS

Memories of Jack London and Robert Louis Stevenson at their best will be revived at Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday when local theatregoers will be given their first view of "Under Crimson Skies," the Universal-Jewel production of which so many flattering reports have been received, and on which nearly $200,000 has been expended in the making.

Elmo Lincoln, the Colossus of the Screen, has the leading role in this photoplay, and he is supported by such players as Mabel Ballin, Harry Van Meter, Ethelyn Irving, Frank Brownlee, Paul Weigel, Dick La Reno, Beatrice Dominguez, Noble Johnson, little Nancy Caswell and many others. The production was made under the supervision of Rex Ingram.

A storm at sea, said to be the most realistic ever filmed; a munity of a crew on the high seas and subjection by the two-fisted captain, a terrific struggle between two physical giants on the surf of the Pacific, a revolution in a South American republic and the rescue of a handful of beseiged Americans from the American consulate by a band of ragged beach combers are a few of the high lights in a production which fairly tingles with interesting action.

A good comedy, the latest chapter of "Vanishing Trails" serial other varied attractions of interest will be exhibited on the same program.

The young romantic English actor, Graham Velsey, as H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, in the charming comedy romance, "Just Suppose," which comes to Griffin's next Friday night, November 25th, with a record of two weeks run at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto. A guaranteed attraction.

JUST SUPPOSE, HERE FRIDAY

The prettiest little comedy romance that will be seen in Belleville during the present thatrical season will be "Just Suppose" the play based on the reecnt visit of H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, that Edward H. Robins will present for a special engagement of one night at Griffin's Theatre, Friday Nov. 25.

"Just Suppose" is from the pen of A. E. Thomas, who gave to the stage that wonderfully funny comedy of nueresthenia, "Her Husband's Wife." Mr. Thomas when he let it become known that he was going to write a comedy in which the central character would be the Prince of Wales created a furrore that was wide spread. Managers all over the country doomed the play to failure long before the first line was written, but strange as it may seem, when it was presented at the Henry Miller Theatre, New York city, it caught the public fancy to such an extent that it was the Mecca of Theatre goers. Later at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto, where Mr. Robins made his production it repeated its New York success, all previous records held at this theatre being shattered.

The company that Mr. Robins will rresent here will be identically the same as seen at the Royal Alexandra

BIRDS DESTROY FISH.

Another Phase of Law Protecting Winged Creatures.

The following interesting information regarding the damage to the fisheries caused by certain protected fish-eating birds, and the necessity of issuing permits for their destruction has been furnished by Mr. Napoleon Comeau, of Godbout, the well-known nature observer, ornithologist and author of "Life and Sport on the North Shore":—

"I have heard of this shortage of supplies on the coast, it is principally east of Esquimault Point. The season has been a very rough one, a great deal of stormy weather and fogs, with a scarcity of bait in many localities. Fishermen always try to find some reasons for these things, one of the most recent ones, (in which there may be more than some think) is the over protection of certain species of birds, such a gannets, cormorants, gulls, murres, etc., all fish-eating birds which use principally the kind of fish used as bait. For the last two years the taking of birds' eggs of all kinds has been prohibited and for some time before that, there were some considerable restrictions in that line. There is no doubt that these birds have increased in numbers immensely. Some years ago I spent a good deal of time on the Labrador coast and amused myself collecting data on birds, etc. I made an estimate then, that some 60,000 dozens of birds' eggs of different kinds were collected as food by the residents and fishermen. Aside from this a large quantity was collected by Nova Scotia and American fishing vessels, probably one million of eggs were taken in one way or other. So no wonder there should be an immense increase of birds. Aside from depriving these people of so much food supply in the way of eggs and meat, this Migratory Birds Act is going to cause serious damage to our fisheries. Only a few days ago I observed a large flock of mergancers on this river and the estuary, probably two thousand birds at the lowest estimate, they all breed near fresh water and feed mostly on trout and salmon fry, eggs, etc., and are to be found all over the province. If we make a very moderate calculation we get astounding figures. Say we have in the province of Quebec, including the New Ungava territory, about 300,000 square miles and ten mergansers (one small brood) to a mile—three million birds at ten fish per day, 30 million fry daily! What will it be after a ten-year protection. The government had better start more trout and salmon hatcheries if they wish to feed them. Seems ridiculous that so much money should be wasted on fish propagation, and at the same time protecting injurious birds. The Merganser is not the only genus causing depredations. Why deprive the residents of Labrador of using these birds as food when they so much need it. I have no doubt this has contributed to a great extent to the present distress. See what A. P. Coleman says on the birds, in "Northeastern Part of Labrador. They need have no fear that these birds will be exterminated by the natives or residents, they are not the kind that kill wantonly. I have been in contact with Indians all my life, and my experience is that no game either big or small will be killed unless it can be used. Something must be done shortly to have several objectionable clauses of this Migratory Birds Act ruled out or altered. Birds that have been exterminated or threatened with extermination have been so within the U. S. border through market gunners, feather hunters, game hogs and total want of legislation in a great many states. Canada has the greatest of breeding grounds and our good cousins have roped us in to replenish their depleted shooting resorts. In plain words this is what the act amounts to; we had no need of it. However, the act must not be condemned for these few defects, it has many good points. The trouble was that the subject was not properly studied, before accepting the different clauses of this act. Perhaps this would be a good time to urge, that a special permit be given to the natives and residents of the North Shore, from Bersimis East and North, to kill (for food only) all the birds designated as non game birds. This will be too late to relieve their present suffering, but will help for the future."

Mystery Bird.

The discovery of a strange and ferocious bird is reported on the Gower coast, Glamorganshire. The bird's breast and face are said to be covered with dove-gray feathers, and a narrow line of crimson and another of blue encircle the eyes, the back and head being of a dark brown color. Its wings are curved, each measuring seven and a half inches. The bird is eleven inches in length from head to tail and weighs just over eight ounces. It has webbed feet of an orange-red color. Its most striking feature is its powerful, flat, elongated, crimson-colored beak, which measures one and a half inches in length and is one and a half inches square and is shaped like the head of a fish. In many ways, says a naturalist, the description of the bird applies to the puffin, the main differences being that the back of the puffin is black, its breast is white, and it lacks the crimson and blue lines round the eyes. Its beak is usually colored blue, yellow, and red. The puffin is a pugnacious little chap. He fights and evicts the rabbits whose burrows he uses for nesting-places, and he frequently triumphs in contests with the marauding ravens.

Not a Post Office.

A man went into a bookshop and said to the man behind the counter, "I want the 'Letters of Charles Lamb,' please."

"Post office across the street, Mr. Lamb," said the assistant, briskly and politely.

He Was Hypnotized.

"Remember, my good man," said the visitor kindly, "that stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cage."

"Well, they've got me hypnotized, then, that's all, ma'am!" said the old convict, rudely.

MOTOR NEWS

Keep your car well lubricated.

A soft tire turneth away pleasure.

A lean mixture in the carburetor will reduce carbon deposits.

Rainwater is the best for use in the cooling system of an automobile.

The use of cheesecloth to remove dust from the body of the car will destroy the lustre.

Employ the brakes gradually when coasting to a stop; it saves considerable wear on tires.

It is a wise motorist who knows his own automobile after some mechanic gets through overhauling it.

Use a very light grade of gasoline in winter months, as the highest tests evaporate more freely at a lower temperature.

A horn, invented to be carried on the rear of an automobile, is sounded automatically when the car is moving backward.

When driving in heavy traffic, use the lower gears. This assures the prevention of stalling the engine in a dangerous place.

Always keep batteries packed tightly. If they are allowed to rattle and work loose, momentary short circuits will develop.

A fire extinguisher can be made by dissolving three pounds of salt and one-half pound of sal-ammoniac in one gallon of water.

Gasoline will not burn without air. The vapor from the petrol is more dangerous than gasoline. Never attempt to use water on a gasoline fire.

WASTED POWER

Because of incorrect adjustment of the carburetor, nearly one-quarter of all the gasoline used by motor vehicles wasted in incomplete combustion.

GASOLINE CONNECTIONS

Never use white lead or other materials containing oil to stop a leak in the gasoline connection. The petrol will dissolve the oil, thereby making the repair useless.

CAUSE OF OVERHEATING

If the engine shows too great a tendency to overheat, the radiator is probably clogged and should be cleaned out thoroughly with hot water and washing soda.

TESTING FOR "SHORTS"

A short circuit always generates heat, and in locating trouble without instruments pass the fingers along the line until a warm spot is felt. Once it is found the system can be again put in order by insulating the exposed wire with rubber tubing or tape.

RUBBER TIRE FRICTION

Never overload underinflated tires. The average sized tire, properly inflated and carrying a normal load, reaches a temperature of 140 degrees Fahrenheit just under the tread when run at 20 miles an hour speed. At 25 miles an hour the temperature is raised to 155 degrees.

SAVING CRACKED WINDSHIELD

A crack in a windshield may be prevented from getting worse by drilling a hole at each end of the break with an ordinary twist drill. It will be necessary to keep the drill wet with turpentine while drilling, and it is a good plan to hold a block of wood behind the glass to give support.

UNIVERSAL JOINTS

The universal joints are usually covered with leather casings or "boots" which are packed with grease. These boots, when in good condition, insure the proper lubrication of the moving parts of the joints, keep out the dirt and grit and aid in making the joints noiseless. It is advisable to inspect these ceasings once a month.

WATCH THE PERSON WHO—

Jumps off a moving car.

Crosses a roadway at right angles.

Without thought walks to the middle of a highway and suddenly stops.

Crosses the street with a bundle or umbrella over his head, or while reading a newspaper.

Steps off the curb and into the highway looking in the direction of oncoming traffic.

ABOUT SPRINGS

Properly adjusted, well lubricated springs will mean longer life to tires and to the entire car, while cracked or neglected springs will cause rapid deterioration of engine, body and tires. One of the best methods of oiling is to dismantle the springs and apply graphite grease. First remove all the rust with an emery cloth. Another method is to lift the body of the car on jacks and open the springs with a chisel inserted between each leaf, squirting oil and grease in freely.

No European-made automobile is sold for less than $1,500.

While traffic keeps to the left in England, pedestrians on sidewalks go to the right.

Because of the high cost of automobiles in France, the motor public is now turning to cycle cars.

Fully 90 per cent. of the passenger automobiles in China are driven by chauffeurs and not by owners.

Of the 46,000 motor vehicles registered in British India, Bombay exceeds all other cities with 13,300 cars.

Since the automobile was first introduced in America, some 13,000,000 cars have been made and sold.

Dayton, O., holds a unique record of having recovered more automobiles than were stolen in that city last year.

The number of motor tourists' service is operated between London and Paris, by the way of Calais and Boulogne.

Prices of French automobiles range from 9,000 to 42,00 francs. Three-wheeled cycle cars, with two seats, sell as low as 5,500 francs.

The New York City Fire Department is to be fully motorized before the end of this year. The last horses will be retired to the farm on January 1.

In England, the Prince of Wales has adopted the prevailing fashion of having a "mascot" on his automobile. It in an aluminum airplane in full flight perched on the cap of the radiator.

During the 1921 season, Yosemite National Park, California's great playground, was visited by 18,405 automobiles, carrying 63,153 passengers. This record takes first place among national parks for motor tourists.

The latest types of French automobiles, recently exhibited at the automobile salon at the Grand Palais in Paris, are equipped with front-wheel brakes. The majority of important makes have brakes on all four wheels.

Among the recent nation-wide automobile organizations is the "Courtesy Club." Members plan to compete with the Boy Scouts in their "One Good Turn a Day" and the Rotarians in heir campaign of national service.

HE ROSE IN LIFE.

B. C. Premier Went to the Pacific Coast With $100.

Hon. John Oliver, Premier of British Columbia, is at present on a trip to eastern Canada during which he intends to visit Ottawa. While there the chances are that he will call at Rideau Hall and pay his respects to the Governor-General. There is a peculiar topsy-turvy aspect to this visit. For Mr. Oliver's family were tenants of the Duke of Devonshire's grandfather, small yeoman farmers of Devonshire. He was born at Hartington, from which the heir of the duke takes his title as Marquis of Hartington, in 1856. Now, as premier of a Canadian province Mr. Oliver has the right to meet the duke on a footing of something like equality.

There is a deal of romance in the story of this English farm boy who rose to be premier. He never went to school after ten years of age; from that time he helped his mother keep a poultry farm of six acres. At fourteen he came to Canada with his parents and settled in Maryboro township, Wellington county, Ontario. In 1876, at 21 years of age, he received from his father $100, and went to British Columbia, where he took a homestead. Surveying for the C.P.R., farming and contracting, John Oliver gradually, quietly made good. First councillor of his parish, then reeve, then member of the Legislature, and later premier, this hard-working, uneducated man made his way onwards and upwards by honest worth. His journey to power is the slow, steady climb of rugged merit rather than the sensational jumping of quick genius. There is scarcely a high light in his career; it is a succession of sombre tones.

Robert Oliver, the Hon. John's father, is still living with his son James, on the south line of Artemesia township, near Flesherton. Another brother, Joseph, lives nearby.

An Old Cannon Ball.

A ten-pound cannon ball has just been dug up from under the roots of a tree cut down to clear the ground for an addition to the Garrison Club at Quebec recently. The tree was looked upon as one of the oldest in Quebec, among the oldest cities on the continent.

The cannon ball, it is believed, was fired during the siege of Quebec by Benedict Arnold in the French and Indian War and buried itself in the ground before the tree was planted or sprouted from the seed.

Eastern Canada at that time was a colony of France. Western Canada was owned in fee simple, under a charter granted by Charles II. to the Hudson Bay Co., which became eventually the ruling power over three-fourths of North America and is now disposing of the farming lands remaining to it of its old empire in the three prairie provinces, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta.

The ancient cannon ball remained buried in the earth during the most momentous periods of Canadian history, and antedates those stirring times before the American Revolution when French and English were struggling for mastery in the new world and the battle between Montcalm and Wolfe on the Plains of Abraham, in the suburbs of Quebec, finally placed the destinies of the continent in the hands of the Anglo-Saxon race.

The Outward and Visible Sign.

"What is the outward and visible sign of baptism?" asked a teacher of her Sunday school class.

There was a silence for some seconds, and then a girl broke in triumphantly with: "The baby, please, ma'am."

Bobby—"What does 'knows no bounds' mean, dad?"

Dad (buried in newspaper): 'Kangaroo with rheumatism."

Quieting Irregular Noises

Frequent Tightening Of Loosened Parts Will Accomplish It

THE HOOD IS SURE TO RATTLE if it directly touches the metal of the radiator shell or the body, it being essential to quietness, that rawhide belting or some soft material be interposed between it and its supports. These lacings flatten out and break, in time and must occasionally be replaced. Hood latch springs must also be strong enough to hold down the hood securely. Looseness of the radiator core in the radiator shell creates another "rattle point," which tightening of the mounting nuts will overcome and the radiator supports upon the frame cross-member must be kept taken up or noise will result. All sheet metal parts, including splash guards, aprons and all trim and filler pieces, especially when secured in place with small bolts, require occasional tightening and not infrequently new bolts are needed, as the old ones become rusted and break off. Even when rivets are used, they work loose and require setting up, to eliminate chatter and squeak. End play in the steering column may produce a heavy rattle and adjustment of the thrust bearing should stop this. A storage battery, with its hold-down bolts loose, may create a thumping, the cause of which is not at once apparent. The rubber buffers on the doors need occasional replacement, as latches wear and the rubber flattens out. Any looseness in the bolts which secure the body to the frame is productive of noticeable rattling and distressing squeaks arise from the working together of body parts or the rubbing of the body sills on the frame, unless the felt inserts between them are in good condition. Closed bodies, unless very rigid and provided with windows most securely held against movement, become very rattly. Brake bands, if worn and insecurely supported may become very noisy and a good deal of rattle may develop at the joints of the brake linkage, especially if oiling has been neglected. Pedals that vibrate against the flooring can be readjusted to secure silence.

"ROUGH AND READY" OIL TESTS

F. W. L. asks: Are there any simple tests that can be applied by the amateur to guide him in selecting engine oil? An oil salesman, who called recently, shook together a sample of his oil and water, in a bottle, and claimed that his oil was of high quality because it would not stay mixed with the water. Is there anything in this test?

Answer: This "emulsification test" is very good so far as it goes. The two liquids should be shaken together for a few minutes and the bottle set away for perhaps a day. If then, there is a fairly clear line of demarcation between the oil and water, the indication is satisfactory, but if there is a large curdled area between the liquids, the opposite is the case. A bottle of the oil can be heated in a sand bath, until it just begins to give off inflammable vapors, kept at this temperature for fifteen minutes and set away. If the lubricant is later found only slightly darkened, the indication is satisfactory, but if there is considerable black sludgy matter at the bottom, a low resistance to heat may be suspected. By setting a sample out in the cold, some idea as to its resistance to low temperature may be obtained by noting whether it will flow or not. Tests for viscosity at various temperatures are not readily made without special apparatus.

A THEFT PREVENTION "KINK"

W. H. H. asks: Is there any simple precaution that I can take, other than locking the ignition, to reduce the likelihood of my car's being stolen? Car thefts are becoming very frequent about here.

Answer: Every hindrance to the ready starting of the engine makes it somewhat more difficult for a thief to drive away a car. Here is one suggestion, which applies to most battery ignited engines: When the car is to be left unattended, take off the distributor cap, remove the distributor brush-arm and replace the cap. With the distributor arm in one's pocket, the car cannot be driven away, unless the thief happens to have a substitute for it. It is the work of only a moment for the owner to remove and replace this essential part and its absence cannot be noticed.

Questions of general interest to the motorist will be answered by Mr. Clough in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

BEATING THE COMPANY.

Frozen Flivver Stolen But Scheme Did Not Work.

While the bulk of the unpleasantness, which is the reward of the insurance companies for placing risks on motor cars, is of the deliberate type, there is also the accidental crook who occasionally sits in and plays a hand in the big game known as "stab the company in the back," says Guy Morton in Maclean's Magazine. There are many ways in which the accidental sharp may be forced into a sudden determination to look out strictly for number one, regardless of character, he goes on, but an incident credited to the foreign quarter of Toronto may serve as an illustration.

Jensen owned a flivver. It was a fair flivver, but a certain disposition—the owner's, not the flivver's—induced him to park it at night in the back alley instead of in one of those garages where they collect the fee at the door. Late fall came along, and Jensen overlooked the tricks which frost is apt to play with water, even when it is hidden away in the coils of a flivver radiator.

He stepped out into the crisp morning, and for some time thereafter he flung his hands into the air in despair. But eventually he was resourceful. The radiator was ruined, but there was insurance on the car.

He had an acquaintance in the garage business, who was not above making an honest dollar and keeping his mouth shut about it. So friend Bernie came down with his towing car, carted the flivver out of Jensen's back alley, and deposited it some twenty blocks distant on a thinly-populated street. It was rather crude work, but it was the best the owner could think of on the spur of the moment. His car was insured against theft, which meant that he could collect from the insurance company the amount of any damage done to the car while it was stolen, though he could not collect for a frozen radiator when the freezing was done in his own back alley. Following the daylight stealing of his car at his own suggestion, Jensen called upon the police department with a certain amount of agitation, and reported his car as stolen through the night.

So far, so good. He had things fairly well lined up. But at this point he kicked aside his own work by committing an unpardonable blunder. He was rash enough to go out later in the day and find the car himself. He was so rash that he reported the finding to the police. Had he been possessed with sufficient patience to allow the police to find the car, and stage a proper fit of excitement in their presence, all might have been well. But he was not the only man of his race with whom the police have had to deal, and those officials are strangely suspicious people. It took them but a few minutes to worm out the real facts, and the first thing he did after he escaped from their embarrassing presence was to hire a taxicab, rush to the insurance office, and withdraw his claim on the stolen car. He was out one taxi fare, one towing bill and one fractured radiator. He was in to the extent of so much added wisdom.

CAR CRASHES INTO GROUP OF WORKMEN

Toronto, Nov. 18.—Louis Delnegro, aged about 45, an Italian, whose home was near Smith's Falls, Ont., was fatally injured last night at Weston when a motor car driven by A. Mallaby, of Weston, drove into a group of five workmen who were waiting for a radial car. Delnegro died while being taken to a hospital in Toronto. Mallaby says the headlight on the approaching radial car blinded him and prevented his seeing the men.

OUR CARE OF THE WILD

CANADA HAS SPLENDID RECORD OF ACHIEVEMENT.

What the Dominion Has Done to Preserve Animals and Birds Related in New Book by Late Dr. Gordon Hewitt, Who Died Very Shortly After His Literary Work Had Been Completed.

Canada and the United States stand shoulder to shoulder as the most diligent and forceful nations of this world in the conservation of wild life, writes William T. Hornaday in the New York Times. There have been times when we have been disturbed by horrible fears that our neighbor of the north was forging ahead of us. In new enactments she is quicker on the draw than we are; but usually we mange to catch up.

Surely the Canadian Government must be proud of the late Dr. C. Gordon Hewitt's record of Canadian achievement, as it is set forth in his fine volume, "The Conservation of the Wild Life of Canada," he goes on. It meets a want five years old, and nothing less would have been satisfactory.

The book is really ideal, scholarly, scientific, practical, and thorough. It contains a great amount of valuable facts and figures that heretofore have been scattered and elusive, and the fine equipment of illustrations, maps and charts is highly satisfactory.

Both in character and attainments Dr. Hewitt was a remarkable man. An Englishman by birth and education, he came to Canada from the University of Manchester, a ready-trained zoologist. The Canadian Government at once offered him a commission as Dominion entomologist, and from an embryonic beginning he masterfully developed a bureau in the Department of Agriculture that can receive no greater praise than the statement that it adequately covers the ground of protective entomology for the far-flung dominion.

With the department of entomology on a broad basis, and well in hand, as steel is drawn to a magnet Dr. Hewitt was drawn into wild life protection. Soon he became an acknowledged authority on the zoological side of wild life protection and increase, and finally the new office of Dominion consulting zoologist was created for him. It was in that responsible and enormously useful position that Dr. Hewitt, in collaboration with James White, drafted the Northwest Game Act, a measure of far-reaching importance to the game and people of Canada.

Just one month after Dr. Hewitt finished his work on his volume, and laid it aside quite ready for publication, pneumonia snatched him away, at the early age of thirty-five. It is a satisfaction to know that the last page was written and revised by him.

As a foundation on which to build, the first chapter deals with the asset value of the wild life of the Dominion. All American sportsmen know that to-day the finest hunting grounds in the western hemisphere lie north of our boundary. It is a task well worth while to set forth truthfully and adequately the present status of the caribou millions, the musk-ox herds, the giant moose, the grand series of mountain sheep species, the bizarre mountain goat, the elk, the wild bison, the deer and bears of several species. The best breeding-grounds for North American waterfowl are in Canada — and Canada alone can protect them.

"The Reserves for Game and Wild Life in Canada" make up a chapter of thrilling interest. The fine maps that show them in red make a grand showing of results, and are very much to our mind. I would like to see the Canadian statesman and publicist who can view these records of achievement without cold chills of pride chasing each other up and down his main line of nerves.

Twenty years ago Canada set out to get for herself a-plenty of national parks and game preserves while the getting was good. No province seemed disposed to be behind in this conservation enterprise. As a final result, these red-spotted maps tell a great story of enlightenment and progress. Until it enters its decadence, no city, state or nation ever deconsecrates and gives back to commercial uses a park or a wild life sanctuary that has once been dedicated to the whole people as theirs.

It is quite as thoroughly impossible to convey in one paragraph a true impression of the parks and game preserves of Canada as it would be to write the constitution of the United States on a postal card. The collection of national parks, dominion parks, game preserves and bird sanctuaries is fairly bewildering. The subject cannot be portrayed en masse, but we not that Eastern Canada has four huge game "reserves" and Manitoba and Saskatchewan have thirty-one, mostly small; Alberta and British Columbia between them have seven game reserves.

Next after the creation of her great chain of national parks and game preserves Canada's most notable achievement was her lively participation in the creation of the now famous migratory bird treaty. Dr. Hewitt's chapter covering that achievement is interesting and valuable history. Canada's end of the treaty was taken care of with neatness and despatch, and the result as a whole was an achievement of continent-wide importance.

OUR HALL OF FAME.

Memorial Chamber Will Bear Name of Every Canadian Soldier.

"The buildings are magnificent, the style, the extent, the site, the workmanship are all surpassingly fine. But they are just 500 years ahead of the time. Such monstrous folly was never perpetrated in this world before." Thus did the late Hon. George Brown express his opinion of the Government buildings erected at Ottawa prior to Confederation, in a letter to Sir John Macdonald. It is true that at the same time he advocated the completion of the three edifices to the fullest extent in order to "bring visitors to see what they cannot see elsewhere. To say the truth, there is nothing in London or Paris or Washington approaching it."

This was in the year 1864 and a more erroneous opinion was never expressed. True, the tremendous expansion of the dominion was at the time neither imagined or perhaps imaginable, but it cannot be denied that Mr. Brown did not look through a very wide-angled lens. Ten years later the buildings, or some of them, had to be enlarged, and in less than fifty they were uncomfortably crowded and departmental offices camped out in various houses in the city. And before the fire in 1916 destroyed it the Parliament Buildings were altogether inadequate and extensions made. The new buildings approaching completion are designed to meet the necessities of many a long year to come. They are a thing of beauty; a historic poem entwined with allegory and suggestive of exalted national sentiment and aspiration. Designed to perpetuate the memory of the former structure they stand in bold magnificence without equal on this continent. Thus far the great "Victory Tower" is not completed and much remains unfinished in the interior. Through the courtesy of the architect, Mr. J. Pearson, of Toronto, the Toronto Star Weekly is able to present an account of the Hall of Fame. It presents a sermon in stone. From a beautifully carved base the central column springs and bears the following inscription in English and French: "1867-1917, July on the 50th anniversary of the confederation of North America as the Dominion of Canada the Parliament and people dedicate this building in process of reconstruction after damage by fire as a memorial to the deeds of their forefathers and of the valor of those Canadians who, in the great war fought for the liberties of Canada, of the Empire, and of humanity."

This central column is emblematic of the centre of the Empire, the waves of the sea breaking on its shores, while from the summit spring from the common centre the vaulted arches joining the many flanking divisions, emblematic of the great group of possessions circling round the three kingdoms. Sculpture, rich in design and heraldic embellishment, makes this part of the building alike grand and impressive. From it a noble court, arched and pillared, leads to the library, the sole survivor of the fire.

The great tower, when completed, will be three hundred feet and will contain a carillon equalling the famous bells of Belgium, and a striking feature will be the Memorial Chamber. This will contain the record of every regiment, on mural tablets, and the name of every soldier of the expeditionary army inscribed. But the commemoration of those who made the great sacrifice will be most impressive. In the centre of the chamber a crystal receptacle, sealed, will contain, engrossed on vellum, the names of all the officers and men who died for a just cause. And the architect contemplates making the chamber more suggestive by bringing all the interior stone to be chiseled into finished designs from Belgium and France and wherever practicable from the very scenes of action. The base of the Victoria tower has at the base of massive piers richly carved and on the east side the foundation stone laid by the Prince of Wales bearing the following inscription:

This stone was laid by Edward Prince of Wales
September 1.,
In this year of Victory,

Gives Preference to Canada.

Advices to the Department of Trade and Commerce state that the customs tariff now in operation in Samoa provides for a preference of 7½ per cent. ad valorem on all dutiable imports from Canada and other parts of the British Empire, with the exception of tobaccos, on which there are specific duties. On other dutiable goods the rate to foreign countries is 22½ per cent., and to British countries 15 per cent.

Entitled to That.

"I know what you would do if I were to die, Henry," said Mrs. Glipping, plaintively.

"What, my dear?" asked Mr. Glipping.

"You would go right straight and get married again."

"I would not. I'd insist on a vacation of at least six months and defy any woman to deprive me of it."

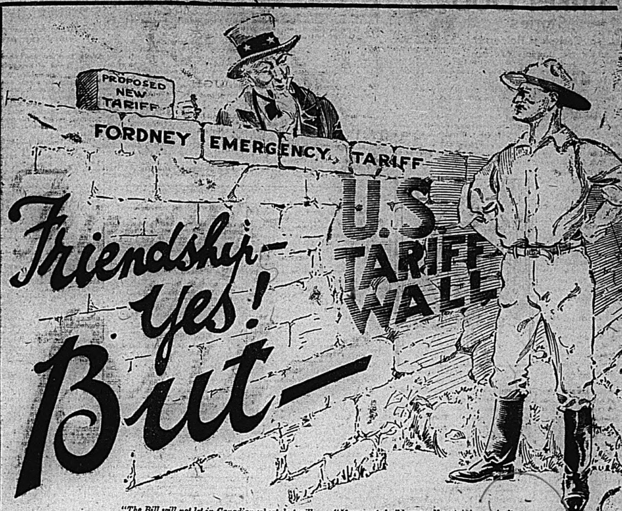
He Was Drugged.

The doctor had been summoned to the police station to examine a prisoner. The latter lay on the floor, muddy and dishevelled.

The doctor examined him and then said, "This man's condition is not due to drink. He has been drugged."

"Yes," said the youngest policeman, "I drugged him all the way myself by the scruff of the neck."

Two hundred and ninety-eight automobiles of an insured value of almost half a million dollars were stolen in New York City during September.



"The Bill will not let in Canadian wheat, but will save to the American farmer the right to raise a bushel of wheat instead of transferring that right to Canada"—Mr. Fordney, in introducing the Fordney Emergency Tariff Bill which has shut millions of dollars worth of Canadian foodstuffs out of the United States market.

"If we are to build up a self-sustaining agriculture here at home, the farmer must be protected from unfair competition from those countries where agriculture is still being exploited."—President Harding. The very spot chosen to deliver this speech—Minnesota—shows that Harding had the Canadian North-West in mind.

WHILE ties of friendship unite Canada and the United States, the attitude of Uncle Sam is that of "Business First", and Canada cannot and should not hope for any consideration from the United States where the interests of the farmers and business people of that country are involved.

Uncle Sam has built the Fordney Tariff directly against Canadian agriculture, and new additional Tariff proposals are now under consideration to shut out from the United States Canadian goods of every kind.

These measures are due to the insistence of the American farmer that the United States market shall be retained exclusively for him and that the influx of Canadian farm products into that country must cease. They are also due to a like insistence of United States manufacturers and workers, who have seen their country develop tremendously and grow rich under a Protective Tariff, and who believe that a still further increase in Tariff is the only means of assuring continued prosperity.

CONTRAST THE ATTITUDE OF THE UNITED STATES LEADERS WITH THAT OF CANADA'S WOULD-BE LEADERS, CRERAR AND KING

Crerar proposes to allow American goods to enter the Canadian market free of duty.

King proposes that the present reasonable Tariff on the products of the American factory and farm shall be greatly reduced, and that the home market of the Canadian farmer and manufacturer alike shall be thrown open to our Southern neighbour, in the face of the United States Emergency tariff, which practically shuts out Canadian farm products from these markets, and also in the face of the permanent tariff now under consideration at Washington, which gives every promise of being even more drastic than the Emergency Tariff so far as our products are concerned.

In view of the attitude of the United States, what folly it is for Crerar and King to propose throwing open the Canadian market to a flood of both agricultural and manufactured products of the United States when there is not the slightest possibility of any compensative advantage to Canada.

Does any sane Canadian believe that Crerar or King, hat in hand, could persuade the United States Government to completely reverse its Tariff policies and agree to reciprocal trade in face of American public demand for a high protective Tariff?

The people of the United States conduct their affairs and protect themselves by the principle that "Business is business". Why should Canada do otherwise?

Unlike Crerar or King, MEIGHEN stands firm for a reasonable Tariff to protect all our industries—those of the farm, the sea, the mine, the forest, the factory, and for the building up of a bigger and better Canada through the full development of the home market.

FRIENDSHIP WITH THE UNITED STATES? YES, BY ALL MEANS!

BUT—— let us defend our home market, our industries, our farms, our workmen, our homes by the same methods as are used so effectively against us.

Let us work out our own destiny—that of a strong, self-contained nation within the British Empire group of Nations, courageous, masterful, self-reliant.

Canada Needs Meighen

"Tinker Bob" Stories

by Carlysle H. Holcomb

SILKY, THE MON KEY, PERFORMS

When Silky, the Monkey, jumped onto the Hunter's table and frightened his wife, the old Hunter laughed till he cried. Silky could see nothing to laugh at. He Hsupposed that the table was the place to eat on and if they were invited to eat he thought the thing to do was to get on the table and start in.

"Silky, you must learn that the table isn't the placef or you,'," said Tinker Bob. Silky felt terribly embarrassed about it all, so he sat down on the floor and waited for further orders from Tinker, the King.

"Here, Mr. Monkey," said the Hunter, "here is a piece of bread, we will see how you like it. Here is a lump of sugar to eat with it."

This was indeed, a treat to have a lump of sugar. Silky had never tasted such sugar before. It tasted so good that he forgot about eating the bread, and before he knew it he had swallowed the last bit of sugar and had the bread in his hand. This too amused the Hunter and he laughed some more.

I must not forget to tell you about the Hunter's dog. The moment he saw Silky, the Monkey, he put his tail between his legs and crawled behind the woodbox which was near the stove. He whined a bit and growled some but never came out for he was afraid of the Monkey.

Silky wanted another lump of sugar and he went to the King and whispered to him that it tasted good. Of course Tinker Bob didn't want to ask the Hunter for more sugar. "Silky can do some tricks," he said, and the Hunter's wife said she would give him some more sugar if he would perform for them.

Silky stood on his head and all the time he was watching for that lump of sugar. Then he spied the Hunter's gun in the corner of the room. He took it and marched like a soldier. But the Hunter was afraid when he saw that Silky knew how to handle a gun.

"You don't need to worry he will do no harm," said Tinker Bob.

Then Silky spied the dog's tail sticking out from behind the woodbox. He wasn't afraid of any dog that ever lived. He ran and took that fellow by the tail and pulled him from behind the box and such yelping you never heard. Then he jumped astride of his back and around the room they went, the dog barking and Silky having a good time.

Then he spied the Hunter's gun in the corner of the room.

This so pleased the Hunter that he laughed till he had to hold his sides. But when Silky jumped from the dog's back the poor fellow crawled thru a crack in the door and was seen no more.

"Now I want to tell you why we came here today," said Tinker Bob. "I want a place for Bobby Owl to stay this Winter." We will see what the Hunter decides to do the next time.

NEW MEDICINE MAKES MILLIONS WELL

Will be a Revelation to Suffering Humanity—Cleans Liver in a Few Minutes — Symptoms of Liver Trouble are: Sallow Complexion, Bad Taste in Mouth on Rising, Tired, Out of Sorts, etc.

This new drug is called Tanated Calomel. It acts only on the Liver, which immediately relieves many troubles, as: Rheumatism, Constipation, Boils, Kidney Pains, etc. No Salts, Seidlitz, are necessary after taking, because it is self-eliminating. It does not have a nauseating, sickening feeling next day, like so many similar drugs. You no doubt have been taking all sorts of laxatives, salts, castor oil, etc., with only temporary results. The reason is that some of these drew liquid from the blood and tissues, causing a great flush. What you need is something like Tanated Calomel, which causes the Bile to be excreted from the Liver into the Bowel, causing a natural elimination of the waste. You know waste allowed to remain in the system causes a multitude of troubles. I can venture to say that 90 per cent. of all sickness is due directly to this very thing. What is generally the first thing your doctor does when you are sick? He gets your Bowels operating so as to eliminate wastes in your Bowels, which are poisoning your system. Now, in order to be happy, healthy, vigorous, vivacious, bright, alert, keen to observe and understand, you must first keep your Liver clean, or you are coaxing all sorts of trouble upon yourself. Doctors recommend that you take a tablet before eating and one at bedtime. Just get some of these, and I feel assured that you will feel as if you had a new lease of life.

Shark Fishermen.

The shark industry on the Pacific Coast is reported as having developed into an established profession. Shark fishermen are still making good money, and are also making records in big creatures caught. The sharks are what is known as of the "mud" variety, ground feeders at great depth, and entirely harmless to human beings. They live in great numbers in the deep inlets of the coast, and are valuable for their livers, their skins, and the fertilization values of their flesh and bones. At Main Island, on the coast near Vancouver Island, the shark fishermen are catching very large mudsharks at a depth of 100 and 125 feet. Some of the sharks caught have been 35 feet long.

The Same Old Story.

A Cambridge undergraduate, contrary to regulations, was entertaining his sister, when they heard someone on the stairs. Hastily hiding his sister behind a curtain, he went to the door and confronted an aged man who was revisiting the scene of his youth, and was desirous of seeing his old rooms.

Obtaining permission, he looked round, and remarked, "Ah, yes, the same old room." Going to the window, he said, "The same old view," and, peeping behind the curtain, he exclaimed, "The same old game!"

"My sister, sir," said the student.

"Oh, yes," said the visitor, "the same old story!"

His Idea of Marriage.

He was crusty and rude, but as a celebrity he was entitled to indulgence in these matters. And his pretty hostess was not one to shirk any conversational encounter with him.

"Tell me, Mr. Highbrow," she inquired, "what is your idea of marriage?"

The celebrity frowned.

"Madam," he replied, "my idea of marriage is very much the same kind of vague but inarticulate protest as a dog's conception of a tin can that is tied to his tail!"

King's Gift to 21st.

At a meeting of the 21st Battalion Club, at Kingston, Lieut.-Col. H. T. Pense announced the receipt of the silk Union Jack, the gift of his Majesty the King, to the battalion. It will be consecrated at an early date by Major W. T. Kidd, M.C., battalion chaplain and the Battalion clubs at Ottawa and Peterboro, will be consulted as to its disposal.

A Universal Game.

Is any game more nearly universal than tennis? The United States, having just won the Davis Cup from Australia, has received a challenge from Spain. A team is expected from India, and in the preliminary play-off there will be contestants from Great Britain, Canada, Australia, France, Japan, and perhaps from Mexico.

"More Men Than Women Have Nervous Troubles"

This is the statement of a specialist on Nervous Diseases who comes in contact with many thousands of cases. The increase in diseases of the nerves during the last five years has been enormous.

Is it any wonder that men's nerves are giving out?

Look back over the history of the last few years.

Think of the enormous burden of responsibility which has been put upon the shoulders of business executives.

The excessive mental strain.

The worry and anxiety.

The physical effort.

This has surely been great enough to break the nervous systems of the strongest men.

The war strain.

The unsettled conditions of business and employment.

These are responsible for the rapid aging of man which you notice everywhere.

You feel out of sorts.

You do not sleep well.

You find yourself losing your grip on business.

Your daily task is more than you can stand.

There is, perhaps, no organic disease.

But you find your energy and ambition petering out.

Your doctor tells you to take a rest for a few months.

But you do not want to be put upon the shelf.

Your business cannot spare you at this critical time.

Perhaps you cannot afford complete rest when living expenses are so high.

But you can take things easier. And you can profit by the experience of others and build up your exhausted nervous system by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This is the most rational treatment available, and is endorsed by more common-sense, reliable people than any medicine recommended for the restoration of the nervous system.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is universally used by women as a means of restoring the nervous system. Your wife, or sister, or mother, will be able to tell you something about its remarkable upbuilding influence.

But more men than women now have nervous troubles.

And Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is no respecter of persons.

It builds up new energy and strength in the most natural way imaginable by enriching the blood.

It supplies to the blood in condensed, easily assimilated form the elements which nature requires in order to replenish the depleted nerve cells and restore the vitality of the human system.

These certified letters may be from people you know. They are worth reading, anyway. For they are the honest opinion of people who have been benefited by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Overwork

Mr. D. F. Armstrong, R. R. No. 3, Mallorytown, Ont., writes:—

"Through overwork and an extra amount of mental strain, I became very nervous and rundown. I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and it certainly touched the right spot. It almost seemed for a time as though I fairly lived on it, and I can recommend this treatment to anyone requiring a medicine of this kind."

Sleeplessness

Mr. W. J. Van Dusen, Centre St., Napanee, Ont., writes:—

"For some time I suffered from sleeplessness and all the weakness and tired feelings that follow continual loss of sleep. Gas would accumulate in my stomach, and this also caused a great deal of trouble. Upon the advice of a friend I began a treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and soon found it to be just what I required. By the time I had completed the treatment my system was in splendid condition and I felt much stronger."

(Endorsed by S. Casey Denison, Mayor.)

Rheumatism

Mr. Charles R. Tait, Newtown, Kings Co., N.B., writes:—

"I suffered with rheumatism and my stomach was in a very weak state. I could eat no fruit of any kind and suffered nearly all the time. I tried several doctors, but got no relief from any of them. I was in a drug store one day and overheard two men talking—one was telling the other about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food completely relieving him of rheumatism. I bought a box, thinking it would be like all the rest of them, but, after taking this one box, I felt so much better that I continued the treatment, and now I can eat anything and do not suffer any more with the rheumatism."

("This is to certify that I am personally acquainted with Mr. Charles R. Tait, and believe his statement is true and, to my knowledge, correct."—(Signed) A. S. Mace, J.P.)

A Missionary's Romance.

Dr. S. O. Eschoo, M.D.C.M., a Persian missionary and a graduate of Queen's University, who lost his Canadian citizenship through a prolonged absence in Persia on account of the war, was restored to citizenship a few days ago. Eighteen years ago Dr. Eschoo left Canada for the town of Tabriz, in Persia, where he took up his work as a medical missionary, with the assistance of his wife. When the war was on affairs in Persia were in a bad state, because the Mohammedans took for granted that it was another holy war. At that time there were 50,000 Christians in Persia, but nearly half of these were killed by the Turks.

The town of Tabriz is near the border, and many times he and his wife and the other Christians in the town had to flee south to where the British troops were. It was during one of these raids that Dr. Eschoo lost his wife, who was in the mission trying to get out some of the children there.

During the years of the war he was very active. There were few doctors in the country, and he was on duty days at a time with very little sleep. He was also called upon many times as a leader to take the bands of Christians to safety, and took his life in his hands thus on many occasions. When asked to describe some of the hardships he underwent, he said:

"The things I saw and went through are too terrible to describe."

He left Persia about nine months ago, and came by way of the United States to Canada. When he arrived here he found that, under the new laws, his former Canadian citizenship was cancelled, and that the immigration authorities were going to send him back to Persia.

He at once sent a letter to Ottawa and also to his old class-mate, Prof. Taylor of the University of Toronto, with the result that his citizenship was restored.

Salt Assists Swimmers.

Everyone who has learned to swim in one of Canada's inland lakes, and has then plunged into the ocean, realizes the added buoyancy and feeling of freedom in the salt water as compared with fresh water.

But it should be remembered that there are two functions inseparable from swimming. The first it to remain afloat and the second is to move forward. It is in the first of these that salt water has a great advantage over fresh water, for the effort of moving forward is the same in each case.

The buoyancy of salt water is due to the fact that three-quarters of our composition is water. The remaining quarter is composed of bone and other substances which are heavier than water, and therefore tend to make us sink.

Owing to the salt in the ocean, fresh water is lighter and our bodies therefore sink more rapidly—a condition which may be carried to such an extreme that in some localities, including the Dead Sea and the Great Salt Lake of Utah, it is almost impossible to sink, for the greater the amount of salt the heavier the water and the greater resistance to the force exerted by any body pressing down upon it.

THE · THREE GUARDSMEN

By ALEXANDRE DUMAS

D'Artagnan ran home immediately. Planchet, who had returned from London, opened the door to him.

"Has any one brought a letter for me?" asked D'Artagnan eagerly.

"No one has brought a letter, monsieur," replied Planchet, "but there is one come of itself. When I came in, although I had the key of your apartment in my pocket, and that key had never been out of my possession, I found a letter upon the green table cover in your bedchamber. I left it where I found it, monsieur. Beware, monsieur, there is certainly some magic in it."

While Planchet was saying this the young man had darted into his chamber and seized and opened the letter. It was from Mme. Bonacieux and was conceived in these terms:

> There are many thanks to be offered to you and to be transmitted to you. Be this evening about 10 o'clock at St. Cloud, in front of the pavilion built at the corner of the hotel of M. d'Estrees. C. B.

It was the first billet he had received, it was the first rendezvous that had ever been granted him. His heart, swelled by the intoxication of joy, felt ready to dissolve.

At 7 o'clock in the morning he arose and called his servant.

"Planchet," said he, "I am going out for all day perhaps. You are therefore your own master till 7 o'clock in the evening, but at 7 o'clock you must hold yourself in readiness with two horses. By this evening there will be four in the guard stables."

Nodding to Planchet, D'Artagnan went out.

M. Bonacieux was standing at his door. D'Artagnan's intention was to go out without speaking to the worthy mercer, but the latter made so polite and friendly a salutation that his tenant felt obliged not only to stop, but to enter into conversation with him.

Besides, how is it possible to avoid a little condescension toward a husband whose pretty wife has appointed a meeting with you that same evening at St. Cloud, opposite the pavilion of M. d'Estrees?

The conversation naturally fell upon the incarceration of the poor man. M. Bonacieux expatiated at great length upon the Bastille.

D'Artagnan listened to him with exemplary complaisance and when he had finished said:

"And Mme. Bonacieux, do you know who carried her off, for I do not forget that I owe to that unpleasant circumstance the good fortune of having made your acquaintance?"

"Ah!" said Bonacieux. "They took good care not to tell me that, and my wife on her part has sworn to me by all that's sacred that she does not know. But you," continued M. Bonacieux in a tone of perfect bonhomie, "what has become of you for several days past? I have not seen either you or any of your friends."

"My dear M. Bonacieux, my friends and I have been on a little journey."

"Far from Paris?"

"Oh, Lord, no! About forty leagues only. We went to take M. Athos to the waters of Forges, where my friends have remained."

"May I know whether you will be late tonight?" asked Bonacieux.

"Why do you ask me that question, my dear host?"

"Since my arrest and the robbery that was committed in my house I am alarmed every time I hear a door opened, particularly in the night."

"I am alarmed every time I hear a door opened."

"Well, don't be alarmed if I come home at 1, 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning. Indeed, do not be alarmed if I do not come at all."

This time Bonacieux became so pale that D'Artagnan could not do otherwise than perceive it and asked him what was the matter.

"Nothing," replied Bonacieux, "nothing, only since my misfortunes I have been subject to faintnesses."

"Perhaps this evening Mme. Bonacieux will visit the conjugal domicile?"

"Mme. Bonacieux is not at liberty this evening," replied the husband seriously. "She is detained at the Louvre this evening by her duties."

"So much the worse for you, my dear host."

And the young man departed, laughing at his joke, which he thought he alone comprehended.

"Ah, have your laugh out!" replied Bonacieux in a sepulchral tone.

But D'Artagnan was too far off to hear him, and if he had heard him in the disposition of mind he then enjoyed he would not have remarked it.

He found M. de Treville in the joy of his heart. He had thought the king and queen charming at the ball. The cardinal had been particularly ill tempered.

"Now," said M. de Treville, lowering his voice and looking round to every corner of the apartment to see if they were alone; "now let us talk about you, my young friend, for it is evident that your fortunate return has something to do with the joy of the king, the triumph of the queen and the humiliation of the cardinal. You must take care of yourself."

"What have I to fear," replied D'Artagnan, "as long as I shall have the good fortune to enjoy the favor of their majesties?"

"Everything, believe me. The cardinal is not the man to forget a mystification until he has settled his accounts with the mystifier."

"Do you believe that the cardinal knows as much as you do and knows that I have been to London?"

"London! Was it from London you brought that beautiful diamond that glitters on your finger? Beware, my dear D'Artagnan; a present from an enemy is not a good thing."

"This diamond does not come from an enemy, monsieur," replied D'Artagnan. "It comes from the queen."

"From the queen! Oh, oh!" said M. de Treville. "Why, it is indeed a true royal jewel, which is worth 1,000 pistoles if it is worth a denier. By whom did the queen send you this jewel?"

"She gave it to me herself." And he related to M. de Treville how the affair had passed.

"Listen to me," said M. de Treville; "shall I give you a good piece of advice—a piece of friendly advice?"

"You will do me honor, monsieur," said D'Artagnan.

"Well, then, go to the nearest goldsmith's and sell that diamond for the highest price you can get from him. He will give you at least 800 pistoles. Pistoles have no name, young man, and that ring has a terrible one, which may betray him who wears it."

"Sell this ring—a ring which comes from my sovereign—never!" said D'Artagnan.

"Then, at least turn the gem inside, you silly fellow, for everybody must be aware that a cadet from Gascony does not find such gems in his mother's jewel case."

"You think, then, I have something to dread?" asked D'Artagnan. "What must I do?"

"Be particularly, and at all times, on your guard. The cardinal has a tenacious memory and a long arm. You may depend upon it, he will repay you by some ill turn. Take every care. The least that can be expected is that you will be arrested. Mistrust everybody, your friend, your brother, your mistress—your mistress in particular. A woman is one of the cardinal's favorite means."

D'Artagnan thought of the appointment Mme. Bonacieux had made with him for that very evening, but M. de Treville did not inspire him with the least suspicion of his pretty hostess.

"But," resumed M. de Treville, "what has become of your three companions?"

"I left them on my road—Porthos at Chantilly, with a duel on his hands; Aramis at Crevecoeur, with a ball in his shoulder, and Athos at Amiens, detained by an accusation of coining!"

"See there, now!" said M. de Treville. "And how did you escape?"

"By a miracle, monsieur, I must acknowledge, with a sword thrust in my breast and by nailing M. le Comte de Wardes on the byroad to Calais like a butterfly on a tapestry."

"There again! De Wardes, one of the cardinal's men, a cousin of Rochefort's. In your place I would do one thing. I would take, without the sound of drum or trumpet, the road to Picardy and would go and make some inquiries concerning my three companions."

"Tomorrow I will set out."

"Tomorrow! And why not this evening?"

"This evening, monsieur, I am detained in Paris by an indispensable business."

"Ah, young man, young man, some love passage or other! Take my advice and set out this evening."

"It is impossible, monsieur."

"Well, promise if you should not happen to be killed tonight that you will go tomorrow."

"I promise you, monsieur."

And D'Artagnan left M. de Treville penetrated more than ever by his paternal solicitude for his musketeers. He called successively at the abodes of Athos, Porthos and Aramis. None of them had returned. Their lackeys likewise were absent, and nothing had been heard of either masters or servants.

As he passed the Hotel des Gardes he took a glance into the stables. Three out of the four horses were already arrived. Planchet, all astonishment, was busy grooming them and had already finished two.

"Ah, monsieur," said Planchet on perceiving D'Artagnan, "how glad I am to see you. Do you place confidence in our landlord, M. Bonacieux?"

"I? Not the least in the world."

"While you were talking with him I watched him. Monsieur, his countenance changed so two or three times!"

"Indeed!"

"Still more, as soon as monsieur had left and disappeared round the corner of the street M. Bonacieux took his hat, shut his door and set off at a quick pace in an opposite direction."

"It seems you are right, Planchet. All this appears to be a little mysterious."

"Monsieur jokes, but monsieur will see. He has not renounced his excursion for this evening!"

ENDS CAMPAIGN ON THE PRAIRIES

38 SEATS IN THE WEST

Premier Believed to Have Driven Broad Wedge Into Opponents' Forces.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 20—Right Hon. Arthur Meighen completed his campaign in the Prairie Provinces with his two meetings at Dauphin, Manitoba, on Saturday evening. He made a tour of some duration in Western Canada last year, and toward the close of last September made a special trip to his own constituency of Portage La Prairie to enunciate his plan for the solution of the grain marketing problem. He was not able, however, to devote more than a week to the provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan and Alberta at this stage of the struggle, which is to be decided on December 6th. Mr. Meighen, therefore, made opportunity to deliver his message to as many of the electors of the prairie country as possible. In six days he traveled as far westward as Moose Jaw, Sask., visited fifteen places, and addressed twenty meetings. He seized the occasion to give some attention to the contest in his own riding of Portage La Prairie, where he spoke to nine audiences. He is somewhat fatigued after his seventh consecutive week of campaigning. The leaders of his party, however, are well pleased with the results he has accomplished and declare that he has driven a broad wedge into the forces of his opponents in this section of the Dominion.

GRAIN BOARD PROPOSALS

Everywhere it is admitted that the Prime Minister's proposal to establish a grain board, through which the farmers of all Canada will have an opportunity to dispose of grain of all kinds has awakened widespread interest on the wheat-growing plains of the West.

Grain growers recall that the operations of the Canada Wheat Board in 1919-20 succeeded in spite of the pessimistic predictions of the leaders of the Wood-Crerar movement, who are seeking to arouse hostility toward the Government. The farmers of the West cannot but observe that Hon. Mackenzie King, the Liberal leader, has absolutely no proposal for solving their difficulties, and that the pronouncement of Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the Agrarian party, and president of the United Grain Growers, Limited, is vague and evasive. The grain growers of the West are contrasting the attitude of the two opposition leaders with the definite plan offered by the Prime Minister, who has for years been familiar with their problems. It is quite true that the spokesmen of the Wood-Crerar party are still actively engaged in the effort to foment resentment against the Government for its action in appointing the Hyndman Commission to investigate allegations that abuses existed in the handling of the grain of the country, and to recommend a method for remedying those abuses. There is also no question there is a considerable body of free trade sentiment among the farmers, particularly those who came to Canada from the United States, due largely to the fact that their product, wheat, is sold upon the world market, and that they have not yet experienced the value of a home market. Progressive leaders are, therefore, talking largely of the prospects of their candidates throughout the prairie country. It should be remembered, however, that Liberals, some, followers of Hon. Mackenzie King, and some, independents, but all running on the low tariff policy of their party, will be in the field in most of the constituencies of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and in more than half of those of Alberta.

WHAT REV. SPENCE SAYS AS TO HOME-BREWED ALE

Toronto, Nov. 21.—Referring to the brewing or home-brewed ale, Rev. Ben Spence, of the Dominion Alliance, says "We have a disease in our social system which we are trying to eradicate. It keeps breaking out in some other place. The brewing of home-brewed beer is a matter within the law, and at the moment my opinion is of no more moment than that of any other man. This must continue until the law is altered. We are aiming at the total elimination of this disease. All we can do is to keep working until the law prohibits the possibility of this disease in every shape and form. One day I am convinced we shall achieve success."

WOULD ABOLISH UNDERSEA CRAFT

Borden Quoted as Saying that Favors Banning the Submarine.

NEW YORK, Novv. 20.—Sir Robert Borden, Canada's representative on the British delegation to the Washington limitation of armaments conference is quoted in the Herald as declaring Canadians in favor of the banishment of the submarine as a war weapon.

The Herald quotes the former Canadian Premier as saying: "Abolition of the use and construction of submarines would represent a long step in the direction of world betterment.

"Canada, although dependent upon the empire for naval protection, would bring her full influence to bear in favor of the proposal to banish the undersea boat."

LAUNCH GIANT WARSHIP, FOR WAR OR JUNK HEAP ?

"West Virginia," Costing $65,000,000, Slid Down the Ways.

Newport News, Va., Nov. 21.—America's newest and most powerful battleship, the West Virginia, slid down the ways here—to take its place at head of the fleet of the United States, or on top of an international naval junk heap.

In Japan another huge battleship, the Akagi, was slipping down the ways equal in size to the one launched here.

In Washington sit the representatives of the great powers considering America's sweeping program for the junking of these and many more ships of the navies of the world.

Standing in her enormous timber cradle, the collossal cold steel craft spans two city squares—624 feet. At 11-40 o'clock, 32,600 tons of metal tempered to withstand the shock of tons of flying steel, will hit the water. The huge, ugly, blood-red hulks blots out the view. Workmen scurry about like industrious ants. A pigmy figure appears from time to time to peer down from the towering deck.

Beyond, three more partly complete ships of war rest in their ways, the Constellation and the Ranger, battle cruisers, and the Iowa, battleship.

The day was radiant. The blue waters of Hampton Roads shimmered in the sunlight. A stiff breeze kicked up graceful white caps. The picture was one of peace, not war, before the ship hit the water.

While the women of the world kneel praying for an end of war, the custom of a maiden christening ships of war goes on.

Little Miss Alice Mann, of Bramwell, West Virginia, sent the monster on its way to be prepared to deal out death.

Eight sixteen-inch guns that will hurl big shells for thirty miles, will be mounted on the completed ship. These will be backed up by fourteen five-inch guns, four three-inch anti-aircraft guns and two submergable torpedo tubes.

The approximate cost of the West Virginia will be $25,000,00. About 65 per cent. complete, $65,000,000 has already been spent upon her.

The nation hopes it will be her last.

In all the world there will be no mightier man-o'-war than this red-'eaded panther of the deep, when it is fitted out. But that may never be. The great ship may go into the international naval junk heap.

BRITISH FAVOR 5-5-3 RATIO

Hughes Plan Accepted by Great Britain With Reservations.

FOR CAPITAL SHIPS

United States, British Empire and Japan Involved in Proposal.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Great Britain has endorsed with reservation the "5-5-3" ratio proposed in the United States naval limitation plan, it was learned on highest authority. While accepting the plan as a whole only in principle because of their desire to put forward proposed modification of the submarine and replacement features, the British delegation is said to have approved the suggested relative capital ship strength for Great Britain, the United States and Japan, without equivocation.

Adherence of the British representatives to the capital ship ratio became known last night as an aftermath of the conference Saturday between Secretary Hughes, Mr. Balfour and Admiral Kato, at which the naval question was canvassed thoroughly in the light of Japanese reservations.

The 5—5-3 ratio of naval strength for the United States, Great Britain and Japan is coming under increasing pressure as the important cards of the diplomatic game begin to fall.

In the main, proposed modifications seem to centre about the contention that the "5-5-3" formula, which is based on tonnage alone, does not properly reflect present proportionate strength when such other elements as speed, cruising radius and armament are considered ship for ship. Thus far there has been every indication that the United States group would "stand pat" for its proposal of maintenance the existing ratio, but it is declared the national viewpoints of the other powers as to what constitutes a fair basis of comparison will have due recognition as the negotiations proceed.

The result may be a more thorough review of the exact status of the present naval establishment of the three powers, which the Japanese hold will show Japan's right to an increase over the "5-5-3" proportion, but which the United States experts declare will be more likely to establish that Great Britain and the United States each is entitled to almost a 2 to 1 advantage over Japan.

FIRST WOMAN CABINET MEMBER

Grows Tired of Her Job—Mrs. Ralph Smith Resigns From B. C. Government.

VICTORIA, B.C., Nov. 20.—Hon. Mrs. Ralph Smith, member without portfolio in the Oliver Government, and the first woman cabinet member in the British Empire, has resigned her office. In her letter of resignation made public last night, Mrs. Smith said:

"I herewith tender my resignation as a member of the Legislative Council and Minister without portfolio. For some time I have felt, as you know, that I should take this course and I have been in the unfortunate position of having to assume the responsibility of acts of the Government without being in a position to criticize or advise.

"As a member of the council, I have been precluded from criticism and that is perhaps not a good thing in one's constituency. Any other reasons I can give in due course.

"I am primarily interested in women and children and no matter what Government has the power as long as I can serve the people who I have the honor to represent, then I shall find the happiness that public life gives."

WOULD UNSEAT SENATOR BEFORE HE TAKES SEAT

Washington, Nov. 21.—A direct vote on the question of refusing to seat Truman H. Newberry as senator from Michigan was assured when Senator Walsh, Montana Democrat, introduced a resolution providing that Newberry be denied a seat because of the expenditure of too much money in his campaign.

Mrs. Ralph Smith, first woman member, resigns from British Columbia Government.

TRADE SPYING IN GERMANY

Object of New Law. Which the Reichstag Will Be Asked to Pass.

BERLIN, Nov. 21—"Trade spying" in Germany will constitute "economic high treason" in a new law which the Government is drafting and which the Reichstag and National Council will be asked to pass.

No country in history, it is declared has ever been so exposed to commercial spying by rival agents from other countries. Ever since the armistice the country has been flooded with secret agents seeking not only to ferret out military, but still more important commercial technical and business secrets. They have often been successful owing to the cupidity of German lacking patriotism.

The law aimed at such commercial espionage and especially directed against Germans betraying these valued secrets to foreigners, such as in the case recently reported of an employe of a chemical works selling dye secrets to a United States manufacturer. The law will provide prison penalties.

FOUR BANDITS PUT TO FLIGHT

Held Up in Car With Ladies, He Ignores Pistol Shot and Advances.

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 21.—Nerve shown by Fred Arnold, a Walkerville citizen foiled a bold attempt at a hold-up shortly before midnight last night. With two ladies in his machine, whom he was driving to their homes, Arnold was passing along Edna Street, near the easterly limits of Walkerville, when four men stepped out into the middle of the road and ordered him to halt, at the same time firing a shot in his direction.

Arnold stopped his car, but instead of waiting for the bandits to approach, he jumped into the road and started toward them, calling out: "I know who you are." The quartet, evidently amateurs, turned and ran.

After taking the ladies home, Arnold reported the affair to the Walkerville police. This morning four men, giving their names as George Cheswick, Donald Smith, Harold Lawr and Michael Devitt, were arraigned, charged with the attempted hold-up. Arnold, according to the police, has identified three of the men.

MARKET FOR SHIP-BUILDING VERY POOR

No New Order to Build a Ship Has Been Received Since First of Year.

Glasgow, Scotland, Nov. 21.—The market for shipbuilding is so poor that no new order to build a ship has been received at Wallsend on the Tyne since the beginning of the year, says Sir George Burton Hunter, chairman of the board of directors of one of the big shipbuilding companies there.

A vessel now nearly completed at Sunderland has been sold at a price less than one-half her cost of construction. Sir George gives figures, showing that it now costs £11.73 for a ton of steel used in a ship, as compared to £3.58 in 1911.

Ironworkers Handle Less.

The iron workers, he says, now handle about two hundredweight of steel per week less than they did ten years ago.

Sir George asserts also that wages are from three to three and one-half times those paid ten years ago, when the amount of work done is taken into consideration. He says that the workers accomplish 26 per cent. less work now than in 1911, and he adds:

"This applies to other industries as well as ship building and explains why more orders are not obtainable and why so many men are unemployed."

JUDGMENT RESERVED

London, Nov. 21.—Privy Council has reserved judgment in the appeal of the Province of Manitoba in the case against Thomas Kelly and Sons, contractors, who constructed the Parliament buildings at Winnipeg. The appeal was heard last week.

CANNOT REDUCE FRANCE'S ARMY

Briand To Urge that Danger to His Country Lurks in Europe.

NO NAVY BUILDING

Will Express Adherence to Naval Program Laid Down by Hughes.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Aristide Briand, seven times Prime Minister of France, held the conference in rapt attention for an hour today, with the world for his audience, while he told of France's need for a large army.

M. Briand's statement of the position of France may be summarized as follows:

First—An expression of adherence to the Hughes naval program, mentioning that the construction of warships by France was stopped in 1912 and has not been resumed.

Second—France is still menaced on her eastern frontiers and is therefore unable to diminish at present hte number of divisions held under arms.

Third—France must maintain her present army intact as long as order has not been restored in Europe. M. Briand pointed to Russia, where the Soviet government is said to have more than 1,000,000 men under arms. He insisted that the allied nations, particularly France, must possess the means of parrying this danger.

Fourth—France is bound to stand by Poland, which she could not abandon in case of an invasion by Russia.

DECLARE FOR GUARANTEE

Strasbourg, Nov. 21.—Premier Briand will declare for guarantee necessary for security of France at the Washington conference, Minister of War, Barthou said in an address here at the celebration of the third anniversary of the return of French troops to Strasbourg. Before disarmament it would be necessary, he said, to place Germany in a position where it would be impossible for her to endanger peace of world.

CECIL G. WILLTAMS RUNS IN EAST TORONTO

Toronto, Nov. 19.—Both the returned soldiers and Liberals of East Toront will hold convention on Monday night so said one of the "insideers" that there have been negotiations between leaders of teh soldier's organization and the Liberal executive, with a view to their both agreeing on one strong candidate. It was also stated that overtures have been successful, and that the result of Monday night's proceedings will be the endorsation of one man by both the soldiers and Liberals.

This strong candidate is said to be Lieut.-Col. Cecil G. Williams, manager of the Ontario Branch of the Navy League and an ex-Methodist minister. During the war he was prominent as a recruiting officer.

WILL NOT PLAY JUDAS TO THEIR TRADITION

Oberammergau, Bavaria, Nov. 21: The Passion Play committee which recently has been bombarded by proposals by United States moving picture concerns for the privilege of filming the production in 1922, when the play will next be performed, is standing firm in its refusal "to play Judas to our traditions, despite our poverty," as he puts it.

The committee, it is stated, has refused offers running as high as seventy million marks, representing a huge fortune to the villagers. Their production of the play every ten years is a fulfillment of a vow made back in the seventeenth century, thus to express the gratitude of the village for having been spared from the plague. The play, last produced in 1910, was not given in 1920, the regular date, because of the mortality among the performers and musicians caused by the war.

WILLIAMS WILL NOT RUN FOR A SEAT IN THE COMMONS

Time Fully Occupied as Manager of the Navy League.

Toronto, Nov. 21.—Col. Cecil G. Williams will not be a candidate for the federal riding of East Toronto. When it was learned that the returned soldiers were anxious to nominate him, Col. Williams was asked if he would accept the nomination. He replied that he could "make no statement at present."

The following letter was received on Saturday.

Dear Sir,—

Without any knowledge on my part whatever, and to my intense astonishment I noticed in Friday night's issue of the Toronto Daily Star that I was spoken of, an my photograph published, as a prospective candidate for East Toronto.

As manager of the Ontario division of the Navy League of Canada, my whole time is entirely taken up with the needs of the Navy League and all that it stands for; namely, to take care of the women and children of the men of the mercantile marine; to support sailors' homes and institutes from Halifax to Vancouver, and to train Canadian boys to man Canada's merchant marine.

The Navy League stands for the development of Canada's raw materials in as many diverse forms as is possible to the end that the highest point of financial value in relation to the same may be reached, that Canada may sell her goods in the world's markets in her own ships, manned by Canadian sailors.

However, allow me to assure my friends, that the returned soldier, as well as the sailor, shall always receive from me every consideration.

Faithfully yours,
(Signed) CECIL G. WILLIAMS,
Lieut.-Colonel.

HENDERS SCORES GRAIN GROWERS

Their Methods in Dealing With Western Farmers Scathingly Arraigned.

CRERAR IS CRITICIZED

Slashing Attack by Former Manager of Association at Chatham.

Chatham, Ont., Nov. 20.—A large gathering of electors faced R. C. Henders, of Winnipeg, in the I.O.O.F. Auditorium last evening to listen to his exposure of the methods adopted by the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association in their dealing with the Western farmers, and to consider the association of Hon. T. A. Crerar with the company, which Mr. Henders claims has been deceiving the farmers, who are also shareholders. Mr. Henders was for ten years managing director of the Grain-Growers' Association of Manitoba. He traced very clearly in detail the events leading up to charges he made against their present manager, who is now appealing for the votes of the people to make him the Prime Minister of Canada.

He charged that while the object in forming the association was to correct the evils from which the farmers were suffering at the hands of the elevator men the transportation companies of the West in the marketing of their grain, the company itself has been just as bad as the former alleged oppressors in regulating the price of grain against the interests of the producers. The difficulty, he stated, has been more than doubled under the control of the Grain-Growers' Association, of which Mr. Crerar is the head.

He scored Mr. Crerar for not appealing to his constituents for a mandate, when he disagreed with the Government and resigned the position of Minister of Agriculture. He accused him of playing cheap politics.

In connection with the charges which had been made by Mr. Christie against the Grain-Gowers' Association, claiming that there were excessive overages in the handling of the grain, as well as excessive screenings, the indiscriminate promotion of grades Mr. Henderson showed the inquiry instituted by the Government had been blocked by Mr. Crerar and his colleagues in the association, and these men are still in control of the affairs of the company.

He referred to the refusal of the association to throw their books open to the Board of Inquiry, and related how Mr. Murray, the then manager, went to Fort William to prevent the board from gaining the information they desired, and which they had a right to receive.

U.F.O.-LABOR CANDIDATE FAVORS PROTECTION

Publicly Admits He is Not Free Trader—Favors Protection.

On Saturday evening the City Hall contained a good audience which assembled to hear the political questions of the day expounded by Mr. A. D. McIntosh, the U.F.O. and Labor candidate for West Hastings, who was supported by Mr. Wm. Varley, a Toronto Labor advocate and a returned man also Mrs. A. Glenn of the Queen city. Mr. H. McCrudden of Trenton occupied the chair and upon the platform were a number who were in sympathy with the cause.

Mr. Varley Speaks

Mr. Varley was the first speaker and after some preliminary remarks as to the pleasure it was to address a Belleville audience, made the assertion that free trade and protection was not the issue in this election. He also stated that he had never heard anything of a free trade speech by Hon Mr. King or any of his speakers. There are more important isue than the tariff, namely the re-establishment of returned soldiers and reconstruction. The speaker stated that the soldiers had not been fairly treated in regard to payment in this way, that in England they received $4.76 for a pound note, but in Canada it was not worth that much and what had become of the balance, which he claimed amounted to a large sum. The question he would like to have answered was where did the balance go to. In speaking of protection, the speaker said a measure of protection might be necessary for a new industry but we had many industries which are wealthy concerns and are making much money owing to high protection. It has been proved the speaker said, that there was profiteering during the war, but the laborers were not benefitted to the extent that they should have been. In referring to the Ford Car industry he stated that it costs $100 to $150 more for a Ford car in Canada than for the same car in Detroit. The government is blamed for this, not Henry Ford. He manufactures cars in Canada for exporting purposes, rather than manufacture them in the United States. Mr. Varley in speaking of who should be the head of the Government in Canada, said he did not care whether he was a Jew or gentile if he governed the country well. The present depression in this country, he calimed was because the Government had not stimulated trade as it should have done. In concluding his address Mr. Varley said if the farmers and labor are not qualified to run this country then the blame lies at the door of the government by not providing the proper education for them to do so. He made an appeal to all present to help elect Mr. McIntosh.

Labor Advocate

Mrs. A. Glenn of Toronto, was well received and her address was on the labor movement, and its wider aspect. The tariff she claimed was a side issue in this campaign. Fundamental changes were necessary in this country. The present labor movement was a step forward, a step that meant much. In every country in the world you see a great movement and that movement is labor, a humanitarian movement. It is a movement for humanity in order that humanity generally may be improved. Our friend Mr. Meighen says we must get back to normal conditions. We had class government and even class legislators, and who put them there, the people. That the working people of this country must work out their own salvation seems to be the motto of some of the speakers. The labor men and farmers are in a class by themselves, and exploiterating class. The working class has a philosophy of its own, and that philosophy should be to help itself, and be as it were a piece of machinery. The labor movement is a protective movement. Before the days of trade unions, conditions of labor was not what it should have been, in fact, in many cases it was terrible. Social reforms have, however, changed materially this condition for the better. Mrs. Glenn referred to the unemployment situation in the country, claiming that the situation could be improved. Get behind this progressive movement which means equal rights to all.

The Candidate

Mr. McIntosh was cordially received upon rising to speak and stated in his opening remarks that he had carefully considered the step he had taken. For eleven years he had been in the employment of the Provincial Government and during that period had been much interested in farming work. His motto was to do right to all. This was a new campaign of work to him, and he was willing to take upon himself the responsibilities that would evolve upon him. As a farmer's son and his experience he could say that he knew what the farmers' needs were and he had some ability to handle this new job. More farmers' candidates are being sought after by the political parties to-day and there was a reason for this, namely that their services were needed. Mr. McIntosh displayed some political posters issued by the government party and claimed that too much money altogether was being spent in this direction. In referring to protection the speaker said Mr. Meighen stands for protection and I stand for reasonable protection with emphasis on the word reasonable. Mr. Crerar's free trade policy he had never seen. He, the speaker was not a free trader. King's policy he did not know. In concluding his address, Mr. McIntosh said he had no promises to make. If he went to Ottawa he would maintain his manhood and feeling of equality with any member and would represent West Hastings to the best of his ability. He could say that he was receiving unbelievable support all over the riding and he believed the masses of the electors in the city were with him. If, however, his services were not wanted, he would say do not vote for me. If, however, he rode in on a wave of public indignation he would be true to the trust reposed in him.—(Cheers).

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

"UNDER CRIMSON SKIES" COLORFUL ADVENTURE PLAY

The newest Universal-Jewel production, "Under Crimson Skies" written by J. H. Hawkes, directed by Rex Ingram, director of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalpse," and featuring Elmo Lincoln the colossus of the screen and Mabel Ballin, is the feature attraction at Griffin's tonight to Wednesday.

Patrons of the film drama have learned to expect the unusual in the Jewel features, and "Under Crimson Skies," from all advance reports, will prove no exception to the rule. Those who love adventure and revel in the tales of Jack London, Robert Louis Stephenson and Rex Beach, will find in "Under Crimson Skies" a picture to enjoy and long to remember.

"Spirits" an amusing 2-reel comedy, the latest chapter of the Western serial, "Vanishing Trails," a Travelogue and other varied attractions will be exhibited in addition to the above feature offering.

"JUST SUPPOSE" A CHARMING COMEDY

It is with more than ordinary pride that the management of Griffin's Theatre announce the engagement of "Just Suppose," the comedy romance based on the recent visit of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. Edward H. Robins is simply holding his wonderful company together by making a brief tour of the principal cities of Canada after which they will return to their home theatre, the Royal Alexandra, Toronto, for a run of "Just Suppose."

It is part of the contract between the management of Griffin's and Mr. Robins that the company to be seen locally will be the same as seen at the Royal Alexandra during the record breaking run of this comedy there last summer when all records for this theatre were shattered.

Graham Velsey, the clever young English juvenile man has been brought to this country just to play the role of the Prince of Wales. Norman Cope, another Englishman, understudy to Sir John Martin Harvey during the latter's revent tour of Canada, will be seen as the chum, Bubbles, and Walter Howe, one of the cleverest of character men from England, will be seen as the young Southern boy and no better selection could possibly have been made than in Kathleen Wallace as the young Southern girl, Linda Lee, with whom the Prince falls in love. Mrs. Julia Hurley, the oldest of present day American actresses will be seen in the role of the grandmother. Thomas McKnight, Walter Ainslie and Harry P. Young are others who will be seen in their original roles.

The stage pictures are from the studios of Gilbert Sackerman, New York's most noted scenic artist who has selected for his stage pictures the home of a well known Southern statesman. "Just Suppose" comes to Griffin's Theatre for one night, Friday November 25th.

CAMPAIGN NOTES

To-morrow will be nomination day in the Dominion when candidates in the various constituencies will be named. At the Opera House in the town of Trenton from 12 to 1 o'clock to-morrow afternoon the nomination proceedings for West Hastings will take place, the returning officer being Mr. Hugh Wiggins. A public meeting will follow when the candidates named and others will give addresses on the issues of the day.

At the village of Tweed the nomination proceedings for East Hastings will take place. The prospects are that there will be three candidates in the field for that riding.

ADOPTS PROPOSAL OF PREMIER THEODOR

The Inter-State Labor Conference at Melbourne, Australia has terminated its proceedings by adopting a proposals of Premier Theodor, of Queensland, in favor of making the commonwealth the supreme governing authority of Australia with unlimited powers, states to have only such functions as the commonwealth confers, and the commonwealth to have the right to create new states.

The scheme, which is a drastic form of unification, provides for the abolition of the Senate, the vesting of the final jurisdiction in all causes in the High Court, and disallowing the acceptance of Imperial honors in any circumstances by any Australian citizen.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 1248, or write The Intelligencer.

CAUTION THE KIDDIES

O.P.—Coming down Victoria avenue this morning I slipped upon some orange peeling which littered the walk and almost broke some of the commandments—parents who give their children oranges to take to school should caution them not to scatter the skins on the sidewalk.

BAD PIECE OF ROAD

T.B.—I see that a portion of Yeoman street between Catherine and Moira streets west is in a most deplorable condition. After a heavy rain the condition of the road is such that traffic with a car is almost next to impossible owing to the deep ruts and holes. As there is much traffic on this particular street the Public Works Department would be conferring a great favor if it would have the ruts and holes filled up. Possibly that department is waiting for a downfall of snow to do this.

LADY JURORS

H.C.—I see by the City Voters' List of 1921 which has just been issued that no less than 1997 of the male electors of the city are entitled to act as jurors upon the various courts that are held in the city. It seems strange to me that the ladies having been given the franchise and entitled to vote not only on municipal but Parliamentary elections should not be qualified to act as jurors, but the letter J does not appear opposite their name in the city lists.

WOMEN'S CELL

B.A.—I notice that some time ago there was an intimation that some alterations were to be made to the interior of the police station in the city whereby a proper place would be provided for any woman who should be unfortunate enough to be placed under arrest. At present, so I am informed, if a member of the female sex is arrested she has to be confined in an apartment that is called the tramp room, which is totally unfit for such purposes. The chairman of city property in the City Council might look into this matter.

What One Doctor Says

Dr. M. C. Lyons says: "After careful investigation I heartily recommend Rheuma for all forms of rheumatism." McKeown's Drug Store sells and guarantees it. Use of one bottle will convince you why this doctor praises it so highly.

TONIGHT TO WED.

Elmo Lincoln and Mabel Ballin IN "Under Crimson Skies"

Here is a really BIG picture, a rousing, stirring picture; a romantic picture; a story that sweeps you up out of your hum-drum life and carries you off to sea and marvellous adventure. "Under Crimson Skies" is one of those great plays which could only be given you by the camera; one of those huge outdoor dramas for which the screen was made. Here, surely, is something for everybody—love, adventure, thrills.

Transportation and Your Safety

CAR SHORTAGES have already developed at many of the coal mines of the United States. Without cars to load, the mines cannot produce; without production of coal, the welfare of the public cannot be conserved.

So far the shortages have not been serious in proportions, but with cold weather arriving, it can be expected that they will increase and may materially hinder the movement of coal.

Safety to your family can be secured by immediately stocking your coal. Coal prices will not decrease, and they may advance, if a transportation emergency arises.

Efficient Housekeeping

By Laura A. Kirkman

DOES YOUR CHINA HARMONIZE WITH ITS SURROUNDINGS?

Two young housekeepers have written to ask me for an article on the choice of china. "I would like a handsome monogramed set of china," reads one of these letters, "but I am just married and we have hardly enough money for necessities." The other letter contains this question: "Our dining room is furnished in mission and our living room with stained willow furniture. Would a set of china with embossed gold bandings be appropriate for our home?"

Now I don't think one needs a knowledge of interior decoration to agree with me that "showy" china such as these two readers want, is not for the simple home. A small, inexpensively furnished home should have china in keeping with its simplicity. China with a striking pattern is just as much out of place in the modest home as china bearing a coat of arms would be in a farmhouse. Anything that "simply screams money" should be left to palatial houses.

What, then, is appropriate for the average young housekeeper who starts her married life in a "cottage for two" where economy is a most important consideration? I can recommend some of the following wares:

Almost everybody is familiar with "Sedji" ware. It is of one tone (a cool, refreshing green), whose glaze is satin-like in texture. Other solid colors—yellow, old rose, old-blue and mauve—may also be found in Oriental pottery, but these colors are perhaps better suited to the tea-tray than to the dining table. The green Sedji, however, may be used day in and day out on the home table for all meals, without grating on the nerves.

Canton china in the familiar "willow" pattern is also a well-known ware. It is inexpensive and may be replaced—like the Oriental ware mentioned above—when pieces are broken.

Still another Oriental ware called "Howo" ware comes in an "open pattern" and this is simple and dignified for the little home; this ware comes in blue and white.

At the present moment there is a reversion to primitive peasant pottery, which although too crude for use at dinner is very effective on the luncheon or breakfast table—especially when used with coarse linen doilies or runners that have the tones of the pottery repeated in a simple embroidered design. The young housekeeper should not hesitate to buy odd pieces of china which are simple in shape, color and design and which will harmonize with other pieces she has. For it is considered quite proper today to have odd pieces grouped together if the general effect is pleasing.

Another drastic departure from the conventions of our forebears, is the use of different wares of china for the various courses of a meal. Great-grandmother, who prided herself on her hundred-piece dinner set, would gaze with horror on our plain white soup plates, our patterned dinner plates, our cool green salad plates and our wares "match" in any way!

Indeed, about the only set rule we must follow today in choosing our china, is this: Make a choice that looks appropriate with the general interior of the home.

Tomorrow—Answered Letters

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

ABLE TO DO HER WORK

After Long Suffering Mrs. Peasey Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ont.—"I suffered with irregular menstruation, was weak and run down, could not eat and had headaches. The worst symptoms were dragging down pains, so bad I sometimes thought I would go crazy and I seemed to be smothering. I was in this condition for two or three years and could not seem to work. I tried all kinds of medicines and had been treated by physicians but received no benefit. I found one of your booklets and felt inclined to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I received the best results from it and now I keep house and go out to work and am like a new woman. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound to my friends and if these facts will help some poor woman use them as you please."—Mrs. J. F. PEASEY, 887 King St., Toronto, Ontario.

If you are one of these women do not suffer for four or five years as Mrs. Peasey did, but profit by her experience and be restored to health.

Of Interest to Women

BRITISH PEACE EFFORT LEAVES MANY JOBLESS

London, Nov. 21.—Britain on Saturday was confronted by the first unemployment crisis resulting from discontinuation of armament building.

Ten thousand men in Glasgow steel mills were hit by the admiralty's order stopping construction of capital ships. Fifteen thousand more who were looking forward to getting jobs as soon as work on the super-Hoods got under way, were also affected.

The general sentiment among labor leaders that suspension of building was a splendid expression of a real desire for peace. They were not alarmed at the temporary unemployment, which they considered transitional.

The men thrown out of work by halting construction of the battleships will be given employment, together with thousands of others, if the government converts to the arts of peace the £30,000,000 which would have been spent on the fighting vessels. Labor leaders urged that the government use this money to encourage manufacturing and agricultural enterprises.

GRAND TRUNK TRAINS MAKE A FINE RECORD

A summary of the operation of passenger trains during the month of October, 1921, on the Grand Trunk Railway System, east of the St. Clair and Detroit Rivers, shows that out of 9053 trains 91% reached the terminal station on time. This record is a very gratifying one and such a performance is regarded as evidence of the efficiency with which the passenger service of the Grand Trunk is being operated. The record for September was equally good.

"Tinker Bob" Stories

by Carlysle H. Holcomb

BACK TO SEE BOBBY IN THE FOREST

"It's just like this," said Tinker Bob to the Hunter. "Bobby Owl lost his home because he didn't stay in it very much. He went out in the forest and he stayed there while the weather was nice and never returned to his home in the hollow tree. Well, when the weather began to cool he felt the need of his house for he wanted to sleep but when he returned Sammy Squirrel was there filling it full of nuts. Now Bobby doesn't like nuts and it would take him all Winter to get those nuts out of his house so he came to me to see what could be done for him this Winter. I didn't want to turn Sammy out of a home because he is going to marry Susie Chipmunk and the wedding is going to be soon. It would be a terrible thing to turn him out when he has his house full of his Winter's food. And you see, Mr. Hunter, I have to be careful how I treat these forest folks so that each one will have as good as the other."

"Well, I declare Mr. King of the forest, you do have a time to keep peace in that great family of yours."

"Now, Mr. Hunter," continued Tinker Bob, "I want to know if you will let Bobby Owl stay in your barn this Winter? Bobby is a fine fellow and he will do you some good turns too. Bobby can catch a mouse so quick that you wouldn't what he was about. And Rats, well he will keep the rats away and they will never come back."

"The only thing I am afraid of, Mr. King, is that he will take my chickens like that Fox tried to do, and then I'd have to shoot him."

"Oh no, Bobby never molests large chickens for he isn't big enough to carry away a chicken. He might if he was terribly hungry take a little chick but you don't have little Chicks now."

"No, we have only the big chickens, but I thought he liked the big ones."

"He will keep the naughty little Sparrows away for if there is anything that he doesn't like it is a Sparrow and he catches a good many of them too—a good many more than he can eat."

"Well, if that is the case you bring him along and he will be safe. If there is anything that I don't like it's a sparrow. Just bring him over to my barn and I'll show the Sparrows whether they can do as they please or not."

"There is only one thing, Mr. Hunter, that Bobby wanted me to ask about and that was your cat. He is very much afraid of a cat and he wouldn't come over here if he thought there would be a cat around that would be always trying to catch him. You see, Snoopy, the Bobcat, has tried to catch him so many times he is afraid of cats."

"Bobby can catch a mouse so quick that you wouldn't know what he was about."

"I have a cat but you tell him to come over here anyway and we will see to it that Mr. Cat stays in the house and never disturbs him."

So Tinker Bob and Silky, the Monkey, went to the forest to tell Bobby about their visit with the Hunter.

Over five hundred women tendered a reception to Mrs. Arthur Meighen, wife of Premier Meighen, in Garden Hall, Kingston, Friday afternoon. The hall was filled for the reception and two splendid brief addresses were delivered by Hon. Dr. Ross, the local Government candidate, and W. M. Nickle, son of W. F. Nickle, K.C., ex-M.P. for Kingston. Mrs G. Hunter Ogilvie presided at the gathering, which was entirely a social function. Mrs. Meighen met all the visitors and all were immediately charmed by her pleasing personality and genial nature. Hon. Dr. Ross in a brief address urged the woman to work for the return of the Meighen Government," and said that Mrs. Meighen was a big factor in the achievements of her husband. Mr. Nickle referred to the splendid war record Hon. Dr. Ross, pointed out that as an achiever during the war, he was also a doer in civil and parliamentary matters.

THOUSANDS NOW GIVE TESTIMONY

Mrs. Morrow Among Latest to Testify to Powers of Tanlac in Building up Anyone.

According to the testimony of multiplied thousands there is nothing so invigorating to a rundown system as Tanlac. There are hundreds of enthusiastic witnesses to this fact right here in Toronto. Among the latest to testify is Mrs. Isabella Morrow, of 58 W. Cherles St., Toronto, Ont.

"For some time before I got Tanlac I was in a badly run-down condition, which I suppose was due to indigestion and the strenousness of my household duties. I had no appetite, and the little I managed to eat gave me scarcely any nourishment. I had very little strength or energy, and just wanted to mope around all the time. My housework was the greatest effort for me, and I was very much discouraged and melancholy over my weak condition and failing health.

"Tanlac took hold of my troubles from the very start. I am now eating just anything I want, and everything agrees with me perfectly. That tired, wornout feeling has entirely disappeared and it no longer worries me to look after my household duties. Tanlac is certainly a wonderful medicine, and I'm glad to recommend it to anyone in need of something to build them up." Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store.

POLICEMAN ON RAMPAGE TWICE WOUNDS A WOMAN

Cleveland, O., Nov. 21.—Patrolman Martin Collan, who brother officers declare, was intoxicated, narrowly escaped being lynched here last night after he had seriously wounded Mrs. Antoinette Santore, 28, while shooting at pedestrians in the vicinity of Central avenue and 24th street. Three bullets passed through the coat of a detective as he attempted to disarm the officer.

Collan was arrested charged with shooting to kill. Patrolman William McGonigal, who had been with Collan earlier in the evening, also was arrested and booked on a charge of shooting to wound. They were off duty.

Mrs. Santore was taken to a hospital with bullet wounds in her right leg and thigh.

Health turns the Clock Backward

Nine Reasons Why Spinal Neglect is a crime

1. The backbone is the foundation of the body.
2. It is composed of 26 joints, 24 of which are movable.
3. From between these joints radiate the nerves of the body.
4. When these joints are in alignment the nerve openings are full sizes and the nerves deliver 100% of their power.
5. A nerve under pressure at the backbone opening causes disease in the part it serves.
6. Chiropractic removes the pressure by an adjustment by hand, and this adjustment opens the way for health (free nerve energy).
7. If chiropractic seems too simple to do all that it can do, remember that every phenomena of growth is caused by as simple a thing as heat.
8. To neglect the backbone invites disease, which is a crime because it is in violation of Nature's laws.
9. Don't be a criminal.

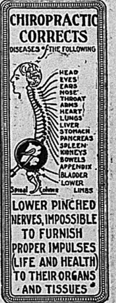
Women Fear Skin Diseases

MONDAY HEALTH TALK No. 55
By WM. P. REDICK, D.C. Ph. C.

In spite of the general use of cosmetics, women fear skin diseases. Nothing will cover up the eruption of a nest of pimples, and pimples will come where the stomach and kidneys are out of order.

The cause may be plain gluttony, but where there is care in not overeating, and yet the tiny, disfiguring splotches come, the cause is in the spine. There is pressure on spinal nerves to the stomach and kidneys, causing faulty discharge of waste through the skin. Chiropractic spinal adjustments will remove the cause and the trouble disappears.



FEEL A NEW WOMAN

"Friends persuaded me to take chiropractic spinal adjustments about seven months ago. I was skeptical but gave it a trial. The results have been little short of amazing. It has practically made a new woman of me and gave me just the relief I was looking for."—Mrs. J. G. Thompson, Chiropractic Research Bureau Statement No. 1288H.

PEACE PREFERRED, BUT READY FOR ANYTHING.

Great Britain never was a laggard, and in this great crisis between the continued possibility of war or the practical beginning of a sound movement for permanent peace. Britannia shows the way with the cessation of all work on the four great battleships now under way. This is the answer to the challenge of the United States to cease firing and scrap the guns; Britain shows the way, and the British Empire shines forth as ever as the greatest power for peace and liberty among the world of nations. If the United States means it here we are, ready, aye ready, says John Bull, but if Uncle Sam is only bluffing here's where John Bull calls the bluff right out in the open where all the world can see.

RT. HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN, THE MAN OF THE HOUR.

Canada has a Premier whose reputation for ability and keen statesmanship has girdled the globe, and who more than any other man made possible the great Washington conference.

What has Mackenzie King done to aspire to the Premiership of Canada? Ask Rockefeller and his Standard Oil Money Maker and the labor men of the United States who ran foul of the Rockefeller interests.

What has Tom Crerar to offer as recommendation to justify his application for the Premiership of Canada? A reputation as a man drawing a big salary as a business man and having to announce to the shareholders a heavy loss and acknowledge incompetency in his first official announcement.

Arthur Meighen is the man for Canada, and any swapping of leaders now may mean catastrophe for this great and growing nation.

MAIN STREET.

Market Day in Belleville to those with vision not rivetted entirely upon the cracked pavement of Main Street, is an amazing epic, an ever-unfolding panorama of wonder and delight. A trip about the market place, a perilous voyage through the rolling billows of the market hall, where after being buffeted hither and yon by the restless crowd one reaches safety finally on the outer steps with clothing mussed but with a glad vision of pleasant faces, eager faces, and the sharp, close bargaining of the rural resident and the city shopper. The vendors all know each other and over all the din of "How much?" "Too much!" and "Giving it away at the price!" come the laughter and chatter of friends from the country in the glad weekly reunion, while the city folks, more reticent, perhaps, greet each other with that modified restraint which suggests just a shade of suspicion.

Then there is the cameraderie of the pavements after the market—merry, laughing groups gathered everywhere in front of the stores, haven't seen each other for a week or weeks and much to tell and to ask and to hear about all the happenings of the countryside. And the faces, happy, friendly and healthy in the joyous Canadian way—and who wouldn't be happy in the great prosperity which is ours, no famine, no hunger, no armed enemies seeking our lives, peace and abundance and everything to make us happy in the town or on the farm, with motor cars, telephones, mail delivery every day at our homes in town and country, electric light, hot and cold water on tap and the glories of the modern bath tub, good roads to travel over, splendid stores to trade in right at our doors almost so that we can see what we are buying and size up the value, and a host of other blessings and the wherewithal to acquire them.

If we are not then happy we need the doctor, and those who have eyes to see can see many wonderful things in Belleville on Market Day, the most wonderful of all being that great Fellowship of Friendship which makes life worth living.

THE DOLE IS NO CURE

Doles at the best provide a palliative and not a cure; and in this case, with a deficit certain, fresh taxation would be necessary to pay for them. That would be disastrous to industry.

GENEVA TEA PARTY

After the overhauling it has endured at the hands of the committee, Article X. survives at the backbone of the League, reduced to flabbiness. It still requires League members to use force against an associate who starts a war of aggression, but should the occasion arise for invoking it, every League nation will be at liberty to decide whether or not it will fulfill the requirement.

London Daily Telegraph

We are in India to keep order and to maintain internal peace. That is our prime duty, and nothing must be allowed to deflect us from pursuing it. There is some reason to suspect that our consideration for influential apostles of revolution has been misinterpreted, and that strong measures may be needed to restore that unquestioned prestige of the Administration on which the tranquility of an Asiatic society depends.

VISION

I came to the mountains for beauty,
And I find here the toiling folk,
On sparse little farms in the valleys,
Wearing their days like a yoke.

White clouds fill the valleys at morning,
They are round as great billows at sea,
And roll themselves up to the hilltops
Still round as great billows can be.

The mists fill the valleys at evening,
They are blue as the smoke in the fall,
And spread all the hills with a tenuous scarf
That touches the hills not at all.

These lone folk have looked on them daily,
Yet I see in their faces no light,
Oh, how can I show them the mountains
That are round them by day and by night?

Willie was only seven, nevertheless he was allowed to go for an outing with the choir boys. His little suit was brand new when he set out, but when he returned the entire seat of his trousers was gone.

"It's all right, mother," replied Willie. "No one saw me, for I walked all the way backwards.'"

RUGBY
Oshawa 18, Belleville 0

Midst the downpouring rain and on a muddy field full of water holes, the Oshawa Rugby Team beat the Belleville High School crew [illegible]. Weight was what defeated the local team.

Bucking and faking seemed to be the favorite passes of the Oshawa crowd. The field was in a deplorable condition and when quarter time came some of the fellows were the worst looking wrecks you ever did see. Their own mothers wouldn't have known them if they had gone home.

Messrs. Affleck and Liberty of Belleville handled the game in a manner which did not seem to please Oshawa. They were always grumbling.

The scoring was done all through the game, the halves being the cause of all the trouble. Two touch downs and eight rouges was the scoring. The lineups for the teams were:

Belleville—Kerr, snap; G. Hurley and Ives, insides; J. Hurley and Tyers, middles; Christie and Cook, outsides; Marshall, Yeomans, Allen, halves; Elliott, quarter; Maidens, flying wing; Allison and Emerson, spares.

Oshawa—Moffat, snap; Miller and Beath, insides; Brown and McKay, middle; Hubble and Lake, outside; Jamieson, flying; Bouckley, quarter; Wright (Capt.), Brown, N. Irwin, halves; Hall, Clarke, Saunders, Williams and Wilson, subs.

SOCCER
Tiger Tires 1; Tigers 0

The invincible Belleville Tigers were again defeated on Saturday afternoon by the Tiger Tires by the score of 1-0. In the absence of Chas. Thompson the goalie, Sid Taylor took that position. The game was rather a nasty one on account of the condition of the field but nevertheless a goal game was played and everyone enjoyed it.

The stars for the game were the Hays brothers and Brant. The lineups were as follows:

Tigers—Taylor, goal; Maker and Walsh, full backs; Barry, c.h.b.; Cross r.h.b.; Baker, l.h.b.; Knott, o.l.; Thompson, i.l.; Page, c.f; Hickin, r.b.

Do This Tonight

Watch the quick effects—see the change in a week

Present this coupon to your dealer. He will give you a delightful ten-day test of a new teeth-cleaning method which millions are employing.

Watch the effects, quick, pleasant and conspicuous. Watch the new luster that comes. In ten days let your mirror tell you the way to pretty teeth.

Leading dentists everywhere advise this method now. You will see and feel the reasons when you make this test.

End the dingy film

The chief purpose is to fight film. This viscous coat, which you can feel, causes dingy teeth and also most tooth troubles.

Film clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. The old ways of brushing did not end it. So film-coats night and day threaten serious damage.

Film is what discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. All these troubles have been constantly increasing. Despite the daily brushing with old methods, very few escaped them.

Now you can fight it

Dental science, after long research, has found ways to fight that film. Able authorities have proved them effective. Now leading dentists everywhere advise their daily use.

The methods are embodied in Pepsodent, the new-day, scientific tooth paste. Millions of people now use it, and the use is fast spreading the world over.

That is the dentifrice we urge you to try. Your druggist has a free tube for you. Enjoy its effects for ten days, then judge them for yourself.

Also starch and acids

Modern diet makes other things essential. And those essentials are embodied in this scientific tooth paste.

Each use of Pepsodent multiplies the salivary flow. That is Nature's great tooth-protecting agent. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's agent for neutralizing acids which attack the teeth.

An ideal diet would do these same things, but few people get it. So dental science now needs the tooth paste to bring these desired effects.

Pepsodent will daily bring you five great benefits which the old ways did not bring. Together they mean a new era in teeth cleaning.

Men's tobacco stains

Men who smoke stain these film-coats with tobacco. The use of Pepsodent brings them conspicuous effects.

Food stains with women make these film-coats dingy. The glistening teeth seen everywhere now show how Pepsodent removes them.

But children need Pepsodent most. Their teeth are most subject to film and starch attacks. Very few escape them. Dentists advise that they use Pepsodent from the time the first tooth appears.

Watch teeth whiten

The results of Pepsodent are quickly seen and felt. No user can long doubt them. A book we send explains the reasons for them. A very short test will convince you that this new way is essential.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch the other good effects.

Then you will see and feel and know that Pepsodent is necessary. You will realize that old methods were not right. And this discovery may bring life-long benefits both to you and yours. Present this coupon to any dealer named this week. Cut it out now.

BACK IN HOSPITAL AGAIN

Detective James Cotter is again in the General Hospital, his injured arm having suffered a relapse. The wound was progressing favorably and Detective Cotter was on duty for the past week, but on Wednesday his arm became quite sore and swollen, so that he was ordered to the hospital, where he is receiving treatment.—Kingston Standard.

STRICKEN WHILE ALONE

When Smith's Falls police forced an entrance to the house of Miss Catharine Tovey, about which no activity had been noticed for three days, they discovered the aged woman lying on the floor of a room suffering from a hemorrhage. A few hours later she died in a hospital.

RECEIVES 10TH DECORATION

Terence Glazier, Brockville's oldest war veteran, who has served under three monarchs, Queen Victoria, King Edward VII, and King George V., yesterday received the colonial auxiliary forces long service medal. This is his 10th military decoration. The presentation was made at the armouries before the Brockville Rifles, on parade by Lt.-Col. MacDowall.

FIRE AT DESERONTO

At about 8.30 Thursday night fire broke out in the dwelling occupied by a family by the name of Chalk in the east end of Deseronto, on Main street. The fire was spectacular, as the flames covered the entire building and lit up the whole country around. The fire company responded quickly, but were unable to save the dwelling from being a total loss. The children sleeping in one of the bedrooms were rescued just in the nick of time by Mr. Ostrander to save them from being burnt to death. A few household goods were saved, but the fire, being so sudden and almost instantly enveloping the entire building, precluded all efforts to save much. The building is thought to have been the property of Mr. Sid Hearnes or his father, and it has not been learned whether it was insured. The loss looks to be about $2,000.

BAD SPILL

A very narrow escape from serious results happened to a party of people on the way to a social function in Belleville Thursday night. After they had rounded the Marysville corner and were negotiating their way near the Catholic church west of Marysville they collided with a car that was on the way to Deseronto and the results were that both cars are in the Provincial Garage in Deseronto in a very damaged condition. Mr. Walter Perry, who is a driver that has the confidence of his employer as a careful and safe driver, was at the wheel when the accident occurred and makes positive statement that the driver meeting him ran right into him and put his car into the ditch and throwing all out. The four boys in the car had narrow escapes.

WINDOWS BROKEN

Some time about noon on Sunday, a plate glass window was broken in Mr. S. R. Artis' grocery store on Front street, also in Mr. J. Goldberg's general store on Front street. Stones were the missiles used and it is thought that boys were the guilty parties. The police are investigating the affair.

CANADIAN PICTURES

Considerable interest is being taken in the exhibition of paintings, etchings and aquatints by Canadian artists at the Hotel Quinte. Fred S. Haines, A.R.C.A., O.S.A., who is with the exhibit and is one of the originators of the idea to have a travelling exhibit of the work of Canadian artists was in Belgium studying when the war broke out and was one of the refugees swept ruthlessly aside by the invading Huns. Mr. Haines is showing a charming little painting of a street in Antwerp depicting the oldest house in that famous city. The principle idea of the travelling exhibit of Canadian paintings is to bring home to all lovers of art in Canada that if this nation is to hold her own in the various walks of life, Canadians must in their selections give preference to the products of their own countrymen. Canadian artists have attained a high standard of excellence but they are drifting to the United States where appreciation calls them. Garret philosophy reads well in fiction but the artist who starves to death in a land of unappreciation is not a patriot but a fool. A number of excellent pictures are being shown and many of them will remain in Belleville. Mr. Haines is accompanied by Mr. Donald E. Henry, of Toronto.

Glasses

The wearing of glasses is one of the best preservers of a youthful appearance. This is because prolonged eyestrain causes wrinkles to appear prematurely and gives the countenance a strained, tired, anxious, drawn, cross look, which is very characteristic and far more to be avoided, from the viewpoint of appearance than the slight disfigurement of glasses. Indeed, so far from being unbecoming, there are some types of faces to which glasses just add the finishing touch.

ALMOST A PANIC

There was nearly a panic at a meeting of the United Farmers, held in the interest of W. S. Reed, at Joyceville, when the floor in the building in which the meeting was held started to sink. It had gone down about four inches, when those in charge of the meeting got some logs and saved a catastrophe.

POSTMASTER APPEALS TO BUSINESS MEN

New York, Nov. 21.—Postmaster Morgan has again appealed to the business men of New York to discontinue, as far as possible, the mailing of large quantities of circulars and catalogues during the week immediately preceding Christmas Day. This is to enable the post-office to handle the great quantity of Christmas mail which begins to run heavy about two weeks before the holiday.

The postmaster stated that business men aided him last year in preventing congestion of mail at that time by withholding mail which could be deferred until after Christmas.

In urging them to do the same this year, he stated that it had been ascertained that many persons transporting large numbers of circulars and catalogues should arrange their advertising campaigns so that these can be mailed either before December 19 or after the holiday rush was over, without detriment to their interests.

Nervous Breakdown

The extreme depression and discouragement which comes over one at times is the most alarming symptom of nervous exhaustion.

This letter is a message of hope to all who find themselves in this unfortunate condition.

Mrs. Geo. T. Tingley, Albert, N.B., writes:—

"For years I was in a very nervous, run-down condition, was much depressed in spirits and suffered a great deal at times. The least noise would irritate me and at times I felt as though I certainly would go crazy. I consulted different doctors to no effect.

"A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and I can truly testify today to the great benefits received. There was a marked change before I had finished the second box and when I had used a dozen boxes my nerves were thoroughly restored and I was entirely relieved of those terrible feelings I used to have. I shall ever be ready to testify to the benefits of this wonderful medicine, feeling sure that it will give to others the quick and permanent relief it has given me."

WHO CAN VOTE

There still appears to be some uncertainty in the minds of a number of people as to who is entitled to vote in the coming election and the steps necessary to have names placed on the Voters' Lists. The qualifications for voters, male and female, are the same. They must be British subjects of twenty-one years of age, resident in Canada for one year prior to the issue of the election writ, and resident in the electoral district for two months immediately before the issue of the writ.

Judges appointed by the government of Canada are not qualified to vote, neither are Indians living on a reservation, unless they served in the Great War. Convicts, patients in lunatic asylums, paupers and person disfranchised for corrupt practices are also debarred from voting.

The regulations governing the preparation of voters' lists are different for urban and rural sections. In cities and towns with a population over 2500 all voters must register. Revising officers were appointed and a certain time was given for voters to have their names placed on the lists. Following that the lists were revised by the county judges, or others appointed for that purpose, and after the final revision no names can be added and only those whose names are on the revised list can vote.

In all municipalities with a population less than 2500, and in all rural sections the procedure is somewhat different. Registrars were appointed, and it is their duty to prepare a list from the municipal list from the municipal list, or any other available source. Persons who are entitled to vote may have their names placed on the list at any time until they are handed over to the Deputy Returning Officer. Even after that, on the day of voting, any person eligible to vote, if vouched for by a person whose name is on the list, may swear in their vote and it will be counted the same as any other vote.

Under the circumstances there can be no excuse for any person, outside of the cities and towns, not using their franchise. In West Hastings the only two places classed as urban under the regulations are Belleville and Trenton. Women who are voting for the first time are also reminded that the ballot is absolutely secret and no one need know how they vote unless they themselves tell.

FOCH RECEIVES WALTHAM WATCH UNDER TREE WHERE WASHINGTON STOOD

The people of Boston, Mass., through the medium of The Boston Post newspaper, subscribed $1,000 for the purchase of a Waltham "Premier Maximus" Watch, which was presented to Field-Marshal Foch, late Commander-in-Chief of the Allied Armies, on Monday, November 14th.

The presentation took place amid scenes of great enthusiam, at Cambridge, Mass., a suburb of Boston, beneath the historic Elm tree where George Washington, in 1775, was entrusted with the supreme command of the American revolutionary armies. The presentation was made by Prof. Louis J. A. Mercier, of Harvard University.

In commenting upon its selection of a Waltham Watch for this great occasion, the Boston Post says:

"In deciding upon a Waltham Watch as the most appropriate gift, The Post had in mind the fact that there is nothing finer in America. It is one of the distinctive products of New England that is known throughout the civilized world. The watch is technically known as a Waltham gentleman's Premier Maximus. It is set with six diamonds and seventeen rubies and sapphires. In accordance with the best taste, it is severely plain. The 18 carat gold case is unadorned except for the following inscription: "To Ferdinand Foch, leader of our armies and Captain of our hearts, Boston, November, 14, 1921."

It was the desire of The Post to keep the gift from appearing in any way a curio. For that reason the cost was kept within a thousand dollars. It was also felt that an ostentatious timepiece would not appeal to the Marshal, who is plain and direct in speech and manner. The watch, however, has all the richness and elegance associated with good taste so that any discriminating person would be glad to carry such a watch.

It will never embarrass the Marshal by being conspicuous and it will keep the best time that art and skill can evolve. It is the most modern watch in the world and the finest of its kind.

A small casket has been provided for safeguarding the watch when taken from the person. On the casket is the following inscription: "To Marshal Foch in remembrance of New England's gratitude to the man who gave us victory."

POSTAL CARRIER ROBBED

Toronto, Nov. 19.—Postal officials are greatly excited and upset over a robbery which occurred yesterday, when one of the postal carriers, who was carrying any amount from $500 to $5,000 to a branch bank in North Toronto, for the payment of a firm's employes, was robbed. The robbery was a particularly daring one, it being perpetrated by a man, as yet unknown, by means of an authoritative letter, bearing the forged signature of a high official of the Post-Office.

The money was being conveyed by one of the most trusted employes of the Post Office. When somewhere in the neighborhood of Eglington Avenue and Younge street, the carrier stated, he was stopped by a man wearing the uniform of a postman. This man handed him the letter mentioned, took the sack containing the money and disappeared.

PRAYER FOR PERMANENT PEACE

The following call to serious study earnest prayer was prepared at the request of the Annual Meeting of the General Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the Methodist Church—

To the Ministers and Adherents of the Methodist Church—

The world stands again at the parting of ways. The invitation of the President of the United States to the great powers to join in Conference on the problems of World Peace brings home to all of us the critical condition of international relations. The Great War has left the world still bleeding through every pore. Manhood is still being trained on a wholesale scale for war. Material resources are still being diverted from the arts of peace to the work of mutual destruction. Armies and navies still impose ponderous burdens of taxation on peoples already staggering under the costs of the war. Energies of mind and heart, urgently needed to solve the problems of world re-organization, are still being diverted into channels developing suspicions between nations. The situation is intolerable, and will compel speedy determination either by explosion in war or by resolution into constructive discussion.

At this time the Church of Christ finds itself under special obligation to liberate the pent-up spiritual energies of the human heart reinforcing them by intense communion with God. The minds of statesmen, who have been obsessed with the routines of international relations, will be freshened and fortified by a mighty spiritual movement among the peoples. Our task, as the organized representatives of Jesus Christ, is to ensure that this needed element is not lacking.

The world now demands the limitation and speedy reduction of armaments as the guarantee of actual purpose, formed by the statesmen of the leading powers, that the intricate and insistent problems now threatening peace are in process of peaceful solution.

We therefore invite our ministers and people during the continuance of the Conference to consecrate to the promotion of World Peace, every agency and opportunity of prayer and discussion.

General Superintendent,
T. ALBERT MOORE,
General Secretary.

MR. E. GUSS PORTER, K. C. IS ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION

SIR F. ORR-LEWIS DEAD IN FRANCE

Left Montreal in July Last and Was at His Villa Near Cannes.

BROTHER IN BELLEVILLE

President of Canadian Vickers, Limited—Prominent in Financial Circles.

Sir Frederick Orr-Lewis, Bart, of Montreal, died on Friday last at his residence in the south of France, Villa Viletta, according to cable news received last night. He was in his 61st year, and had been in failing health for some months past; in fact, he never recovered from his experiences when, as a passenger on the ill-fated Lusitania, he was immersed in the sea for some hours, and was picked up in an utter state of collapse. His comparatively early death is no doubt indirectly due to the activity of German submarines.

Leaving Montreal in July last to proceed to his villa in France, Sir Frederick had collapsed immediately on reaching the other side. It appears that although he braved the ocean repeatedly since 1915, a vayage always had a bad effect upon his system. In a cable despatch to The Gazette at the time of the sinking of the Lusitania it was stated that Mr. Orr-Lewis, as he was then, had been immersed for a long time, and that he had arrived at his home in the outskirts of London in a state of collapse. It was also stated, according to the story of one survivor, that he had made a heroic effort to save the Misses Allan, one of whom went down in the catastrophe.

Of late years Sir Frederick Orr-Lewis had spent his time fairly equally between Montreal, London, and France. His fine residence, Whitewebbs Park, Enfield, in the north of London, was the centre of much hospitality to visiting Canadians, as was also his villa in France.

Baronetcy Conferred

It was in January of 1920 that a baronetcy was conferred upon Frederick Orr-Lewis, the announcement being included in the New Year honors of that year, and it was understood that it was in recognition of special war services, more especially in connection with his shipbuilding activities.

Born in Hamilton, Ontario, in 1861, Frederick Orr-Lewis devoted himself to commercial life at an early age, and in 1887 he and two of his brothers established the business of Lewis Brothers, hardware merchants of which he was president on Bleury street.

In 1909, Sir Frederick founded the Canadian Vickers, Limited, of which he was the president at his death, and he was present at several ceremonies in connection with the launching of C. G. M. M. and other ships. Through that company he was also associated with the parent firm of Vickers Limited, in England. He was a director of the Merchants Bank of Canada, of the Bankers' Trust Company, the Montreal Cotton Company, and Canada Steamship Lines.

Sir Frederick Orr-Lewis married in 1896, Maude Helen Booth, daughter of William Booth, London, Ont., who survives him. He leaves one son, Duncan and two daughters, Miss Helen and Miss Mary Graham while there are also four surviving brothers, James Graham Lewis, T. G. Lewis, Howard L. Lewis and W. J. Lewis, residing in Montreal and district; also four sisters, Miss Agnes, Miss Adelaide and Miss Mabel, all of Montreal, and a married sister, Mrs. J. J. Velland, residing at Houghton, Mich.

Sir Frederick Orr-Lewis was a member of a number of clubs, including the Mount Royal, St. James Forest and Stream, Jockey, Hunt, Royal Montreal Golf, Rideau, Ottawa, Junior Carlton, Wellington and Raneleagh, London, England.

Mr. Thomas G. Lewis, 199 Bridge Street east, is a brother of the late Sir Frederick Orr-Lewis. Sir Frederick visited his brother in Belleville in 1918 and was here on Armistice Day, taking part in the civic celebration.

COMMENT ON FRENCH POSITION

Some London Papers Believe French Military Position Justified.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

London, Nov. 22.—One section of press commenting on Briand's speech sees in France militarytic, revengeful spirit, another which is constantly distrustful of Germany regards France as justified in keeping prepared for possible fresh out break. Times, Daily Mail and Daily Telegraph express sympathy with Frances position.

GRAIN INQUIRY CHARGES DENIED

Leader Says Government Speakers are Trying to Besmirch Him.

SALARY IS $15,000

Says Hearing Designed to Give Circulation to Damaging Statements.

BASSWOOD, Man., Nov. 22.—Charging the managers and speakers of the Government election campaign with deliberate attempts to undermine confidence in the National Progressive movement, by besmirching his own reputation and making unfounded charges against the United Grain Growers, Limited, Hon. T. A. Crerar devoted a long address here to refuting statements made by R. J. Henderson at the Fort William hearing of the Grain Enquiry Commission, and other statements which have appeared in the public press.

Mr. Crerar said that the injunction of the Grain Enquiry Commission had only been brought about when it seemed to become evident that its purposes were merely political. The United Grain Growers, he said, with their 36,000 shareholders did not intend to become the "political football of a discredited party."

He was assured, he said, that the Fort William hearing of the commission, which he characterized as 'secret' was designed merely to permit of the circulation of statements damaging to the farmer's interests immediately prior to the Medicine Hat bye-election.

Mr. Crerar introduced arguments intended to show that if false bottoms or slides had been used in an elevator of his company, then it could only have been a conspiracy to defraud the company itself and not the shippers.

His salary, said Mr. Crerar, had been the object of much speculation, and he informed his audience that it amounted to $15,000.

POLICY FRAMED FOR FAR EAST

Eight Powers at Washington Conference Adopt Agreement.

FOUR-FOLD PURPOSE

Would Help China Develop Effective and Stable Government.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—It is revealed officially that a common agreement drafted by Elihu Root, setting forth a policy for Eastern questions, had been unanimously adopted by the eight powers attending the conference. China, the ninth power, necessarily was not a party to the agreement, which set forth the following purposes:

1—To respect the sovereignty, the independence and the territorial and administrative integrity of China.

2—To provide the fullest and most unembarrassed opportunity ot China to develop and maintain for herself an effective and stable government.

3—To use their influence for the purpose of effectively establishing and maintaining the principles of equal opportunity for the commerce of all nations.

4—To refrain from taking advantage of the present condition of China's affairs to seek special rights or privileges which would abridge the rights of subjects or citizens of friendly states.

It was announced officially by the British that this agreement does not invalidate any Anglo-Japanese agreement.

E. GUSS PORTER, K.C., IS ELECTED

OFFICIAL NOMINATION

Opposition Candidate's Nomination Paper Did not Comply With the Law.

E. Guss Porter, K.C., who has represented West Hastings in the Dominion Parliament for more than twenty years, was declared by Returning Officer Walter Wiggins, at the nomination proceedings at Trenton this afternoon to be elected by acclamation.

Two nominations were put in, one for Mr. Porter, regularly signed and attested as required by law; and one for Mr. McIntosh, the U.F.O.-Labor candidate, but the latter nomination was found by the Returning Officer to be irregular and not made out as required by law.

Returning Officer Wiggins said that under the circumstances he had no other recourse than to refuse to accept the nomination paper of Mr. McIntosh, and no other nomination papers being offered, to declare E. Guss Porter, K.C., elected by acclamation.

After the nomination proceedings a public meeting was held in the Opera House.

GERMAN REDS PLAN REVOLT

Renewal of Activities of Communists is Reported.

STIRRING UP THE POOR

Using Great Climb of Prices and Food Scarcity as Arguments.

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—The press today is full of alarming rumors of the sudden renewal of the activities of the Communists, framing new uprisings. Reports of secret agents have been made to the Government regarding the program of the Communists for a renewal of the uprisings. The Reds are declared to be making use of the present unprecedented climb in prices, the scarcity of food and clothes for the poorer classes and the hunger strike of 130 Communist prisoners in one of the prisons near Berlin, to start agitation for political violence. Their intensity in this line is admittedly worrying the Government, as well as the other political parties.

The time planned for the revolt is said to be just before Christmas, when the discontent of the poorer classes will have reached its highest pitch on account of the empty sack of Santa Claus and tales of how the upper classes and their children will have their usual pleasures and delicacies.

THREE-CORNERED FIGHTS AS RULE

Terror-Stricken Daughter Watched Awful Tragedy in Home.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Baltimore, Nov. 22.—Too terror stricken to scream, twelve-year-old Helen Counselman saw her father, Howard Counselman, place a revolver against the breast of her mother, Irene Counselman, and shoot her to death in their home on West Baltimore Street. Counselman afterwards shot himself to death.

NOT TO BLAME FOR ACCIDENT

Motor Car Struck Vehicle and Woman Was Injured.

An interesting action was tried yesterday at the Court House before His Honor Judge Deroche, brought by George Taylor and his wife Cordelia Anne Taylor, for damages against Edwin A. Kellaway for alleged injuries and negligence in an accident in August last on James street.

The plaintiffs alleged that the defendant was driving his motor car at night without lights and that his careless driving resulted in a collision with the plaintiff's vehicle causing considerable damage to the plaintiff's carriage and injuries to Mrs. Taylor.

The defendant denied the alleged negligence and submitted that he was in no way to blame for the accident and alleged that the plaintiffs were negligent in not observing the rules of the road.

The evidence showed that James street was in a very rough condition owing to the city authorities in constructing a sewer leaving a ridge of earth near the centre of the street and that persons using James street had made a beaten track near the west curb between Bridge and Brock streets.

After a great many witnesses had been called who saw the accident and after argument of counsel Judge Deroche dismissed the action against the defendant and stated that he could not find on the evidence that the defendant was in any way to blame for the collision and the plaintiffs were ordered to pay the costs of the defendant.

Messrs. Ponton & Ponton acted for the defendant and Messrs. Carnew and Donnan appeared for the plaintiffs.

ROTARIANS AT PETERBORO

Belleville Rotarians to the number of about twenty-five accompanied by fifteen ladies visited Peterboro Monday evening and were the guests of Peterboro Rotary Club in an Inter-City Rotary banquet, afterwards accompanying the Peterboro Rotarians to the Theatre, where a special entertainment was provided by the Rex-Snelgrove Dramatic Co., assisted by the Rotarians. The Belleville Rotarians took part in the program, Mr. Sandy Burrows in vocal solos and the entire squad in chorus singing. President Moffatt gave a short address outlining the activities of Belleville Rotary and the evening altogether was very enjoyable. The transportation arrangements provided by Rotarrian Dan McMillan were excellent and the Belleville visitors arrived home in time for breakfast. Peterboro Rotary had engaged the theatre and cleared a goodly sum toward their fund for a boys' summer camp.

CLAIMS OLDEST GRADUATE

Providence, R.I., Nov. 21.—Brown University lays claim to having the oldest graduate of any American college. John Hunt, of Springfield, O., 99 years old on Oct. 17, was graduated from Brown in 1842, nearly two decades before the Civil War began. He was born in Lowell, Mass.

During his undergraduate course at Brown, which then consisted of four buildings, tuiton was $21 a term and board $1.25 a week. He has been pastor of eight different Baptist churches, five in New Hampshire, one in Vermont, one in Massachusetts, and one in Ohio. He was married twice and had one son. He has survived his entire family.

John Hunt is in good health mentally and physically. He attributed his great age to heredity. His mother lived to be well over a century old and he expects to duplicate this record.

MEIGHEN SPEAKS AT TWIN CITIES

Advocates Tariff Before Big Crowds at Fort William and Port Arthur.

WATERWAY POLICY

Ottawa Seeks Concerted Action with U. S. in St. Lawrence Development.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Nov. 21.—Premier Meighen resumed his campaign in Ontario today by addressing the electors of the Twin Cities of Fort William and Port Arthur in support of the candidature of his Cabinet colleague, Hon. J. R. Manion, Minister of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, and of Frank Keefer, K.C., who sat in the last Parliament. Fort William, where Mr. Meighen spoke to about a thousand electors, is the largest centre in the constituency of Fort William and Rainy River. In that district the Minister of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment is facing Dr. Garver, of the Slate River district, a Progressive. Dr. Manion is supported in his campaign by the most prominent Liberals, as well as by the Conservatives of the riding. He is expected to be the victor by a large majority on election day. In Port Arthur and Kenora F. H. Keeker, who was elected to the House of Commons in 1917, is one of the parties in a three-cornered fight, which he expects to win. Mr. Keefer is opposed by A. J. McComber, a Liberal, and Dougall Kennedy, a Farmer.

In Fort William the Prime Minister explained his party's policy of moderate protection, and revealed the free trade tendency of the platform of his opponents.

St. Lawrence Waterway.

He discussed other topics in Port Arthur. The Government, he said, had taken up with the United States the question of co-operation in the development of the St. Lawrence and Great Lakes waterway. The Prime Minister had felt that, if the United States yielded demands which were being made for private exploitation of water powers on the St. Lawrence, co-operative development by the two countries, which seemed the right policy, would be prevented. The Government had succeeded in protecting the plan for co-operative development, which it had in mind. Mr. Meighen said that the Canadian Government had taken the initiative in asking the international joint commission to pass upon the best plan for development of the navigation and power possibilities of the St. Lawrence route. Engineers were now preparing the details of the plan.

GERMANY NOT KEEPING FAITH

French Premier Says at Least 250,000 Germans Being Trained.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Secretary Hughes called the conference to order at eleven-ten a. m. and in introducing the subject of land armament said there was no problem for the United States as its policy was a small army. He was pleased to state that "gratifying progress had been made during the first week of the conference."

Premier Briand stated the case of France on land armaments. He declared that, while apparently disarmed, Germany could, with her present machinery, raise an army of six million or seven million men. At least a quarter of a million Germans were receiving daily military instruction, he said.

"UNDER CRIMSON SKIES" AT GRIFFIN'S TO-NIGHT

"Under Crimson Skies", a Universal-Jewel picture with the colossus of the screen, Elmo Lincoln and Mabel Ballin is the feature attraction at Griffin's to-night and Wednesday night.

"Under Crimson Skies" is an original story by J. G. Hawks, but it breathes the same atmosphere of romantic adventure found in the stories of Jack London, Robert Louis Stephenson and Rex Beach. There is a certain romance in tales of the high seas that appeals to everyone, whether he lives on the coast or dwells in the interior, and the author has touched upon every phase of marine adventure from gun-running to battling a violent storm. Screen Snapshots, showing famous screen stars at work and play, Paramount Magazine, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew in a 2-reel comedy "Romance and Rings", and the latest chapter of the western serial "Vanishing Trails" are being exhibited on the same program.

"JUST SUPPOSE"

That the little God of Love recognizes neither person, place, race nor creed is amply demonstrated in the little comedy romance "Just Suppose" that Edward H. Robins will present at Griffin's Theatre for a special engagement of one night, Friday, November 25.

A. E. Thomas, the author created a furrore in dramatic circles when he announced he intended writing a comedy around the personage of H.R.H. The Prince of Wales, who was then on tour in America.

"Why should a man be so foolish as to atempt something that is utterly impossible," was the question asked by nearly every producing manager in New York. "Thomas, must be crazy to think he can do something that Bernard Shaw nor Maeterlinck have been able to accomplish." Yet Thomas did that very thing. When New York saw the play they quickly grasped the idea that this was only supposed to be fiction and as such they received it for one solid year. In Toronto, where Mr. Robins made his celebrated production at the Royal Alexandra Theatre this same thing happened again as all records previously held at the Royal were shattered by theatre goers who liked the idea of seeing a popular living figure in the role of fiction.

AWFUL SUFFERINGS IN FOREIGN LEGION

Madrid, Nov. 20.—Fifty-five British members of the Spanish foreign legion, including several Canadians, reached Madrid to-day on their way to England, having been released from their enlistments after a protest by the British Government. Eight of the men have been wounded, while nine others of their countrymen are said to be in hospitals in Melilla. A few of the discharged men claim United States citizenship, but fought during the world war as members of British regiments and later enlisted in the Spanish foreign legion.

The men generally describe conditions in the legion and in Morrocco as "terrible," saying the hospitals are so unhygienic that the sick prefer to remain on duty, even while suffering from malaria and dysentery, to entering the hospitals. A number of the discharged soldiers say they joined the foreign legion in order to escape unemployment. Now they declare, although they are aware they are going back to England to face the same conditions as before, they consider such a course infinitely preferable to remaining in the foreign legion.

NOTED SINGER DEAD

Copenhagen, Nov. 22.—Christine Nilsson, noted operatic soprano, died here to-day. She was one of the greatest singers of a generation ago and was born in Stockholm in 1843.

HE PROFITS MOST WHO SERVES BEST

Personality and Friendship Needed in Giving, Said Rotarian Speaker.

Without spot or blemish must be the animal selected for sacrifice in the ancient days, and this contained a thought for the Rotarians in the practice of their principle of Service Above Self, and He Profits Most Who Serves Best, as conveyed by Rev. D. C. Ramsay in his address to Belleville Rotary Club at the Monday luncheon. Service must be practical and not just following the lines of least resistance, as the ancient sacrifice was without spot or blemish so must modern community service study the best methods and channels for that service. Indiscriminate giving of charity defeats its own purpose. The easiest form of service was in giving money or goods without question and only casual investigation. Service must include personality and have a follow-up, must include friendship, must have the heart in it. "So many Gods, so many creeds, so many roads that wind and wind, when just the art of being kind is all this old world needs," quoted Rotarian Ramsay in illustrating his conception of perfect service above self.

President Moffatt piloted the meeting through the business session with his accustomed speed and pep, calling Rotarian Herity to the chair for the afterpart. Owen introduced the speaker of the day in one of his droll little speeches in which he assured the Rotarians present that Doug was not a 16 to 1 man, that is sixteen parts to one sermon.

Guests present included Messrs. MacKenzie and Reid, of Toronto, Sinclair and Snider of Belleville. The attendance of members was large. Rotarian Symons reported that the little crippled boy being looked after by the Belleville Rotary Club in Toronto was making excellent progress and the cast would be removed from his leg on Wednesday when it was hoped to find that the operation had been entirely successful.

Belleville Rotary will entertain District Governor Hart Seeley on Tuesday next and will accompany him to Cobourg on the occasion of Charter Night in that burg.

Leaky Spark-Plug Cores

Porcelain Of Improved Qualities Is Much To Be Desired

IT IS A COMMON BELIEF that the core insulation of a spark-plug is serviceable until it becomes broken, but this is not a fact, for it is often found that the porcelains of plugs that have been in strenuous service for some time, while intact mechanically speaking, are defective electrically and permit a leakage of the ignition current, which by seriously lowering the voltage, reduces the energy in the sparks and the effectiveness of the explosions produced. This electrical leakage is probably an important factor in aggravating starting difficulties, when weak fuel mixtures usually prevail and an energetic spark is especially necessary. Just what causes plug cores to leak current is not fully understood, but it is known that most grades of porcelain lose their insulating qualities when sufficiently heated, that expansion and contraction, under temperature changes, seem to break down the structure of the material and that in case carbon particles penetrate the glaze and enter the porcelain, it becomes conductive and leaky. The short life of spark-plugs in aviation and racing engines brings out very strikingly their shortcomings, which are evident in motor car practice in a much less acute way. It is likely that many obscure starting and operative difficulties could be traced to defective plug insulation and when such difficulties arise it is often wise to replace the plugs and thus eliminate one possible source of trouble.

STARTER GEARS DON'T UNMESH

W. B. writes: Once in a while, the screw pinion of my automatic starter drive fails to unmesh from the flywheel gear and I have to force them out of engagement by hand. What is the cause and remedy of this?

Answer: The trouble generally is that the starting motor has moved slightly on its mounting, enough to impair the alignment of the pinion and gear, with the result that they go into engagement so that the teeth jam or cramp. The starter motor shaft and the crankshaft should be parallel and there should be no bottoming of the teeth when they go into mesh.

CAUSE OF BACKFIRING

W. B. asks: Why does my engine backfire into the carburetor, when it is first started and also when I begin to give it gas after coasting down a long hill? Is it because the carburetor feeds too much gas?

Answer: Your carburetor is of the compound-jet type and is inadjustable except for idling speeds. Unless you are using the hot air supply for the carburetor, this is the probable cause of your trouble. Dirt collected in the small passages within the carburetor or a too lean adjustment of the idling regulation screw may also account for the difficulty. When very heavy fuel is used, it sometimes becomes necessary to install a larger main-jet in this carburetor. From what you say it appears that too little, rather than too much gasoline is being fed, or that there is not enough heat to do the vaporizing.

WHY INTAKE VALVES ARE CLOSED LATE

C. H. T. asks: Why is it that on most auto engines, the inlet valve is timed to remain open 20 degrees or more after the piston has reached lower dead center? It seems to me that the suction must stop even before bottom dead center, as piston speed is greatly reduced as this point is being reached.

Answer: It is true that suction becomes very slight before lower center is attained and, very shortly after this point, the tendency is for the piston to push out the charge that has entered, but this latter tendency is more than counteracted, especially at high speeds, by the momentum of the column of rapidly moving gas in the manifold and intake pipe. Under the influence of suction, this gas has become speeded up to a very high velocity and, like every other moving body, its inertia prevents it from slowing down instantly, with the result that it continues to move and crowd into the cylinder for some time after bottom center has been reached and even after the compression stroke has commenced. This action is very effective in giving the cylinders full charges and thus the intake valve is held open as long as it can be made use of.

Questions of general interest to the motorist will be answered by Mr. Clough in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 1248, or write The Intelligencer.

That Bull Moose

B.C.—Teddy Roosevelt shot big game and started the bull moose party, Raymond Zufelt shot big game but just missed the big bull moose of West McCoon lake.

Smart Alecks

K.L.—Those gallery gods who think it is so smart to make ribald remarks during the progress of a picture play emphasize every kiss with a more or less accurate imitation of a fish landing on a wet rock should be disciplined. There is no earthly reason why the rest of the audience should listen to their cheap humor.

Caller—Kippered

P.D.Q.—Funny things can be seen in the newspapers any time, for the daily paper is got up in such a hurry that if to err is human then the great human sheet known as the daily newspaper should be full of errors, but it isn't, chiefly because of the sharp eyes and eternal vigilance of the newspaper people. However, occasionally a funny one will get across and I noticed that the old song "Caller Herrin'" had been new-named "Kippered Herring" no doubt as a concession to the modern trend, and the high cost of living.

Cheaper Than Humans

R.S.—Wig-wags do not eat or wear clothes or figure on the payroll, hence wig-wags are cheaper to maintain than humans. I understand that arrangements are being made to take the watchman from the bay bridge railway crossing. This is a very dangerous crossing with heavy and constantly increasing traffic. Evidence secured by railway officials themselves show that many people in vehicles sail right by waving wig-wag signals and pay no attention whatever to warning bells, so the man with the flag must be left on the job. What are the civic authorities doing about it? Prince Edward County is also deeply interested in the question of protecting this crossing.

Freak of Nature

L.K.J.—I saw a funny sight the other evening when I was walking up Victoria Avenue. A gentleman about six feet six came along and stepped on a banana peeling. As he was mostly legs it was the funniest sight you ever did see. He looked like a contortionist or some other freak of nature, but it was not a bit funny to him and whoever left a banana skin on the sidewalk was either too young to know any better or an imbecile or a criminal.

A Mud Hole

A.B.C.—Some time ago I saw an article in your "What Did You See?" column about the condition of that street on the south side of the City Hall. It is in a deplorable condition and does not improve the scenery around the City Hall one bit. A sidewalk from Front street to Pinnacle was also advocated. Nothing has been done in this matter whatever. What's the matter with "Ye City Fathers" can't you take a hint?

The delegates to the Washington conference agree as to China's integrity.

The Block Signals Are Working—

In some respects, human experience is like railroading.

Every moment of the business and social day the block signals are giving right of way to keenness and alertness—while the slow and the heavy must wait on the sidetrack for their chance to move forward.

The ability to "go through" and to "get there" depends much on the poise of body, brain and nerves that comes with correct diet and proper nourishment.

That's why so many choose Grape-Nuts for breakfast and lunch. Served with cream or milk it is completely nourishing, partly pre-digested, and it supplies the vital mineral salts so necessary to full nutrition.

Grape-Nuts has a rich, delightful flavor, is ready to serve on the instant—and is distinctly the food for mental and physical alertness and speed. At all grocers.

Transportation and Your Safety

CAR SHORTAGES have already developed at many of the coal mines of the United States. Without cars to load, the mines cannot produce; without production of coal, the welfare of the public cannot be conserved.

So far the shortages have not been serious in proportions, but with cold weather arriving, it can be expected that they will increase and may materially hinder the movement of coal.

Safety to your family can be secured by immediately stocking your coal. Coal prices will not decrease, and they may advance, if a transportation emergency arises.

IN MEMORIAM

EASTON—In loving memory of Adam H. Easton, who entered into life eternal, Nov. 22, 1920, at his home in Thurlow, Ont.

Do not ask us if we miss him,
Oh, there's such a vacant place;
Oft, we think we hear his footsteps,
Or we see his smiling face.

Sad and mournful was our parting,
Lonely are our hearts to-day;
For the one we loved so dearly,
Has forever passed away.

Indoor Life

Spending more time indoors makes women far more subject to constipation than men.

The liver becomes sluggish and torpid, the bowels constipated and the system poisoned by impurities.

If you would get away from the myriads of ills which result from constipation, it is only necessary to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

The benefits from their use are as lasting as they are prompt and certain.

Mrs. John Barry, 18 St. Amable Street, Quebec, Que., writes:

"This is to certify that I was troubled for years with constipation and tried all kinds of medicines without relief. At last my husband suggested that I try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I did so, and must say that they have given me more relief than all the medicine I have taken during the last fifteen years. I may also add that I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for piles with excellent results."

ANSWERED LETTERS

A Reader: "My velour winter hangings are faded in places from the sun. Can anything be done to brighten these places?"

Answer: Unless they are of the deepest blue shade, you can have them dyed a deeper blue. I would advise you to send them to a dyeing firm to have this done, rather than attempt it yourself.

Mrs. G. M.: Kindly print some helpful suggestions for combining a birthday party and a Hallowe'en party."

Answer: I regret that you did not write me farther in advance. By writing so short a time before Hallowe'en you could not possibly have had a column reply in time—for I get so many letters and they must be answered in rotation. If you had given your address and sent a stamp, I could have gotten you a personal reply before the event. And right now I am going to ask my reader friends to send me their inquiries concerning Christmas parties at once! This is not too early to send them in.

Anonymous: "How can I remove marks made on a polished table by hot dishes?"

Answer: Heat an iron and hold this a few inches above the marks on the table so that its heat will warm the table surface slightly; then lay the iron down and rub in a little linseed oil at once. Polish with a soft cloth.

Mrs. E. R. W.: "I recently bought a new leather overstuffed set for my living room and now I frequently see small insects on it—like lice or fleas. Should I tell the furniture man, from whom I bought the set, about this? Or is it possibly my fault from leaving it near an open window?"

Answer: Neither. The furniture man has nothing to do with it. And your leaving the set near an open window could not have been the cause of attracting the insects. At the present time there are many homes all over the country infested with different varieties of house flea. Sometimes these fleas come from pet dogs and cats; sometimes they get into rugs—from goodness knows where; and often they annoy people by getting into clothing. Oil of cedar drives them away, for they hate the smell of it. Buy a little of this oil from a druggist and apply it to your leather set and to the floor under your rugs.

A Subscriber: "Will you please give me a recipe for a floor paint that will harden quickly, yellow preferred."

Answer: I am sorry, but I have no such recipes. A painter would mix you one. Or you could buy one of the many fine brands of paint on the market.

Mrs. B.: "I recently read your answer to L. D. P. in regard to stiffening crocheted baskets. If they are dipped into melted paraffine and shaped while cooling, they look a pure white and I believe it is a much easier and cheaper way to stiffen them than to make the sirup—as you suggested."

Answer: Thank you Reader-friend. It was kind of you to take the trouble to write in about it. That's what we're all looking for—better ways of doing things.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. A pretty strap pump for afternoon wear is laced across in the Greek fashion, although it has high French heels.

One of Season's Favorite

Broadcloth will be one of this season's favorite matrials, while kasha, perllaine, velvet and mattelasse come next in line.

Used on Dark Embroidery

Wood bead embroidery is used on dark frocks. The beads are painted in bright colors and applied in big blocks.

Most Popular Fabrics

Velveteen promises to be one of the most popular fabrics of the season for children's dresses, and many of darkcolored velveteen are brightened by trimmings of crepe de Chine in bright color.

The Two-Piece Model

One and two-piece knitted dresses for girls of four to ten or twelve years are being featured for school wear and in these color combinations are quite popular. The two-piece models usually show a pleated skirt and straight little middy or smock, the skirt being in one color and waist in another.

Velvets and Flowers

Velvets are especially good for dinner and evening wear and many flowers are used on the gowns.

Smart Winter Coats

Smart winter coats are fashioned in cashmere, duvetyn and similar soft materials developed with low waistlines which nearly always blouse.

New Tailored Frocks

Many new tailored frocks that are cut on very straight lines are so fashioned that they may be worn unbelted or with a narrow belt merely caught loosely about the figure.

Used Extensively For Coats

Camel's hair, heather mixture tweeds and plaids in rough mixtures are used extensively for sports and motor coats. Leather trims many of the more striking plaids.

A Striking Effect

Jet is used effectively on the new hats. On one of red or orange it gives a particularly striking effect.

PROVINCE TO PAY $31,589 LEGAL FEE

Charge for Searching Titles of Central Ontario Power Properties.

Toronto, Nov. 21.—The appeal of the Provincial Government against the trial court decision of Mr. Justice Middleton which confirmed a bill of $31,589 rendered by the law firm of Millar, Ferguson and Hunter, was dismissed at Osgoode Hall by the second divisional court, Chief Justice Meredith and Mr. Justice Latchford dissenting in the finding of their colleagues. The bill was rendered in connection with the searching of some 730 titles of properties in the Central Ontario Power system, which was purchased by the Ontario Government and handed over to the Hydro-Electric Commission.

Mr. Justice Latchford, in stating the reasons for his non-concurrence in the finding, pointed out that the substantial objection to the payment of the bill, that sufficient work had not been done to justify it, could not be tried if the division court should uphold the solicitors. He further held that the law firm should have sent in a bill of costs, submitted to taxation, in accordance with the customary legal procedure.

The majority judges, however, held that the work in respect of which the bill had arisen had been necessary and that the sum charged had been impartially determined by a complete authority. They, therefore, found for the defendants in a judgment which obligates the Province to payment.

Hon. W. E. Raney was 'way down east electioneering, and it was impossible to get an official statement of the Government's next move in the dispute with the law firm. Opinion in the Attorney-General's Department, however, was that an appeal would be taken from the judgment given against the Crown. In view of the fact that Justices Meredith and Latchford strongly dissent, it is believed an appeal to the Supreme Court might be crowned with success.

PRINCE OF WALES BUSY IN INDIA

Civic Functions, Sports and Big Game Hunting.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(By Canadian Press)—His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales will have a strenuous time during his four months' stay in India, beginning with Bombay, where the battle cruiser Renown, on which he sailed from England on October 27, and was due to arrive on the morning of November 17. At Bombay he was greeted by Lord Reading, the Viceroy, and the Ruling Princes on the staff of His Royal Highness. The initial ceremony upon his landing at the Gateway of India, on the Bunder, which was built to commemorate the Durbar visit of the King and Queen, will be the presentation of an address by the Bombay municipality. A State drive through the city to the Government House at Malaber Point was followed in the evening by a reception, preceded by a quiet dinner. On the following morning the Prince held a durbar of the Ruling Princes. A dinner and ball at the Government House that night concluded the Prince's initial visit in Bombay, and shortly after midnight he left for Poona.

After a public welcome to the Prince in Poona His Royal Highness will unveil the Mahratta war memorial. He will attend the races in the afternoon and will then return to Bombay. Among his engagements in Bombay will be his attendance at the quadrangular cricket match (so called from the competition of European, Persee, Mahomedan and Hindu elevens), and the sports tournament of the great Bombay Maidan. In addition to attending numerous functions in Bombay, the Prince will extend his tour to Jullunder and Jhelum, where he will come into touch with the war veterans who are largely concentrated in the Punjab. It is expected that His Royal Highness at both of these places will lay the foundation stones of schools for soldiers' children erected in connection with the Kitchener Memorial Fund. A similar ceremony may form a part of the program at Delhi.

BLACK BUCK SHOOTING

The Prince will leave Bombay on the night of November 22nd for Baroda, which last received a visit from the then Prince of Wales in 1875. After some formal engagements in Baroda the Prince will then proceed to Udaipur, whose venerable Maharana is considered the leading ruler in Rajputana, on account both of his legendary descent from the semi-divine Rama and the great traditions of chivalry associated with the ruling house. Through all the generations of Mogul domination it was the only ruling Rajput family which gave no daughter in marriage to any member of the Mahomedan Imperial dynasty. The Prince will spend a couple of days in the valleys not far from the palace of the Maharana, shooting lepards and possibly some other big game.

His Royal Highness will reach Ajmere, the headquarters of the Agent to the Governor-General in Rajputana and of a small British administration, on November 28, and will visit the Mayo College, which is known as the Eton of India. A large portion of the boys educated there are either heirs-apparent, younger sons, or near relations of the Ruling Princes of Rajputana. The Prince, while at Ajmere will meet those of the Rajput rulers whose States he will not have time to visit.

At Jodhpur the following day the Prince will meet the Jodhpur Imperial Service Lancers, who rendered conspicuous service on many fields during the war, notably in the Brilliant charge of Haifa in Lord Allenby's campaign in Palestine.

PIGSTICKING AND POLO

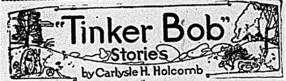
Jodhpur is the home in Rajputana of pig-sticking and polo, and Sir Pertab Singh, it is expected will provide the Prince with good sport in both directions. The young Maharaja is reviving the Jodhpur polo team, once so famous in India.

On December 1st the Prince will reach Bikaner, whose Maharaja is recognized as one of the most enlightened and able of Indian Princes. Bharatpur comes next on the list, and will be reached December 1st. Here His Royal Highness will come in contact with the Imperial Service Contingent, members of which have a fine reputation as soldiers. Early in December there will be duck-shooting at Bharatpur, and from there the Prince will proceed to Lucknow, where he will arrive on December 9th.

The Prince will spend some time in the United Provinces, now under the charge of Sir Harcourt Butler as Governor. While in Lucknow he will stay at Government House. A feature of Royal visits to the Oudh capital is the fete given by the Taluodars at the aisar Bagh, which recall the glories of the Court of the Nawabs and Kings of Oudh, Allanhad, is the capital of the United Provinces, though the Legislature meets at Lucknow, and will be visited from the latter city. His Royal Highness will also go to Benares, and later in his tour, on his way to Delhi, and the Punjab, he will see Aligarh and Agra. In all these places, except Agra, there are universities and the Prince will make a point of coming in contact with student life there. A flying visit is to be paid to Dehra Dun on the foothills of the Himalayas, in connection with inauguration of a preparatory school for Indian youths selected for study at Sandhurst.

From Benares the Prince will entrain for Bairagnia for a week in the Nepal Terai. Four days will be spent in shooting. As was the case with the Prince's father in 1911, His Royal Highness will have the companionship of the Prime Minister, Maharaja Sir Shamsher Jung, who is himself a keen sportsman. Excellent sport in shooting tigers, rhino, and other big game is anticipated.

The Prince's visit to Patna, the youngest of the British Provinces, will be of historic interest as it will be the first time that a member of the Royal House will be the guest of an Indian Governor, in the person of Lord Sinha. There will be a durbar at Patna.



"Tinker Bob" Stories

by Carlysle H. Holcomb

BOBBY OWL IS MADE HAPPY

When Tinker Bob and Silky, the Monkey, arrived at the palace who should be there but Bobby Owl. He had been waiting patiently for a long time. Bobby was interested in a place to stay for the Winter. He screamed when he saw the King coming and flew down to meet him.

Silky didn't like Bobby very much for he was such a screamer. In the midst of the night he had been awakened not a few times by the screams of this little fellow. He didn't mind the call of the great Horned Owl for all he said was "Hoot! Hoot!," but this little fellow made a noise that sounded terrible in the midst of a quiet night.

"Well Bobby, we are glad to see you here," said the King.

"What did the Hunter say?" asked Bobby anxiously.

"The Hunter gave us our breakfast," said Silky who was more interested in what they had to eat than anything else.

"I don't care anything about your breakfast, I want to know what the Hunter said about a place in the barn for me to stay all Winter."

"The Hunter has some big cats and they looked hungry," said Silky, trying to tease Bobby a bit.

"Well, I can't go to the Barn and expect to live there if the Cats are going to stay in the barn also." Bobby began to look discouraged.

Tinker Bob was waiting to get in a word. "I think you will be welcome to the Hunter's barn for the Winter if you will catch the rats and mice and keep them from eating the Hunter's crops all up."

This made Bobby feel better than ever before. "I'll promise to catch all of the mice in the barn and about the house if they will only keep the cat away. I will even catch mice for the cat if the cat will let me alone that I may stay where it is warm during the Winter."

"I may stay with the Hunter myself," said Silky, "for he has many good things to eat, and the King may take a journey."

Then there was another scream and another creature appeared. You might be wondering who it was but it was Mrs. Owl. She had been listening to the conversation and could wait no longer. She was just so happy that she couldn't keep from screaming.

Silky didn't like Bobby very well for he was such a screamer.

Tinker Bob didn't know that Bobby had a wife. "Who is this?"

"This is Mrs. Owl, O King, whom I just brought from the great forest of the North to stay with me for the Winter and that is why I am so anxious to find a place."

Then Tinker Bob remembered that he had missed Bobby from the forest for a few weeks. Now he knew that it was because Bobby had gone to find a wife for himself. And, they were both happy to know that the Hunter would allow them in his barn for the Winter.

CHILDREN GAIN EACH DAY ON MILK DIET

Toronto, Nov. 19.—In Jesse Ketchum school these days under-weight children are gaining weight in a miraculous way—they are drinking milk. Miss B. C. Elliott, the school nurse, and W. F. Kirk, the principal, can scarcely believe what their eyes show them to have been accomplished in 22 days. Mothers at the homes of the 37 children who are undergoing the experiment are just as impressed.

What could be done for the thin, little children? That was the problem that was brought home to Miss Elliott more and more in her work in Jesse Ketchum school. How close a connection there was between the physical and the mental conditions of these under-nourished boys and girls was being strikingly demonstrated in the classrooms. They became tired easily and could not concentrate.

It was on the 17th of October that Miss Elliott decided that the fame of milk as a nourisher would be tested in a most thorough way for a month. The mothers of the children most in need of attention were all visited by the nurse and their cooperation was secured. They agreed to pay for the milk whenever possible, and to see that fresh air and plenty and to see that fresh air and plenty of sleep accompanied the new food regime.

Game to Children

To the children it was to be the most interesting game they had ever played. Twice during the day they were to drink a whole half-pint bottle of milk—through a straw; the first time before they went to their classrooms in the morning, and again, in the recess interval at 10.45 a.m.

It was even a better game than they had ever imagined. Applications to be included in the favored people who sucked milk through a straw bombarded the teachers. Through the door of the milk sanctuary the plump children tried to catch a detail at a time as they passed by.

Show Gains in Weight

The results have been past all hope, and the experiment is not yet concluded by any means. In 17 days the children have gained from two to nine pounds. Most wonderful of all is the fact that the girl to whom the very sight of milk was nauseating is the one that has gained the nine pounds. There were three of these girls whose parents, while agreeing to the experiment, were sure that their daughters could never drink milk.

Even the tempers of their children have told the school nurse. "Of course it has had a tremendous influence on the children as scholars in the class rooms," said Mr. Kirke. "We find them more attentive and steady."

ADVERTISING POINTS THE WAY TO ABOLITION OF DOMESTIC DRUDGERY.

At the annual convention in Toronto last week of the Laundry Owners International Laundry Association an interesting address was given by Mr. W. E. Fitch, of Laselle, manager of the Laundry Owners National Association, on "Co-operative Advertising."

"Daily newspapers are undoubtedly prime factors in bringing to the attention of the public, to a very large extent, the value of goods that the retailer or wholesaler has to offer," said Mr. Fitch. "The advertiser who takes the trouble to carefully prepare the advertising matter which he has to offer through the medium of the daily newspaper is assured of results not obtainable from other sources of advertising. I am a strong believer in the method of community advertising. This method has been adopted by many advertisers throughout the United States with excellent results to the laundry owners.

Mr. Fitch considered that the newspaper was the only medium through which the laundryman could demonstrate to the housewife the most modern methods of eliminating the drudgery of the wash days of old. Answering a question as to the amount of advertising laundrymen should do. Mr. Fitch said that 5 per cent. of the gross business was a fair basis upon which to strike an average.

CANADIAN BANKS LIBERAL.

"As I see it," continued Sir George, "to a great extent the olesaler carries the retailer in Canada, or at least that has the case in the past. MONKEY AND PARROT

Hamilton Spectator

Mr. Mackenzie King is still ardently wooing the Progressive party, with a view of unity of purpose against the common enemy. But, alas! his efforts seem destined to create no more harmony than the famous combat between monkey and parrot.

WHY THE SILENCE?

London Free Press

Premier Drury is touring Ontario with Hon. T. A. Crerar. He has been discussing many subjects, but not a word has he to say in regard to that tremendous issue, the Meighen Government's action in appointing a board to control the waters of the Lake o' the Woods. Several months ago Premier Drury was making the hustings ring with his denunciations of Mr. Meighen for having by this measure invaded the rights of the province. He declared he would fight to the last ditch, would rouse all Ontario, and even talked of appealing to the people. Yet to-day not a whisper on this momentous question.

Can it be that Mr. Crerar supported this "outrageous" bill in the House o' Commons?

GREY WEAVERS

Down the little grey street they go,
Little gray people, to and fro;
Under the high-browed tower's shade,
Little they care that the world is wide:
Little they know of the world outside—
From the little grey town they have never strayed.

Morning and evening, that is a day—
A little dull work, a little dull play.
Heavy their eyes and slow their feet—
All the year long and through all the long years.
Tardy of laughter and barren of tears.
They have trodden the dust of the grey little street.

Childhood and manhood, old age and death,
Flickering lights—blown out in a breath;
Where will the soul-spark piece the gloom,
When the dust that is man to dust is wed?
Where will the shuttle carry the thread
When the little grey weavers have finished their loom?

"I say Mrs. Frankleigh," said one of the lady's guests, "here's your husband just coming in. My wife and I will hide behind the curtains here, and you can tell him we haven't been able to come, after all. Then we'll step out and surprise him.

Mrs. Frankleigh obediently waited until her husband entered the room. Then she exclaimed, according to her instructions:

"Oh, Jack, isn't it a pity? Mr. and Mrs. Funniman haven't been able to come to dinner after all-"

"Pity be hanged'" replied the husband, with great delight. "I'm jolly glad!"

The best thing you can do is to massage your face well each night and morning with CAMPANA'S ITALIAN BALM and particularly after each washing. I would also recommend you to use it for your hands. Y.M.C.A. BOWLING

The Intelligencer bowling team last night received at the hands of the Tabernacle team a sound beating. It was evidently an off night with the printers for they could not make a score, try as hard as they would. Only one member of the team went over the 400 mark in the three games, namely G. Draycott, whilst two of the opposing team, Palmer and Lent bowled over a 500 string. It was so one-sided that it was uninteresting to the spectators and even the players. Lent was high in a single game with 226, whilst Palmer had the best three string with 522. The players and scores were as follows:

Vanity and Glasses

The wearing of glasses is one of the best preservers of a youthful appearance. This is because prolonged eyestrain causes wrinkles to appear prematurely and gives the countenance a strained, tired, anxious, drawn, cross look, which is very characteristic and far more to be avoided, from the viewpoint of appearance than the slight disfigurement of glasses. Indeed, so far from being unbecoming, there are some types of faces to which glasses just add the finishing touch.

We have every up to date style.

DRAMATIC SPEECH BY FRENCH PREMIER

Explains Reduction in Conscription Will Cut Standing Army in Half.

Continental Hall, Washington, Nov. 21.—France will cut in half her effective army by reducing fifty per cent. the period of French military service. Premier Briand today told the arms limitation conference. This, he said, is France's offering to peace.

"Tomorrow, it is certain that by action of the French government, the period of military service will be cut in half," the premier said. "As a result of this France's army may be said to be reduced by half."

Briand's pledge that France will cut her army, now the largest and most effective fighting organization in the world, came after he painted a gloomy picture of the dangers facing his country.

The present period of service in France is three years.

The premier made his declaration for the big cut in the French army at the close of a long speech devoted mostly to demonstrating France's need for a large army. So long as France stands alone, Briand said, real disarmament" he called it—will not occur in Germany. It was clearly an appeal to America and Britain to put the seal of their approval on France's position, and perhaps to go farther in support of her.

CAN GO NO FARTHER

Faced by a German and a Russian "menace," France can go no further in land disarmament than to cut the period of her military service in half. To do more, Briand said, would endanger the safety of France.

The cut in the period of military service will not immediately affect France's standing army now estimated at 785,000 men. This reduction is to be accomplished, Briand explained, through adoption by the French parliament of a bill which will in effect mean that one and one-half of the three classes of effectives shall be in service and that the enlistment period be cut in half.

In his closing words, Briand over and over repeated that "when France is not alone," it will be much easier to bring about land disarmament. To achieve that, he said, France will do all she dare—already has done much—but will do nothing imprudent. "France," he finished, "cannot possibly do anything else than what she has done."

GERMANY'S WAR SPIRIT

Germany, Briand said, could put 5,000,000 men into the field within a few weeks. She has an immense industry running night and day, which could produce rifles, machine guns and cannon. Plans were ready, chemicals were ready, material was at hand. The German police were all officers and non-coms, being trained to lead others. One of their duties was to prepare for war.

Turning to Russia, Briand launched at once into a brief but graphic picture of a Bolshevist horde, numbering perhaps six million men, ready to overrun Europe. Poland would have fallen beneath this horde, Briand said had it not been for France's preparedness. "And after Poland, France herself would have gone down."

France, the premier said, has several times prevented war since the armistice by the strength of her army. Germany, he declared, took advantage of every anniversary—and Germany is not sparing of anniversaries—to bring together her force ostensibly to keep order. He charged that when the upper Silesian question came up, Germany put into the field 40,000 men, fully armed and officered.

"Suppose that by your side, American people, there was a nation prepared to fight you," the premier appealed. "What would you do? Would you close your eyes? There is not one citizen in the United States who would."

SPEAKS WITH ABANDON

As he elaborated upon the "German menace" and begged the American people to envision for themselves the danger of attack of millions of armed men, Briand brought into play all the oratorical arts for which he is famous. He threw himself into his speech with complete abandon. He pounded with his knuckles upon the table, he used both hands in striking and emphatic gestures, and his voice rose and fell, now shrill and piercing, now deep and rumbling, then quiet and incisive.

"I have pushed my country in the path of peace," Briand said. "But I went too far and if I saw again tomorrow my country torn, bloody, perhaps lost—I should be the most abominable of traitors." This evoked a burst of applause.

Don't Neglect THAT COUGH!

Persistent coughs lead to chronic bronchitis, asthma and permanent chest weakness. Swallowing druggy mixtures into the stomach is useless in bronchial trouble. It needs Peps the breatheable remedy which goes direct to the root of your cough.

As Peps tablets dissolve in the mouth, they give off powerful medicinal fumes which soothe and heal the inflamed breathing tubes, and destroy all disease germs. Peps speedily end chest soreness, clear the bronchials of phlegm and mucus, stop the wheeziness and coughing, and make breathing easy.

Remember, it is far better to prevent pleurisy, pneumonia and other lung diseases arising from neglected coughs and colds, than to cure them. Therefore take Peps at the first sign of a cough, cold or chill.

Letters to The Editor

RE BUILDING OF SCHOOLS

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear sir,—A young man some years ago came to Belleville and after a careful survey of the many advantages the town presented, opened an office and started an insurance business. He knew the great counties of Hastings and Prince Edward would be tributaries to the city. He saw our beautiful bay running into the St. Lawrence and the Canal at its head connecting the waters of the lake with the Bay. The natural advantages were many. He prospered and acquired many real-estate properties and helped to build up the city. Now for some time he has been selling his properties as rapidly as possible. He has offered by advertisement all of his real estate upon almost any terms. He is determined to get rid of every foot of land in the city. Why? Let every rate-payer read the very excellent letter of Mr. Robinson recently published in The Intelligencer and you will find the answer. Heavy Taxation. What is one of the chief causes of this taxation? Over building of the schools and the immense amount annually expended for school purposes.

What is the School Board endeavoring to accomplish? Coleman Ward school which with its equipment will cost close to half a million. Then there will be employed many more teachers at such salaries as the school combine shall command. The next step will be to destroy the High School buildings and sink the city into another million dollars' expense. They have also determined upon a technical college, which with the necessary adjuncts, will cost half a million more the additional annual burden of a very large sum for additional teachers.

It is because of the intended action of the School Board and the present burden of taxation which has caused the citizen I allude to to endeavor to get rid of every foot of real estate in this city. People will not buy real estate here, on account of the taxes. Only twelve thousand people here. Take the Dominion taxation. Every thing we consume is heavily taxed.

The railways, it is admitted will exhibit forty, or fifty millions of a deficit for years to come. The debts of the country on account of these railways represent many millions. Add these Dominion taxes to our Municipal taxes and see the true position we are in. We require strict economy instead of excessive expenditure.

If you real estate owners desire to save your city, get to work organize —You are the masters. I do not impeach the School Board for what they are attempting. I presume from their point of view, they think they are pursuing the right course. What I seek to show is that our financial position cannot support or carry out the views of the Board without ruin to the city.

John J. B. Flint.

FREEDOM OF CITY ANCIENT CUSTOM

Origin of "Freedom of the City" Goes Back Many Years.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—"To one freedom of the city—6 beaver skins."

Entries like this would have dotted the debit side of the expense accounts of Foch, Diaz, Beatty, Jacques and others of the brilliant procession of old world figures drawn to America in the wake of the world war, had they come about three centuries earlier.

And instead of riding at the head of triumphal processions to the city halls of various municipalities, there to receive the freedom of the city at the hands of respectful mayors, to the accompaniment of bands and cheering throngs, they would have had to file petitions in court for their freedom and take oaths not to offend against the law of the land.

Conferring of the freedom of a city on a visitor has come to mean almost precisely the opposite of what it meant in the young days of America and earlier in the medieval days in Merrie England.

ORIGIN OF CUSTOM LOST

The origin of the custom of granting the freedom of the city to aliens is virtually lost in antiquity," said Professor Harold McBain, instructor in municipal government at Columbia University, commenting on the round of brilliant receptions that have kept the mayors of New York and other cities almost constantly in all hats and frock coats in recent months.

"It appears however, to have grown directly out of the medieval organization of industry on a monopolistic basis, and was originally an economic measure, pure and simple.

In the old English borough it amounted to a license to carry on business and, later, to vote. Without the status of a freeman, conferred by the grant, a man could not rise above the class of employe.

The early Dutch settlers of New Amsterdam—now New York—set up a similar status, called the Burgher Right, in 1648, as a protection against Scotch Merchants and Petty Traders who spoil trade and business by underselling. Persons not holding the Burgher Right were prohibited from conducting business either with Christian or Heathen. The fee was six beaver skins.

FREEDOM PROVIDED FOR

"Freedom of the city was provided for in the Dongan charter of 1686—the first English charter of New York city, and its dispensation was entrusted to ye mayor or any three or more of ye aldermen. The fee by this time was reckoned in British pounds instead of beaver skins—3 pounds, 12 shillings for the shopkeeper class and 1 pound, 4 shillings for handicraftsmen.

Persons receiving the grant were required to take the oath, 'Obeysant and Obedient Shall Ye be to the Mayor and Ministers of this City,' and swore to take turns at the watch, pay their taxes, and warn the mayor of 'Any Gatherings, Conventicles or Conspiracies made against the King's Peace.'

"It was in the latter part of the eighteenth century that the practice of bestowing gratuitous, honorary freedoms of the city appeared.

"Early New York records recite the bestowal of the freedom of the city of New York on Captain Sir Peter Warren for his exploits against the French and to Generals Shirley Monckton and Gage.

"Later there is an entry showing the honor was bestowed on three sailors of a vessel lying in New York harbor, in recognitions of their services in helping extinguish a disastrous fire."

The formality had nearly died out when the termination of the war brought a revival, designed to honor noted visitors. Professor McBain said he knew of no records showing the origin of the practice of delivering the "keys of the city" to persons receiving the honor.

The body Geo. Scott, a grain shoveller, of Welland, was found in the hold of a steamer.

NEW MEDICINE MAKES MILLIONS WELL

Will be a Revelation to Suffering Humanity—Cleans Liver in a Few Minutes — Symptoms of Liver Trouble are: Sallow Complexion, Bad Taste in Mouth on Rising, Tired, Out of Sorts, etc.

This new drug is called Tanated Calomel. It acts only on the Liver, which immediately relieves many troubles, as: Rheumatism, Constipation, Boils, Kidney Pains, etc. No Salts, Seidlitz, are necessary after taking, because it is self-eliminating. It does not have a nauseating, sickening feeling next day, like so many similar drugs. You no doubt have been taking all sorts of laxatives, salts, castor oil, etc., with only temporary results. The reason is that some of these drew liquid from the blood and tissues, causing a great flush. What you need is something like Tanated Calomel, which causes the Bile to be excreted from the Liver into the Bowel, causing a natural elimination of the waste. You know waste allowed to remain in the system causes a multitude of troubles. I can venture to say that 90 per cent. of all sickness is due directly to this very thing. What is generally the first thing your doctor does when you are sick? He gets your Bowels operating so as to eliminate wastes in your Bowels, which are poisoning your system. Now, in order to be happy, healthy, vigorous, vivacious, bright, alert, keen to observe and understand, you must first keep your Liver clean, or you are coaxing all sorts of trouble upon yourself. Doctors recommend that you take a tablet before eating and one at bedtime. Just get some of these, and I feel assured that you will feel as if you had a new lease of life.

New Meats for the Market

If the hopes of the Royal Commission to investigate the possibilities of the reindeer and musk-ox industry in the Arctic and sub-Arctics of Canada are realized, in the not very distant future the lounger in the market place may hear a conversation like the following:

Housewife—"Good morning! I want a nice small steak of some kind of northern wild meat. My husband has been making up his income tax returns to-day and I know he will be frightfully savage when he comes home. Give me something, please, with about three thousand calories to the bite."

Butcher—"Then, here is just what you want; a nice small musk-ox steak, just in to-day from the Stefansson ranch in Baffin Land. Will you have it scented or unscented?"

Housewife—"What is the difference in price?"

Butcher—"The scented is cheaper, but I cannot recommend it. It is the meat of the old musk-ox, and we really keep it in stock only for young digestions — boys' boarding schools and that sort of thing. The unscented is guaranteed by the Government to be 'nutritious, palatable and more tender than beef.' I'll guarantee you will like it."

The housewife agrees, and as she is leaving the store says, as an afterthought: "Oh, yes, and you may send me a few pounds of reindeer for roasting along with it. The children are wild about it. Good morning."

All just as casual as that! You must believe it, because among the dozens of witnesses who testified before the royal commission as to the perfect palatability and nutritiousness of musk-ox and reindeer meat were six bishops and missionaries who had spent their lives in the lands which were the habitat of the animals named; members of Parliament, scientists, explorers, officials of the mounted police, and many others who were called to Ottawa last year to give evidence before the commission. Almost without exception they were strong for the new food and the development of the sources from which it comes. Mr. Stefansson is inaugurating a commercial herd of reindeer on an enormous territory leased from the Government; and as soon as a "census" of the musk-oxen is taken and the Government learns whether it can spare any for private breeding, he will likely add those animals to his ranch.

Storkerson, who was commander of the ice party under Stefansson in the Canadian Arctic Expedition, estimated that on Melville Island in 1917 there were about 4,000 of the animals. In that year there were still a good many bows and arrows used by Eskimo, but two years later they practically all had high power rifles, which, another witness said, they were "using freely." The musk-oxen are gentle, and are easily domesticated.

The milk of the cows is limited in quantity, but of excellent quality. The hides have a certain value, specimens having been sold in London for about twenty dollars, and the heads of such as died or were slaughtered would bring a high price. The wool of the inner coat is of fair quality, one witness describing it as a "slippery" wool, rather like Shetland. At the Parks Branch at Ottawa there are socks and other articles of clothing which have been made from it in an experimental way. They are of a firm texture and a beautiful soft brown color, but no way has yet been devised — possibly because experimentation has been so limited — of separating the wool from the coarse hair of the outer coat, so that the wearing of the garments next to the skin would be somewhat the same form of penance as John the Baptist subjected himself to with his raiment of camel's hair.

Reindeer were first introduced in Alaska in 1890. Dr. Sheldon Jackson, United States general agent of education, observed that the Eskimo there were starving, while across Bering Strait in Siberia were thousands of tame reindeer. He induced Congress to promote the introduction of reindeer and Lapland herders. It has been a complete success in Alaska. There are now about 200,000 head there, which, in addition to many thousands killed for meat, have all come during the past 28 years from the original importations of 1,280 animals.

The Dominion has made a tentative experiment with reindeer in the northwest, but it reads like the plaintive tale of the ten little niggers. It began in 1911 with 50 head purchased from Dr. Grenfell, of Newfoundland. By the time the herd reached Fort Smith it had decreased to 31. In the monthly reports thereafter through various accidents by field and flood decreases were noted, until "then there were three." They seem to have disappeared "in a slough back at Fort Smith."

The commissioners recommend the ascertaining by the use of airplanes or otherwise of the numbers of musk-oxen and caribou; preservation by preventing slaughter and establishing breeding and experimenting stations; the introduction of reindeer herds and experienced Laplanders as settlers and herders; caution in granting grazing leases; a survey of vegetation and other conditions; the extermination of beasts that prey, and experiments in domestication. The suggestions are likely to be followed, and serious hope is entertained that in the not distant future a great reserve of food may be created, certainly for the northern natives, and probably for more civilized consumers.

The Three Guardsmen

"Quite the contrary, Planchet. At 9 o'clock be ready here at the hotel. I will come and take you."

Planchet seeing there was no longer any hope of making his master renounce his project heaved a profound sigh and set to work to groom the third horse.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Pavilion.

At 9 o'clock D'Artagnan was at the Hotel des Gardes. He found Planchet under arms. The fourth horse had arrived. Planchet was armed with his musketoon and a pistol. D'Artagnan had his sword and placed two pistols in his belt. Then both mounted and departed quietly. It was quite dark, and no one saw them go out.

D'Artagnan crossed the quays, went out by the gate of La Conférence and proceeded along the road, much more beautiful then than it is now, which leads to St. Cloud.

As soon as the road began to be more lonely and dark Planchet drew softly nearer to D'Artagnan, so that when they entered the Bois de Boulogne he found himself riding quite naturally side by side with his master. D'Artagnan could not help perceiving that something more than usual was passing in the mind of his lackey and said:

"Well, Master Planchet, what is the matter with us now?"

"Ah, monsieur," replied Planchet, recurring to his besetting idea, "that M. Bonacieux has something vicious in his eyebrows, his lips!"

"What makes you think of Bonacieux now?"

"Monsieur, we think of what we can and not of what we will. Is not that the barrel of a musket which glitters yonder? Had we not better lower our heads?"

"In truth," murmured D'Artagnan, to whom M. de Treville's warning recurred, "in truth this animal will end by making me afraid." And he put his horse into a trot.

Planchet followed the movements of his master as if he had been his shadow and was soon trotting by his side.

"Are we going to continue this pace all night?" asked Planchet.

"No, for you on your part are at your journey's end. You are cold, Planchet. Go into one of those inns that you see yonder and be waiting for me at the door by 6 o'clock in the morning."

D'Artagnan sprang from his horse, threw the bridle to Planchet and departed at a quick pace, folding his cloak around him.

"Good Lord, how cold I am!" cried Planchet as soon as he had lost sight of his master, and in such haste was he to warm himself, that he went straight to a house set out with all the attributes of a suburban inn and knocked at the door.

In the meantime D'Artagnan, who had plunged into a bypath, continued his route and gained St. Cloud. He found himself soon in front of the pavilion named. It was situated in a very private spot. A high wall at the angle of which was the pavilion, ran along one side of this lane, and on the other was a little garden, connected with a poor cottage, which was protected from passengers by a hedge.

He gained the place appointed, and as no signal had been given him by which to announce his presence, he waited.

Not the least noise was to be heard. It might be imagined that he was a hundred miles from the capital. D'Artagnan leaned against the hedge, after having cast a glance behind him. At the end of a few minutes the belfry of St. Cloud let fall slowly ten strokes from its sonorous jaws.

His eyes were fixed upon the little pavilion situated at the angle of the wall, of which all the windows were closed with shutters, except one on the first story. Through this window shone a mild light.

D'Artagnan waited half an hour without the least impatience. The belfry of St. Cloud struck half-past 10. This time, without at all knowing why, D'Artagnan felt a cold shiver run through his veins.

The idea seized him that he had read incorrectly, and that the appointment was for 11 o'clock. But he had not been mistaken; the appointment was for 10 o'clock.

He resumed his post, beginning to be pretty uneasy at this silence and this solitude. Eleven o'clock struck.

D'Artagnan began now really to fear that something had happened to Mme. Bonacieux. He clapped his hands three times, the ordinary signal of lovers, but nobody replied to him—not even an echo. He then thought with a touch of vexation that perhaps the young woman had fallen asleep while waiting for him.

At that moment he thought of some trees, upon whose leaves the light still shone, and as one of them drooped over the road he thought that from its branches he might succeed in getting a glimpse of the interior of the room. In an instant he was among the branches, and his keen eyes plunged through the transparent window into the interior of the pavilion.

He saw a scene of fearful disorder. One of the windows was broken, the door of the chamber had been beaten in and hung, split in two, on its hinges, a table, which had been covered with an elegant supper, was overturned, the decanters broken in pieces and the fruits, crushed, strewed the floor. Everything in the apartment gave evidence of a violent and desperate struggle. D'Artagnan even fancied he could recognize amid this strange disorder fragments of garments and some bloody spots staining the cloth and the curtains.

BANK OF MONTREAL SHOWS ITS GREATEST STRENGTH DURING DIFFICULT YEAR

Premier Banking Institution Comes Through Year of Marked Industrial Depression Without Necessity of Providing For Any Unusual Losses—Business Setback Reveals Strength and Solidity of Bank—Profits Permit of Payment of Usual Dividends and Bonus and Substantial Addition to Profit and Loss Account.

The statement is often made that it is in a period of financial depression that a bank shows its real strength and solidity.

On this account, the shareholders of the Bank of Montreal will have every reason to be proud of the exhibit the Board of Directors and management are in a position to submit for the fiscal year to October 31st, 1921.

As is well known, during the past year practically all countries in the world have had their financial and industrial upheavals, and even in England, France and the United States the leading banking institutions have been confronted with problems of unusual difficulty. Canada could not expect to escape them.

An analysis of the statement of the Bank of Montreal shows that the premier banking institution of the Dominion passed through the period of unusual conditions without any impairment of its traditionally strong position—in fact, its position was improved.

The well-established connections steadily built up have permitted of the maintenance of profits at practically the same level as in the year 1920. Such an exhibit, at a time like the present, must be of inestimable value to Canada and will prove of great assistance in any financing the Dominion itself, or the Provinces, may have to arrange in outside financial markets.

At home it should have the effect of every Canadian enjoying greater faith in the future of the country. From time to time there has been too much talk of industrial and financial setbacks. A statement of a big institution like that of the Bank of Montreal showing such strength should encourage every Canadian to set himself to his task so that our problems may be gradually worked out.

Features of General Statement

The general statement of assets and liabilities shows that many interesting changes have occurred since the statement for the first six months of the current fiscal year was issued. After the war period there was a steady decline in the assets of all Canadian banks, owing to the special business undertakings for the Government. Latterly, however, there has apparently been a resumption of more large business, and as a result the total assets of the Bank stand at $517,403,162 as compared with $507,199,946 at the end of the first six months. Owing to the less active business conditions, the increase reported is largely in liquid assets, which now total $290,896,296, as compared with $252,377,568 at the end of April. These liquid assets represent 62.27% of the total liabilities to the public and included in them are actual cash as represented by gold, silver and Dominion notes of a total of 18.89% of liabilities to public.

In the general mercantile world there has been a gradual decline in inventories and a lessened demand for accommodation for such new business as is offering. As a result there is a reduction in the total of current loans combined with loans to cities, towns, and municipalities, and these now stand at $217,135,794, as compared with $244,301,771 at the end of the half-year period.

Saving Deposits Maintained

From the standpoint of the general public, there will be special interest in the fact that the savings of the people of the country are again showing a tendency to increase. There is also perhaps a desire on the part of corporations to have their balances earn as much interest as possible. These factors have contributed towards an increase of over $7,000,000 in savings deposits in the past six months and they now total $317,935,871, up from $310,846,487. At the same time, deposits not bearing interest have declined to $88,618,100 down from $105,754,451 at the end of April.

In a year of such disturbed conditions with the volume of business curtailed, it will be gratifying to the shareholders that it has been possible to maintain the profits at close to the level of the previous year, providing for the dividends and bonus and the usual contribution to Profit and Loss. The profits for the year amounted to $3,949,796, as against $4,033,995 in the previous year.

Latterly, however, there has apparently been a resumption of more large business, and as a result the total assets of the Bank stand at $517,403,162 as compared with $507,199,046 at the end of the first six months. Owing to the less active business conditions, the increase reported is largely in liquid assets, which now total $290,896,296, as compared with $252,377,568 at the end of April. These liquid assets represent 62.27% of the total liabilities to the public and included in them are actual cash as represented by gold, silver and Dominion notes of a total of 18.89% of liabilities to public.

In the general mercantile world there has been a gradual decline in inventories and a lessened demand for accommodation for such new business as is offering. As a result there is a reduction in the total of current loans combined with loans to cities, towns, and municipalities, and these now stand at $217,135,794, as compared with $244,301,771 at the end of the half-year period.

Saving Deposits Maintained

From the standpoint of the general public, there will be special interest in the fact that the savings of the people of the country are again showing a tendency to increase. There is also perhaps a desire on the part of corporations to have their balances earn as much interest as possible. These factors have contributed towards an increase of over $7,000,000 in savings deposits in the past six months and they now total $317,935,871, up from $310,846,487. At the same time, deposits not bearing interest have declined to $88,618,100 down from $105,754,451 at the end of April.

In a year of such disturbed conditions with the volume of business curtailed, it will be gratifying to the shareholders that it has been possible to maintain the profits at close to the level of the previous year, providing for the dividends and bonus and the usual contribution to Profit and Loss. The profits for the year amounted to $3,949,796, as against $4,033,095 in the previous year.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR

The youngest Prime Minister in the British Empire, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen is the first citizen of Canada by the divine right of intellect. Described by Sir Wilfred Laurier more than ten years ago as "the brighest mind that Canadian Conservatism has produced," his public record, since 1908, has been a procession of dazzling achievements. Solicitor-General in 1913, Minister of the Interior in 1917, Prime Minister in 1920, and acclaimed by the united press of Britain as a great Imperial Statesman in 1921—all this within the age of forty-seven—political history embraces few, if any, more remarkable careers.

Nor is it that he has been the spoonfed child of fortune. For Arthur Meighen, like his great British contemporary, Lloyd George, is sprung from the soil, a true son of the people. Born on a farm near St. Mary's, in Ontario, he has toiled with both hands and brain, has fought his way to the summit of eminence by sheer intellect and pluck. One wonders whence he derives the strength and endurance which he puts into his battles. For Mr. Meighen again resembling Lloyd George, is small in stature. He looks frail and often seems to be weary. He has the face of an ascetic, the abstraction of a student. But as a master of platform and parliamentary eloquence, he stands without a peer. Macauley once said that Parliament was government by speaking. Judged by that standard, as, indeed, by any other, Mr. Meighen is unrivalled in his day. With a platform manner suggestive of passionless austerity he commands a logic that is merciless and wields as well, though very sparingly a satire that destroys. He is utterly fearless in debate, and it will never be charged against him that he was willing to wound, but afraid to strike. He is not a rhetorican. Cautious, analytical, practical, he does not possess the oratory of exhortation; never descends to the role of a public entertainer; refuses to adjective minor issues into a Thermoplae and never puts imagery before truth. Yet despite his fidelity to logic and cold fact, he is a master of beauty in expression. The gift of style is his, acquired by ardent study of the Masters of English literature. There is no pomp nor massive march in his passages, but there is imagination and fine diction and a compelling lucidity and simplicity. It is the best of the oratory of the newer school.

If it is asked what are Mr. Meighen's convictions and passions, the answer is not hard. A moderate Conservative, it has been said of him, and not without truth, that he has the outlook of a Roosevelt with something of the temper of Wilson. A democrat of democrats, he is progressive, but sanely progressive. He does not believe that economic and political laws are unchangeable, that vested interests and property are sacred things and that all else is subsidiary. But he believes that progress, whether political or economic, must be orderly and evolutionary, achieved by sane and constitutional means. In this, as in other things, he is essentially British. He is as much the enemy of unteachable obscurantists as he is of intemperate radicals.

Well may Canadians rally round such a leader! The great need of the times is for guidance that is wise and courageous. From all quarters the basic principls of civilization and government are being powerfully assailed, and the challenge is for men who believe in the doctrines that have been lifebuoys of society in the past; men who are prepared to fight and sacrifice for their preservaton. Such a leader is Mr. Meighen. With an abiding faith in the destiny of his country, with an unquenchable patriotism, with a passion for the unity of Canadians, and, above all, with the character and the ability to translate his doctrines into law, he enters upon this contest without a rival among contemporary statesmen; the one man to whom Canada can turn in these testing and troublous days.

HON. R. J. MANION

Hon. R. J. Manion, Fort William, is only forty years of age but has crowded many experiences into that period. Like his colleague, Mr. H. H. Stevens, he was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth, but owes his present position to a determination to succeed and to a tenacity that would not permit him to quit. He fought his way through college and after being graduated from Toronto took honorable degrees in his profession in Edinburgh and Glasgow. Born in Pembroke, Ontario, his boyhood was spent in Fort William, and it was in that city that he acquired a large professional practice and a prominent place in civic politics. When the war broke out he was one of the first to answer the call and in the early stages of hostilities he served with the French army. Rejoining the Canadians, he became attached to the 21st Battalion and won the Military Cross for gallantry on the field. In 1915 he was nominated by Fort William by the Liberal party of which he was a supporter, but in 1917 he stood for conscription and was returned to Parliament to support the coalition. A man of fine speaking capacity, and of brilliant attainments, it was fitting that Mr. Meighen should select him as the Irish Catholic representative in the new Ministry.

HON. H. H. STEVENS

Hon. H. H. Stevens was born in England, but has lived in Canada the greater part of his life. At the age of 21 he was a soldier in charge of transport under General Chaffe, in the Phillipines, and later he fought in the Boxer war in China. For more than twenty years past he has been in British Columbia and is now successfully established in business. After a term, and a very successful one, in Vancouver municipal politics, Mr. Stevens came to Ottawa and immediately won front bench distinction. He is a forceful, aggressive debater, a hard fighter and a keen penetrating mind. A Conservative, and a bitter enemy of revolutionary tendencies, wherever and whenever manifested, he is a democrat to the hilt, is progressive in outlook and (probably with a memory of his own early struggles) is a thorough friend of labor. A business man, with a wide knowledge of commercial conditions, and with a firm belief in Canada's destiny as a commercial and economic power, he is an ideal man to administer the increasingly important department of Trade and Commerce.

SIR HENRY DRAYTON

Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, is a statesman who is a realist in politics, the product of an environment where efficiency reigned far higher than political tradition. Sir Henry is of that type of practical, positive minnd which cares little for the shibboleths and formulae but believes that problems and issues must be met and solved by application of remedies suitable to their needs.

Watching him in the House of Commons, and noting his career since coming to Ottawa, one doubts whether he cares in the slightest degree either for Protection or Free Trade, as such. On the contrary, his speeches give the impression of a man who regards such things, not at political principles or creeds, but as means to an end, to be adopted or rejected as, in his judgment, the needs of the country demands. Sir Henry resigned the chairmanship of the Board of Railway Commissioners, a post bringing high monetary reward, to serve as Minister of Finance, accepting a substantially lower salary, and, in addition, risking the uncertainity that is inseparable from public life. Nor was this action a spasmodic or isolated instance of public service in Sir Henry's career. Only a few days before he had given evidence of his desire to put service before self by returning a check which the Government had tendered him in payment of distinguished service rendered in reporting upon the economic conditions of Canadian railways. Sir Henry, in truth, stands as an embodiment of the new ideals of public service which has been fastened upon the consciousness of many of our younger public men in recent years. A young man, able direct, earnest and courageous, with the vision to plan big policies and the capacity to execute them he is one of the salient personalities on the political stage, a leader whose services the country could ill-afford to lose.

HON. RODOLPHE MUNTY

Hon. Mr. Rodolphe Monty who has lived all his life in Montreal is a brilliant speaker, an excellent lawyer and the head of one of the most important legal firms in Montreal. He was educated at the College of Ste. Marie du Monnoir and afterwards studied law at the Universities of McGill and Laval obtaining the high degree of L.L.L. The new minister early in life took an active part in politics, even in the University, he was prominent in all political debates. He was President of the Junior Conservative Club of Montreal, and also the Cartier Club of the same city. In his profession, his ability was soon recognized by his associates and he was appointed Councillor and Treasurer of the Bar of the Montreal District, and later was elected Examiner of the Bar of the Province of Quebec. In all the recent political campaigns he has taken a very active part. Among his associates in Montreal, and in the Conservative Party throughout the Province, he is looked upon as one of the strong men and as a campaign speaker and organizer has few equals.

HON. C. C. BALLANTYNE

Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Minister of Marine and Naval Affairs, will have a place in history as the man who restored the Canadian Ensign to its once proud position upon the Seven Seas. Canada was slow to launch upon the building of ships. For this, no one in particular was to blame. When the steel ocean greyhound replaced the old square-rigger, and the great steel shipbuilding yards of Britain practically monopolized the ship construction of all nations, the shipyards of Canada, at one time a flourishing industry, all but disappeared, and the Dominion lost its position among the Maritime powers of the world. Such an industry, once destroyed, is not easily revived; and it was not until German U-boats had flung their challenge to civilization itself, and the cry was for ships and still more ships if humanity was not to go down, that an effort was made to rebuild it. Mr. Ballantyne, a strong believer in the genius and maritime destiny of Canadian people, had just entered the cabinet as Minister of Marine, and, with characteristic enthusiasm, backed by long business training, threw himself whole-heartedly into the task. How well he has succeeded it is unnecessary to state at length. It is enough to point to the fact that to-day Canadian yards are building vessels that are second to none in the world; that a fleet of Canadian ships, built by Canadians, sailed by Canadians and owned by the Government of Canada, are carrying Canadian goods and the Canadian Ensign to all the ports of the world, and that the Canadian shipbuilding industry has grown from practically nothing to the point where it employs 30,000 men and represents an investment of 100 million dollars.

Mr. Ballantyne is a Liberal, and in the old days, was a follower of Sir Wilfred Laurier. Indeed Sir Wilfrid thought so highly of his capacity for service that he created him one of the harbor commissioners of the port of Montreal. But, like the other leading Liberals of the country, Mr. Ballantyne could not follow Sir Wilfrid in his course against conscription, and had the honor of being one of the first of his party to enter Union Government. A Liberal of moderate views, a man who places the interest of Canada above the fortunes of any party, it was surprising that Mr. Ballantyne should throw in his lot with the National Liberal and Conservative forces. While the new party manages to attract men of such calibre to its ranks its capacity for service to Canada will be great.

HON. DR. NORMAND

Hon. Dr. Normand has a record in municipal affairs in the City of Three Rivers that has given him a Provincial reputation for integrity and ability. Dr. Normand was born in 1863 and graduated from Laval in 1886. He entered municipal life as an alderman in 1900 and was Mayor of that City from 1908 to 1913. Last July, at the request of the reform element, he again contested the mayoralty and was elected by an enormous majority. The new minister has been Vice-President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of the Province of Quebec and is Vice-President of the Medical Council of Canada. His public services have also been recognized by the French Government and His Holiness, Benedict XV. The choice of the new minister has taken to clearly indicate the good feeling of the Prime Minister to the Province of Quebec and also that in that Province there is a growing sentiment toward the support of stable government and the protective tariff.

HON. JOHN A. STEWART

Hon. John Alexander Stewart, Perth, Lanark County, Minister of Railways and Canals, is a lawyer but for some years has devoted his acknowledged talents to industrial enterprises. His town of Perth bears witness to his great ability in this respect. There three great industries, embracing a vast investment and providing employment for thousands of men and women, stand as a monument to his foresight and enterprise. Mr. Stewart entered Parliament at a by-election in 1918 and after a single session was regarded as of cabinet material. His wide knowledge of business and of business conditions, coupled with a rare gift of analytical and lucid expression, made him an invaluable addition to the Commons. The railway problem, perhaps the foremost question with which Parliament is constantly called to grapple, immediately challenged Mr. Stewart's attention, and it is fortunate for Canada that he has been selected to preside over the department of Railways and Canals. Still a young man, one of the youngest men in a young man's cabinet, Mr. Stewart, if he remains in public life, has before him a brilliant career and one of great usefulness.

HON. HUGH GUTHRIE

Less than dozen years ago Mr. Hugh Guthrie was one of the rising hopes of a dominent Laurier Liberalism. Entering the Commons in 1900 he attracted almost immediate attention at a time when the "cabinet of all the talents" was in the heydey of its power. The representative of a family famous in the annals of Ontario Liberalism, a debater of persuasion and power, and with an impressive oratorical appearance, he was soon regarded as a new star in the political firmament, and Sir Wilfrid, always alert for new talent, marked him for early promotion. Nor did Mr. Guthrie fail to justify his veteran leader's hopes. Succeeding sessions saw him take a more active part in the debates of the House, until in time he came to be regarded as one of the foremost parliamentarians of the day; and it was common knowledge that if the party had been returned to power in 1911, Mr. Guthrie would have succeeded Sir Allan Ayelsworth as Minister of Justice. That, however, was not to be, but Mr. Guthrie was among the few Ontario leaders to survive the reciprocity debacle and returned to Parliament as one of the most formidable of the Opposition chiefs.

Although a near-pacifist and anti-militarist in peace, Mr. Guthrie's attitude changed with the war. With Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Asquith, and the other great Liberal leaders of Britain, he realized from the first that the conflict was between autocracy and the principles which Liberalism had always held dear, and he threw himself heart and soul into the effort of his country. Throughout Ontario his fine eloquence was used with potent effect to stir his province to action, and in Parliament he supported with complete lack of partizanship every measure put forward for the winning of the war.

It will stand to Mr. Guthrie's credit in Canadian war history that he was the first of the Liberals to openly break with his leader on the issue of military conscription. Indeed, it can be said that it was the defection of Mr. Guthrie from Sir Wilfrid that broke the back of the anti-conscriptionist forces in Parliament, and, in doing so, made parliamentary history.

A Liberal of the old school, one who counts as his political ancestors such great names as Brown and Blake and Mowat, and still glories in their tradition, Mr. Guthrie typifies the real union of the best elements of both great parties that is the foundation of the present Government. Still a young man, with many years of active work ahead of him, he is certain to play a predominant part in the nation's political history.

HON. S. F. TOLMIE

Described by Hon. T. A. Crerar, Agrarian leader, as the best equipped man in Parliament for the portfolio of Agriculture, Hon. S. F. Tolmie is a genuine farmer who brings to bear upon the problems of his department a trained and experienced mind. Dr. Tolmie is the embodiment of that strange new thing in public life—a non-partizan in politics. Before he entered Parliament in 1917, he had no politics, and although two years in the House landed him into an important portfolio he is still sublimely indifferent to partizan shiboleths and cries. A farmer before everything else, he is content to leave the decision of fine points of political policy and strategy to others, devoting his time and energy to a field more suitable to his talents.

Although never active in public affairs, Mr. Tolmie was prevailed upon in 1917 to become Unionist candidate for Victoria. He conducted his election upon the win-the-war issue alone, and was returned by an enormous majority. In the Parliament which followed Mr. Tolmie, although taking little part in the debates, made a favorable impression. On the questions of agriculture, very much to the fore, he spoke with knowledge and authority, and when Mr. Crerar resigned his portfolio and went over to the cross benches, Mr. Tolmie was the unanimous choice of his party for the post.

As Minister, he has not tried to be dramatic or spectacular. As a practical farmer himeelf, he knows that the problems of agriculture are not settled by words or by spasmodic and seemingly brilliant decisions, but require sustained and patient effort along safe and practical lines. Nor has he made the mistake of attempting to run his department from behind a green baized dor in Ottawa. Instead he has gone out into the country, visiting the farms, meeting the farmers face to face, discussing with them in heart to heart talks, and endeavoring by first-hand knowledge and experience to meet their aspirations and needs.

It is Mr. Tolmie's own idea of how his department should be run and it seems reasonable enough. What the result will be only time can tell, but if personal knowledge and practical experience count for anything in the conduct of affairs, then Mr. Tolmie's administration of agriculture ought to have a fair chance for success.

HON. F. B. McCURDY

At a time when Governments are called upon to deal with countless problems that demand a clear grasp of the principles of business, the inclusions into a cabinet of men with a practical knowledge of affairs is essential to a Ministry's success. It was but natural, therefore, that when Premier Meighen cast about for cabinet timber that would start his Ministry upon its career with a maximum of strength he should have selected Mr. F. B. McCurdy as his Minister of Public Works. For Mr. McCurdy, who, in addition to wide business experience, is not without training in and knowledge of political and governmental administration, has for several years past been regarded as one of the most brilliant in a group of rising leaders in the sphere of business and finance.

Beginning business with the Halifax Banking Company in 1890, his progress in the world of finance has been notable, until to-day few Canadian names are more prominent in the world of monetary affairs. His late firm, F. B. McCurday and Company, with branches in all of the principal centres of the country, is regarded as one of the standard financial houses of the Dominion. Nor has Mr. McCurdy's rise been due to wild-cat or frenzied finance, or to that elusive thing in the realm of money, which men call luck. Almost exclusively his success has been acieved by hard work and sound judgment, by the qualities of mind and pluck and resourcefulnes which almost invariably triumph in every field of effort.

Mr. McCurdy's entry into public life was under brilliant circumstances, for he came into the House of Commons in 1911 as the conqueror of that Liberal veteran, Hon. W. S. Fielding after a hard-fought contest in Queen's-Shelburne.

In 1917 he was elected by acclamation in Colchester, and shortly afterwards Sir Robert Borden recognized his parliamentary and administrative capacity by promoting him to the post of Parliamentary Secretary to the newly-formed Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, and Chairman of the Invalided Soldiers' Commission. These posts Mr. McCurdy shortly afterwards resigned, but he retained his seat in the Commons and continued to give the Government vigorous support.

A young man who has made a success of life, full of vigor and ambition, a student of men and affairs, and with sound, wholesome views upon the pressing economic issues of the day, Mr. McCurdy has unquestionably a great future before him.

HON. R. B. BENNETT

Hon. Richard Bedford Bennett has been a salient personality in politics for upwards of twenty years. A New Brunswicker who won both fame and fortune in the West, he entered the old Northwest Assembly in 1901 and joined the opposition to Hon. F. W. G. Haultain. In 1905 he led the Conservative forces in the first provincial election in Alberta and suffered defeat, but he was returned in 1908 and almost wrecked the Rutherford Government by his indictment of the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway financing. Premier Rutherford retired and the late Hon. A. L. Sifton left the bench and assumed the premiership to save the Liberal party. In 1911, Mr. Bennett entered Parliament, being the only Conservative elected in Alberta. In the House of Commons he soon attracted wide attention, his onrushing tempestuous oratory winning him a high place at a time when debaters like Laurier and Foster were at the peak of their power. Mr. Bennett ploughed a lonely furrow for some years, often found himself in conflict with the Government, and in 1917 retired from the House. A man of great wealth, fond of books and travel, he returns to the political arena only at the earnest solicitation of those who believe that the gravity of the times demands that men of his ability are required at the national helm. A lawyer of national distinction, he will make an ideal Minister of Justice.

SIR EDWARD KEMP

Sir Edward Kemp, K.C.M.G., who becomes a Minister without portfolio in the new Cabinet, was elected Conservative member of the House of Commons for Toronto East at the general election of 1900, and was re-elected in 1904. He was defeated in 1908, but re-elected in 1911 and 1917. He joined the Borden Government as Minister without portfolio, October 10, 1911. In 1915 he was appointed chairman of the War Purchasing Commission. On November 23, 1916, he was appointed Minister of Militia and Defence. On October, 1917, he became Minister of Overseas Military Forces of Canada in the United Kingdom. Later he rendered important services in connection with the Peace Conference. He was created a K.C.M.G., February 13, 1917. Sir Edward who is a native of Clarenceville, Que., born in 1858, is a prominent manufacturer in Toronto, and has served as president of the Toronto Board of Trade and president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

HON. JAMES R. WILSON

Hon. James R. Wilson, Saskatoon, is one of the pioneers of the Great West. Born in Lanark County, Ontario, in the early eighties, when the C.P.R. was in its infancy, and faint hearts trembled for the country's future, he went to Saskatchewan and settled near Moose Jaw. As a farmer and rancher he experienced all the hardships of the early days but he never lost faith in the future of the prairies. In 1910, Mr. Wilson and his brother moved to Saskatoon and engaged in the business of flour milling. They were eminently successful and shortly afterwards when Saskatoon was experiencing the first days of prosperity, the present minister had his first experience in municipal affairs. He served for some time as alderman, later becoming mayor; and in 1917 was sent to Ottawa as a Conscriptionist Unionist. He is one of the business men whose advice and judgement will be of great value to the Ministry.

SIR JAMES LOUGHEED

Hon Sir Jas. Lougheed, K.C.M.G., P.C., KC., Government Leader in the Senate and Minister of the Interior has had a long and outstanding career as parliamentarian, legislator and administrator. A Senator for 31 years, Opposition leader in the Upper Chamber for four years, Government leader in the same house for nine years holding successively the posts of Chairman of the Military Hospitals Commission, Minister of the Soldiers Re-establishment and Minister of the Interior, few living Canadians have had wider experience of public life and none has surpassed him in consistency of success.

Sir James was summoned to the Senate by Sir John MacDonald away back in 1899. A forceful and lucid debater, he rendered capable service to his party, and upon the retirement of the late Sir Mackenzie Bowell from the leadership of the Conservatives in the Upper House in 1906 was chosen as his successor. It was a happy choice, for Sir James leadership has been marked by conspicuous ability. Since 1911, in which year he was sworn into the cabinet and became Government leader in the Senate, his services have been specially brilliant. There is a common belief that the Upper house is the mere refuge of a few decrepit old men reaping reward for party contributions. It is a very mistaken view. In legislative capacity, in debating skill in the general average of ability, the Senate ranks easily above the Commons. The result is that Government legislation which often passes the lower house by sheer weight of majority of votes on the division is often in danger of shipwreck in the Upper House because of the attack of such able parliamentarians as Belque, Belcourt and Dandurand—great keen lawyers all. On such occasions he is at his best. Possessed with the great political gift of grasping and acting upon a situation with disconcerting swiftness, and, above all blessed with a remarkable faculty of fortifying his arguments with common sense, he succeeds in the passage of measures, which if piloted by others, would be almost certain to meet with defeat. It is, however as an administrator that Sir James Lougheed has rendered his best services to Canada. His administration of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment has been of a character to place Canada first among the nations in the solution of the returned soldier problem.

HON. GIDEON D. ROBERTSON

Hon. Gideon D. Robertson is the first real labor representative to become minister of labor in Canada. More than that he is the only genuine labor man who has occupied a seat in the Cabinet of Canada. Long before the vanguard of Labor Party had entered the political arena, the Borden Government marching well abreast of the times, and conscious of the great part which labor was destined to play in the events of the future, broke a Confederation-old tradition by taking Mr. Robertson, an active workers' leader into the Ministry.

Itw as an innovation that has never caused regret. For while regarded at first with suspicion and hostility by those who could not conceive the necessity of a Labor leader in the Government of the country, Mr. Robertsons' broadmindedness, his moderation, and his severe integrity, have overcome all antagonisms, until today no man in Canadian public life stands higher in the esteem and confidence of all classes.

Although a real worker, one who sprang from the toiling masses, one who fulfilled the command given in the Garden of Eden many thousands of years ago, Mr. Robertson is not class conscious, nor does he in the execution of his duties regard himself as the representative of a class it was said of Kier Hardie that he "hated the palace because he remembered the pit." Because he remembered the struggles of his boyhood days, Mr. Robertson has a depth of sympathy with the aspirations of the workers, but unlike Keir Hardie, he bears no animosity against the well-to-do classes. He is not a labor leader of the Robert Smillie-Ramsay Macdonald school; he is not a socialist, nor a Red. He is simply a disciple of Gompers school, a constitutional Trades Unionist who prefers evolution to revolution, holding that more progress can be achieved by temperate discussion than by violence, and branding the ultra-radical and the ultra-conservative as a menace to the state.

HON. DR. EDWARDS

Hon. Dr. Edwards is one of the millitant figures of Parliament. Entering the House of Commons in 1908 he at once advocated the reform of Kingston penitentiary and compelled an investigation into conditions there which led to sweeping reforms. A hard hitter who scorns quarter and gives none he is one of the ablest debaters in Parliament. In the reciprocity campaign of 1911, he won a name for himself as one of the most penetrating critics of that ill-fated, and his services on the platform were eagerly sought all over the Province of Ontario. Like so many other men who have achieved success, Dr. Edwards began life as a school teacher. Of English descent his people were United Empire Loyalists—Dr. Edwards is prominent Orange man and holds a high position in that order. As Minister of health and immigration he will administer his department without fear or favor.

HON. L. G. BELLEY

Hon. L. G. Belley has been prominent in legal and business circles in Quebec City and District for years. He is a native of Chicoutimi and was born in 1863. His family have been prominent in that district, his eldest brother being the Rev. Monseigneur Belley of Bai St. Paul. The new minister was educated at the Seminary of Chicoutimi, and Laval University, and was admitted to the bar in 1887, and was elected to the House of Commons for Chicoutimi in 1892 as a Conservative. He practised law for a number of years in his native town and at the same time was interested in farming and ranching in Alberta where one of his sons still manages his property. In 1913 he opened a law office in Quebec where he soon became one of the leaders of the bar and was interested in the pulp and paper industry in that district. Hon. Mr. Belley has ten children living, five sons and five daughters. During the war four of his sons offered their services, one remaining on duty in Canada, another was killed in the Imperial Flying Corps and two enlisted as privates in the Tank Battallion. While he has not been in active politics since 1896, he has kept in close touch with public affairs and will bring to the Administration not only a thorough knowledge of the Quebec district, but also an intelligent grasp of National problems.

HON. J. B. M. BAXTER

Hon. James Babington Macaulay Baxter, successor to Hon. R. W. Wigmore as Minister of Customs, is another member of the government of U. E. Loyalist descent who has all the characteristics of those who rightfully claim such origin. In St. John, his native city, he is a leader of the bar, and he has been president of the Barristers Society of New Brunswick For thirteen years he was an alderman of St. John and in 1911 entered the New Brunswick legislature. He immediately forged to the forefront of provincial politics and in 1914 became attorney general, holding that office until the defeat of the Clark Government in 1917. Since then he has been leader of the Conservative opposition. A brilliant debater, a man of education and culture, and with a wide knowledge of men and affairs, he will be an invaluable addition to Parliament and to the Government.

HON. EDWARD BRISTOL

Hon. Edward Bristol, Toronto, Minister without portfolio, is of U.E. Loyalist decent, a strong Conservative, an able lawyer and prominent in the business and financial world. Mr. Bristol entered political life in 1905, in the dark days of the Conservative party, in a bye-election caused by the death of Mr. E. F. Clarke. It was a bitter contest, with the Liberals determined to make a break in "Tory Toronto," but Mr. Bristol was triumphant and the constituency has remained loyal to him since. The new Minister is an able organizer and was for many years associated with the late Hon. Frank Cochrane in guiding the destinies of the Conservative party in the province of Ontario. Recently he was selected as chairman of the Conservative organization in Central Ontario, which embraces forty constituencies including the cities of Toronto and Hamilton.

HON. E. K. SPINNEY

The Hon. Edgar Keith Spinney, became a Minister without portfolio in the Meighen Cabinet, July 13, 1920. He is a Minister without portfolio in the new Cabinet. Mr. Spinney was first elected to the House of Commons at the general elections of 1917, as Unionist member for Yarmouth and Clare, N.S. He is a merchant and insurance broker at Yarmouth, N.S., and is actively identified with many business enterprises in this district. He is a native of Argyle, Yarmouth county and was born in 1851.

PLANS MODEL TOWNS.

Work Done by Thomas Adams In Canada.

So many landscape gardeners hail from Scotland that it seems natural for the Canadian Government's town planning adviser, Mr. Thomas Adams, to come from the same quarter. Mr. Adams' vocation is not gardens but garden cities. He is the scientific and relentless foe of slums and of all unlovely and unhealthy human environment. For twenty-four years Mr. Adams has been closely in touch with land and housing problems here and overseas, and he is regarded as the foremost authority on planning healthful and beautiful towns.

As a student of political economy and sociology by nature, a farmer by birth and a land surveyor by profession, Mr. Adams is peculiarly fitted for his work. A keen student of politics in his earlier days, and gifted with ready speech and pen, he could have entered Parliament without difficulty, and helped to make town planning laws. He preferred to remain outside of Parliament and bend his energies towards building new and remodeling old towns.

When the Garden City Association was founded in 1900, Mr. Adams was appointed its secretary. As a result of an extensive survey of numerous estates he was able to recommend the Letchworth site for England's first garden city, and when that notable sociological experiment was set on foot he became its secretary-manager.

On leaving Letchworth Mr. Adams practiced privately as a town planning surveyor. He laid out and managed large estates for the Marquis of Salisbury, the Earl of Lytton, Sir Richard Paget and others of England's largest landowners. During the discussion of the first Town Planning Act he was busily employed preparing briefs for members of both Houses of Parliament.

An outcome of the Garden City movement was the appointment of Mr. Adams as town planning expert to the Local Government Board of England and Wales. In this capacity he held nearly one hundred enquiries regarding schemes for town planning and prepared plans for garden cities in many places.

In 1914 Mr. Adams paid a second visit to Canada, attending the City Planning Conference held in Toronto that year. His grasp of the subject was such that when it was decided to appoint a Government town planning adviser, Mr. Adams was offered the position. It was a temporary appointment with no financial benefit, but it was a unique opportunity to gain new experience in a developing country that Mr. Adams was unable to turn down. When the appointment was made the English "Town Planning Review" congratulated Canada on "decoying" Mr. Adams out of his own country. It confessed to "a certain resentment towards Canada for having robbed us of the man who is justly looked up to as the head of the profession in this country."

Since coming to Canada, Mr. Adams has been in constant consultation with all the Provincial Governments, promoting town planning legislation which is now in force practically all over the Dominion. He has laid out schemes for several cities and towns, including the new town of Kipawa, Que., on Lake Temiskaming. When Halifax was ruined by the explosion of four years ago, Mr. Adams was the logical man to summon to the rebuilding of the city. Quick action was imperative, and although time did not permit of an ideal plan of reconstruction, Mr. Adams' prompt and expert advice resulted in the laying out of a suburb vastly superior to the one that had been destroyed.

Mr. Adams is the author of several books and innumerable pamphlets on town and rural planning. His latest book on "Rural Planning and Development" has achieved the unique distinction of having been adopted as a textbook in several universities, although published as a Government report.

Sometimes we wonder what a man would do if he had to get up three meals a day for his wife, and vary 'em right along.

NEW CIVILIZATION.

It Centres in the Garage Rather Than the Kitchen.

Mr. Murray Wrong, of Toronto, after an absence of ten years, during which time he has been studying in England, finds that in Canada civilization rests not on domestic service, as it did, and to a large extent still does in England, so much as on the internal combustion engine.

"The size of a city like Toronto," he says, "sprawling miles along the lake so that congestion at the centre prevents dependence on electric traction, the new country life that is opening up for city dwellers, the market gardening that feeds a city with a worse suburban railway service than any in England—all these it seems depend for their existence on gasoline or some substitute for it. A less dangerous basis than slavery, probably more secure than domestic service, it is still perhaps not so assured as its adherents claim or assume. Meanwhile, whether secure or not, it is molding human life, human thought, in a new way. The bent of the young man, already mechanical, becomes more so; the motor increases or at least maintains much of the rampant individualism naturally developed in opening up an unsettled country, for the owner-driver on the road hardly shares the community sense induced by traveling in a crowded suburban train, whose passengers have one link at any rate—complaints against the company."

"A visitor after some years' absence," continues Mr. Wrong in the Canadian Forum, "may notice other things on the same lines. A civilisation that centres on the garage rather than on the kitchen or the drawing-room, has modified its dress accordingly and sensibly increased freedom. It has improved and is improving the hotels; it has established restaurants where there were only quick lunch counters. It has taught people the geography of their own country, and abolished the old limitation on travel that generally prevented all save the head of the house taking more than two journeys a year. It has made possible the country club, a middle class and pseudo-democratic substitute for the week-end country house party. If only chemistry provides a cheap efficient substitute when the oil wells are exhausted, this civilization may blossom further, generation by generation altering the minds of men through their habits, and may reach out to novel types of political organization, to new art and a distinctive literature. But if chemistry fails, then a revolution of some sort is preparing in the future, perhaps as catastrophic as that malaria is said to have wrought in ancient Greece. Meanwhile there are a few years in which it is permissible to wonder."

"Toronto," he says, "has for long been a busy commercial city, but it has an added bustle now; it is less of the provincial town, more of a metropolis. After life in England what amazes one is its display. Covering many square miles, its offices and shops built for permanence, its boulevards of private houses, show a solid wealth that grows more noticeable year by year. Canadians in England used to wonder at the amount of capital sunk in buildings, roads, walls and parks; to feel that England was the richest country in the world, the only place where nature was really tamed and moulded. The Englishman in Canada now can compare Toronto with Manchester and decide that, town for town, on pure show alone, Toronto is the more impressive. Leagues of houses each girt by a lawn, each meaning an income of from ten thousand dollars a year up, elaborate street lighting that shames Paris, the streets most of them well paved, the shops more elaborate than anything in England outside London—these are more obvious signs of wealth than most English cities afford. It is only when we go into the country or small towns that the old patchiness, sure sign of a partly developed and thinly populated country, strikes us again. There we will find brilliant electric lights illuminating a road that would be a disgrace to war-time Flanders, "desirable stone mansions" (to use the house-agent's jargon) rubbing shoulders with wooden shacks, railways running up the main street and warning off trespassers only by a friendly bell."

In Toronto, Mr. Wrong observes, the boarding houses creep ever northward, the flats increase.

"It is one way out of the servant and housing problems, but when one sees the 'roomers' buying late at night milk, eggs and bread for the next morning, one wonders what life will be like when the family breakfast table is, in cities, the privilege of only the rich. Perhaps the motor is due to nature's law of compensation; it brings a chance of privacy to those who have no roof-tree of their own."

Mr. Wrong finds the Farmer-Labor Government in Ontario "rather Gilbertian."

"It can hardly last indefinitely if one may presume to pose as a seer; a true farmer-labor alliance can be only temporary. Can a labor party become individualist and remain labor? Can a farmers' party be anything but individualistic once its main grievances are removed?"

Mr. Wrong does not mention the co-operative activities of farmers.

OUR SPEAKER'S CHAIR.

Origin of Gift to Canada From British Commons.

The Right Hon. James W. Lowther visited Canada to present to the Canadian Parliament the Speaker's chair that is the gift of the British members to replace the one destroyed by the fire of February, 1916.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Empire Parliamentary association in Westminster Hall recently Mr. Lowther discussed the origin of the gift. "It was," he declared, "the happy thought of Mr. Percy Hurd, M.P. Feeling that some such emblem of Imperial goodfellowship should have its place in the new Canadian Commons building, Mr. Hurd, when visiting Ottawa in September, 1919, consulted the Canadian speaker, the Hon. N. Rhodes, M.P. Acting in a purely personal and informal way as a private member of the British House of Commons, he asked Mr. Rhodes whether the Canadian Commons would be likely to welcome the gift from members of the British Commons of a replica of the chair or table of the British House. Mr. Rhodes said most emphatically that they would. In the Canadian chamber the table has not the parliamentary significance attaching to the table in the British chamber, by reason of the fact that each Canadian Minister and member has his own desk. Hence the greater suitability of a replica of the chair as a gift. There has also been this difference in British and Canadian procedure that in Canada it has been the custom to regard the chair as the personal property of the Speaker at the end of his term of office; but Mr. Rhodes expressed to Mr. Hurd his belief that were so gracious an offer made by the British Commons the Canadian Commons would doubtless wish to waive this custom and keep the chair as a permanent feature of the Canadian House. Upon his return to England Mr. Hurd enlisted the ready support of the leader of the British House of Commons, Mr. Bonar Law, and the movement was shortly afterwards taken up and carried to a successful issue by the United Kingdom branch of the Empire Parliamentary Association, of which Sir Howard d'Egville is the zealous secretary.

It is understood that a brass plate will be affixed to the chair to commemorate the circumstances of the gift and its presentation by the Speaker. Behind the chair in the Canadian House will be seen a screen which is being designed by Sir Frank Baines, Director of Works of H. M. Office of Works, who has undertaken the commission at the request of J. A. Pearson, architect of the Canadian Parliament Buildings, and at the expense of the Canadian Government. It should be added that the chair has been subscribed for by members of all parties in the British Parliament—Unionists, Liberal and Labor. The Royal Arms over the chair are carved out of the original oak from the roof of Westminster Hall, which is believed to date back to the reign of Rufus.

"The new chair will be," to quote Mr. Lowther again, "an outward and visible token of the similarity and continuity of our Parliamentary traditions as between this country and Canada." Sir Robert Borden, the then Prime Minister of Canada, in accepting the offer of the chair, spoke of it as "another illustration of the spirit of comradeship" between two Parliaments which are "united by the ties of like institutions and traditions, and of common allegiance"; and Mr. Mackenzie King, leader of the Canadian Opposition, said: "If there is one thing above another we in Canada have reason to be proud of and to be grateful for, it is that our constitution and parliamentary institutions are, to all intent and purposes, a replica of the constitution and parliamentary institutions of the mother of parliaments in the old world. A visible sign of this great invisible reality such as is embodied in the gift which it is our privilege to accept is one of those links of empire which make for that unity we all desire in those things which are fundamental to liberty and to the preservation of it."

The Good Heckler.

Elihu Root said at a New York luncheon:

"I like to attend some radical meetings on account of the heckling that goes on at them. Hecklers are much cleverer than the speakers as a rule.

"A radical orator was being heckled the other evening by a broad shouldered lad in a brown cap. The orator got the worst of it, and he lost his temper. Finally he said in a voice of rage and hatred:

" 'Take off your cap, young man, if you want to question me!'

" 'Take off your cap! Take off your cap!' yelled the orator's supporters on the platform.

"But the broad-shouldered youth grinned and shouted:

" 'I didn't take off me cap when I went over the top.' "

POSSIBILITY DOMINION WIDE HYDRO ELECTRIC DEVELOPMENT SHOWS UNIQUE FIELD IN CANADA

Companies' Systems Might be Linked Right up Across the Continent—At Different Periods One Company Could Come to Assistance of Neighboring Concerns—Interesting Possibility from Engineering Standpoint.

The possibility of Dominion-wide development in the hydro-eletcric field which will make for better earning power for existing units and open up an encouraging outlook for new enterprise is engaging the serious consideration of engineers and others who are interested in some of the leading corporations in the country.

One of the great problems which confronts hydro engineers is the unemployed load. There are hours in the twenty-four each day when many companies have more power than they can utilize while at other times within that period they are taxed to their utmost capacity to supply the demands of the peak of consumption. Any way out of that predicament would have a tendency to create better earning power and at the same time making possible some cheapening of "juice" to the consumer.

Engineers have been working on this problem for some time and it is claimed that the idea is by no means chimerical. The underlying idea is the trading of power between companies to the mutual advantages of those concerned in such a plan. The dream of engineers it seems, it to see a string of power companies from coast to coast, operating on the interchangeable basis by which lines could be linked and power transferred from one to the other as desired.

The scheme, however, need not necessarily wait for that time to come as there are still long stretches across Canada which would require to be linked up and this can only come as the territory becomes more thickly populated and the business of the vacant stretches makes the creation of additional power developments possible.

Through Transmission Lines

For instance, between Winnipeg and the head of the Great Lakes and the Prairie capital and the foothills of the Rockies there are long stretches yet to be brought to that stage of development which would warrant additional power companies. It is easy to see that a new development like the Manitoba Power Company, would be an invaluable link in a transcontinental chain when it comes to the time for reciprocal relations. There is the utmost confidence that this company will, when it is ready to produce power, find a ready market for the output of the initial installation capable of supplying 57,000 horse power, out of the 168,000 h.p. eventually contemplated. But a possibility such as outlined above offers something of interest for the future.

The possibility of such a scheme has been demonstrated by companies operating in the Province of Quebec. Shawinigan and Laurentide are producing electrical energy and "shipping" it over long transmission lines to Montreal and Quebec. The Southern Canada Power Company, with a large distributing system in the Eastern Townships, has co-operated with some of them at times in interchange of power. What has been done in the East can be done in the West when the time comes.

The Manitoba Power Company is at present financing its new plant which is to built under the auspices of the best Power brains of the country. Some initial work has already been done and next year will see it well advanced. The opportunity ahead of this company has been proved by careful investigation, to be an excellent one, the principal requirements to successful enterprise being all assembled and ready to be put to work.

Another Large Undertaking

Plans for providing the necessary capital have been carried out under the most favorable auspices and in bond market circles the forthcoming offering is regarded as one of the most attractive issues of the kind placed on the Canadian market for some years.

What American financial interests thought of the offering is indicated by the fact that leading houses in New York and Boston which took $3,000,000 of the $7,500,000 issue very soon reported that the block had been sold.

The Canadian bond market is reported by leading interests in the business to be practically bare of desirable issues. As there will be an attractive opportunity to buy some of the common shares at low prices the desirability of the warrants accompanying the bonds entitling the buyers to make the purchases will be an additional incentive to acquire an interest in this big enterprise with its boundless possibilities of future expansion and profitable operation.

ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION

E. Guss Porter, K.C., Will Continue to Represent West Hastings

IN PARLIAMENT

Declared Elected by Acclamation by Returning Officer.

A genuine surprise was in store for the electors who on Tuesday afternoon assembled at the Opera House at Trenton for the purpose of attending the nomination proceedings for the electoral district of West Hastings. Mr. Hugh Wiggins, returning officer was in charge and two nomination papers were presented to him, namely one for Mr. E. Guss Porter, K.C., the Government candidate and one for Mr. A. D. McIntosh the U.F.O. and Labor candidate. The following names appeared on Mr. Porter's paper:

J. A. Kerr, Belleville, C. W. Thompson, Rawdon, Jas. W. Haggerty, West Huntingdon; Jas. Patrick, Belleville; Clem H. Ketcheson, Sidney; S. H. Wright, Sidney; J. V. Jenkins, Belleville, W. A. Reid, Trenton; Wm. H. Nugent, Belleville; Capt. A. Hunter, Belleville, Ald. Ostrom, Belleville; Ald. Woodley, Belleville; Ald. Fisher, Belleville; Ald. Treverton, Belleville; S. Weese, Belleville; J. T. Clare, Belleville; F. O. Diamond, Belleville; S. M. Sprague, Belleville; C. A. Cronk, Belleville; H. F. Ketcheson, Belleville; H. B. Stock Belleville, J. S. McKeown, Belleville, J. Sargent, Sidney.

Mr. McIntosh's paper contained the following names:

R. N. Bird, Sidney; J. W. Galloway, Trenton; Chas. E. Rutter, Trenton, G. R. Mitt, Rawdon; J. A. Detlor, Sidney; B. C. Tucker, Rawdon; F. J. Knight, Sidney; S. W. Lloyd, Sidney; Jas. Westfall, Trenton; W. M. Brown, Trenton; W. H. Heath, Stirling; W. J. Detlor, Sidney; Ed. Montgomery, Rawdon; Chas. Sharpe, Rawdon; Ernest Carlisle, Sidney; J. L. Weaver, Sidney; W. M. Carlisle, Sidney; Geo. Nicholson, Sidney, Jas. A. Hinchcliffe, Sidney; S. M. Nicholson, Sidney; A. A. Patrick, Sidney; Percy D. McMullen, Rawdon; W. J. Richardson, Trenton; Ed. M. Patrick, Frankford; Florence M. McMullen, Rawdon.

Nomination Paper Rejected

The surprise came when the nomination paper of Mr. McIntosh was rejected by the Returning Officer as being improperly executed and not in accord with the requirements of the Election Act in that his acceptance of a nomination was not properly attested and sworn to as required.

As a result Mr. Wiggins declared Mr. Porter elected by acclamation, which statement was loudly acclaimed.

Public Meeting

A public meeting followed, presided over by Mr. L. Roenick of Trenton. Associated with him on the platform were Messrs. E. G. Porter, K.C., M.P., W. H. Ireland, M.P.P., R. J. Graham, H. F. Ketcheson, W. A. Reid, J. Sargent and others. Mr. McIntosh or any of his speakers were invited upon the platform, but the invitation was not accepted.

Member Elect

Mr. Porter was the first speaker and received a hearty reception. In his opening remarks, he stated that the election contest had taken an unusual course. He had expected until the last moment that he would have had Mr. McIntosh as an opponent but unfortunately such was not the case. He (the speaker) had not a word to say against Mr. McIntosh or his political aspirations. Each candidate was responsible for his nomination papers being correct and the returning officer in his judicial capacity had to see that they were proper according to law. Unless it was properly executed and attested to, he must declare it invalid. This election law was one made by the three political parties and it was unfortunate for Mr. McIntosh that he had not complied with the law. So far as he (the speaker) was concerned he was willing to have the paper properly made out but he had not the say. He had no fear of the contest or its result. Mr. Porter said there would be no contest here but he would speak upon the policy enunciated by Rt. Hon. A. Meighen. The Conservative party had been by the Liberal and U.F.O. parties accused of being insincere, but such was not the case. If there ever was a clear and unblemished record it was that of Sir Robert Borden's government, followed by the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen's govern-

BETROTHAL OF PRINCESS MARY

To Viscount Lascelles Approved by London Newspapers.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

LONDON, Nov. 23. — Morning newspapers express satisfaction with the bethrothal of the Princess Mary to Viscount Lascelles. It is emphasized that there would have been a general disappointment if she had married a member of foreign royalty. Her choice, says one newspaper, will suit the democratic and romantic instincts of the British people and modern views of monarchy.

NOMINATION MEETING IN EAST HASTINGS

Three Candidates in the Field—Speakers Heckled at Public Meeting.

East Hasting's nomination proceedings were, on Tuesday, held in the auditorium at Tweed village and many electors from the riding were in attendance. As was anticipated, three candidates were placed in the field, namely, T. H. Thompson, Conservative, J. V. Walsh, Liberal, and J. A. Caskey, U.F.O.

The public meeting held after the nominations had been made was presided over by Dr. Kindred, Reeve of the village. It proved to be a rather lively political gathering and the speakers at times were heckled to a considerable extent. Addresses were given by the candidates and by a representative of each party. Major Belfort, of Brighton, gave an excellent address on behalf of Mr. Thompson, and he dealt at some length on the returned soldiers' problem, giving credit to the Meighen Government for what it had done for the returned men and their dependents.

Mr. J. J. Morrison, Secretary of the U.F.O. organization spoke on behalf of Mr. Caskey, and he was heckled to such an extent by the returned soldiers that it was only through courtesy of the chairman that he was allowed to proceed with his address.

Jas. McGlade, barrister of Brockville spoke on behalf of Mr. Walsh. The latter had more criticisms to make of the U.F.O. party than of the Meighen Administration. The meeting closed with cheers for the King and candidates.

U. S. TO OPPOSE JAPAN AT TABLE

Some Plain Talk Likely to be Caused by Request of Japan.

STATEMENT ISSUED BY INDIAN LEADER

Gandhi Regrets Recent Disorders and Takes Blame for Instigating Revolt

BOMBAY, Nov. 21.—In the statement issued yesterday, Mahatmas Gandhi, leader of the "non-co-operationists," deprecating the disturbances which occurred on the occasion of the arrival in India of the Prince of Wales, declared that it was impossible to describe the agony he had suffered during "the past two days, whose events stink in my nostrils."

Gandhi said that "Mussulmans ought to be grateful to the Parisee Indians for the liberal contributions to the caliphate funds. Instead, he declared, the Parisees had been victims of attack.

In his statement Gaadhi invited both Hindus and Mussulmans to go home and repent and to implore God for forgiveness. He insisted that reparations should be made to those who had been injured.

Gandhi finally blamed himself for having instigated the spirit of revolt, and announced that he would refuse to eat or to drink anytihng but water until peace is restored.

WOULD NEUTRALIZE PACIFIC OCEAN

Australian Delegate to Arms Parley Voices That Opinion.

Washington, Nov. 22.—Neutralization of the Pacific was declared by Senator G. F. Pierce, Australian delegate to the Washington conference, to be the most important thing to be striven for as an effective means of assuring peace in the Far East.

Australia, he said, recognizing Japan's important part in the war as it affected the British Empire's Pacific interests, was not willing now to say to Japan "we derived great benefit from the alliance during the war, but now that we have used you, all we want to, will say 'good bye.'" He suggested, however, a tripartite understanding between Great Britain, Japan and the United States.

Japan in his opinion, Senator Pierce said, was in good faith voicing her desire at the Washington conference for a peaceful solution of Pacific and Far East problems. Success of the conference was vital for Australia because of her 12,000 miles of coastline, he said.

HUSBAND ARRESTED WIFE DROWNED

Carl Ahrens of Kitchener, Out on $40.000 Bail—Inquest to be Held.

Kitchener, Ont., Nov. 23.—As a sequel to the drowning of his wife in the Grand River last Thursday, Carl Ahrene of this city has been arrested and granted his liberty under bail of $40.000. An inquest will be held on Thursday. Mrs. Ahrens was drowned from a rowboat in which the couple were crossing the river to pay a visit in Chocopee where Ahrens had camped during the summer months. His wife had been spending some time at her former home in Carlcton Place. The reason given for failure to rescue her was that the river was frozen over.

FIVE WOMEN RUNNING FOR PARLIAMENT, THREE OF THEM FOR ONTARIO SEATS

Canada has five women candidates for Parliament, three in Ontario, one in Quebec and one in Manitoba. In Toronto Mrs. Hector Prenter has entered the lists as a Labor candidate against H. C. Hocken (government), and Colonel A. T. Hunter (soldier).

Mrs. Philip Kiely is running in East Toronto as a Liberal.

In Grey county Miss Agnes McPhail, a Crerar candidate, has set the heather afire.

In Quebec the sole woman candidate is Mrs. Rose Henderson, well known as a social worker who has entered the fight in St. Antoine division (Montreal), where Hon. C. C. Ballantyne and Herbert Marler are lined up as Conservative and Liberal candidates. Mrs. Henderson is running on the Labor ticket.

In Manitoba Mrs. John Dick has announced herself as an Independent candidate in Centre Winnipeg. The chief planks in her platform are better legislation for women and children, lower tariff and betterment of the returned soldiers' condition. Mrs. Dick was a candidate in the last provincial election and was eleventh in a field of 42, of whom ten were elected to the legislature.

630 CANDIDATES IN THE FIELD

Many Three-Cornered Contests for the Federal House.

ONE ACCLAMATION

West Hastings Only Constituency in Which Acclamation Occurred.

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—From noon until two o'clock this afternoon, nominations for 235 constituencies for the House of Commons. Evidence is ample that in every province there will be arduous fighting. In all the nine provinces, there is but one candidate elected acclamation—E. Guss Porter, Conservative candidate in West Hastings, Ontario, who has represented the constituency since he was first elected at a by-election in 1901. Candidates elected to the last Parliament by acclamation numbered no less than twenty.

Today the two older parties ran closely in the number of candidates nominated. In the Dominion as a whole, the Government has 211 candidates nominated and the Liberals 202. The Progressives who, at the outset of the campaign, announced their intention of running around 130 candidates, actually nominated 144. Labor and Independent candidates numbered no less than 74. Five women candidates were nominated—three in Ontario, one in Montreal and one in Winnipeg. They represent varying schools of thought. In Ontario one is running in Liberal, one in Labor and one in Progressive interests; in Winnipeg the lady candidate is running as an Independent; in Montreal, on the platform of the Labor party. There was no lady candidate nominated in Conservative interests.

CONTEST IN QUEBEC RIDINGS

In the Liberal stronghold of Quebec, there will be a contest in every constituency. In the 65 divisions, 51 Conservative candidates were nominated, 17 Progressives and 33 Labor and Independents. Liberals, as was expected, have a candidate in every division. In the great battleground of Ontario the three main parties—Conservative, Liberal and Progressive—are keenly fighting for control of the next House. In the 82 constituencies there were nominated 79 Conservatives, 61 Liberals and 70 Progressives. Again, in the Prairie Provinces, candidates of the three parties closely approximate in number. In British Columbia and the Maritime Provinces, as in Quebec, the Progressives fall behind the Conservative and Liberal parties in number of candidates nominated. In the 31 seats of the Maritime Provinces there were 28 Conservatives nominated, 30 Liberals, but only 14 Progressives; in the 13 seats of British Columbia 13 Conservatives, 11 Liberals and 7 Progressives.

Three-cornered fights will be the common order of things and no matter which party secures the advantage on December 6, the next House will be one with many old familiar faces missing, with many new to Parliamentary life to take their place.

Of the three main parties, the chief whip of only one was nominated—J. A. Robb, chief whip of the Liberals. W. S. Middlebro, who acted as chief government whip last season has retired. Levi Thompson, who was chief whip of the Progressives, was not renominated.

LAND ARMAMENTS

Washington, Nov. 23.—A delegation of five powers discussed land armaments to-day, but no definite declaration of policy resulted. None of the powers presented any proposal looking toward a concrete pronouncement supporting the French attitude toward army reduction as outlined to the full conference Monday by Premier Briand.

SINN FEIN OBJECT

London, Nov. 23.—The Sinn Fein strongly objects to any proposal which would leave Ulster out of the all-Ireland system, thus to-morrow, it appears, Lloyd George will have to inform Premier Craig of Ulster that the Sinn Fein will not concede this point.

WARDENS AND PRISONERS FIGHT

Galway, Nov. 23.—Forty political prisoners here rushed the warders today during a fire in the prison, seized the keys and barricaded themselves with six guards in another part of the building. In a fight afterwards, five police and five prisoners were injured.

13 KILLED, 50 WOUNDED

In Belfast Riots Monday and Tuesday— Scores Slightly Injured.

RIOTS BEGAN SUNDAY

Shooting, Bombing and Turmoil Approaching Civil War in Irish City.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, Nov. 23. — Thirteen were killed and more than fifty seriously wounded in Belfast riots Monday and Tuesday, with scores suffering from minor injuries.

Rioting which began in Belfast on Sunday culminated yesterday in a state of shooting, bombing and turmoil approaching civil war.

It is declared that the disorders were planned to coincide with the assumption of government by Ulster.

The blame is placed according to the sympathy of the respective newspapers, but while the bombing of a tram car appears to have been the work of Sinn Feiners, various accounts of the day's disorders suggest that aggression on the whole was reciprocal.

WON'T APPROVE 45 OR 60 CENTS RELIEF WAGE

Hon. Mr. Biggs Thinks Such a Rate Too High for Unemployed.

Toronto, Nov. 23.—The rate of wages to be paid common labor on works carried on to relieve unemployment this winter is giving a good deal of concern to the municipal, provincial and federal authorities. As the province and the dominion are to pay two-thirds of the excess cost of putting through works on a relief basis, they are vitally interested in getting down the rate of wages to be paid. The whole matter of relief unemployment is likely to be taken up by the Drury cabinet this afternoon when Hon. Mr. Mills will be heard as the acting minister of labor.

Hon. Mr. Biggs, the engineers of whose department have to pass on the reasonableness of the municipal estimates of cost, is most emphatic in saying that nothing like 45 cents or 60 cents an hour will be sanctioned as the rate of wages in country places. As to the possibility of Toronto paying such wages, the matter had not been brought to his attention and wound not be passed upon until the city's relief proposals were actually in hand.

"Hamilton's own proposition is that 40 cents shall be the rate of wages to be paid there." Mr. Biggs observed. "We may strike upon a uniform rate for general application, but at the best it can only be as a basis. Each municipality's proposals will have to be considered on their merits. But there will be no 45 or 60 cents stuff."

In some quarters it is being urged that the province should learn the extent to which it may be called upon to assist the unemployed by calling together the mayors of the principal municipalities and hearing at first hand what the towns and cities propose to do. At such a conference it might be possible to standardize the wages to be paid under certain conditions.

While Toronto's proposals have not been definitely placed before the province, the works that may be gone on with, including those by the Transportation Commission, would require an expenditure of fifteen million dollars.

CURFEW AGAIN IN BELFAST

Belfast, Nov. 23.—As a result of a vendetta against saloon keepers many saloons in the east end have closed. Nine o'clock curfew was ordered imposed in affected area in the east end to-day and the riot centre, including north Queen Street, York Street and Dock areas. The police and military are at the disposal of the Ulster government.

SEVEN BY-ELECTIONS DEC. 22

Quebec, Nov. 23.—The date of seven by-election in this province has been fixed for December 22.

MEIGHEN SCORES LIBERAL CHIEF

Calls Him to Account for Treatment of G. T. R. Strikers.

Premier Meighen, at Regina, retorted with vigor upon Hon. Mackenzie King, who sought to claim credit in Moose Jaw for his part in the settlement of the strike of Grand Trunk empolyees in 1910, and to suggest that the present government had been in some way negligent of interests of men not reinstated promptly after the dispute was over. The Prime Minister asserted that Mr. King had retained in his possession after he ceased to be Minister of Labor a letter in which the late President C. M. Hayes, of the Grand Trunk Company, undertook that the strikers should all be reinstated in their positions within three months of the termination of the strike.

"Mr. King claimed," said the Premier, "to have secured an agreement whereby the men were to have been taken back in three months with the assistance of that long-standing political bed-fellow, James Murdock. Well, he produced a letter to that effect a year or so ago, some eight or nine years after it was obtained. But agreements that are not enforced are not very much good. What really counts is what is effective, not what is written down. And the fact is, that promise of Mr. Hayes to put the men back in three months lay in cold storage, unmolested, even unknown, for years while the men stayed. For the first year or more after it was taken, the Grand Trunk Railway Company came back again and again asking legislation, and Parliament, of which Mr. King was a member, passed that legislation. So the men stayed out until the Laurier Govenment went out, a year and a half after the agreement was obtained, and a year after the three months mentioned in the agreement was exhausted. Another Government came in and the Minister of Labor of that Government declared that the Grand Trunk must put the men back in reasonable time. Mind you, that was the promise that was published. The promise that was not published was that the reasonable time was three months.

Had to Keep Promise.

"Hon. Thos. Crothers told the Grand Trunk that they must keep their promise and that they could not get any legislation through the House of Commons until they did. And they did, and that is why, and that is when they did it, and not before.

"Not until some years afterward did we know" continued Mr. Meighen "that Mr. King had somewhere in his pockets a promise that the reasonable time stipulated should be three months. When legislation providing for valuation by a board of arbitraiton of the Grand Trunk stocks to be acquired by the Government was before Parliament, Mr. King moved that amount owed by company to the men should be deducted from the stock value. Why should we refer anything to arbitration if we decided in advance what the liabilities are? It was a mere vote-catching resolution. After the Grand Trunk stock was found to be valueless, there was nothing from which to deduct the liability. Therefore, all Mr. King did was a futility without result, without help to the men whatever. What is more, the men on the system know it. They know the close relationships and mutual political hopes that have long been fostered between Mr. King and Mr. Murdock, and perhaps they have some idea of the mutual promises which account for their keeping company in this campaign.

Y.M.C.A. DRIVE UNDER WAY

Campaign to Raise $5,000 and Secure 300 New Members.

SUCCESS IS CERTAIN

Preliminary Canvass Very Successful—Off to a Good Start.

Since the establishment of the Y.M.C.A. in Belleville thirty years ago the citizens have invested the sum of $165,000 in this work for the good of the community and the betterment of boy life. The actual present investment in building and plans for the Y.M.C.A. work could not be replaced for $75,000. These facts were given to a large gathering in the Y.M.C.A. building Tuesday evening by Mr. D. V. Sinclair in a brief and graphic outline of the work of the Y.M.C.A. in Belleville, its importance to the citizens and the present financial needs of the institution. Mr. Sinclair has been actively identified with the Y.M.C.A. since its inception in Belleville and has always been a tower of strength in the work. He pointed out the necessity as a business proposition as well as from other standpoints of protecting this large investment in a long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether in the drive now going on to raise the sum of five thousand dollars to meet obligations and provide for a vigorous program of expansion. The price of a membership ticket in the Y.M.C.A. does not begin to pay for the value given the members and it is necessary in this drive to secure additional members as well as the money objective, so that the plant and building can be used to capacity.

Mr. Sinclair paid a deserved tribute to that great Y.M.C.A. worker, Dr. John Mott, who had spread the Y.M.C.A. idea in every country under the sun with uplifting results, and who while a student at Albert College thirty years ago had been instrumental in starting the Y.M.C.A. work in Belleville.

The Y.M.C.A. is the one institution in Belleville which opens its doors to all movements tending to promote the best interests of the city, and it is a genuine community centre, with an influence for good upon the business life, home life and individuality of the citizens. Belleville Y.M.C.A. was also the first to take in the girls as members and they were taking full advantage of the opportunities for physical culture and general advancement provided by the Y.M.C.A. Some day it will be possible to start a Young Women's Christian Association, but in the meantime the girls find a welcome in the Belleville Y.M.C.A.

That the drive will be successful was evidenced by the large and enthusiastic attendance of big and little boys, big and little girls and business men, all anxious to take part in the campaign.

H. W. Ackerman occupied the chair and gave the call to service in a short and sharp summary of what was needed and what had been accomplished thus far in the preliminary canvas for larger amounts by Mr. Sinclair and himself. They had been given a very cordial reception everywhere and had more than reached their objective of $2,500.

Mr. Read, the organizer, gave a brief address, stating that three hundred new members were needed, as well as the money objective, and outlined plans of efficient canvassing and the points to be awarded to the various teams.

The Ladies Auxilliary of the Y.M.C.A. served a very appetizing lunch and the high school boys and girls made the welkin ring with their school yells.

An effective organization was perfected for the drive and a liberal response is confidently expected.

Captains selected for the various teams are as follows:

Subscriptions—R. B. Wiseman, D. V. Sinclair.

Members—Messrs. Brockel, License and Keeber.

Boys' Team—C. Jeffries, Bob Miles and Les. Allen.

Girls' Team captained by Miss Merry of the High School staff.

The United States is reported to be sending a steamer to an Asia Minor port.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 1248, or write The Intelligencer.

CRUELTY TO HORSES

J.F.—At a rather early hour Tuesday morning I saw a breach of the Humane Society Act committed. Two teamsters were racing up Murney street hill with their heavy carts and pounding horses. Surely these men have a heart, but probably they have no brains.

GIGGLING AUDIENCES

X.V.C.—It always sounds priggish to assume that one is more intelligent than one's neighbors, but there are times when one feels that other people have shown a lack of intelligence that it cannot be egotistic to criticize. On the Saturday night of the triple bill at Hart House, Toronto, I went to see "A Night at an Inn." I had already seen it twice in the United States and I wanted to see it in my own country. I have never seen the play better done, but I have never sat in an audience that behaved more stupidly. In a play that aims to creat atmosphere there must be some co-operation between the players and the audience. Lord Dunsany wrote a play in which you had to feel the terror that comes from being in the presence of the supernatural. In the States the audience sat tense, and the effect was electrical. I never received such a thrill in the theatre, and I am a fairly hardened playgoer. In the Hart House Theatre it sounded to me as though all the flappers in Toronto were holding a giggling party. I felt sorry for the actors who were doing so well and who had to play against a gale of snickers. I know it was not the fault of the play because I have seen it done less well and yet create the proper mood. I blush for the theatregoers of Toronto. Surely it was time for us to establish an art heatre. Our audiences seem to think of all shows in the terms of Harold Lloyd or Harry Lauder.

BAY BRIDGE CROSSING

N.P.—I see where there is a possibility of the watchmen being taken off the Bay Bridge Railway Crossing and mechanical devices substituted. This proposed change should be fought to the last ditch. Often there is a long freight train, east-bound, standing on the bridge with the end of the train across the Bay Bridge crossing. A passenger train leaves the depot west bound and the freight train gets in motion. All this time the mechanical warnings would be in operation, but any vehicles waiting to pass would start no doubt when the freight had pulled clear of the crossing—just in time to be mowed down by the west-bound express. A flagman would prevnt the possibility of such a calamity and, as a matter of fact, have prevented just such accidents many a time at the Bay Bridge Crossing. What we have we should hold and the civic authorities should fight this proposition to a finish lest the wigwags are also placed at Front and Pinnacle street crossings instead of watchmen.

CHAPLIN MAKES "THE KID" TO SHOW HE CAN SUSTAIN HUMOR THROUGH SIX REELS

"The Kid" Associated First National's six reels of joy, is the feature attraction at Griffin's for two days only, Tomorrow night, and three performances Saturday. A morning matinee at 10 a.m. usual matinee at 2.30 and evening performance at 8 p.m. It is more Charlie Chaplin than has ever been put into one picture before, for, in addition to being six full reels in length, the story was written by the comedian himself. He directed it himself and plays the leading role.

Jackie Coogan, one of the greatest finds ever made in the search for boys with real acting ability, plays the title role. His work was so pleasing to the comedian that before the production was over he was universally known among the film colony on the coast where the picture was made as "Charlie, Junior," a name which Chaplin gave him himself. Edna Purviance, whose beauty and general acting ability made her such a splendid leading lady for Chaplin in previous productions, has the leading feminine role. Other selected attractions will be exhibited on the same program.

"JUST SUPPOSE" PLAYED TWO WEEKS IN TORONTO

When Edward H. Robins production of the internationally famous comedy romance based on the recent visit of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, "Just Suppose" visits Belleville for one night at Griffin's Theatre on Friday November 25 the theatrical treat of the season will be offered. No prettier story has ever been given to the stage than that of the impossible love between the young Prince of Wales and the pretty little Southern girl, Linda Lee.

No finer company of artistes have ever been offered local theatre patrons than the preesnting company that Mr. Robins is bringing with him. Each and every member of the company has been selected, one might almost say "hand picked" for the different roles they are cast for. In the role of the young Prince will be seen Graham Velsey the young English leading man brought to this country just to play this one part. As his chum, Bubbles, Norman Cope, understudy of Sir Jim Martin Harvey, will be seen, the British Ambassador to Washington will be in the capable hands of Walter Howen, who came to Canada first with Sir Henry Irving. Then there is Murray Bennet who will be seen as the young Southern lad and Katheen Wallace so well and favorable known to both the dramatic stage and the motion picture screen as the little Southern girl. Mrs. Julia Hurley, America's oldest actress will be seen as the grandmother, Thomas McKnight, Walter Ainslie, Harry P. Young, round out a company of excellent merit.

THE COLLEGE GIRL

As the time draws near for the opening performance of the local production of "The College Girl," the large caste and chorus are on their toes to put it over superior to any of its predecessors. Those who have been fortunate enough to view the rehearsals are unanimous in this verdict, better than "The Winning Girl" which is some credit. The local artists are in fine fettle, Mrs. A. P. Allen's voice being in particularly good form, Misses Ponton and Dickens and the other ladies have been untiring in their efforts to become letter perfect, and with entire success.

Belleville's favorite comedian, J. L. R. "Bob" Gorman has the best part of his career and his performance will rock the house with roars of laughter. Fred Sprague and the director, W. L. Doyle have merth provoking character parts and J. M. Booth's fine baritone voice will be heard in excellently selected numbers. A newcomer in our local musical circles, Mr. Jack Williams will be heard for the first time and his delightful tenor voice will furnish a distinct treat for music lovers. His song and ballet with his talented wife will be one of the outstanding pleasures of the evening.

Mr. Harry Adaskin, the wonderful Russian violinist has been secured at great expense to give the proper instrumental setting to the feature numbers. His playing is said to be phenomenal.

SIR HENRY DRAYTON FOR WEST YORK

Finance Minister Endorsed by Conservatives at Weston.

Toronto, Nov. 21.—Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance in the Meighen Government, will contest West York. This was decided on Saturday afternoon at the Liberal-Conservative convention, held in Weston, following the retirement of A. J. Anderson, the nominee of the previous convention in Sir Henry's favor. No other name was brought before Saturday's convention but that of the Minister of Finance, the question voted upon being the clear-cut one of whether he should be accepted or not. There were a number of irreconcilables, as was shown by the fact that the vote was 316 for Sir Henry, with 246 dissentients, a majority in his favor of 70 votes in a total of 562.

FIRE IN BROCKVILLE STORE CAUSES SERIOUS DAMAGE

Brockville, Nov. 21.—Damage to the extent of several thousands of dollars was done when fire broke out this afternoon in the manufacturing department of the Royal Candy Store, on King Street. The upper portion of the building was gutted, and in the stores below havoc was wrought in the stocks by water and smoke. The heaviest loser is M. Lyrotakis, proprietor of the candy store, who carried some insurance.

FOOD FOR THOSE WHO HAVE MONEY

Numerical and Geographical Extent of Famine Cannot be given.

Samara, On The Volga, Nov. 21.—(By Staff Correspondent of The Associated Press).—The numerical and geographical extent of the great famine cannot be given. There is today and has been as much food available in Samara, for those who have money, as in Baku, on the Caspian Sea, 2,000 miles distant. The Russian refugees from Bolshevism in Constantinople are suffering from hunger and lack of clothes almost as much as those Russians in Poltava and they in their turn as much as those in Orenburg.

The Associated Press correspondent completed a journey from Constantinople to Moscow by way of Tiflis, Baku, Astrakhan and Samara, everywhere found intense misery, the most sordid of which was seen in the dreary steppe region between Tiflis (Georgia) and Baku (port of Azerbaijan on the Caspian Sea).

Trail of Destruction

There revolution after revolution, for five years, has left a trail of destruction and ruined houses and wrecked railway stations which cannot be matched in Russia. Added to the lack of food, is the constant battle with malaria, cholera, and typhus, and added to these is the cold against which there is little shelter or fuel.

No more pathetic sight was seen than that of the Baku central railway station where thousands of men, women and children, going nobody could say where, were camped on dirty sidings, for the most part dressed in rags and eating scraps of food like hunted animals.

To the north, along the Volga in Russia, the misery is often of the respectable, cleanly kind. At Czaritzyn thousands of families are living in railway cars. Others have been housed in villas and palaces.

Begging is rather the exception than the rule everywhere in the famine regions.

"UNDER CRIMSON SKIES" AT GRIFFIN'S TONIGHT

At Griffin's theatre last night Belleville theatregoers enjoyed their first view of "Under Crimson Skies," the Universal-Jewel feature of which so much had been heard, and it is only fair to say that in spite of the high anticipations of the audience no one was disappointed.

Elmo Lincoln, the physical marvel of the screen, who gained prominence by his portrayal of "Tarzan of the Apes" has the leading role in "Under Crimson Skies"—the part of the captain of a tramp schooner plying the southern seas. The story affords some wonderful opportunities for marine scenes, all of which have been taken advantage of by the director Rex Ingram, and his cameraman. The view of a crew reefing said during a terrific storm at sea is one of the most effective scenes thrown on a screen in some time.

Paramount Magazine, Screen Snapshots, a Drew comedy, and Vanishing Trails serial were also exhibited. This entire program is being repeated again to-night for the last time.

Transportation and Your Safety

CAR SHORTAGES have already developed at many of the coal mines of the United States. Without cars to load, the mines cannot produce; without production of coal, the welfare of the public cannot be conserved.

So far the shortages have not been serious in proportions, but with cold weather arriving, it can be expected that they will increase and may materially hinder the movement of coal.

Safety to your family can be secured by immediately stocking your coal. Coal prices will not decrease, and they may advance, if a transportation emergency arises.

WINNER OF DOG DERBY DROWNED WITH TEAM

Met Death While on Way for Fish, for Dogs, in Moose Lake.

The Pas, Man., Nov. 22.—Walter Goyne, winner of the 1920 dog derby, and known as the "Going Kid Alaska," was drowned in Moose Lake, 80 miles from The Pas, on November 13, it became known here. On that date, Goyne set out from the Dupus trading station post, at Moose Lake, for a fishing camp 26 miles distant, for the purpose of securing fish for his dogs. He was driving nine dogs attached to a heavy racing sleigh, and was followed by eleven pups.

A couple of days later the eleven pups returned to Dupas, and the people there became apprehensive. Goyne's tracks were followed for 18 miles, where they disappeared, the general belief being that he encountered thin ice at that point and went with dogs and sleigh, weighing 100 pounds, thru the ice.

Goyne had a number of dogs at Moose Lake, which he was preparing for the next dog derby, to be held February 28, over a 200-mile course, for a purse of $2,500. He was engaged in hauling fish for T. Dupas, and getting his dogs in racing trim. He won the 1920 dog race in easy style, introducing new methods of harnessing, and the Alaskan sleigh, as against the local carrigle. He had previously done considerable racing in Alaska, and was a cripple on account of his feet having been frozen, necessitating his riding all the way behind his dogs.

JOHN T. LOFTUS, LAWYER, SENTENCED TO FIVE YEARS

Toronto, Nov. 23.—John T. Loftus, lawyer, convicted in the county judge's criminal court of the theft of a client's money and also of misappropriating the money of another client, was sentenced to five years at Kingston penitentiary by Judge Coatsworth. Loftus entered a plea of guilty to indictments in 1920. Judge Coatsworth said he could not hear evidence of the prisoner as to why he had entered a plea of guilty. A total of slightly over $5,000 was involved in the misdealings.

Appetite Good, Gained 20 lbs.
Could Not Feel Better

From a nervous wreck this man was restored to health, strength and happiness.

He tells his own story in this letter.

Mr. Ralph A. Roberts, Loverna, Sask., writes:

"In 1917 I had lost all appetite, failed 25 pounds in weight, become very nervous and shaky and in fact given up all hope of recovery. For some time I had suffered from constipation, which kept getting worse, until I was fast becoming a total wreck. Doctors and their drugs were sending me to my grave at the age of 39.

"Then I read about people being restored by Dr. Chase's Medicines and after three months' use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills I found that my bowels were restored to normal movement each day and the constipation was no more. I had a good appetite, had gained 20 pounds and could not feel better. I shall always be grateful for these benefits."

A RETROGRESSIVE.

I talked to a plain old farmer man
As he sat by his own fireside;
I don't know just how the talk began,
But this is how he replied:
There's a great hub-bub and a great to-do
'Bout the wrongs of us farmer folk.
Well, maybe there's something behind it all,
For life was never a joke.
We're all led on by the chain of fate,
Like a cow behind a cart;
If we step right up things go fairly well,
If we don't—well, they fly apart.
And our necks —(what's likely to feel it most)
And the cart will still roll on.
For Freedom's been a misleading word
Since Adam first saw the dawn.
I can remember much better than you
When this was a free trade land,
And the word "Protection" was never heard,
Or just to be cursed and banned.
But A. T. Galt and old Sir John (Excuse me, they're dead so long
They probably mean no more to you
Than a snatch from some old-time song).
But they and others spoke out in words
That many believed was right,
And many a farmer, take my word,
Was with them in that long fight,
Which, after all, was simply this:
Shall we all co-operate,
And, hand in hand, Canadians all,
Build a noble and balanced state?
We pledged our word, and we gave our bond,
Farmers and townsmen, too;
We went to work with plow and lathe,
And I'm proud of our land, ain't you?
I went to market one day last month,
And the town was blocked with cars,
I thought: Is this where we farmers live,
Or is it a town in Mars?
I looked and I sa wthat they nearly all
Were built on Canadian soil,
And owned by men who had cashed it down,
Through honest respected toil.
And I thought again, what a land we have,
God keep us from strut and boast;
If we keep our nerves and heads and hearts
It will shine from coast to coast.
You may think, my boy, that I'm somewhat dull,
But this is the way I see:
The party and faith of old Sir John,
Well—it's good enough for me.

KENTUCKY GIRL WRITES LETTER

How She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sunnyside, Ky.—"I suffered for more than two years with my back and nervousness, and was not able to help my mother do the housework. I took treatment from two doctors and they did not do me any good. Mother saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the paper and I took about ten bottles. It has done me a great deal of good. I weigh 138 pounds and am in good health. I will gladly recommend Vegetable Compound to anyone who suffers with the troubles which I had, and you are welcome to publish my testimonial."—VELMER HENDRICK, Route 1, Sunnyside, Ky.

To many American girls life is often a heavy drag in consequence of illness, and every mother should heed the first manifestations, such as cramps, backaches, headaches and nervousness as Mrs. Hendrick did for her daughter, and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. For over forty years this old fashioned root and herb medicine has been relieving women of just such troubles.

CANADA WHEAT PRODUCTION SECOND

Canadian National Railways Move 41,320 Cars of Wheat.

Canada is now the second wheat producing country in the world according to 1921 statistics. We produce about half as much wheat as the United States, but they, it must be remembered, have ten inhabitants to our one. Russia, at one time an important factor in this fundamental industry, has apparently fallen by the wayside, for she does not appear in the 1921 list. The C.N.R. has carried this season, September 1st to November 13th, 41320 cars or approximately nine and three-quarter million bushels. For the similar period in 1920, the number of cars handled was 21,858.

WOULD MAKE GREAT CITY

If the 55,000 employes of the C.N.R. were domiciled in one spot, instead of being spread from one end of the country to the other, they would constitute a city larger than Hamilton, Calgary, or Halifax. For it must be remembered that it is not only the people who actually work for the C.N.R. that are sustained by it, but their wives and families. This tremendous body of workers are actuated but by one motive, to make the C.N.R. the most successful publicity owned enterprise in the world, to run it as purely a business enterprise, divorced entirely from politics.

CAPTURING A NEW MARKET

Canada's flour is the standard of the world. This is pretty generally admitted. The writer knows one citizen of the United States who, on every visit he makes to Canada, carries home under strict instructions from his wife, a number of loaves of bread, she claiming that no bread obtainable in the United States can approach that made from Canadian flour. As an instance of the increasing popularity of Canadian flour, it is interesting to note that Dr. A. H. Stafford, born in Winnipeg, but for some time past domiciled in Jamaica, recently said that until the steamships "Canadian Forester" and "Canadian Fisher" of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine Service came into Kingston last spring, every pound of flour used on the Island came from the United States. Now it all comes from Canada. This very valuable market for Canadian products has been captured by three ways, Dr. Stafford affirms. First, the fact that Canada had ships to deliver it there; second, the quality of the flour itself; and third, the fact that the people of Jamaica desire closer commercial and social relations with the people of Canada.

NO REAL DEMAND FOR ELECTION CONTEST IN WEST HASTINGS.

E. Guss Porter, K.C., who has well and ably represented the constituency of West Hastings in the Dominion Parliament for upwards of twenty years, will continue to represent this constituency as the result of the nomination proceedings in Trenton on Tuesday, when he was declared elected by acclamation. The law prescribes certain forms which must be complied with by candidates in election contests and nomination papers must be filed with the returning officer at a time specified and advertised, and the papers must be regularly made out and signed as provided for in the Act. The returning officer is charged with insisting that the law be complied with and has no authority to accept any but properly made out nomination papers.

The nomination paper of Mr. Porter was found to be properly made out and complying with the law in every particular, but the nomination paper of the opposition candidate, Mr. McIntosh, was found to be defective and irregular, hence Returning Officer Wiggins refused to accept it. Beyond asking what the objections were to his nomination paper Mr. McIntosh seems to have made no particular protest nor seemed to be particularly perturbed by the event. When informed that his nomination paper was irregular and could not be accepted he left the hall and did not return for the public speaking which occurred later, although his name was called and an opportunity given for him to address the electors present should he so desire.

The belief is generally held that the opposition candidate does not feel greatly aggrieved that his nomination paper was rejected, rather he may be feeling greatly relieved at being so gently and expeditiously removed from a contest which was hopeless for him from the start. His candidature did not arouse any enthusiasm and his support was to all appearance so weak as to be hardly noticeable in the campaign thus far. That his financial support was almost nil is generally understood and Mr. McIntosh can not be blamed if he does feel greatly relieved to be out of a contest which promised nothing but regret and useless expense to him.

That E. Guss Porter, K.C., after more than twenty years faithful service to the electors of West Hastings as their representative in Parliament, should be able to continue in that capacity without a contest is gratifying to his friends, and no doubt to the vast majority of electors of the constituency who could see no reason for changing their allegiance to Mr. Porter or their party clothes.

Canada is in danger now as never before from faddists and theorists who would jeopardize the future prosperity of the nation by trying out impracticable innovations, whether by tinkering with the tariff or by sudden or gradual free trade. This is a very real danger, for with the province of Quebec seemingly intent upon an ignoble revenge on account of the application to that province of Canada's war policy and returning a solid "bloc" of large proportions against the government, and the grain growers party from the west sending another large group there is a possibility of an unholy alliance of reactionaries seizing the ship of state after the election and making the tried and true, careful and skilful navigator, Captain Meighen, walk the plank, while they crowd on every stitch of canvas and try to run without proper ballast or care for the breakers ahead.

That E. Guss Porter, K.C., is elected by acclamation means that he can go to the assistance of his captain, the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, who is fighting such a splendid battle for all that is good and right and safe and sane for Canada, the chief who is carrying one gospel of greater Canadianism from coast to coast, the same message everywhere, given in truth and candor, shaming the forked tongues of his detractors.

Mackenzie King is but a shadow, the real leader being groomed in Quebec against the time when the sacrifice will be completed and the boy leader has been immolated upon the altar of North York. Crerar is a dreamer, a good farmer spoiled in the political pot, and by his own admissions such a poor business man that the Grain Growers Association, of which he is president, had to write off an appalling loss from their operations, and ever since he has been fighting against Government investigations into the methods of his company.

Meighen is the man for Canada and the only one at this juncture capable of keeping this young nation from the rocks which threaten if the Canadian people are so lacking in perception as to let their votes scatter to such an extent that group government will be possible at Ottawa.

Congratulations to E. Guss Porter, K.C., and may he continue to represent West Hastings until the end of the chapter.

THE RESULT OF THE COAL STRIKE

London Morning Post

The hope of the unemployed resides in themselves, and in no other people under Heaven. So long as they allow themselves to be duped by their own leaders they will sink lower and lower. The civil war which the revolutionaries announce would but drag the rest of the community into the general catastrophe. When they understand that hard work alone can save them their lot will begin to mend from that hour. There is no lack of customers for their goods. It is a question of price, and, therefore, a question both of wages and the amount of production obtained for those wages. At present the whole of the manufacturing industry is waiting for cheap coal. The pits in South Wales are idle because the men will not work for economic wages. The total cessation of production during the coal strike has done more harm to the country industrially than the war. The miners have gained from the strike—unemployment.

THE DOMINIONS AND THE PACIFIC

London Daily Express

Few people realize how difficult has been the inner course of our Pacific policy in the last few years. Canada and Australia both front that ocean, but their geographical positions explain a marked difference in their mental attitude. Although President Harding's administration has been bitterly hostile to Canada and has kept out the products of the Dominion from the U. S. A., on the question of the Pacific slope Canada must think with America. Many prominent Canadian statesmen believe that every battleship the United States builds is an extra protection to Canada. How different is Australia's position! It is shown by the inner history of Great Britain's decison not to terminate the Anglo-Japanese Treaty. The British Foreign Office, under tht conditions of the Treaty of Versailles, gave notice to the League of Nations to terminate the treaty. Canada approved, but Mr. Hughes speaking for Australia, made a vehement gesture of protest. So effective was his appeal that the Lord Chancellor was brought down to declare that a notice to the League of Nations was not a valid denunciation of the treaty, which, therefore, continues until it is really denounced.

Paradise now has many a knight,
Many a lordkin, many lords,
Glimmer or armour, dinted and bright,
The young knights have put on new swords.

Their wourds are rubies, glowing and deep,
Their scars amethyst—glorious scars.

Gravest knights that may sit in stall,
Kings and captains, a shinging train
But the little young knights are dearest of all.

Paradise now is the soldiers' land,
Their own country is shining sod,
Comrades all in a merry band;
And the young knights' laughter pleaseth God.

—Katharine Tynan.

Cut Both Ways

The teacher told an apparently stupid boy that when Mr. Lloyd George was the pupil's age he was at the top of the school.

"That example cuts both ways," was the boy's ready reply. "When Mr. Lloyd George was your age he was Prime Minister."

Could Use It

Young Migby had married contrary to his father's wishes. Meeting his son soon afterwards, the father said, angrily, "Well, young man, I have made my will and cut you off with a shilling."

"I am very sorry, father," said the youth. "You don't happen to have the shilling with you, do you?"—Tit-Bits.

The Cat Out Of The Bag

"Ah, Dick, my lad," remarked a man who was noted for an objectionable habit of sponging on his acquaintances—"father's upstairs, eh? Hope I haven't disturbed him at his dinner?"

"Oh, no," replied Dick, candidly, "we were just going to start when father saw you from the window and told mother not to have dinner till you had gone!"—Spare Moments.

Your dealer will give you a 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent if you present the coupon at any store named below.

Do this for your own sake—for your family's sake. Watch how your teeth improve. The delightful effects will very soon convince you what is best.

Every application of Pepsodent brings five distinct results. And modern authorities consider all of them essential.

Now a world method

In many countries Pepsodent is fast displacing old teeth cleaning methods. Dental authorities the world over endorse it. Careful people must adopt it sooner or later, for old methods are not right. With them, tooth troubles and discolorments have become almost universal. A change must come, and now is the time to start it.

Prettier Teeth Next Week

If you will now start this delightful test

This is to offer you a way to whiter teeth, cleaner, safer teeth. Such glistening teeth as millions now enjoy.

Any dealer named below will give you the means. Get it and watch the effects. See your teeth grow prettier—note how clean they feel.

Dentists everywhere advise this method. Millions of homes have adopted it. Try it this week, for your own sake. Learn what it means to you.

To remove the film

Your teeth are coated with a dingy film. It is viscous—you can feel it with your tongue. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. It clouds the teeth and causes most tooth troubles.

The ordinary tooth paste does not effectively combat it, so the tooth brush has left much of it intact. As a result, teeth lose their luster. And, despite all brushing, tooth troubles have been constantly increasing.

The film is what discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Many other serious troubles are also traced to them.

Science combats it

Dental science has long sought ways to combat that film. The ways have now been found. Able authorities have amply proved them. Leading dentists everywhere advise their daily use.

The methods are embodied in a new-day tooth paste—Pepsodent. It combats the film wherever it may linger. In this way it brings surprising results which one quickly sees. Over 5,000 new people daily are trying out this modern method.

Fights acids too

Pepsodent brings three other effects which authorities now desire.

It multiplies the salivary flow—Nature's great tooth-protecting agent. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise form acid.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's neutralizer for the acids which cause decay. Pepsin is also included.

Quick changes come

The user of Pepsodent quickly feels conspicuous changes. One cannot doubt the benefits it brings.

Perhaps men who smoke see the most conspicuous effects. Their films are tobacco-stained.

Women see them in prettier teeth, for most film-coats are dingy.

But Pepsodent is most important to the children. Their teeth seem most subject to these film and starch attacks. Dentists advise that children use Pepsodent from the time the first tooth appears.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch the other good effects, and read the reasons in the book we send.

This ten-day test will be a revelation. It may bring to your home a new era in teeth cleaning. And the benefits to you and yours may be life-long in extent. Cut out the coupon now. Present it today so you can start at once.

"Tinker Bob" Stories

by Carlysle H. Holcomb

MR. BEETLE AT THE DOOR

Before he knew it he was sound asleep and the King was too.

Tinker Bob and Silky, the Monkey, felt very tired after their journey to the Hunter's house, so the King suggested that they rest a bit in front of the Palace. This was easy for Tinker Bob to do, but a very difficult thing Silky. He never liked to rest in the daylight for he kept thinking that he would miss sometihng. He was so very tired though that before he knew it he was sound asleep and the King was too.

Along came Mr. Pinch Beetle and he couldn't get into the Palace. He had been away on a journey to visit Mr. Red Ant and his family, and was now returning to the Palace. Tinker Bob always let him live in a hole under the hearth in the Palace. He couldn't get in because Silky was in front of the door. "Well," said he to himself, "I'll have to get in pretty soon or that Jay Bird will come along here and catch me."

He had been carried away by Jerry once in his life and was nearly lost and he didn't want any more experience like that. Jerry was a peculiar fellow too. Sometimes he wouldn't pay any attention to Mr. Beetle and again he was on the lookout for him. I think it depended on how hungry Jerry was. If he wanted something to eat and wasn't able to get just what he wanted he would take a Beetle and call it good.

"I'll have to get into this Palace and I can't crawl over that Monkey for I will get lost in his hair. I can't crawl under him either. I will just have to wake him up and tell him to get out of the way then I'll have to wake the King from his sleep and tell him about it, and then I'll get in."

So Mr. Beetle crept up close to Silky's ear and made as much noise as he could by rubbing his legs together. He worked at that till he was tired and Silky never wiggled his ear. "Well, what shall I do. Surely that monkey can hear. I have made such a noise that I could hear nothing else myself. I know he isn't deaf. Well, I'll tickle his ear with a straw."

Mr. Beetle got a twig and tickled the ear of Silky, the Monkey. At first the monkey paid no attention to it, but when Mr. Beetle climbed up on his ear and thrust the twig as fast as he could into Silky's ear, he jumped and shook his head and knocked Mr. Beetle a sprawling on the ground. Well, this made Mr. Beetle angry and he gathered himself together and went to the ear of Mr. Silky and clamped his pinchers in as tight as he could. Well, I can tell you Silky woke up to stay awake. And he made such a fuss that Tinker Bob was awakened. But Mr. Pinch Beetle walked into the King's palace by the front door. He always worked on that princple where there is a will there is a way.

London, Nov. 21.—A new high record was made in the divorce court here to-day, when Lord Justice Sir Henry Duke made absolute 297 decrees nisi—the highest number in any single day in the courts in this country. The Authority of Years

For over 50 years Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has helped thousands of women, to better health, greater strength, brighter spirits, better looks. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, (in tablet or liquid form) helps women to retain their youthful looks because it removes the cause of most of the troubles peculiar to women. It is a non-alcoholic tonic—invigorating and health-restoring—which has been so successfully used by American and Canadian womanhood.

DACRE, ONT.—"I am more than pleased with Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I was run-down and so nervous that I could not even stay in the house alone in the daytime, and tried every kind of medicine I heard of, but got no result. One of my friends advised me to take 'Favorite Prescription'—said that it would cure me, and it did. After taking four bottles I felt like a new woman. It is also the very best medicine for a woman bringing up a family."—MRS. JOSEPH BEAUDRY, Route 2.

Efficient Housekeeping

BY Laura A. Kirkman

ONE WEEK'S MEALS FOR CHILDREN OVER THREE

The following menus for a week are suitable for children over three years of age. They are well balanced and delicious:

Sunday, Breakfast: Orange, hot cereal, poached egg on toast, glass of milk. Dinner, Chicken or Leg of Lamb, mashed potato, spinach, hot "Brown Betty" pudding with hard sauce. Supper, Hot Grapenuts Dish, apple sauce, glass of milk. (Recipe given below for this dish.)

Monday: Breakfast, hot cereal, muffins, stewed prunes, glass of milk (the stewed prunes being rich in protein, may take the place of an egg now and then.) Dinner, Cold left-over chicken or lamb, boiled potatoes, cauliflower, Steamed Date Pudding. Supper, Baked Hot Cornmeal Mush Cakes with maple sirup (to make these, boil cornmeal mush, pour it into cup-cake tins to cool and mold, then bake these molds till brown. This takes the place of fried cornmeal mush; for, fried foods are not good for children).

Tuesday: Breakfast, Pear, hot cereal, soft-boiled egg, milk. Dinner, Lamb chop, baked potato, canned peas creamed, gelatine dessert. Supper Boiled rice served with hot milk and sugar. Cookies.

Wednesday: Breakfast, Orange, hot cereal, toast with peanut butter, glass of milk (the peanut butter is also rich in protein and may take the place of an egg occasionally). Dinner, Vegetable Milk Chowder (simply boil potatoes, carrots and cabbage diced, in seasoned hot milk till tender, then thicken slightly with a little flour), bread and butter, prune whip. Supper Split pea soup, wholewheat bread and butter, cocoa, cookies.

Thursday: Breakfast, Hot cereal, poached egg on toast, glass of milk, apple. Dinner, Lamb chop, baked potato, squash, baked apple with topmil. Supper, Cornmeal mush with milk and sugar, preserves, muffins.

Friday: Breakfast, Hot cereal, stewed prunes, pop overs, glass of milk. Dinner, Baked fresh fish, boiled potatoes, creamed canned string beans, bread pudding. Supper, Cream cheese or peanut butter sandwiches, cocoa, preserves.

Saturday: Breakfast, Hot cereal, soft-boiled egg, jam on toast, glass of milk. Dinner, Beef loaf, sweet potatoes baked, beets, custard pudding. Supper, Baked rice and tomato dish, glass of milk, stewed sweetened raisins molded and served with mock whipped cream.

Of course the housekeeper-mother can make changes in this set of menus. For instance, if her child is very active and seems to need even more than these nourishing meals will give him, she may add soups to the dinners. If you have dinner at night and a lunch at noon, just change the menus about, naming the suppers "luncheon." These meals may be eaten by the entire family—grown people as well as children—with benefit.

The Grapenut Dish mentioned above, is made by adding 1 cup of uncooked grapenuts to a pudding dish in which you have put 1 quart of milk, ½ cup of sugar and a pinch of salt. An egg may be added if desired, but is not necessary to the deliciousness of the dish. Or less sugar may be added if it is desired to have it only slightly sweet. Bake this dish for an hour in a moderate oven and serve either hot or cold.

The Steamed Date Pudding recipe I will be glad to send to any reader upon receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tomorrow—The Housekeeper Who Dresses Sensible

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. Of Interest to Women

The straight one-piece sort of dress has by no means passed away in evening attire, and as the season advances Paris offers more and more of these simpler models.

Helen Hayes declares she will play Katherine the Shrew soon, and New York again hears of the possibility this season of "Othello," with the Barrymores, Ethel, John and Lionel.

While many of the sleeves are still long and lose and floppy, there has been a tendency to turn back to the little tighter sleeves that were so popular last season.

Paris says all skirts are fuller than they were last season, and longer, too, though not long enough to be in the least degree startling and in fact the change is so subtle that it is almost imperceptible.

The waistline is the place for decorative detail this season, the color on a sombre dress in the newer gowns being concentrated there, while on evening dresses are gay clusters of many colored flowers gathered in a thick bunch about the waist and streaming down the side or sides.

Miss Laura Halley, daughter of the president emeritus of Yale University who is learning the printing trade at the plan of the University Press, is a graduate of Vassar. She has rapidly progressed from setting type by hand to the linotype.

Vionnet's newest model is an apron drapery buttoned low down round the hip line over a long, straight slip, the aprons falling, not front and back, but on the sides, and belted with a wide strip of leather exactly like a dog's ruff.

Before chopping suet, flour it thoroughly.

Fish salad, if served with French dressing, will be improved by adding lemon juice.

If honey is kept tightly covered and in a dark place, it will not become sugary.

Fresh vegetables are very important in the winter diet.

Belts and girdles are features of importances on the newest frocks.

Girls are being trained for the "Hello" job in China for the first time.

The women of the various city churches are working hard for their annual sales, at which there will be some unusually fine needlework.

Lawn tennis has become very popular with the women and girls of China.

Over six hundred candidates nominated in 235 constituencies.

MANY MANITOBA FARMERS UNABLE TO PAY TAXES

Winnipeg, Nov. 22.—Definite plans to relieve unemployment in cities and to cope with the serious condition of farmers throughout the province will, it is expected, be laid before the Provincial Government here Thursday, by a delegation of Labor members, headed by F. J. Dixon, leader of the Labor group. Several of the Labor members residing in rural constituencies will deal with the problems facing the farmers and the need for financial assistance in order to permit them to carry on agricultural operations next year. "Scores of rural schools throughout Manitoba will be forced to close their doors this winter, due to inability of farmers to pay their taxes," M. J. Starbridge, M.P.P., said in an interview here today.

FELT LIKE AN IRON BAND AROUND HEAD

This is How Lynchburg, Va., Woman Declares Her Headaches Often Affected Her.

Everybody will read with interest the statement of Miss M. E. Woodford 1808 Filmore St., Lynchburg, Va., who says:

"I don't believe anybody ever suffered from headaches like I did. The pains felt like an iron band was being drawn around my head and my temples would throb until I was driven almost distracted. I shudder when I think of those awful headaches. I had no appetite either.

"I owe Tanlac an everlasting debt of gratitude for entirely ridding me of those terrible headaches. My stomach has been toned up too, and everything I eat agrees with me now. Tanlac certainly brought me health and happiness." Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store.

ment. He had hoped to have had Mr. McIntosh as his opponent. The U.F.O. policy meant eventually free trade in this country. The letters U.F.O. does not mean "Us For Ourselves" but "U Find Out". In speaking of the Labor Party Mr. Porter stated that for the 20 years he had been in Parliament he had always supported legislation that was for the benefit of labor. What does I.L.P. mean? It means "I Like Porter"—(Laughter). The Conservative party had been charged with sins of commission and sins of omission. One of the charges against the Meighen Government was extravagance and that it had piled up an enormous debt which the people must meet. This is true in the abstract, but it must be analyzed. It is a great debt, but how was it incurred? If it was honestly incurred then there was no fault to find with it.

In 1914 when the terrible war broke out in Europe, the debt was a mere bagatelle compared with our resources. The war cloud burst upon us and what did we do, like true, loyal Canadians, we said we will defend the flag and defend our honor. We promised our boys that we would back them up with the last dollar and the last man. Every dollar of the National debt was incurred to keep the promise made. Our opponents cannot place a finger on a cent that was misspent. Are we sorry that this debt exists. We are glad that we incurred that debt for our boys overseas. An enormous debt has been piled up owing to railway nationalization. Under the regime of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier those railways had been helped and the G.T.P. built. This was a mistake at the time, which was not seen. We have three transcontinental railways for a population of 708 millions, whilst the U.S. with its one hundred millions has only three transcontinental railways. The government of Canada has the reputation of discharging its debt. The credit of Canada would have been depreciated if it had allowed these railways to have gone in liquidation. What did the government do? It said we will assume the debt and bought in the common stock and nationalized those railways. The last year the railways under a commission has showed a surplus over the expenditure. This enormous debit is no doubt wearing upon the public, but we should not be despondent when we look at the possibilities of this great county. Canada will emerge with credit to herself and the countries of the world. If there ever was a time in Canada's history when it needed a bright mind to guide the ship of state, it was now, and that statesman is the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen. We must rely upon a protective policy. Mackenzie King is not in favor of protection. Crerar says that the Progressive policy will be to wipe out protection eventually. Is the country in a position that we can take a chance. Every nation in the world has put up a protective fence. Canada has her tariff walls, and it says to other countries that you must compete on even terms with out manufactures. We will not allow other countries to come in and flood our country with their products free of duty. If there is not a market for Canada's products where is the laborer to get employment. If we do not have protection it will drive the young men out of this country and there would be the greatest exodus ever seen in this country. The Canadians should follow the policy that has been profitable to Canada. Mr. King in one part of Canada declares one policy and in any other part of Canada declares another policy.

In concluding Mr. Porter said he would carry out the will of the people and he would hand back the mandate unsullied, and as clean as it had been handed to him.—(Loud cheers).

Legislative Member

Mr. W. H. Ireland, M.P.P. for West Hastings in his brief address, referred to Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen as a capable leader who was the same wherever he appeared in the Dominion. The speaker referred to the U.F.O. government at Toronto and showed it was not an economical government. There were over 500 more in the civil service to-day under the Drury government than under the Hearst Government. He also showed that it was extravagant in other respects. He was proud that Mr. Porter had been elected.

MR. GRAHAM

Mr. R. J. Graham received a cordial welcome, and in his opening remarks said it desired an explanation why he was supporting Mr. Porter. Four years ago he was an opponent of Mr. Porter. He felt it was his duty at this time to see that the Conservative party was united in this campaign. He was sorry that Mr. McIntosh's paper was not properly signed, but no one was to blame but Mr. McIntosh or his friends. The question might be asked why he (the speaker) was supporting the Meighen Government? It was because he was in favor of its policy. He had been approached to be a U.F.O. candidate and he said he could not be. He was a farmer as well as a manufacturer and he knew something of the farmer and labor problems. He was in sympathy with the Labor and Farmer organization. All business should be organized, but this was not the time for the U.F.O. to come before the country with such a policy as they present. This is no time to swap horses in the middle of the stream. He was thoroughly convinced that the country needs Meighen at the present time. He hoped at some future time to represent West Hastings in Parliament.

H. F. KETCHESON

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson said it was difficult what to say at this present time. Four years ago we voted in a Union Government and this government asks you to return that government to power. The speaker referred to the war and the suspense there was at one time in Canada as to the ultimate issue. We promised our boys when they went away that when they returned we would see that they were taken care of. The Meighen government has carried out the promises made, and it has cost a large sum. Gratuities and pensions mean a large expenditure. There was no man who did more for the returned man and his family than Mr. Porter. Never once did he make a charge for what he did. The tariff was spoken to by the speaker and he showed how protection was a benefit to the farmers. We had at Belleville and Trenton splendid home markets and it was a fact that annually $750,000 changes hands on the Belleville and the Trenton markets and there is no middle man. The factory is kept running by a protective tariff. We pride ourselves on responsible government, but we cannot have it by class governments. In Ontario the U.F.O. are in the majority as a government, but only by the aid of the Labor members can they carry on a government. Canada was in a good position to-day despite the fact that there are many unemployed, but in the U.S. the ratio of unemployed is 5 to 1 compared to Canada. To tear down the tariff wall would mean more unemployed. To-day hogs, butter and eggs are being imported in here free and the result is that it is a detriment and lower prices. A tariff on these products will give the farmer better prices. He was pleased that Mr. Porter had been elected and if there had been a contest he would have received a large majority.

The meeting closed with cheers for the King, Rt. Hon. Mr. Meighen and Mr. Porter, and the singing of the National Anthem.

BROKER HELD UP IN HIS OWN HOME

Wife Gives Alarm, Eluding the Gunmen in Early Morning Hours.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—Two armed men held up Melville Fulton, a young stock broker, in his home, 721 Dufferin street, at 9.30 this morning, tied him hand and foot to a chair in the kitchen and gagged him.

The men went through Mr. Fulton's pockets for cash but got nothing. They were scared when Mr. Fulton's wife ran out into the street for help. The men entered the house on a pretext to talk over a business deal with Mr. Fulton.

Mrs. Fulton, who was upstairs in bed, heard the commotion, and hurrying downstairs dodged one of the men standing in the hall way who attempted to seize her. She escaped to the street scantily attired and ran to Mr. John Fulton's home, Mr. Fulton's father, and told Mr. Fulton and Gus Simsers, who was in the house. Mr. Fulton ran to his son's home while Mr. Simser took a revolver with him and cartridges and finding a policeman on the street, went to the house—but the thugs had left.

HEARST TRYING TO KILL DOVE OF PEACE

Shameless Prussianism Chief Feature of the Campaign Against Conference.

Washington, Nov. 23.—The conference is still receiving a very favorable press support and the Hearst papers are almost alone in their crusade of criticism. But they conduct it with great ability and as their circulation is enormous, they must be reckoned with. The chief features of their campaign are a shameless Prussianism and a revival of the exploded doctrine that the best guarantee for peace is preparedness for war. Obviously, however, they are more concerned with discrediting the Harding administration than anything else.

Sir Robert Borden still evades the public stage and shuns oratory, but he is assiduously busy on committee work and if not fruitful in information is always accessible.

Group Domination
— A Menace
to the development of Canada and the unity of our people

THE original movement out of which the Crerar policy has developed, was set in motion by a group of grain traders in the West, headed by Wood, a Missourian, for the the sole purpose of controlling Western wheat. The main interest of both Crerar and Wood, is not the raising of, but the exploitation of wheat.

As selfish interests were the foundation of the movement, so in its development selfishness continued to be its chief characteristic.

In fact, so selfish and dangerous has Crerar's policy become that a number of the men who originally took a leading part in the movement, men highly respected in farming communities, such public-spirited and patriotic men as Clark, Fletcher, Henders, Ferguson and others, have withdrawn from Crerar's group and have repudiated his plans as a step towards national suicide.

Crerar advocates everything for the special benefit of his group without regard to the great majority of the people and with no thought for the welfare of the Dominion as a whole.

He is committed to his group to destroy every vestige of the Tariff and introduce Free Trade—which would surely destroy the industries of our towns and cities, throwing many thousands of Canadian men and women out of work and driving them to the United States for a livelihood.

Crerar's policy presents Group Domination in a most menacing form, and as Fletcher said:-

"We must stamp out this system as we would deal with a dreaded disease and we have a right to expect the assistance of all people who respect Canadian institutions."

Charles R. Veale, who was sent down from the Woodstock district some time ago to Portsmouth Penitentiary for five years for arson, was transferred to the London asylum for the insane, he having shown unmistakable signs of being mentally unbalanced as soon as he was brought to the big penal institution. ARAGON MAY BREAK UP

Unless the wind drops considerably the steamer Aragon which went ashore on Salmon Point, 60 miles west of Kingston, on Friday last, may break up. The gale of the week-end had pushed the vessel farther onto the shoal. The Donnelly Wrecking Co. has removed 4,000 bushels of corn from the steamer, but the wrecking vessels are handicapped by the high seas and have had to take shelter in a cove.

SILVER WEDDING

On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. William Vesterfelt, whose home is on Centre street, Thurlow Township, commemorated their silver wedding, having been married 25 years ago. A number of relatives and friends were present on the occasion and all were heartily welcomed. The silver gifts were numerous and in keeping with the occasion. Games, singing and dancing were indulged in after a bountiful repast had been partaken of. Before separating those present wished the couple happy returns and expressed the hope that they would be spared to enjoy many more years of wedded life. Mr. Vesterfelt is connected with the car department at the G. T. R. shops here.

At the village of Cannifton to-day a meeting of the ratepayers of that school section was held when the matter of consolidated schools was discussed by speakers who are versed in the subject.

NATIONAL UNITY.

That interest in Moira Encampment No. 59, I.O.O.F., is on the increase was clearly shown at their meeting on Tuesday evening by the large attendance of its members. Five candidates were advanced to the Golden Rule degree in a very efficient manner by the degree staff under P.C.P. S. A. Barkley. The usual monthly banquet and social was held at the close of the business. The orchestra of the Greene Music Co. were present and delighted all with their splendid playing; a duet by Messrs. E. Barragar and E. Stephens received well deserved praise. Patriarch Geo. E. Watkins was the chairman and with a few remarks proposed the toast of the Grand Encampment of Ontario, to which D.D.G.P. G. Way responded. P.G.P. R. H. Ketcheson proposed the toast of our visitors, and referred to the pleasure of the presence of the Rev. D. C. Ramsay and others. Rev. Mr. Ramsay gave the address of the evening and took as his subject "National Divisions and National Unity, taking as his text the map of Canada, pointing out the three natural divisions of our country, namely, that part west of the Rocky Mountains, Ontario and the eastern provinces, and the other section between the two. He then referred to the divisions among the various nationalities that go to make up the population of Canada. He referred to the splendid address given recently at Queen's University, Kingston, by Sir Lomer Gouin. Bro. Hanna gave a short address, including a quotation entitled "My Obligations to My City." Bro. C. E. Gillett, of Nikater Encampment, Toronto, expressed the thanks of the visitors for the welcome they had received. Brief addresses (some very brief) were given by the five candidates. A vote of thanks was passed to the orchestra and Mr. Cherry suitably acknowledged. "God Save the King" brought a very enjoyable evening to a close. The next event in Encampment circles is a visit to Stirling on Dec. 2, when the Patriarchal degree will be conferred on a number of candidates by the Moira degree staff.

Vanity and Glasses

The wearing of glasses is one of the best preservers of a youthful appearance. This is because prolonged eyestrain causes wrinkles to appear prematurely and gives the countenance a strained, tired, anxious, drawn, cross look, which is very characteristic and far more to be avoided, from the viewpoint of appearance than the slight disfigurement of glasses. Indeed, so far from being unbecoming, there are some types of faces to which glasses just add the finishing touch.

We have every up to date style.

DAMAGE ACTION

A case of considerable interest was commenced this morning at the non-jury sittings of the High Court presided over by the Hon. Sir. Wm. Mulock. Rev. Dr. Cleaver, Pastor of Bridge Street Church brought action for unstated damages against the Standard Paving Company for injuries received owing it is alleged to negligence on the part of the paving company. It appears that during the construction of the pavement on Bridge street east, Dr. Cleaver was one day riding upon a bicycle when he was precipitated to the roadway owing to a hole in the road being covered by leaves. The Rev. gentleman sustained painful injuries from which he has not yet fully recovered. The hole in question it is alleged in the statement of claim was unprotected and this constituted negligence on the part of the company. Messrs. OFlynn, Diamond and OFlynn for the plantiff. Messrs. Porter Butler and Payne for the defendants.

LARGE AUDIENCE SEE THE COLONEL'S MAID

Pleasing Comedy at Christ Church Parish Hall Well Received.

"The Colonel's Maid," a comedy in three acts, was presented last night by the Christ Church Dramatic Club before a large and very appreciative audience. It was by far their most ambitious offering and great credit is due to Mrs. R. A. Backus for training and the artistic stage settings. The play was held in the Parish Hall.

Miss Minnie Diamond as Emmeline, Colonel Rudd's domineering sister-in-law, was excellent. Her rendering of this difficult role was very much enjoyed by the audience. Miss Olive Mann as the illusive Hanna Katzenjammer, the maid, was bright and vivacious and looked very pretty. She acted well as also did Mrs. Backus in the exacting role of the meek Julia. Her hesitation about making up her mind to elope was well portrayed in the last act.

Bob Rudd, Colonel Rudd's much abused son, was very well acted by Jack Diamond. He both looked and acted the part well and was especially good in the telephone scene. Ned Graydon was well acted by Bruce Bottum, who had the house in fits of laughter with his forgetful memory and original of goods for sale. Ching, the Chinese cook was largely responsible for the evening's mirth and was extremely well acted by George Turner. His pigtail, face and squeaky voice were all perfect. Geoffrey Field as Colonel Rudd was good and Harry King as Col. Byrd, his mortal enemy, was excellent. His outbursts of rage between his series of misfortunes kept the house in roars of laughter. Mr. Backus as Lawyer Baskom was good. It is a pity more was not seen of him. Mrs. Bruce Bottum proved an excellent prompter.

Smith delivered an historical address on Friendship Chapter No. 6, which was the first chapter in Belleville. Several present gave addresses, including Grand Master Col. Ponton. Instrumental music was furnished for the occasion by Eureka Lodge orchestra.

The Golden Triangle.

A very interesting feature of the evening was the exhibition of the famous Travelling Triangle which was shown by the Past Grand Z and Grand Master, Col. W. N. Ponton. This beautiful emblem has been on tour for nine years and has circled the globe and visited Masonic Chapters in every country as a message of fraternity and friendship from Canadian Chapter Masonry through St. Patrick's Chapter, R.A.M., Toronto. This emblem is made of gold from Madoc district, and was fashioned by Canadian artificers and master workmen, and so beautifully wrought and embellished that its journey about the world has been a triumphal procession of admiration. The Golden Triangle is accompanied by a book in which each Chapter, on beautifully engrossed pages, records its arrival and departure.

WEST HASTINGS WILL HAVE AN ELECTION CONTEST

WOULD WIND UP U.F.O. COMPANY

Dr. Farewell Says Losses Impair Capital More than 25 Per Cent.

PUT POLITICS FIRST

J. J. Morrison and Directors Have Only a Nominal Investment.

Toronto, Nov. 24.—The third stage in the fight between the U.F.O. Co-operative directors and Dr. A. E. Farewell, of Oshawa, over the management of the company's affairs, was reached yesterday when Foy, Knox, Monahan, Keogh and Middleton, barristers, served a petition, filed at Osgoode Hall, asking for a declaration that the company be wound up, that a temporary liquidator be appointed and that an order be made referring to J. A. C. Cameron, official referee, the appointment of a permanent liquidator.

The definite plea made in the petition is given under six headings as follows:

1. That it may be declared that the above company is a corporation to which the provisions of the "Winding Up Act" and amendments thereto are applicable.

2. A declaration that the company should be wound up under the provisions of the said Act and amendments thereto, and for an order directing the winding up of the company under the provisions of the "Winding Up Act," being Chapter 144, of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1906, and Amending Acts.

3. For an order appointing Mr. James P. Langley, of the City of Toronto, Provisional Liquidator, of the estate and effects of the company.

4. For an order referring to Mr. J. A. C. Cameron, Official Referee, the appointement of a permanent liquidator and empowering and directing the said J. A. C. Cameron to take all necessary steps and conferring upon him all the powers conferred on the court under the "Winding Up Act" and amendments thereto, for the winding up of the said company.

5. For an order that the costs of this petition and the order for winding up of the said reference to be taxed and paid out of the assets of the company.

6. And for such further and other order as the court may seem fit.

Dr. Farewell's Contentions

The facts of the matter, sworn to by Dr. Farewell, are presented under sixteen heads. The first four deal formally with the identity of the company and its capitalization, but the fifth declares that "the facts and circumstances relating to the subscription for and payment of stock" should be investigated. Dr. Farewell then proceeds to show that as a shareholder to the extent of $500 in the company he came to Toronto in November, 1921, and interviewed the president, A. A. Powers, with reference to certain information he had received. Mr. Powers, according to the petition, admitted that losses in the operations of the company during the present year might amount to $300,000, but he gave no definite information as to the manner in which these losses had occurred. An examination of the list of shareholders showed that the only capital stock held by the following named directors was:

A. A. Powers, the President, one share; Col. Fraser, Vice-President, one share; R. W. E. Burnaby, one share; on which 50 per cent. had been paid; Elmer Lick, director, five shares; Robert H. Ashton, director, ten shares, of which 50 per cent. was paid up; J. J. Morrison, Secretary-Treasurer, eight shares.

Dr. Farewell then refers to an interview with Mr. Morrison in which he told the secretary-treasurer of statements made by Mr. Lick, of Oshawa, to the effect that the loss in stores, operated by the company was $200,000 and that the loss in the egg and poultry department was between $30,000 and $40,000. The secretary, while admitting that losses had been made, was unable to give any definite information as to the amount.

"When your petitioner persisted in his demands for more information from which to form an opinion as to the condition of the company in his own interests as a shareholder and in the interest of all other share holders of the company, the company's solicitor was called in and threatened your petitioner with a writ for libel, and your petitioner was unable to get the information which, as a sharehold-

BRONTE VILLAGE IN DANGER

Saved from Destruction by Fire by Outside Firemen.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

Hamilton, Nov. 24.—General store of A. F. Pichard, Bronte, was completely destroyed by fire this morning. Nothing remains but the foundations. Starting at 5.45 and fanned by strong winds the flames gained such headway that residents feared the village would be destroyed and sent calls for Hamilton and Oakville fire apparatus, hastily placing their furniture on the streets. Both calls met prompt response and the efforts of the firemen were confined to saving the adjoining buildings.

64 PERSONS SUFFOCATED

Moplah Prisoners Confined in Railway Car Died from Suffocation.

TRAGEDY IN INDIA

Painting of Ventilation Panels Had Closed Mesh and Excluded Air.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

London, Nov. 24.—A Times despatch from Madras says the suffocation of sixty-four Moplah prisoners has created a profound sensation among the natives. Examination of the railway wagon, where the tragedy occurred, showed that ventilating panels had been recently painted, partially closing the mesh. The prisoners had been imprisoned for five hours without examination and when the conductor went to give them water many were dead and the remainder unconscious. There was evidence that the dying prisoners had bitten one another in their desperate fight for air.

MAKE BURDEN LEAST FOR LOW PAID MAN

G.T.R. Shop Trades Want Special Consideration for Certain Employees.

TORONTO, Nov. 24.—Instructions to their officers that in the wage negotiations which are to be opened in the near future which the Canadian Railway managements, they should take an especially strong stand in favor of special consideration for the lower paid employes, were given at yesterday's meeting at the Labor Temple of the Grand Trunk System Shop Trades Federation. The officers were instructed to oppose the wage reduction proposal in its entirety and, if unsuccessful in entirely maintaining this stand to exert every effort to see that any reduction put into effect, should bear at least heavily on the lower paid employes.

The meeting took exception to the alleged action of the managements of the Grand Trunk and Canadian National Systems in awarding contracts for the repair of 3,500 cars to private firms. The officers were instructed to do everything in their power to have this work done in the two railways' own shops as it would furnish employment for many shop employes who have been either out of work or working for the past year on reduced hours. The Grand Trunk federation's officers will co-operate with those of the National Lines in the matter.

The International Brotherhood of Clerks, Freight Handlers and Station Employes completed affiliation with the Federation yesterday, making seven organizations now affiliated and adding approximately 800 to the Federation's membership, representing the members of the Brotherhood employed on Canadian lines of the Grand Trunk. The Federation laws were amended to cover the new affiliated body.

KING IS READY TO CLIMB DOWN

On Fence on Railway Question and Will Descend on Either Side.

SERVICE IMPROVED

Meighen Discusses National Line—Urges Need of Protection.

Pembroke, Ont., Nov. 24.—"He is ready to climb down on either side of the fence," said Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, describing Hon. Mackenzie King's attitude toward Government ownership and operation of the National Railways to a huge audience here to-night. The Prime Minister devoted the greater part of his address to the electors of North Renfrew to an exposition of the railway situation in the Dominion and of his party's policy of moderate protection for Canadian industries, producers and workers. He noted that he was said to have lost the support of "the financial mandarines of the east," because he had accepted the policy of public ownership, not by talking but by approving of the acquisition by the Dominion of a great railway system. He expressed the opinion that the roads comprised in the National system were now giving the people better service than they ever gave before.

"Does any one know what the two wings of the Opposition intend to do with the National Railways?" the Premier asked.

"Mr. King says he will give them a fair trial. That means that after a while he will do as he pleases or as those around him please. That is, he is ready to climb down on either side of the fence. Now, where does Mr. King's support come from? Not from Ontario and not from the Western Provinces. His support in Parliament comes mainly from the Province of Quebec. And what are his followers in Quebec saying with respect to the National Railways? Where will Mr. King be in the hands of Sir Lomer Gouin, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Hon. Walter Mitchell and Mr. Lanctot? Some of them are proposing that we hand those roads to a private company right away. Another, after denouncing public ownership, calls for an investigation. Another denounces public ownership but says that before he abolishes it he would call in experts from other lands, that he would even sit down himself and help to work out a solution without deficits and satisfactory to the people.

"I am against what Mr. King is told by the majority of his supporters," Mr. Meighen proclaimed firmly. "I had something to do with bringing Canada to its present stage of the solution of the railway problem. I am not responsible for the problem itself. I am not responsible for the building of the National Transcontinental and Grand Trunk Pacific Railways twenty-five or thirty years before they were required or there was traffic for them. The problem arose from those blunders into which the country was led by the Liberal Government of the day. On the doorstep of this Government that problem was left. I do take responsibility for helping to direct as best I was able, the course we hace taken to lead the country out of the position into which it had fallen. Rather than see a railway monopoly in this country we took the steps we have taken, and now we have the great Canadian Northern gathering system in the West and the Grand Trunk gathering system in Eastern Canada. We have something which can be made a great railway system in this Dominion."

The Prime Minister told of the operating profit earned by the Canadian National system in August and September. He looked for a further profit in subsequent months. He admitted that the railways would not be able for some time to show a profit over operating costs and fixed charges as well. "But," he added, "we are in a position where we can ultimately overcome those fixed charges and, in the meantime we are giving this country good service. The one thing the country has to see done is to see that the roads have a business administration. Business administration they have to-day and business administration they are going to get as long as I have responsibility as head of the Government."

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Port Huron, Michigan, Nov. 24.—Mrs. D. Earle Minne and Mrs. Emslee Gerrie of Port Huron were drowned, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Henson narrowly escaped death when their automobiles crashed through the north draw of Black River bridge here today. The latter were rescued by the crew of the steamer Gunnel for which the draw was opened. The Henson car skidded on the icy pavement and crashed through the guard gate into the river and was followed a moment later by the car driven by Mrs. Minne.

ARRESTS FOLLOW $5,300 ROBBERY

Reginald Watson, Postal Employe, Charged With Audacious Theft

FRIEND ALSO HELD

Registered Package Containing Cash Not Yet Recovered by Police.

TORONTO, Nov. 24.—Unremitting work on the part of Detective-Sergts. Ward and Carter, in connection with the theft of $5,300 from Herbert J. Bobby, 62 Pears Avenue, a postal employe, at Farnham Ave., and Yonge Street, on November 18, resulted in the arrest last night of Reginald Watson, King Street east, on a charge of theft, and David Clarke, accountant, of the same address, on a charge of vagrancy. Clarke is an American, aged 35 years. Watson is employed by the postal department as a letter carrier. The money has not yet been recovered.

The robbery was a most audacious one. According to the police, Bobby was sent with a registered package containing $5,300 to the Eglinton Branch of the Union Bank at Yonge and Eglinton Avenue. As he alighted from a city car and was making his way toward a Metropolitan radial at Farnham Avenue and Yonge Street, he was halted by a man in the uniform of a postman, who handed him an order, bearing the forged signature of John Drew, mail delivery supervisor, in which Drew was purported to instruct Bobby to hand over the package of money to the bearer of the note. Bobby, unsuspicious, handed the package over, and the robber departed.

It was not until six hours later, when a messenger from the head office of the Union Bank called at the postal terminal station, Front Street west, to inquire why the money had not been delivered at the Eglinton Branch, that the crime was discovered. Bobby was called into conference by his superiors, and he related the story of the robbery.

Last Saturday afternoon, Detective-Sergts. Taylor and Wickett had Watson at detective headquarters for examination and identification. Bobby was called but was unable to identify Watson as the man who had accosted him and received the money. Accordingly Watson was allowed to go.

Clarke's connection with the case is due to the fact that he lived at the same rooming-house as Watson and that he is alleged to have been in Watson's company on the day of the robbery.

PRINCE SCORES GREAT TRIUMPH

H.R.H. Accorded Another Ovation as He Left Bombay for Baroda.

POPULACE IS LOYAL

Governor of Bengal Refers to Recent Acts of Terrorism.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The entire visit of the Prince of Wales to the Bombay presidency has been a great personal triumph, says a message received at the India Office from the Governor of Bombay. The departure of the Prince for Baroda was made the occasion of another great demonstration, masses of people thronging the platform in an effort to get near the Prince's car made it difficult to get the train moving.

The populace, the Governor reports, appears to be stimulated by the unfortunate riots of last week to prove their loyalty.

A Reuter cable from Calcutta says that when addressing the Legislature the Earl of Ronaldshay, the Governor of Bengal, said that by "wholesale terrorism and intimidation, the normal life of Calcutta had been greatly interfered with." A situation had arisen, he said, demanding drastic action.

STATEMENT OF COL. BIGGAR

Was Notified by Mr. Porter that He Insisted Upon Election Proceeding.

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—Col. Biggar, in a statement declared the Chief Election Officer this morning notified the returning officer in West Hastings to hold the poll. It appears Mr. McIntosh attended at the nomination with two witnesses and signed his consent not only in the presence of the returning officer, but of both witnesses. "One of the witnesse then witnessed Mr. McIntosh's signature and the other signed and swore to the affidavit before teh returning officer. Upon this being done, the returning officer took the nomination paper and deposit and issued the statutory receipt. This was some time before two o'clock at which hour the returning officer refused to act upon the nomination paper and declared Mr. E. Guss Porter elected. Teh latter has notified the Chief Electoral Officer that he not only did not make any objection to the irregularity of Mr. McIntosh's nomination but insisted that the election should be allowed to proceed.

MR. PORTER CONSENTS TO WAIVE ANY IRREGULARITIES IN McINTOSH NOMINATION

Chief Election Officer Consequently Instructs Returning Officer for West Hastings to Accept McIntosh Nomination and Proceed With the Election—Mr. Porter Informed Chief Election Officer That he had No Objection to Acceptance of Nomination Paper and Requested That Any Irregularities be Overlooked and Election Proceeded With.

West Hastings is to have an election contest after all.

Chief Election Officer Biggar at Ottawa has so decided.

When Returning Officer Wiggins found that the nomination paper of Candidate McIntosh was not made out in accordance with the regulations he refused to accept it as a bona-fide nomination, but took the paper and the candidate's deposit, and after declaring E. Guss Porter, K.C., the only nominee and consequently elected by acclamation, he referred the whole matter to Chief Election Officer Biggar at Ottawa for confirmation or rejection. After considering all the circumstances in the case, and hearing from Mr. Porter, the Chief Election Officer decided that the informality was not of sufficient proportions and importance as to invalidate the paper, and consequently ruled that the nomination should be accepted and Candidate McIntosh's name be placed upon the ballot papers.

Mr. Porter Fair.

After the nomination proceedings at Trenton had closed Mr. Porter got in touch with the Chief Election Officer, Mr. Biggar, at Ottawa, who has charge of all matters in connection with the Dominion election, explained the circumstances in connection with the rejection by the returning officer of Mr. McIntosh's nomination paper, and said that there was no objection on his part to the nomination paper of Mr. McIntosh being accepted, and if there was any possibility of overlooking any irregularity in the preparation of the paper he would be perfectly satisfied.

Thursday morning Mr. Porter was called up on the long distance telephone by Mr. Biggar from Ottawa. Mr. Biggar said that, Mr. Porter having waived any objection to the nomination paper of Mr. McIntosh, he had instructed Returning Officer Wiggins to accept the McIntosh nomination and proceed with the election just as if no question had been raised.

Signatures Wrong.

The informality objected to by Returning Officer Wiggins consisted of the signatures attesting the consent of the candidate to be nominated. J. W. Galloway and R. N. Bird were the signatures in dispute.

At the public meeting at Trenton after the nomination Candidate Porter offered to waive all irregularities and contest the election if this could be arraigned, and it was then decided to submit the entire matter at once to the Chief Election Officer, and the attitude of Mr. Porter had a favorable effect upon the decision.

Similar Cases.

This is said to be the first time that a nomination paper refused by the Returning Officer has been accepted afterward. Some years ago a candidate in Ontario handed in a check for his deposit and the Returning Officer would not accept the nomination. The matter was finally fought out in the courts but the Returning Officer was sustained. Another case occurred in Nipissing a number of years ago when the Returning Officer accepted the nomination of the Liberal candidate and then was alleged to have disappeared. The Conservative candidate said he hunted high and low for the Returning Officer to offer his nomination paper but without success, and the Liberal candidate was elected by acclamation. This case was also taken to the courts, but nothing came of it but law costs.

Prince of Wales Breaks Away from Scheduled Program in India.

H.R.H. Takes ....

London, Nov. 23.—Describing the reception of the Prince of Wales in Bombay, the correspondent for the London Times, in a despatch received here, relates how the Prince broke away from his scheduled program at the Phocna Race Course last Sunday, making a half-mile detour in order to pass unaccompanied through the crowds.

Striding well ahead of his staff, says the correspondent, the Prince rushed along close to the rails, laughing, acknowledging cheers, exchanging greetings, shaking hands of eagerly stretched hands.

The correspondent to the London Times says 'this is a precedent for Royalty to proceed unaccompanied on Indian tours.

ONE MAN KILLED, THREE INJURED

Backing Freight Struck Car on Crossing at Ford.

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 23.—One man was killed and three seriously injured Tuesday when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by a freight train at the Edna street crossing of the Pere Marquette Railroad in Ford.

John Durroche, 42 years old, the driver of the car, was fatally injured and died in the Hotel Dieu an hour later. John Wyly, 45 years old, and two unidentified men, who were in the car with Durroche, were seriously injured.

The train backed into the car, according to witnesses, throwing it several feet and demolishing it.

INJURED BY HORSE

John Levesey, a young man residing at No. 4 Holden street was this afternoon the victim of a rather peculiar accident. He was riding a wheel on Commercial street when a horse dirven by Mr. M. C. Potter, R.R. No. 3, became unmanageable and collided with Levesey, knocking him off his wheel and injuring his right leg rather severely. No bones were, however, broken, but the knese may be dislocated. The bike was damaged to some extent.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 1348, or write The Intelligencer.

Shocking Language

J. A.—I received one of the greatest shocks of my life when, on going along Catharine street recently, I heard two small boys discussing some future event. The language those youngsters were using would make a South-Sea Sailor feel as if his cussy-vocabulary had been woefully neglected. Both were not more than nine years of age. Possibly this is the result of elder brothers or fathers being careless when the boys were around. Where they learn such horrifying language is a mystery. Likely when they grow up they will respect neither God, themselves or fellow men.

Risky Going

H.P.—I see that quite a number of the younger generation have already got out their skates and hied themselves to the Quarry, where a thin sheet of ice provides excellent material, although a trifle shaky, to practise on and be ready for the rink when it freezes sufficiently to permit of said rink being flooded.

Late Appearance

M.E.—Going along Benjamin street on the West Hill, on Monday of this week I was greatly surprised when I saw a full-blown dandelion at the side of the walk growing up amongst the grasses. It is the latest, in my experience, I have ever seen a full-blown dandelion growing—Trust it may indicate an open winter.

Heard in Belleville

S.O.—Stranger to citizen:

"This is a fine city of yours."

Citizen, (with pride)—"There is none better."

Stranger—"Did your city take any part in the late war?"

Citizen—"We did our full share."

Stranger—"Then you are fortunate you lost no men."

Citizen, (sadly)—"We lost a great number."

Stranger—"Pardon me but I fail to see any sign of appreciation, it would seem that the citizens are very slow or very ungrateful—perhaps both."

We as citizens should pay some homage to our neighbors who did not return, who together with those who did return made it possible for the rest of us to live in peace.

CHAPLIN AND "JACKIE" COOGAN IN "THE KID" AT GRIFFIN'S TONIGHT

Charlie Chaplin's super-production, "The Kid" with the celebrated child actor "Jackie" Coogan in the title role is the feature attraction at Griffin's tonight and Saturday, with three performances Saturday.

The very seriousness of the part in life that Charlie plays in the production, that of foster father to a two-weeks' old baby, makes it one of the most deliciously humorous pictures which he has ever given a joy-loving public. It is full feature length, running six reels, and is comedy of such high rank that it is universally known as First National's six reels of joy.

A two-reel Western picture, Movie Chats and other varied attractions of interest will also be exhibited on the same program.

"JUST SUPPOSE" AT GRIFFIN'S TOMORROW NIGHT

With the same wonderful company that he presented last summer at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto when the Canadian premier of "Just Suppose" was given, Edward H. Robins will bring to Griffin's Theatre his production of this prettiest of all comedy romance one night, tomorrow night, November 25.

"Just Suppose" depicts just what might have happened if the propitous moment had arrived. The young Prince of Wales tired of the ceremony that surrounds his every action, decides to slip away unannounced and spend one day just as any other young man would. To an old Virginia house he comes with his chum. There he meets the one girl and the inevitable happens. He falls in love with her and his affections are returned but—they both realize that in his life the affairs of state are paramount. Comedy and pathos are so cleverly interwoven in the story that an evening of unalloyed pleasure await all who see "Just Suppose."

"THE COLLEGE GIRL"

The plan opens tomorrow morning at 10 a.m. at Griffin's Opera House for the wonderful musical comedy "The College Girl." As its predecessors five performances have never known a vacant seat and as this year's show is the best yet, there is bound to be a rush for seats for all three performances. Naturally it is a case of "first come; first served."

The action of the play lends itself to the musical setting. No musical comedy has ever been heard in Belleville with the number of distinct hits. Every song is a knockout. It would be hard to choose any one number as being superior to the other.

Reserved seat sale for Monday's performance opens tomorrow (Friday;) for Tuesday's performance seat sale on Saturday, and on Monday for Wednesday's performance.

"THE COLONEL'S MAID"

The second performance of "The Colonel's Maid" was held in Christ Church Parish Hall last night when the various actors and actresses even excelled their good work of the previous evening and reflected great credit upon their efficient stage manageress, Mrs. Backus, who as the ingenue Julia, scored a great success. Miss Minnie Diamond in the role of Aunt Emeline was an added warning to all young men to "beware of the widders while Miss Olive Mann as Marjorie Byrd proved as intriguing a maid as she did a blushing fiance.

The clever Chinaman, Mr. George Turner, whose make-up and demeanor were truly oriental, again convulsed the audience, and Mr. Bruce Bottum as the forgetful man proved himself anything but an absent minded lover. Mr. Jack Diamond as Bob Rudd carried his romantic plot to a successful issue in spite of the choleric interference of his future father-in-law, Col. Byrd, whose character was ably portrayed by Mr. Harry King. Mr. Bert Backus was dryly legal as the family solicitor while Mr. Geoffrey Field as the explosive, but kind-hearted Col. Rudd appealed to the large audiences each night by his subtle and gentleman-like rendering of a part that required and received very skilful acting. We hope that the receipts proved all that was desired and that it may not be long before the public has another opportunity of seeing this talented band of actors.

PRINCE TELLS YOUTHS THEY MOLD FUTURE

Addresses Bombay University—Mutual Understanding is Desirable.

London, Nov. 23.—In his address to the Bombay University, the Prince of Wales said that in his journey about the empire it had been his special desire to meet and mingle with the youth of each country, according to a Reuter's despatch. He wanted to understand what was passing in their minds and to know to what they were looking forward, he said, and he should like them also to have some insight into the ideals which he held in reverence.

"It is important that we should know enough about one another," his royal highness said, "to be able to march together in sympathy towards our common goal, and that we should have a mutual understanding with regard to what we hold to be honorable and true."

He emphasized the value of work order and discipline. Friendly rivalry in games and combination for the success of each side were referred to by the prince as qualities upon the exercise of which rested the unity and strength of the empire.

The prince assured the university students that it "is the privilege of youth to be able to some extent to mold the future." Continuing, he said: "Let us make a beginning here and now, and see that as the years go on the ardor of youth is preserved and sustained in the practice of these high qualities. Let us keep undimmed our love for learning, for hard work, for discipline and order and friendly co-operation. Let us have our bond of brotherhood in our common enthusiasm to serve our country and our king."

CAR SHORTAGES have already developed at many of the coal mines of the United States. Without cars to load, the mines cannot produce; without production of coal, the welfare of the public cannot be conserved.

So far the shortages have not been serious in proportions, but with cold weather arriving, it can be expected that they will increase and may materially hinder the movement of coal.

Safety to your family can be secured by immediately stocking your coal. Coal prices will not decrease, and they may advance, if a transportation emergency arises.

Efficient Housekeeping

BY Laura A. Kirkman

THE HOUSEKEEPER WHO DRESSES SENSIBLY

I am going to chat today on the subject of sensible dress. The more I look about me at some of the extremes of fashion, the more convinced I become that we housekeepers should stand together for sensible dress.

Now, I don't mean by that that the housekeeper should not look as smart and up-to-date as any other woman. And I think this old world would be a stupid monotonous place if new fashions were not created now and then, to give us variety. The only thing I'm "agin" is going to extremes in dress.

Let us look back over the history of dress from the time of the early Egyptians, and note the tendency of the various eras toward either common sense or folly in silhouette, price and general design of costumes. The early Egyptian dressed very simply until the Asiatic conquests: after that a new standard of luxury was established and the dress of the people became as elaborate as it had been simple before—characterized by fancy headdresses and much ornamentation.

The dress of the early Romans and Greeks was simple and beautiful in line. The early Gauls painted and tattooed on their bodies and wore animal skins until 55 B.C., when Caesar conquered them; they then became Romanized, donning tunic and mantle but their barbaric tendencies were manifest in color, ornamentation and an abundance of gaudy jewelry. After the conquest of the Gallo-Romans by the Franks, however, in the Fifth Century, and the establishment of the French kingdom, a combination of Roman, Gallic and Frankish costume was adopted consisting of a tunic, short trousers, leggins and mantle.

The Eighth Century was practically the beginning of the French Costume, as we think of it today. Under Charlemagne (768 to 814) there were edicts against luxury and heavier and more practical materials were worn. In the Eleventh Century, however, the "age of chivalry" started and silk, cashmeres and velours were introduced by returning Crusaders. Buttons then appeared on dress for the first time. Then, at the last of the Fourteenth Century, came a period of pronounced extravagance in dress; doublet and hose were worn by men ("hose" being trousers and stockings in one) and the sleeves of the doublet were large and in some cases reached almost to the ground! In the Sixteenth Century hoop skirts appeared and also "Watteau" hats, laces, panniers and flounces; at this time Marie Antoinette occupied with Louis Sixteenth the tottering throne of France—and we all know the history of dress since that time.

Now, Reader-friend, I am not trying to prove that unless we housekeepers insist upon sensible clothes, another period of extravagance in dress will necessary break out as it did repeatedly in the history I have outlined. But I am arguing that we home women, of all women, know how much it costs just to keep a shelter over our heads and food on the table—and we don't want to see extravagant standards in dress established that would take money from the necessities of life. Designers create, and stores offer what the public wants; they base their output on demand. So let's demand sane, conservative garments, so that the world may know that housekeepers, any way, will not tolerate departure from Common Sense in fashions.

Tomorrow—Requested Recipes.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

TO BECOME BRIDE OF BRITISH NOBLE

Princess Mary's Engagement to Viscount Lascelles is Announced.

London, Nov. 23.—The betothal of Princess Mary, only daughter of King George and Queen Mary, to Viscount Lascelles, was announced this evening.

Canadians will be keenly interested in this royal bethothal, for many of them met in London during the war, on occasion to their presentation to the king, this charming and only daughter of the reigning sovereign. And there is the even more intimate connection that for the four-year period, 1907-1911, Viscount Lascelles served in Canada as A.D.C. to the then Governor-General Earl Grey. He is the eldest son and heir of the Earl of Narewood, a creation dating from 1796, and was born in 1882, being thus fifteen years older than the Princess Mary, who was born in 1897.

Viscount Lascelles was educated at Eton and thence entered the army as second lieutenant in the famous Grenadier Guards. Diplomatic life soon claimed him, however, and he served as attache at the British embassy in Rome before accompanying Earl Grey to Canada. With the opening of the war, he immediately rejoined his old regiment, with rank of captain, staying with his battalion right up to the armistice, in the course of which he was wounded three times and rose to be acting Lieut.-Col. He received the D. S. O. and bar as well as the Croix de Guerre.

It is no break with tradition that a daughter of the royal house should marry into the British peerage, for the Princess Royal, Louise Victoria, eldest daughter of Queen Victoria, was married to the Duke of Fife, and her own daughter, the Duchess of Fife, married back into the royal family in the person of Prince Arthur of Connaught.

Publication of this royal betrothal has quickened again public interest in the Prince of Wales, for whom rumor several times has selected a mate outside royalty.

DAMAGES OF $7,000 GIVEN DR. CLEAVER

Amount Awarded by Hon. Justice Mulock Against Paving Company.

The attention of the non-jury sittings of the High Court of Justice was on Wednesday taken up hearing evidence in the case of Rev. Dr. Cleaver vs. the Standard Paving Company. The plaintiff, who is pastor of Bridge Street Methodist Church, Belleville, brought an action for unstated damages for injuries he sustained in October, 1920 when a bicycle he was riding dropped in an excavation near the the parsonage which excavation was made by the said company and was not properly protected. At the time of the accident the hole was filled with leaves completely hiding it. The Dr. sustained painful injuries and is still suffering from same. Medical testimony was to the effect that the disability suffered as a result of the accident was perhaps as high as 50 per cent. for a man of Dr. Cleaver's years.

Sir William Mulock, who presided, thought he would be justified in finding that the disability was permanent—partly physical and partly mental owing to the shock to the nervous system. Evidence showed injuries to the check bone and other facial injuries. Defendants endeavored to show negligence on the part of the plaintiff, but the presiding Judge found no evidence of this.

F. E. O'Flynn appeared for Dr. Cleaver, and E. J. Butler for the defendant company.

"Tinker Bob" Stories

by Carlyle H. Holcomb

MR. RABBIT HAS A GREAT EXPERIENCE

Tinker Bob, the King, was called out into the midst of the forest to see some of the creatures who were making ready their Winter home. Jack the Rabbit came along; "O King of the Forest I had some trouble to get out of last night."

"Tell me what it was Mr. Rabbit? I didn't suppose you were a fellow who went about looking for trouble," said Tinker Bob.

"I don't go about looking for trouble but there are times when I get into it when I try to mind my own business. I jumped up on a log in the moonlight last night when it was just the wrong time. I didn't think anyone was about but as I jumped up another fellow jumped up too and he was none other than Snoopy, the Bob Cat. I was caught for the first time by this terrible fellow. I have heard Major Pole Cat tell how Snoopy does and I have heard what Chief Porky has to say about him but this was the first time I ever had to meet him face to face in the moonlight."

"Well," said Tinker Bob, "I didn't suppose you would be here to tell the story if you ever met Snoopy, alone in the forest."

"As I jumped up another fellow jumped up too."

"I tell you, O King of the Forest, I did some thinking that was very fast. He had me tight. I thought of all the children who would never see me again for I didn't think I would ever return to the family in the Brier Patch. I thought of all the mean things I ever did. I remembered the time when I took a little corn from the Hunter's cornfield. I thought of the time when I took some apples that didn't belong to me from a stranger's orchard. I remembered when I took some clover from the Hunter. I just began to think of the great Hunter and wished he had taken me for a good meal on his table because I had been so mean to him. I remembered too when I was a little Rabbit and my mother told me not to run away and I did run away from home and she worried herself sick."

"But what was Snoopy doing all this time?" asked the King.

"Well, it all happened so suddenly that I couldn't tell how it happened. I remembered I told him that if he didn't let me go I would tell the King. But he still clung to me. Then I told him I would tell Chief Porky and he would stick one of those quills into his nose. But he never moved. Then I heard a little grunting sound not far away and I said to Snoopy if he didn't let me go I would call Major Pole Cat who was passing. That was the thing that saved me, for Snoopy is afraid of Major. He sniffed the air and when he was sure that it was Mr. Pole Cat who was near, he told me he would never do such a thing again if I wouldn't tell Major about it this time. Then he bounded away into the dark.

A modest pattern indeed, but one whose beauty is unrivalled, is the new Hostess pattern, the latest creation in the Holmes & Edwards line.

The skill of the silversmith's art is exemplified to a high degree in the beautiful, radiant and lustrous surface of all Holmes & Edwards silverware. But more than this, Holmes & Edwards brings that abundant satisfaction which only the generous quantity of sterling silver gives.

What better gift for Christmas—what better remembrance than one whose beauty and long lasting service will ever be symbolic of the loving thought which prompted it.

Your jeweller will tell you all about the other handsome Holmes & Edwards lines—in tea services, casseroles or cake dishes, as well as about the two processes, exclusively Holmes & Edwards, by which the pieces most used are protected against wear. NOMINATION PAPER MIX-UP IS STRAIGHTENED OUT.

Chief Election Officer Biggar at Ottawa, to whom was referred the nomination mix-up at Trenton by the Returning Officer who discovered irregularities in Candidate McIntosh's nomination papers, has decided to permit the election to go on, as the irregularities referred to were not sufficiently serious to invalidate the paper altogether when all the circumstances were considered.

While the whole proceeding of nominating Candidate McIntosh seems to have been of a careless, unbusinesslike manner, the paper being made out in the hall on the day of nomination, in a don't-care atmosphere which suggested a decided lack of enthusiasm in the contest, no one will begrudge him the opportunity if he really desires to run. The Conservative candidate, E. Guss Porter, K.C., publicly declared at Trenton after the nomination proceedings that he had no desire to prevent the Crerar candidate from contesting the election if he so desired.

However, there does not seem to be any real demand for an election contest in West Hastings, and it would have been an act of grace and courtesy, in honor of his twenty years faithful services to the electors, to have given E. Guss Porter, K.C., an election by acclamation. However, Guss never runs away from a fight, and when the ballots are counted it will be seen just how foolish it was to put up a free trade candidate against him, for while Candidate McIntosh claims to be in favor of protection he is fighting under a free trade flag for a leader who declared publicly that protection was immoral. West Hastings has again and again put itself emphatically on record as being in favor of protection, that protection which will keep the industries going and protect the home market of the farmer.

This Crerar free trade phantasy threatens the future prosperity of all Canada, but no place would be more seriously affected than West Hastings with its dependence upon industries and its splendid home markets, its mineral resources and water-powers.

Meighen is the man for Canada, and Porter is the man for West Hastings.

PRIVATE CAR HABIT TOO MUCH FOR SAMUEL.

Politicians do not always fight fair, and it seems to be the idea with most of the platform spellbinders that they can juggle with the truth to the limit of the credulity of the audience and fool most of the people most of the time.

We doubt it.

For instance, Sam Carter, Mackenzie King candidate in South Wellington against Hon. Hugh Guthrie, raved and stormed at a political meeting about the private car of the Minister of Militia, and asked the "common peepul" what they thought of such extravagance. When the audienc ewere going home from the meeting they discovered the private car of the Liberal leader, Mackenzie King, parked on a siding within one hundred yards of the hall, and the Guelph Herald in fine appreciation of the success of native sons, tells Silly Samuel that "The electors of South Wellington would much prefer to see the private car of the Minister of Militia standing in front of the Guelph station than on a siding in some other municipality."

Sam Carter knows that a private car is more necessary for the Hon. Hugh Guthrie as Minister of Militia than it is for Mackenzie King as leader of the Opposition, that it is a travelling office where the minister can keep up with his government work while being transported around the country.

That Mackenzie King should have a private car during the election is a great convenience to him and makes the arduous task of campaigning much easier upon his constitution, and that he has the use of one is through the courtesy of the heads of that government he affects to despise, upon the public platform, as usurpers, wastrels, incompetents and almost crooks. When Mackenzzie King goes back to his private car after pulverizing an audience with several hours of assorted conversation done up in parcels of one thousand words each he can enjoy on his trusty gramophone such records as "Ain't We Got Fun?" and "What Fools These Mortals Be!"

Wonder if that seven-fifty campaign fund collectde in the City Hall is all expended yet.

Candidate McIntosh has been given a second chance; but a candidate who can not make out a nomination paper correctly can not hope to be seriously regarded as a possible representative at Ottawa of West Hastings.

A woman in Toronto is praying for the Trenton Assessor, but he does not appreciate it, according to the Trenton Advocate, which says: "This week a letter of some importance was received at Trenton municipal office. It was an invitation. Not embossed or printed in script, neither was it in beautiful stylish wedding text or hand painted. Just in good honest lead pencil and in excellent English, very emphatic and decidedly unique. The victims of the "epistle to the town of Trenton" are the assessors; and one of them has decided that he did not care to accept the invitation until he gets ready, and then it is possible he may try to back out if the backing is good. This is the letter, and it came from a Trenton taxpayer who lives in Toronto: "I hope the man that raised my taxes this year will be in H—l this time next year—that is my prayer for him." Mrs. ———.

MOTOR BUS VS. STREET CAR

Hamilton Herald

The motor bus has been energetically boomed as a substitute for the street car. But the motor bus has tried out in Des Moines, Iowa—and the people of that city are going back to street cars. The bus is all right for emergency service, but for permanent service the trolley car is to be preferred.

THE THREE PARTIES

Port Arthur News-Chronicle

Defections from both the other parties to the Government party have assumed the proportions of a landslide, with the result that to-day political prophets who are in a position to size up the situation freely credit the return of the Meighen Government with a majority.

The Opposition has failed to fasten upon the Government one single act of wrong doing, or an act exceptional to the ordinary course of business that has not been completely explained. The Government possesses the confidence of the country to a far greater extent than when dissolution of Parliament occurred. It has withstood every attack from all its opponents and looms large as the only party that knows where it is going and that has a definite all-Canada policy to offer the electors.

A Laugh or Two

TO ONE COMING NORTH

At first you'll joy to see playful snow
Like white moths trembling on the tropic air,
Or waters of the hills that softly flow
Gracefully falling down a shining stair.

And when the fields and streets are covered white
And the wind-worried void is chilly, raw,
Or underneath a spell of heat and light
The cheerless frozen spots begin to thaw,

Like me you'll long for home, where birds' glad song
Means flower-filled lanes and leas and spaces dry,
And tender thoughts and feelings fine and strong,
Beneath a vivid silver-flecked blue sky.

But oh! more than the changeless southern isles,
When spring has shed upon the earth her charm,
You'll love the Northland wreathed in golden smiles
By the miraculous sun turned glad and warm.

CRIPPLE ROUTS BRUTAL BANDITS

Imonte, Nov. 23.—Alex Allan, merchant tailor, was held up by two masked men on Elgin street Monday night. Mr. Allan was returning home from his shop about 9.45 and was within 20 yards of his own house when attacked. One of the men pointed a revolver at him while the other held his mouth and attempted to search him.

Although a cripple and further handicapped by deafness, he succeeded in freeing his mouth and sounding an alarm. A dog commenced to bark, and the assailants fled, after they had beaten their victim on the head with the revolver to a semi-conscious state.

He reached a neighbor's house whence police and medical attention were summoned.

Suspicion rests upon local men who would be familiar with all the circumstances of their victim and probably with the business he had transacted during the evening. No money was secured, though Mr. Allan was carrying more than usual at the time. He will recover.

HERE'S A POLICE DOG KNOWS HIS BUSINESS

Montreal, Nov. 23.—The sagacity of a Belgian police dog belonging to Joseph Cote led to the arrest of Arthur Leblanc, who snatched a purse from a woman as she was walking home Tuesday afternoon. Hearing the woman's cries, Mr. Cote, who was passing in his automobile accompanied by his dog, sent the animal after the thief, who took refuge behind some bushes. The astute hound first seized the stolen purse and dashed back with it to his master. He then ran back and, cornering Leblanc, held him until the arrival of a police officer.

ROW AT NOMINATION

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 22.—The Frontenac nomination meeting at Harrowsmith this afternoon was featured by a large-seized row, in which the audience made a rush for the platform when Hon. Dr. J. W. Edwards and R. J. Bushell had some words, followed by blows. Dr. Edwards afterwards remarked that he was sorry for what had occurred, but that he could not be classed as a white man had he not defended himself from the attack made upon him. Feeling ran high, as the election contest between Dr. Edwards and W. S. Reed, U.F.O., candidate, is very keen, and there were five hundred people jammed into a small hall to hear the two candidates address the electors. Mr. Reed, feeling that he was no match for the doughty member of the Meighen Cabinet, brought J. R. McMillan of Huron, down to talk for him. It was when Dr. Edwards rose to reply to Mr. McMillan at the close of the latter's address that the row started, a remark being passed which Dr. Edwards felt he could not let pass. The doctor and Mr. Bushell were seen in close contact, but what occurred is hard to describe, as the rush to the platform was quick and the two were surrounded and jostled about.

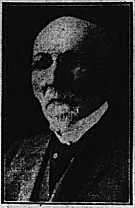
ROBERT M'LAUGHLIN DIED AT OSHAWA

Founder of Great Automobile Industry Was 85 Years of Age

Following a few days' illness, Mr. Robert McLaughlin, familiarly known as Oshawa's Grand Old Man passed away at his home, Simcoe Street, North Oshawa. One of the pioneer manufacturers of Canada, Mr. McLaughlin long enjoyed the respect and confidence of his business associates, and his reputation as a successful business man is well known throughout the continent.

Born near Peterboro, Ont., November 16th, 1836, the early life of Mr. McLaughlin was spent on his farm, but being particularly gifted with the art of wood-working and painting craftmanship, he decided to leave his fifty acre farm, and in 1869 set up a business in Enniskillen, Ont., for the manufacture of vehicles. The original staff consisted of one journeyman carriage builder, one blacksmith and one apprentice. He himself was the designer and painter, as well as carrying the duties of manager. This small concern which resulted in the formation of the McLaughlin Carriage Company was the predecessor of the vast corporation known as the General Motors of Canada and employs 2,500 citizens of the Dominion. In 1879 Mr. McLaughlin moved his entire business and employes to the Town of Oshawa. By this time the business had grown to such an extent and McLaughlin vehicles were in such demand that large additions to the staff had to be made, and in 1888 a small wholesale policy was decided upon. During this period the business was conducted personally by Mr. McLaughlin, and so ambitious was he, so devoted to his work, that he made a general habit of painting and striping his vehicles after hours, and upon many trade vehicles he indulged in landscape scenes, for which he was particularly talented.



MR. ROBERT McLAUGHLIN

In 1895 Mr. McLaughlin re-organized the business and taking his two sons Mr. R. S. and Mr. G. W. into partnership the business grew so that in a short time new and larger quarters were necessary and the concern moved into the building known as the Gibbs Furniture Factory. A large fire gave the Company a severe set-back in 1899 when the Oshawa plant was demolished, but undaunted Mr. McLaughlin secured the factory of the Thousand Island Carriage Company which was then available, at Gananoque, after a year's successful business at Gananoque, the firm moved back to Oshawa and this time were in a new plant.

In 1907 a new organization was formed, known as the McLaughlin Motor Car Company and in 1915 the carriage business was disposed of to the Carriage Factories Ltd. In 1919 the McLaughlin Carriage Co., Ltd., merged into a unit of the world's greatest automotive industry—the General Motors Corporation. His was a life of earnest endeavor to benefit his country and fellow citizens.

In the early struggles of the Salvation Army, and before they had come so prominently before the public in the way of rescue work, Mr. McLaughlin was a friend and assisted them at various times in a substantial way. He was personally known to their leaders and was chosen by the commissioner to lay the corner stone of their fine Citadel on Simcoe Street South, when that enterprise was undertaken. He was the first president of the Y.M.C.A. in Oshawa, and took a leading part in the initial ceremonies when Governor Sir John Gibson laid the corner stone and the Ven. Archdeacon Cody and other prominent people were present. He turned the first sod in the Oshawa Railway and was an early advocate of placing the manufacturers of the town in a position to have transportation facilities at their doors. He was a benefactor of Queens University and Knox College and a strong supporter of the local Presbyterian Church. When the present structure was undertaken he was chosen to lay the corner stone, and interested in everything pertaining to the structure, and later on in the erection of the manse adjoining. The Muskoka Sanitarium received his sympathetic interest many years ago, and he was a generous contributor to it's funds. Quite recently it will be remembered that when the campaign was begun for funds to restore the structure destroyed by fire, his dwelling was the headquarters for a demonstration in its interests, when leading men took part in the ceremonies and committees formed to carry on the campaign.

The deceased during his long residence in Oshawa occupied positions at the council board and served a term as Mayor, and was the first chairman of the Water Commissioners' Board. He was a director of the Western Bank up to the date that it was merged with the Standard Bank. As an amateur painter in water colors he showed much ability, and although it was as a patime he devoted mch of his attention to painting and music of which he was very fond.

Immediate relatives who mourn his loss are the widow, two sons Mr. R. S. and Mr. G. W. residing in Oshawa, and executives of the great industry founded by their father; and two daughters, Mrs. J. P. Owens and Mrs. McCullough both of Toronto. He also leaves 16 grandchildren, two great grandchildren, one brother and one sister.

PRINCE WILL ARRIVE FOR CHRISTMAS

Will Spend Christmas in Calcutta, Arriving on Day Previous.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(By Canadian Press)—Christmas week is always the big week of the year in Calcutta, with the race for the Viceroy's Cup and other festivities, and the climate is at its best then. The Prince will arrive at Calcutta on the morning of Christmas eve, and will remain there until the afternoon of December 30th. The outstanding ceremonial there will be the opening by His Royal Highness of the Victoria Memorial Hall—some twenty years after its conception by Lord Curzon. One cause of the delay has been the development of the Makrana quarries in order that only Indian marble, instead of imported marble, might be used in the construction of the memorial, and another cause has been the preoccupations of the war. Calcutta has long been known as the City of Palaces, but it has no building which can compare in magnificence with this wonderful memorial to the great grandmother of the Prince of Wales, and which is to be, in its contents, a mirror of Indian history under British rule.

Burma is in the Prince's itinerary, and he will arrive at Rangoon on board a Royal Indian Marine steamer on January 2nd for an eight days' stay. New Year's Day being on Sunday he will be in Rangoon in time for the Proclamation Parade in celebration of Queen Victoria's Proclamation as Empress of India on January 1st, 1875. This will be the first occasion on which any member of the Royal House or the King-Emperor's representative, the Viceroy, has been in Burma for the parade.

GREAT WELCOME ASSURED

In no part of India is the Prince of Wales assured of a more enthusiastic welcome than in the South, where the Madras Legislature has made arrangements for a fitting reception to him. In Lord Willingdon, the heir to the throne, he will have a host who has the distinction of having spent nearly eight years consecutively as Governor of two of the Presidencies. A special feature of the Madras program will be the assembly of many thousands of school children to greet the Prince. Boy Scouts and Girl Guides will be in evidence at most of the large stations which the Prince will pass on his way to Madras, where he will arrive on January 13th and remain four days.

Two great States of the South, Mysore and Hyderabad, will be visited, and at British cantonments there the Prince will see a large portion of the Southern Army, which is under the command of General Sir William Marshall, of Mesopotamian fame.

At Nagpur, the headquarters of the Central Provinces Government, there will be a durbar for the Prince to receive representative notabilities. From Nagpur the Prince will pass into Central India, and will arrive at Indore on February 1st.

GUEST OF FEMALE RULER

Thence His Royal Highness will proceed to Bhopal as the guest of the thirteenth female ruler in succession. There is a fitting feminine touch in many of the arrangements made by her Highness the Begum, whose Imperial Service troops bear the title of Queen Victoria's Own Lancers. The only woman ruler in India, she will have the assistance of her three sons in making the Prince's sojourn pleasant and interesting. The Begum may not eat in public, but at the State banquet she will appear and make a speech welcoming the Prince. She has a good command of English. Tiger and bear shooting in camp some miles from the capital will be part of the program for his Royal Highness.

A splendid reception will await the Prince at Gwalior, which he will reach on February 8th. The Maharaja Sindhai, who rendered great service to the Allies during the war, is a many sided man and will be at the Prince's side when tiger-shooting in the Gwalior preserves, which are famed as being one of the most certain in hunts of the tiger in India. The last distinguished visitor from Western Europe to have personal experience of the delights of the Gwalior jungle in this respect was M. Clemenceau.

DRAMATIC FIGHT STAGED IN BURNING IRISH JAIL

Galway, Ireland, Nov. 23.—Forty political prisoners confined in the prison here rushed the warders while a fire of uncertain origin was blazing in two sections of the structure. The men seized the keys and barricaded themselves with six warders in another part of the prison.

The fire was brought under control, but subsequently a desperate struggle occurred between the rebellious prisoners and their custodians in which five policemen and five prisoners were injured.

When the alarm was given the military guards were reinforced by a fire-fighting party and other military aid. The fire fighters concentrated on the burning sections or the prison, where it is supposed that bedding and other articles had been set alight by the prisoners.

Meanwhile doors were smashed and steel stairs broken down by the military section in efforts to reach the barricaded prisoners and release the kidnapped warders. In the resulting fight the police used their batons, while the prisoners wielded iron bars and other implements.

The injured were treated in the prison hospital. The military reinforcements and an armoured car which had been ordered up when the emergency arose were withdrawn when order had been restored.

WOLVES KILLING FARMERS' SHEEP

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 24.—So numerous and bold are the wolves becoming at MacLennan, just east of here, that stock raisers here are requesting relief. During the past two weeks about 100 sheep have been killed by wolves in a very limited area, which have appeared since the bear epidemic subsided. It is estimated that at least 400 bears were killed within the city and its immediate vicinity during the fall.

Reports are coming in from the Algoma Central Railway that the wolves are doing great damage there, particularly at Mile 95, where they are destroying the beaver deer. The settlers here are demanding that a larger bounty be placed on the wolves $25 not being sufficiently large to induce expert trappers to spend their time in an endeavor to exterminate them.

More changes in Canadian football rules have been suggested.

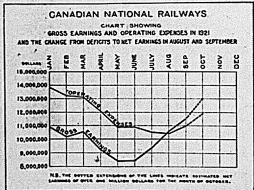
NATIONAL RAILWAYS PROSPECTS BRIGHTEN

The improved financial showing of the Canadian National Railways for the months of August and September has received general and favorable comment in the Press throughout the country. It will be of interest to the public to see in graphic manner the monthly advances made since the beginning of the year.

The accompanying chart shows that Operating Expenses as indicated by the upper line on the chart, were brought down, month by month, and that they drew gradually towards a meeting with the lower line, which indicates the Gross Earnings. In August, the lines met and crossed, showing a small margin to the good for that month. In September, the widening gap between the lines indicates net earnings of more than half a million dollars. The trend of the 'sweep' or 'curves', as they are sometimes termed, predict a much better showing in October.

to produce a small balance on the right side for August. The crop movement in September was sufficient to enable the much better showing made in that month.

A feature of the situation, which constituted a great difficulty encountered by the management in their endeavors to wipe out the deficit, is graphically displayed by the chart which shows that Gross Earnings dropped after February; that month's gross is usually the lowest in any year, and, commencing with March, gross earnings invariably improve; but during the present year a new condition prevailed; the earnings in the months of April, May and June were lower than those in the months of January and February. This slump in business was general, and affected all lines. If the usual trend of earnings had been followed, the operating economies, effected would have brought the lines together at an earlier date.



Those who were in close touch with the situation, and who knew what was being done to bring about operating economies, could see well in advance, that a continuation of these measures, with the usual increases in volume of traffic, would bring the lines together, and that with the seasonal crop movement, they should cross. It was hardly expected that the month of August would show net earnings, but reductions in the costs of materials and supplies, coupled with the readjustment of wages, and the increase in Gross Earnings, were factors which, combined, enabled the management

The chart also shows that the greater reductions in operating expenses were obtained prior to July; this should dispose of the view that the reduction in expenses was largely brought about by the realjustment of wages, effective July 16th.

The Canadian National Railways, earlier in the year, informed the people of Canada, by a series of frank explicit articles in the public press, of some of its problems, and, in particular, of the pressing need of more traffic. The improvement in the relative position of the National lines has been accomplished, not only by the reductions of operating costs; but, also, through the co-operation of the public that realized the truth of the statements made on the National Railways behalf, and who have met the situation in a practical way.

BONES BROKEN IN PARTY FRAY

"Contradictory" of Monty and Papineau Ends in Free-for-all.

Valleyfield, Que., Nov. 23.—Lively scenes were enacted at the contradictory meeting today at St. Stanislaus de Kostka between Hon. R. M. Monty, Postmaster-General, Government candidate for Beauharnois, and his Liberal opponent, L. M. Papineau, and as a result one man lies in a Montreal hospital with an arm and leg broken, and numerous persons are more or less badly bruised.

The audience for a time after the opening of the debate confined its demonstrations to lusty cheering for the two candidates, but as the charge and counter-charge waxed more and more fervid the temper of the gathering gradually rose, until finally a small group broke bounds and charged the platform, proceeding to handle without ceremony anything and everything that came to its hands, and in a meeting in an uproar in which fists and any other available weapons were freely used.

As a result of the fight, Adelard Raymond, 70 years old, of St. Stanislaus; has been placed in a hospital here with injuries so severe that grave concern is entertained regarding his condition.

As a result of the outcome of today's meeting, Mr. Papineau this evening forwarded the following telegram to Hon. R. Monty:

"Hon. R. Monty, Valleyfield, Que., —Sir: Rather than risk the life of the electors of this county, and by reason of that which has transpired at the meeting to-day, where a citizen of 70 years has been taken to the hospital at Montreal, as a result of injuries received at the assembly at St. Stanislaus, I shall discontinue the contradictory meetings. Yours faithfully, L. J. Papineau."

Liver Pains

Pains under the shoulder blades tell of liver derangements.

Other indications are sallow complexion, indigestion, constipation, biliousness and bilious headaches.

The quickest way to arouse the liver to healthful action is by use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Continued use will insure lasting relief, correct the whole digestive system and purify the blood.

Mrs. Wm. Barten, Hanover, Ont., writes:

"For some time I suffered from liver trouble. There was a hard, bearing-down feeling in my back which I could not get rid of. Some one advised me to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I did so, and found them excellent. The dragging feeling in my back disappeared and I felt much benefitted generally. I have great confidence in Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and always keep them on hand for general use."

WOMAN INNOCENTLY SCARES BURGLARS

St. Catharines, Ont., Nov. 2v.—Innocently tapping upon the window of French's grocery, at the north end of the city, and shouting that it was time for the proprietor to go home, a woman neighbor disturbed three burglars. A big quantity of goods had been piled up by the rear door ready for removal. The robbers escaped with nothing.

DRAYTON FACES TWO OPPONENTS

Toronto, Nov. 23.—Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, Liberal-Conservative; James Cameron, Farmer-Labor, and Major J. E. L. Streight, Liberal, were the candidates nominated for West York at Weston yesterday. The meeting, while lively, was not marked by rancor, and the Town Hall was jammed. Sir Henry spoke for an hour and a quarter, being the target for numerous questions that took him far afield of his intended remarks, until at length he good-humoredly announced it would be unfair to his opponents to proceed further. The address of Major Streight was also spiced with gentle humor. All three candidates based thir appeals upon the fiscal issue.

EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE

An educational conference of the school trustees and ratepayers of the city was called last night at the assembly room of the High School in this city and the attendance was limited, in fact, more were present from outside the city than in the city. Mr. A. McGie, chairman of the Board of Education occupied the chair. Mr. R. Segsworth, secretary of the Provincial Trustee Association and Mr. P. J. McLaurin of the Department of Education at Toronto, were the speakers. The former speaker spoke on consolidated schools which has reference to rural districts rather than the urban centres. Mr. McLaren gave a talk on medical inspection in the schools, both urban and rural and showed the benefits which were to be derived by same.

STEAMER IMPALED ON ROCKS

The steamer Pentland is in a precarious condition impaled on the rocks at Weaver's Point in a very dangerous spot in the St. Lawrence River, according to word received at Ogdensburg. INVESTIGATION ORDERED County Constable R. C. Smith has been ordered by Crown Attorney Kerr to make a full investigation of the recent shooting at Welcome, whereby Austin Chestnut received such serious injuries that his leg had to be amputated.—Port Hope Guide.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT

A distressing accident occurred on the farm of Mr. Hilary Fitzpatrick, West Ops, Saturday evening when his oldest son, Dominic, sustained serious injuries.

Mr. Fitzpatrick and his son were engaged in cement work at the base of the silo, when a heavy barn door became detached from its hanger, and fell. Mr. Fitzpatrick was struck by the door but was only slightly injured, but his son was crushed between the structure and a pile of stones. His father lifted the door, which had securely pinned his son to the earth and it was seen that he was severely injured. He was placed on a stone-boat and drawn to the house. The members of the family were in town when the accident happened so the assistance of a neighbor was secured and the injured boy was made as comfortable as possible. His injuries were of such a nature that a priest was summoned to his bedside. Two physicians on arrival found that the unfortunate boy had sustained very severe cuts and bruises about the back, and was suffering from concussion of the spine. His whole body from the shoulders down is paralyzed and although he never lost consciousness his condition is very serious.—Port Hope Guide.

GIFT FROM SIR THOMAS

Some time ago Sir Thomas Lipton, the famous British yachtman, was asked for some photographs of his recent challengers and one of himself. These have now been received and are on exhibition in the window of The Schuster Co., Limited. They are a gift to the Belleville Yacht Club, which organization will take active form in the course of a very short time.

SUCCESSFUL BAZAAR

Under the auspices of the Women's Guild of St. Thomas' Anglican Church a splendid and very successful bazaar was held on Wednesday afternoon. Home-cooking and delicious looking (and tasting) candies were for sale and were readily disposed of. Numerous dainty pieces of handwork were also for sale and found ready purchasers. A substantial and tasty tea was served to a large throng, many of whom dropped in just for tea. The ladies are to be congratulated on the splendid success which crowned their labors.

HASTING'S MINERALS

The mineral resources of Hastings County were described in a very interesting manner by Mr. J. W. Evans to the members of the Lions Club at the regular Wednesday luncheon. Mr. Evans is a noted geologist and minerologist and his address was replete with interesting information. He illustrated his address with ore specimens which were passed around and examined by the members. That Hastings is rich in minerals was graphically shown by Mr. Evans who outlined the needs of the district to encourage development. Cheap water power was needed for smelting and refining industries and this could be secured by the Hydro developing large blocks of power for industrial purposes only, which could be done at a small fraction of the cost of development for many light users. A government bonus of one dollar per. ton on iron ore would also give the industry a needed impetus. Cub Owen Herity was in the chair and introduced the speaker, also announcing that the Chamber of Commerce had decided to place an exhibit of minerals and forest products in the Chamber of Commerce building showing the resources of Hastings County. A letter was read from the Toronto Lions Den expressing great appreciation for the address given by Col. W. N. Ponton before them last week.

Y. W. C. T. U. MEETING

An interesting and instructive meeting of the Y. W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mr. A. McClatchie on Queen street on Wednesday evening at six o'clock. After tea, sandwiches and cake were served the chair was taken by the Vice-President, Miss E. Castrell. Misses Tucker and Farley took part in the devotional exercises and the business proceeded with a discussion on work. The usual Christmas baskets will be sent out carrying eatables, books, candies etc., from Miss Hill's residence, 162 Church St. The program was interspersed with music, Miss E. Forman singing, "My Task" in a most pleasing manner and Miss Helen Sulman's reading from L. M. Montgomery's "Ann's House of Dreams," added very much to the pleasure of the evening. Miss F. McClatchie the "Y" delegate to the recent W. C. T. U. convention in London gave her report and owing to the short time alloted her was unable to give as much as she had to give and that given made the girls wish they to what she gave the girls wish they too had been there to hear the reports of the various departments of work and to see the personnel of the Provincial W. C. T. U. The stories she gave added emphasis, and absence of numerous figures increased interest. The girls thought the right delegate was chosen and will look forward to hearing more of the splendid convention.

MERCHANT VICTIM OF CONFIDENCE GAME

Victim Put up $3,000 On $5,000 Gift; Now Mourns Loss.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. Nov. 23.—F. Mango, a local shoe merchant fell a victim today to two pleasant-spoken gentlemen and is mourning the loss of three thousand dollars which they flim-flammed from him. One of them, who had called on Mango last summer, representing himself to be a grocery traveler for a New York firm, turned up again yesterday with a story that he had gone down to the State of Massachusetts and purchased a farm on which he discovered a coal mine. As a result, he had become rich and was going to give $5,000 for the benefit of the poor in Niagara Falls. He asked Mango to accompany him to the convent to leave this $5,000, where it would be administered to the best advantage. The merchant readily consented.

On the way they met the other man, who suggested entrusting Mango with the administration of the $5,000 for the poor. The storekeeper accepted the responsibility, but was asked to produce some financial evidence that he was a man of standing worthy to be trusted. The merchant finally produced $3,000 in Victory Bonds. This with what was represented to be the $5,000 was wrapped up in a handkercihef and handed to the merchant. Finally, the merchant was to meet these gentlemen later at the station and see them off on the train. Mango hurried home and put his precious bundle in a place of security and hurried away to bid good-bye to the strangers at the station, but they were not to be found. When he went home he investigated the contents of the handkerchief, only to find that there was nothing but pieces of newspapers.

JAPAN WILL CUT ARMY TO ZERO

Baron Kato Makes Pledge at Washington Conference—For Defence Only.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Following the speeches of Premier Briand, Mr. A. J. Balfour and Senator Schanzer at the disarmament conference, Baron Kato responded on Japan's behalf. He spoke in Japanese.

After expressing Japan's appreciation of the sympathy for the sacrifices in men and wealth by France, Great Britain, Italy and the United States, ato said:

"Japan is quite ready to announce her support of the principle of relieving the burden of the people by reducing land armaments to the limit of national safety, and the preservation of order. Japan has not the slightest intention of maintaining land armament in excess of defensive necessities of the far east situation."

BELGIUM'S POSITION

Baron Kato pledged that Japan's army would be cut to the lowest point consistent with her national safety.

Great Britain did not promise any definite reduction in her army.

Belgium, Baron De Cartier said, had already reduced her army to the minimum, considering her national security.

All the nations expressed sympathy with the position of France in Europe but Balfour of Britain said Briand's speech was "not hopeful for any solution of the question of land armaments."

Baron De Cartier of Belgium outlined what Belgium had suffered during the war in loss of life, property deportations and other outrages..

Baron De Carter said that just as soon, however, as her national security was otherwise secured, Belgium would like to take part in further general reduction of land armements.

Secretary Hughes then briefly replied for the United States.

"No words ever spoken by France have fallen upon deaf ears in the United States," he said, to loud applause. "The heart of America was thrilled by France's valor and sacrifice.

"It is evident from what Premier Briand said, that what is essential that we may achieve the great ideal is the will to peace, and that cannot be until the institutions of liberty are safe.

"May I say to Premier Briand that there is no moral isolation for the defenders of liberty and justice."

READ WITH UNDERSTANDING

Hughes assured Briand that the American people would read his speech with understanding. What is needed to make progress possible is candor and frankness such as Briand employed.

"Then the will to peace may have its way," said Hughes.

Without attempting to outline at this time detailed practical means for land disarmament. Hughes said he felt sure the expressions from the various powers made it certain that the conference could find ways of dealing with it. The conference, he said, would "generate that disposition toward peace which is a greater security than armies, officers, guns and war material—the will to have peace."

The conference then sent the question of land armaments to the committee on armaments composed of the heads of delegations of the five leading powers. Adjournment then was taken subject to Hughes' call.

WOULD WIND UP U.F.O. COMPANY

er, he was entitled to, read paragraph eight of the petition in part.

Paragraph nine refers to the meeting held at the Carls-Rite Hotel at which "it was found impossible to obtain from the secretary-treasurer any definite information as to the condition of the company on its operations during the year ending October 31, 1921."

Paragraph ten amplifies the statement regarding losses Dr. Farewell claims was made to him by the president, Mr. Powers. He was informed that General Wholesalers Limited of which the U.F.O. Co-operative holds all issued stock, furnishing supplies to the Co-operative stores, that the loss in this branch of the company's business exceeded $100,000 for the current year; that losses in other branches of the company's business would make the loss in excess of $220,000, that this related to only a part of the company's year, and that the company would continue to lose on its operations for the balance of the year.

"And," says the petition, "the opinion has been expressed by the President of the company that in many departments those losses have arisen because of the inefficiency and inexperience on the part of the management of the company."

Paragraph eleven deals with the political activities of the secretary-treasurer and directors in the following terms:

"That the secretary-treasurer of the company, who is paid a salary to devote his time and attention to the business of the company, has devoted the greater portion of his time to politics and the majority of the directors of the company have attended to their several political ambitions and neglected the affairs of the company. Your petitioner presents that the heavy losses suffered in the past year by the company have been caused by the company's secretary-treasurer and the majority of the company's directors, devoting so much of their time to political matters that the business of the company has been neglected and generally mis-managed and if the company is not now wound up, such losses will be increased, to the damage of all shareholders of the company."

Dr. Farewell then refers to the statement of the company for 1920, lately examined, and expresses the belief that, properly considered, this statement shows a loss instead of a profit, and that no dividend should have been declared, as no proper provision was made for market reductions in the value of merchandise carried by the company. Such depreciation should have been not less than ten per cent., or $100,000, whereas, the financial report provided for a reserve for depreciation on merchandise of only $1,889.46.

Continuing, the petition presents that, by reason of the losses suffered, and the dividend payment referred to, the company's capital has been impaired to an extent in excess of 25 per cent., and that such impairment of capital will not likely be restored within one year; that the financial report for 1920 showed the company to be indebted, "in addition to an overdraft at the bank exceeding $400,000, in the sum of $27,841.78, in respect of accounts payable, and the company having operated this year at a heavy loss, your petitioner believes that the company is now as heavily indebted as on the 31st of October, 1920."

"Your petitioner desires," says the petition, in concluding, "that the affairs and business of the company should be investigated and that the transactions relating to the issue of the capital stock of the company, and the payment therefor and of the calls made thereon, be investigated and that the management of the company be investigated, and that the claims of creditors be investigated and their rights adjudicated upon."

Dr. Farewell states that he is advised that no machinery exists, except under "The Winding Up Act" and amending Acts to accomplish the objects mentioned, therefore the application will be made under that Act.

PREMIER MEIGHEN RECEIVES OVATION AT NAPANEE

SPEND MILLIONS ON ROAD WORK

75 Miles of Permanent Pavement Approved by Highways Department.

TENDERS IN SPRING

Two Spans of Belleville Bay Bridge to be Filled In.

TORONTO, Nov. 25.—About seventy-five miles of permanent pavement will be laid by the Ontario Department of Highways, according to plans given tentative approval. This list, upon which tenders will be called early in the spring, is not final, as it stands but it represents substantially the work the Government has in view, and forecasts an expenditure of at least $4,500,000. The sections of the Provincial system chosen for next season's work include 39.95 miles of concrete pavement, 25¼ miles of asphaltic concrete and 12.65 miles of bituminous penetration.

In addition, the plans call for nine miles of macadam roadway, 43.8 miles of macadam base course, 43 3-4 miles of earthwork and rockwork and a considerable amount of other construction including the Cooksville subway, the Bloor street east subway, Binkley's subway, the filling in of the northerly two spans of the Belleville-Prince Edward Bridge, 1,000 culverts and 300 miles of grading.

The Department has not yet completed its plans for gravel surfacing which will be carried on extensively during the season, largely by day labor.

LORD CURZON IS CRITICIZED

London Papers Comment Upon "Veiled Allusions" to Foreign Policy.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

London, Nov. 25.—Commenting on Lord Curzon's criticism of Briand's speech, the Daily Chronicle to-day declares that the government has been compelled to take a serious view of the French Premier's utterance, and the Daily News states that the Foreign Minister's "grave utterance is entirely true". The Times, however, interprets Curzon's "veiled allusions" as intended to explain that "manifest inadequacy of British Foreign Policy" was a result of the war, Britain not being able any longer to act independently. The Morning Post charges Lord Curzon with "venting his spleen on an ally" and thereby inviting some dangerous reorts. "French policy may be isolated" it says, "but it is certainly intelligible and successful, while Lord Curzon's is neither."

GRAVE AND CRITICAL STAGE

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

London, Nov. 25.—Hopes for a break in the dead-lock in the Irish situation hang upon the meeting of Sir James Craig with Premier Lloyd George and Lord Birkenhead to-day, but as they gathered for a conference at Downing Street it was admitted that the negotiations have reached a "grave and critical stage."

BOBCAYGEON STORES WERE BURGLARIZED

Seven Stores Entered Last Night — Booty Did Not Amount to Much.

LINDSAY, Nov. 25.—Burglars visited the village of Bobcaygeon Wednesday night, and entered some seven or eight stores. Strange to say their loot did not amount to agreat deal when totalled up, and the merchants feel that under the circumstances they got off pretty lucky.

F. W. Read, general merchant, reported the loss of boots, clothing, etc., amounting to about $70 or $80.

Mr. Copeland, plumber and hardware, reports the loss of $38 cash and $22 in flashlights and accessories.

R. A. Kennedy, general merchant, reports $20 in cash missing.

Conway Bros., general merchants had some cash and a few waists stolen. Loss about $25.

Peterkin's restaurant found a quantity of cigars, cigarettes and tobacco missing.

A. R. Croft, grocer, reported the loss of some small change.

Wright and Leber, confectionery, had some change in the till Wednesday night but it was missing Thursday morning.

Mr. Devitt, grocer, reports that the burglars entered his cellar, but were unable to proceed further.

Miss Edgar's novelty store was visited, but the thieves were heard at the door. Miss Edgar shouted at them and a man with a flashlight replied that they wanted a book. They were told to clear out and thus avoid trouble. Neither of the pair wore overcoats, one was dressed in dark clothes and the other in grey. Miss Edgar believes they went south towards Lindsay or Peterboro.

In every case, save one, the stores were entered through side or rear doors. In Croft's store they entered through a side window. They cleaned up strong on coppers, but overlooked $5 or $6 in change at Conway Bros.

SIRENS WILL SHRIEK WARNING OF ROBBERS

Bank of Hamilton Instals Electric Alarm at All its Branches.

TORONTO, Nov. 25.—The Bank of Hamilton has decided to instal burglar electric siren alarms on the outside of their 110 branches in Canada.

A test was made this afternoon at the branch bank, Yonge and Gould street. The siren is attached to the wall on the outside two storeys up. The interior of the bank is wired with many electric buttons hidden in secret places and if a robbery is attempted the staff push their buttons and the alarm automatically shrieks warning on the street.

The test this afternoon brought four constables to the bank at a gallop.

Bandit alarms have been considered by the bankers associations since the recent hold ups and it is understood that all Canadian banks will adopt the alarm. There are ten thousand branch banks in Canada.

The police think the banks should build up their railings inside the banks to the ceiling. They contend this is just as good protection as bank alarms, as in all the bank holdups the bandits have hurtled the railings that separate the bank staff from the public.

JAPAN SECURES FAR BEST DEAL

U. S. and British Fleets Would be Equalized at End of Ten Years.

THE NAVIES COMPARED

Limitation Proposals of Mr. Hughes Analyzed by Statisticians.

Washington, Nov. 25.—The demon statistician has been at work on the disarmament proposals of Secretary of State Hughes, and his efforts have resulted in elaborate tables, showing how Great Britain, the United States and Japan will fare from the naval standpoint should the Hughes plan be adopted.

The finding of the statistician is that the Hughes proposals is "generous" on the part of the United States, both as regards the proposed "5-5-3" ratio and the retained tonnage phases of the United States plan. It is further found that Japan is securing by far the best deal throughout.

To treat the tonnage figures of the Hughes plan from a new angle, the "5-5-3" ratio represents a distribution of capital ship tonnage on the basis of Japan keeping a fleet representing 23 per cent. of the total of the three powers, the other two dividing the remainder. During the ten-year period, however, Great Britain would have in the neighborhood of 43 per cent.; the United States would have something more than 35 per cent., and Japan over 21 per cent. of the total. The change at the end of the ten-year holiday, represents equalization of the United States and British fleets, to which Great Britain has already agreed.

Under the "5-5-3" ratio and the proposed limitation auxiliary tonnage, as well as capital craft, through application of the replacement rule of maximum, the British and United States fleets would reach a total of 1,120,000 tons in all combat craft, and Japan 672,000 This makes possible a comparison of the relation of the fleets to various factors representative of the place of each power among the nations.

Favorable to Japan

Against the simple question of geographical area of each, for instance, the limited fleets would mean for Japan more than 2,500 tons of naval strength per thousand square miles. The same figure for the United States would be approximately 300 tons, and for the British Empire between eighty and ninety tons.

Even more striking in disproportion favorable to Japan is the comparison on the basis of accepted estimates of national wealth. Japan would have something like 26,000 or 27,000 fleet tons per billion dollars in national wealth, while the United States figures would be little more than 3,000 tons per billion, and the British 6,000 tons per billion.

Disproportion again holds true as to foreign commerce of each power Japan would have almost 200 tons of naval tonnage per million dollars in her import and export business over a period of years. The United States would have little more than eighty tons per million, and the British between forty and fifty tons.

Again, in relationship of naval to commercial tonnage of each power, and navies are built to some extent to support the commercial strength afloat of their flags. Japan would have nearly 170 tons of fighting ships per thousand tons of Japanese commercial craft. The United States would have little more than sixty tons under such tabulation and Great Britain less than fifty tons.

ACQUIT AHRENS OF WIFE MURDER

Verdict of Coroner's Jury Probing Woman's Death at Kitchener.

HUSBAND TESTIFIES

Relates Story of Tragedy and Says Woman Fell Out of Punt.

KITCHENER, Ont., Nov. 25.—Carl Ahrens, charged with the murder of his wife, was exonerated last night by the coroner's jury, which yesterday afternoon and evening investigated the death of the woman who was drowned from a punt while crossing the Grand River in company with her husband to visit his summer camp. The verdict was to the effect that Mrs. Ahrens came to her death by accidental drowning.

The room was crowded and great interest manifested, hundreds of people being unable to gain admission to the building. Crown Attorney D. S. Bowlby represented the Crown, and H. J. Sims, K.C., appeared for the accused, who was escorted into the council chamber by Provincial Officers J. Gardner and H. Ward.

The first witness called was Carl Ahrens, the husband of the deceased, who was closely examined for over two hours. He said he married Helen May Armour in May, 1914 after knowing her for two weeks. They lived in Ottawa for two years and Montreal a year and a half, and returned to Carleton Place, where they lived until September, 1919, and then separated, the witness coming to Kitchener. He did not hear from his wife until October 21, 1921, when it was suggested in her letter that they should meet and discuss living together as man and wife.

After almost daily communication by telephone and letter the witness went to Carleton Place, after he had secured a permit to carry a revolver, which he considered he might need in view of the opposition of his wife's relatives. Mrs. Ahrens agreed to come to Kitchener to allow her to make up her mind if she would stay or not, arriving in this city on November 11. She agreed to live with her husband if her father was satisfied and proposed returning home for her clothing.

Norman Weber and William Culligan, who assisted in recovering the body, informed the jury that the body was in a sitting position under the ice in 30 inches of water when found near where the accident took place. The fur coat was over the face of the drowned woman.

The evidence of about 15 other witnesses was heard but nothing of a substantial nature was elicited.

YORKSHIRE POST ON ELECTION

Overseas Opinion Does Not Favor Success of the Progressives.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

London, Nov. 25.—Discussing the Canadian election the Yorkshire Post notes the rapid rise of the Progressives but declares that there is little expectation that they will secure a majority, although home supporters hope to see Progressives and labor strong enough to forsee the vision of Liberals and Conservatives and pave the way for a straight fight in the next election. Stating that the difference between the Liberals and Conservatives on the tariff is merely one of degree it is of the opinion that no party will have a majority and that there will be a period of confusion.

PARTY HONESTY OR TREACHERY?

Premier Meighen at Napanee Placed Issues Frankly Before the Electors.

RECEIVED OVATION

Candor and Honesty in Political Life Should Triumph Over Trickery.

"Are you going to vote for candor in political life or for trickery and chicanery, chaos, confusion, retrogression—instead of stability, prosperity and progression," asked Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Premier of Canada in addressing the large audience of electors gathered at Napanee Thursday afternoon to hear the issues of the day discussed. The attitude of the audience in answer to Premier Meighen's pointed question left no doubt as to the way they would vote in the coming election.

The meeting was a magnificent tribute to the Premier, the large hall being filled to the doors while many were unable to gain admittance. Farmers came from miles around to hear Canada's first citizen and were more than rewarded for the effort by the masterly presentation of the issues before the people of Canada to-day, by the Premier, whose frankness and honesty compels admiration even from those who may not see eye to eye with him in political affairs. Premier Meighen's message is the same in all parts of Canada and he does not resort to those petty political tricks which form such a large part of the repertoire of his opponents.

Canada's First Citizen

A charming feature of the meeting which created great enthusiasm occurred when a dainty little lady of about six summers presented the Premier with a beautiful bouquet of roses and said,

"These flowers are for the nicest man in Canada to-day."

The building rocked with cheers as the sentiment expressed by the little miss swept over the audience and met with instant approval.

Proud of the Flag

Belleville was well represented at the meeting and the delegation from this city to meet the Premier and wish him success in his nation-wide campaign included several ladies deeply interested in the cause.

In the absence of Mr. Porter, who had been billed to speak, the chairman called on W. C. Mikel, K.C., of Belleville, who made a splendid speech, practical and to the point. Mr. Mikel's speech was impromptu and he said he felt like the young speaker at a banquet who was called upon unexpectedly and rising to his feet slowly said, "Mr. Chairman—Mr. Chairman—I, I, I, Mr. Chairman, I, I, I, really don't know what to speak about"—when an Irishman present jumped up and said impatiently, "speak about a minute and sit down."

"Canada for the Canadians", was a good slogan, said Mr. Mikel, "be proud of the fact that you are Canadians and show more pride and ostentation where your flag is concerned. I sometimes feel that we Canadians are too reticent wheer our flag is concerned. That is one thing I admire about the people of the United States. There is no bashfulness on their part to display and show pride in their flag. Somehow we seem to feel that we do not want ours waved. We cannot get too ostentatious about our flag. A prominent American statesman said: "never join a party that does not carry a flag and keep time to the music of union."

In speaking of the opposition, Mr. Mikel said that there was a man in this riding who calls himself a member of the Progressive Party, but actions speak louder than words, and one glance over the actions of the Conservative party in the railway policy, the Hydro-electric development, the giving votes to women, passing of the temperance act, etc., etc., surely entitles this great party of ours to be called the Progressive Party.

In conclusion Mr. Mikel read extracts from articles in the various agricultural papers and an open letter from Joshua Fletcher, the originator, founder and president of the United Farmers' Association in the West, in which he offers his resignation as president on account of "the element of deception, intrigue and falsehood," and following a policy which "is one decisive step toward national suicide." Mr. Mikel, read extracts showing that Joshua Fletcher, Ernest Drury and editors of a number of agricultural journals have seen the danger of the farmers' business organizations being wrecked by going into politics as a party. Mr. Mikel was heartily applauded.

The Candidate

Mr. Carscallen, the candidate for reelection, was the next speaker, and briefly but clearly outlined the planks in his opponent's platform, and compared them with the principal plank Adequate protection for farm and country, and Canada for the Canadian. Mr. Carscallen gave a detailed account of the products of a farm of one hundred acres for one year, and the tariff thereon, concluding with an estimate of the outcome should the opposition's proposition of "al food-stuffs put on the free list", be adopted.

Immediately following Mr. Carscallen's remarks a very pretty musical number was rendered by an orchestra of two violins, piano and Xylophone.

Puerile Prejudice

Premier Meighen was supported at his Napanee meeting by W. C. Mikel, K.C., of Belleville, who discussed class appeals of the Progressive party, and by A. B. Carscallen, the Government candidate in Lennox and Addington, who dealt with the effect of the Opposition parties' tariff proposals upon the farmers of Ontario. The Prime Minister himself replied to the assertion that more farmers were required in Parliament to defend the farmers' interests. He pointed out that a large proportion of the members of the Government had come from the farms. "Mr. Crerar is not a practical farmer any more than I am," said Mr. Meighen, "he left the farm just about the same time I did, to pursue another calling in life. How can he stand and ask that this Government be dismissed because it has as Minister of Agriculture, instead of the head of a big grain company, the most practical and in many ways the most advanced farmer in the Dominion."

"Are we ever going to get away from this puerile prejudice that a man is any worse on account of his calling" asked Mr Meighen.

Criterion to Follow

"A man is a man by the measure of his achievements, by the measure of his character. Select your men for their worth as men, select them from every occupation, because of their capacity to render service to the public and because of the cause they represent. That is the only plea I make to you on that ground. Canada is too big a country, Canadians are people of too much common sense to be moved by the appeals to prejudice and to class."

Talking of the tariff policy of the Wood-Crerar party, Mr. Meighen declared that never in the history of the country was a policy so selfishly made placed before the electors." He discussed the details of the Wood-Crerar movement's policy and asserted that the United Grain Growers, Limited, would be better employed if they devoted some of their profits to the establishment of a plant for the manufacture of agricultural implements, instead of using them to support newpapers to promote the political ambitions of Mr. Wood and Mr. Crerar.

PREMIER ISSUES MESSAGE TO THE WOMEN OF CANADA

Voice of Woman Heard With Same Authority as Man's, and Because She Predominates, Owing to Her Numbers, on Her Conscience Rests Chief Responsibility in the Coming Election.

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 25.—Premier Meighen this evening handed out the following message to the women of Canada. The call is not now to the men of Canada to stand by their country. But the call is still more to the women of this Dominion. For the first time in our history woman's voice is heard with the same authority as man's. Because of her numbers, the voice of woman predominates. On the conscience of our women now rests the chief responsibility for determining what is to be done with Canada. Out of their intelligence, out of their love of country is to come the decision by whom and for what end this nation is to be governed. Think of the past, think of the hours of trial, think of the peril unspeakable in whose shadow we lived for years. Is it not the best, the wisest thing to stand by those who through all those years themselves stood true and strong? Look over the battle array now as it shapes up for this campaign. In which camp do you find a clear, vigorous record of performance? In which camp do you find consistence of policy? From which side do you hear directness of appeal; the voice that calls for unity, candour and confidence among all classes of the state; the voice that rings true to Canada and to the Empire in whose fold we live? I ask the women of Canada as well to take a look into the future. We cannot have prosperity; we cannot get on and pet up in the world without strong and stable government. You cannot maintain responsible government at all unless parties appeal as parties upon defined and understandable policies upon which all their candidates stand. You cannot have either stable government or responsible government from an aggregation whose candidates are at cross purposes on every question that concerns the nation. From such men there can come no policy that does not rest on trickery and that does no invo've betrayal of at least half of their electoral support. The women of our country rose to their rights by their patience, their exertions, their sacrifice in war; they earned the full measure of citizenship. The most treasured, the most solemn privilege of citizenship they exercise just a few days from now. The women voters of this Dominion will show by their first great assertion of suffrage that they require, first of all, and most of all, consistency in public men, fidelity to pledges, frankness from political leaders, honor from political parties. They will show, too, that they prize, as the men through many a test have prized, the commercial integrity of our country, a policy of courage and of a spirit, a policy that breathes always fidelity to Canada and all that Canada means, in the great era that is opening of a more secure and happier world.

KINGSTON FIRE DESTROYS STORES

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

CIVIC COMMITTEES IN SESSION

Business Transacted of a Routine Nature—Recommendations Adopted.

At a regular meeting of the Civic Committees held last night, a number of accounts was passed and some recommendations were adopted and passed on to the Council. Aldermen Bennett and French were appointed a committee to prepare an estimate as to making of a women's cell at the police station. The recommendations adopted were as follows:

Recommended that Mr. John Hart be refunded the sum of $25, amount overpaid on taxes.

Recommended that the City Engineer and Manager of Water Works be instructed to report on the most satisfactory way to give Fruit Machinery Company water service and sewer.

Recommended that Mr. Bert Asselstine be refunded the sum of $100 on a pool room license as he had to procure a year's license which expires on the last day of February.

Recommended that the G.W.V.A. be given a grant of $25 to apply on their annual Christmas tree expenses.

Recomended that Aldermen French and Bennett be a committee to report on the advisability and estimated expense of fitting up a ladies' cell in the police station.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 1248, or write The Intelligencer.

Good Idea

C. V.—I see that it is contemplated holding the civic nominations on Friday, December 23rd instead of on Monday, December 26th. The idea is an excellent one provided it is legal to do so, as Monday I am led to believe will be observed as a holiday owing to Christmas day falling on Sunday this year. That considerable interest will this year be taken in the municipal election is apparent which is a progressive move. Citizens who are large taxpayers should offer their services for the management of civic affairs.

Where is The Sand?

S. T.—I see that although the past two days the pavements in various parts of the city and especially on the hills have been somewhat dangerous to pedestrians owing to their icy condition. No sand has been used. Has the department of the City Council under which head this work would come run out of sand. I understand that this is not an expensive undertaking for a Belleville Council and it would be something that would be much appriciated by pedestrians and may also have the effect of preventing an accident. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Extending the Franchise

W. V.—I see by the papers that the Provincial Secretary of Ontario has addressed a communication to Municipalities relative to the idea of extending the franchise to the wives and daughters of owners of property in the municipal election. The women have now the privilege of exercising their franchise in Dominion and Provincial politics and possibly it would be a good idea to extend to them the privilege in municipal elections. In the rural municipalities should this become law it would mean an increase in representation in County Councils, which by some counties is not considered necessary.

At Napanee

I. E.—I saw at Napanee yesterday men who were able to tell us straight from the shoulder what we do not know, for we women are not able to take in all the tariff means till we are told in straight, forcible language such as Hon. Arthur Meighen used to us. One woman said he just put it in a nut shell we are the debtor country and "they" the creditor. So why should we take down the tariff wall?

THANKSGIVING DAY IN UNITED STATES

New York, Nov. 25.—Thanksgiving Day was celebrated quietly yesterday throughout the United States. So far as New York is concerned the feature of the day was the visit to the metropolis of Premier Briand, on his way way home to France from Washington. During the day M. Briand was to receive honorary degrees from Columbia and New York universities.

As is usual on Thanksgiving, much attention was devoted to providing the poor with the means of celebration.

Music and Drama

STORY OF COLLEGE GIRL INTERESTING AND FUNNY

It is seldom that a musical comedy has a semblance of a plot, however, "The College Girl" is an exception. The story deals with the life in a University. Professor Pepp, played by Ted Sprague, has visited Russia to study social conditions and has met up with a former student of the college, who introduces him into a society known as the Russian Redeemers and he is chosen to kill a prominent member of the aristocracy. He escapes from Russia and upon his return his nerves are entirely shattered from fear of the revenge of the Redeemers. To add to his troubles, an old friend of his, C. B. Buttonbuster of Boston, appears upon the scene. He is disguised as a boy and insists upon entering college as a freshman so that he can flirt with the pretty co-eds. He learns of the Professor's Russian escapades and poses as a Russian redeemer forcing the professor to accept him as a student and to agree to his marriage with his ward Miss Betty Yardner, who has already been wooed and won by Buttonbuster's son Howard. Howard appears as his father and the situations resulting are the acme of fun. Bob Gorman as Buttonbuster, the rejuvenated, does the best work of his life. Mrs. A. P. Allen as Betty, and Mr. Jas Booth as Howard, carry their parts perfectly. As Minerva Boulder, who is looking for Buttonbuster with a gun, Miss Anna Ponton gives a delightful characterization. Miss Ivy Dickens, as Petuna Muggins, is as usual, impossible to improve upon.

The song and dance of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wiliams is one of the outstanding features of the play.

Mr. Harry Adaskin the phenomenal Russian Violinist will round out a cast of entertainers hard to equal.

DOUBLE FEATURE BILL AT REGENT TO-NIGHT

Owing to the many Belleville screen fans who through business on Saturday wil be unable to see Charlie Chaplin in "The Kid", the most brilliant effort of his wondrous career, and which is now town talk, arrangements have been made to present a double feature bill at the Regent To-night only, consisting of Charlie Chaplin in the 6-reel comedy "The Kid", Henry B. Walthall and Rosemary Theby in "A Splendid Hazard" a 6-reel Allan Dwan First National picture and a mermaid comedy. The performance will start at 7-45 p.m. to-night.

"JUST SUPPOSE" AT GRIFFIN'S TO-NIGHT

To-night at Griffin's Opera House Edward H. Robins will present his much heralded company of artists in the comedy romance "Just Suppose" the story of which is based on the recent visit of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. The patrons of Griffin's are respectfully reminded and requested to remember that "Just Suppose" is not intended to represent any actual fact but, merely tells in a highly humorous manner, with just the right touch of heart interest, just what might have happened if the propitous moment had arrived during the visit of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales.

The presenting company have all been what might be termed "hand picked" for the different roles they are to play. Graham Velsey has been brought from England to play the leading role, as has Norman Cope and Walter Howe, likewise Murray Bennett to play the different English roles, Kathleen Wallace the noted motion picture and stage beauty is the young southern girl of the comery, Mrs. Julia Hurley with more than fifty years of stage activities to her credit is the grandmother, Thomas H. McKnight, Walter Ainislie and Harry P. Young all have been seen locally in some of the big productions.

The entire company that Mr. Robins will present to-night is the same identically as seen during the record run of "Just Suppose" last summer at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto.

PATRICIA TRIO

For a number of winter seasons the management of the Y. M. C. A. of this city have had a star course which has proven to be both elevating and entertaining. If during this season the entertainers are on a par with the Patricia Trio which last night gave the initial programme then there will certainly be no reason for a word of complaint. Misses Hale and Margolis and Mr. Collum who comprised the trio are all artists and know how to please an audience, whether in song reading or the manipulation of an instrument. Miss Margolis is a talented reader and the selections given were of a nature to demonstrate her ability in every respect. Miss Hale and Mr. Callum are both possessed of rich voices and were heard to advantage in the numbers given by them. That the audience were in sympathy with the entertainers was evidence by the hearty applause which greeted each number. The programme presented was as follows:-

Awake Dearest one—Tell Me Pretty Maiden, From Floradora—Miss Hale and Mr. Callum.

Reading, "The Finger of God,"—Miss Margolis.

Denny Doover—Rolling Down to Reo—Mr. Callum.

Dawn—Where Blossoms Grow—Miss Hale.

Butterflies—Lullaby—Miss Margolis.

Waters of Minnetonka—Honey, if You Only Knew—Two little Love Bees—Miss Hale and Mr. Callum.

A Lesson With a Fan—Naughty Little Clock—Miss Margolis.

Il Trovatore—Sympathy — Miss Hale and Mr. Callum.

Story of Harp—Miss Margolis.

Garden of Roses—Ah Bid Me Not Resign Love—Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes—Mr. Callum.

Little Rebel—Miss Margolis.

Last Rose of Summer—Passing Bye—Top of The Morning—Miss Hale.

Wild Irish Rose—When Irish Eyes are Smiling—Ensemble.—God Save The King.

FIGHT TO SAVE SMUGGLED WINE

Pitched Battle With Revenue Men on Nova Scotia Beach.

SYDNEY, Nov. 24.—Six hundred and fifty gallons of choice French wines, valued at over $16,000, was the prize for which smugglers and revenue officers engaged in a pitched battle on the beach at Mainadieu, fifty miles from Sydney, last night. Blood flowed freely. The smugglers at first had the better of the fight, but reinforcements from the revenue cutter, Restless, finally turned the scale in favor of the law, with the result that after the contraband had been captured and recaptured several times, the schooner Isma, her crew and several alleged smugglers were placed under arrest and will be conveyed to Sydney for trial as soon as the weather permits.

Several casks of liquor, which were hurried off in motor trucks under cover of the excitement, were intercepted by an armed party of customs officers from Glace Bay, recaptured and brought back to the Restless.

The Isma has been under suspicion all summer and two months ago was seized at Port Morien on a charge of having landed sixty-five gallons of liquor there, but the prosecution failed.

In spite of the constant patrolling of a cruiser and two armed cuttersr, which have made numerous searches and seizures, smuggling operations on the Cape Breton coast this summer have been the boldest and most extensive in the history of the oldest customs officers.

Transportation and Your Safety

CAR SHORTAGES have already developed at many of the coal mines of the United States. Without cars to load, the mines cannot produce; without production of coal, the welfare of the public cannot be conserved.

So far the shortages have not been serious in proportions, but with cold weather arriving, it can be expected that they will increase and may materially hinder the movement of coal.

Safety to your family can be secured by immediately stocking your coal. Coal prices will not decrease, and they may advance, if a transportation emergency arises.

TORONTO MAN NOW FEELS JUST FINE

Had a World of Trouble for Six Years, Before Taking Tanlac, Declares Jenner

"The very first bottle of Tanlac I took brought back my appetite in full force, and now I feel fine all the time" said George T. Jenner, 980 Ossington Ave., Toronto, Ont.

"For six years my stomach gave me a world of trouble. My appetite left me, I always had a mean, sickening taste in my mouth, and I could scarcely eat anything without getting so sick I could hardly stand it. My food seemed to collect in a lump, like lead, right in the pit of my stomach and it often soured and nauseated me so I couldn't retain it. I was very bilious, and had awful headaches and nervous spells when I just suffered agony. I lay awake a great deal at night and always felt tired and shaky. At times I had an awful pain in the back of my head and neck which lasted for several days.

"Well, I started on Tanlac, and I certainly am glad I got it. I can eat anything now, and no matter how much I eat, everything agrees with me perfectly. My nerves are better and stronger and feel better in every way than I have in a long time. Tanlac done so much for me I am glad to recommend it."

Gordon Roberts will play hockey with Otawa team.

TOOK SHIP'S WHEEL WHILE MEN FOUGHT

Brave Act of Woman Saved Life of Captain Poppe.

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—Captain George F. Poppe, skipper of the schooner Lillian E. Kerr, came to the Federal Court today with charges of mutiny on the high seas against Frank Howell, a negro sailor and with high praise for the conduct of his wife, Mrs. Edna Poppe, during what he said, was his fight for life with Howell. The woman held the wheel of the vessel while the men fought on deck, Howell with a knife, her husband with a pistol, the latter said. She kept the schooner its course, the negro crew meantime grouped on another part of the deck, offering no help.

Howell was shot in the back. He was at the City Hospital today under police guard. Physicians said that while his condition was serious, he probably would recover.

Capt. Poppe said that after he found Howell, who was shipped at Jacksonville, asleep across the wheel on November 13, Howell attacked him with a knife. Mrs. Poppe gave her husband his gun and the skipper said he shot Howell when he was attacked a second time. The seaman said Captain Poppe fired first.

After Howell was subdued, Mrs. Poppe was relieved at the wheel. Last Sunday night off this port, captain and mate left the vessel to obtain supplies. The skipper's wife was left standing guard with a gun. Heavy seas prevented the officers' return and she was in command all night.

"I had no misgivings," Captain Poppe said. "I was fully satisfied that my wife could cope with any situation that might arise. She is an expert shot and fearless."

Mrs. Poppe, a native of Windsor, Ontario, has been sailing with her husband for four years. She was in charge of his ship again today while he went to court.

PASSES AWAY AT KEENE

Peterboro, Nov. 23.—John Lang, ex-M.P., for East Peterboro', died at his home at Keene after a brief illness. He represented the riding in the House of Commons in the Liberal interests for 15 years, from 1887 to 1891, and from 1896 to 1905.

Mr. Lang's interest in politics took precedence only to that in municipal affairs. He served on the Otonabee Township Council, and was elected to the County Council for 12 years by acclamation. He was interested in all municipal movements, and was active in promoting the Trent Canal and advocating better roads. He was a Presbyterian.

His wife died about a year ago. Two sons survive, John Lang of Otonabee, and James of South G. A. Gillespie, Peterboro'; Mrs. William Thompson, Mount Julian; Mrs. Edgar Wood, Otonabee, and Mrs. George Gall, Keene.

Messages from all parts of Canada approve of efforts of Washing Conference for peace.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

YOUNG MOTHER: What you must guard against is chafing. While there is no particular objection to using powder; it is much better to use CAMPANA'S ITALIAN BALM before powdering the baby. A liberal application of CAMPANA'S ITALIAN BALM to the affected parts after each bath will go a great way to prevent chafing and irritation of the skin. You will also find it a wonderful preventative of chapped or red hands. CAMPANA'S ITALIAN BALM keeps the skin soft and smooth and reinforces the natural oils of the skin in performing their naturarl functions. RAILWAY EARNINGS IN UNITED KINGDOM

London, Nov. 24.—The gross earnings of the railway companies in the United Kingdom in 1920, as shown in the Government Blue Book, were £267, 000,000, being only £5,500,000 over the expenditure. This balance is £7, 000,000 less than the balance in 1919, the decrease being due to the vastly heavier expenditure necessitated, owing to hogher wages and other increased costs of operating.

There was a big decrease in the number of first-class passengers carried on the railways, but an increase of over 6,000,000 in the total number of passengers. The freight carried on the railway was increased by 13,000,000 tons.

The Government has paid £43,000,000 in compensation under the state control scheme since it was abolished.

JE ME SOUVEINS.

Canada's future greatness depends in large measure upon the spirit of co-operation and national unity of its citizens. During the war the province of Quebec was out of step with the other provinces and not in sympathy with the government's war policy so emphatically endorsed by the citizens of all Canada, except Quebec, at the polls. Since the war the other provinces have been willing to forgive and forget any antagonisms they might have felt against Quebec's actions during the war, but the amazing spectacle is presented of a bunch of misguided and disgruntled politicians sowing the vile seeds of race hatred and political rancour in Quebec and calling for revenge on the government of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen because the war was not conducted to their liking. All over Quebec at political meetings the revenge campaign is proceeding at white heat and in some places so intense is the feeling worked up by these crafty politicians that physical violence occurs and the meetings break up in free fights. The Montreal Gazette in reporting a political meeting at Nicolet, Quebec, said:

> In the course of his remarks, Hon. Jacques Bureau M.P., said:
> "He did not want to raise prejudice, but felt the French Canadians were justified in treating advances made to them with contempt, and in refusing the outstretched hand. Mr. Bureau referred to the entry of Dr. Edwards in the Meighen Cabinet. To Dr. Edwards a French Canadian was worse than a pest, and a Catholic was still worse. It was he who had the Jesuit Novitiate at Guelph raided by soldiers because a son of Rt. Hon. C. J. Doherty was there. With Dr. Edwards a Minister, the people of Quebec could expect the same thing over again."
> Mr. Lucien Cannon, M.P., started off by promising Mr. Bureau that all the young Liberal members of the Quebec district would aid him in his fight in Three Rivers against Dr. Normand, if he wanted any aid. Mr. Cannon talked of the loss of the constitutional liberties won on the battlefields of St. Eustace and St. Denis. Mr. Meighen was on trial on many charges, said Mr. Cannon, mentioning the War Times Election Act, conscription, closure and other matters. Mr. Meighen had stayed at home and sent others to fight. One promise Mr. Meighen had kept, and that was to spend the last man and the last dollar for the Empire. Could anyone in Quebec support Mr. Meighen? demanded Mr. Cannon. No matter how low a man falls, he rarely falls so low as to forget his mother. "We have a mother in the Province of Quebec," said Mr. Cannon. "Our mother was insulted, was dragged in the mud, slandered by the men who now ask you to support them. Let us remember that Quebec is our mother and that we have no right to pardon those who insulted our mother. Who cancelled the exemptions? Who dragged you from court to court? It was Meighen. I am not appealing to prejudice, but to your memories. We do not forget our motto: 'Je me souveins.' We remember what we have suffered, what we had to submit to, and no one can reproach us for remembering. The Government is making love to us. Remember, Judas Iscariot betrayed Christ in the garden with a kiss. We have enough of Judas. The French Canadians were crucified on every platform in the other provinces. Laurier was there to defend you all the time, though he was betrayed even by those whom he had made. When we came to make a choice of a successor to Laurier, we did not pick among those who had abandoned him in 1917. We did not choose a man who was disloyal, but we chose Mr. King because he represented to us faithfulness, loyalty and patriotism. The English newspapers who live on the government attack him. Let them continue their nefarious campaign, but to his colleagues Mr. King will remain the incarnation of fidelity and the personification of courage when treason made gaps in our ranks."

CRISP COMMENT

The little girl in Napanee who, in presenting a bouquet to Premier Meighen, said "These flowers are for the best man in Canada," voiced a thought which many will endorse, at least to the extent of "the best man for Canada." "Out of the mouths of babes thou has perfected praise."

* * *

"Pogo Sticks, which have had a wide vogue overseas, particularly among stout people wishing to reduce their weight by exercise, have reached Canada. The exercise is a cross between stilts, a three-legged race and a sack race, and seems to base its popularity upon hops.

* * *

Candidate McIntosh says he is in favor of protection. Then why is he not supporting E. Guss Porter, the protectionist candidate? Candidate McIntosh's leader, Hon. Mr. Crerar, says protection is immoral and economically unsound. According to McIntosh, Crerar is all wrong, but the only trouble is that Candidate McIntosh is in the wrong camp. He should be fighting under the Meighen banner for his principles instead of trying to carry the free trade banner while wearing a protectionist uniform.

* * *

An old Belleville boy now living in the United States, in a letter to a relative here, has this to say about the free trade insanity: "So they are trying to put over Free Trade in Canada. All I will say is that it will be a great thing for the United States if it pass, but—God pity Canada !!! No doubt the farmers will vote heavily for it and it would help them for a while, but in the long run they would be ruined along with the manufacturers. Other countries have tried it until they found that they were headed for bankruptcy; then woke up and put a stiff tax on imports."

TORONTO SURGEON SAVES MAN'S LIFE ON LINER AT SEA

Leviathan Halted in Mid-Ocean While Operation is Performed.

Montreal, Nov. 21.—A big storm which carried away part of her bridge during which a major operation was successfully performed were among the unusual incidents of the Canadian Pacific Minnedosa's last voyage of this season here which concluded at 8 o'clock last evening. The big liner had boisterous weather the whole way over and the weather indeed became a very serious factor in a life and death operation which had to be performed on Thomas Watson, an able seaman, who developed appendicitis. The man was taken in charge by Lieut.-Col. W. P. Peake, R.A.M.C. acting as ship's surgeon, and was operated on by a Toronto surgeon, Dr. D. H. Fauman 308 Dundas street west, who was a passenger returning from a post-graduate course in the Rotunda Hospital Dublin. Watson had to be kept under the anaesthetic for two hours, the case proving to be a very bad one.

While Commander R. H. Latta brought the Minnedosa down to just sufficient speed to keep her head on to the big seas, the electricians on the ship had rigged up a 300-candlepower electric light above the operating table. Thus on a floor level which rose and fell with every big wave and rolled and occasionally pitched, Dr. Fauman operated. Lt.-Col. Peake, administered the anasthetic with the Minnedosa's two trained nurses in attendance. Both surgeons declared after the operation that the nurses and hospital attendant Hart subsequently saved the man's life, his condition being extremely low. The operation was performed last Tuesday and on Saturday evening Seaman Watson was definitely out of danger and well enough to be removed to a hospital in Quebec.

The two nurses then retired to their cabins and slept a round of the clock. Dr. Fauman donated his services. Watson is a man of middle age and has a wife with one child. He will spend his Christmas in Liverpool with his family, his wife having previously been informed of his illness by wireless and is now assured of his early recovery.

POISONOUS ALCOHOL STOLEN FROM MONTREAL LABORATORY

Montreal, Nov. 24.—Burglars stole ten barrels of alcohol from the laboratory of Raoul Jacob on Panet Street, according to a report received at the detective bureau.

The spirit was for use in the manufacture of liniments and iodine, and the police are exceedingly anxious to locate it before it can be sold throughout the city for beverage purposes, with possibly serious results. It was valued at $2,440 plus a tax of $1,600, a total of $4,040.

Letters to The Editor

HELEN KELLER

To the Editor of the Intelligencer—

Dear Sir:—Mark Twain says of Helen Keller that she has been the most remarkable woman who has appeared in this world since Joan of Arc.

I had the pleasure of seeing both Miss Keller and Mrs. Sullivan Macey, her friend, companion and teacher from the time she was seven years of age. Think of a child, deaf, dumb and blind, yet this child by tuition by Mrs. Macey obtained a collegiate education and graduated at a celebrated American College. She has written five or six volumes upon various subjects, including a large book describing her life.

Miss Keller is a beautiful woman, tall and graceful with a sweet expression. She will stand at a reception of perhaps one hundred persons and with Mrs. Macey by her side, will name each person who passes—Upon one occasion when Mark Twain passed she simply placed her hand upon his head and said. "Mr. Clemens.' He subsequently asked her how she knew him and she laughed heartily, and said "I smelled you." As each person passed Helen would place her hand upon Mrs. Macey's throat and give the name accurately, Mrs. Macey pronouncing the name.

She reads by the Braille system. Her sense of smell is acute. She advanced into the room alone approached a piano, upon which were carnation and bending over, inhaled their fragrance. Her voice is peculiar. The words pronounced slowly and with a strange modulation.

She has met many actors and actresses and is fond of theatres. She has conversed with Joseph Jefferson, Ellen Terry, Irene Forbes Robertson and many others. A great friend of the celebrated Bishop Brooks. She says, "Is it not true, then, that my life with all its limitations touches at many points the life of the world Beautiful. Everything has its wonders even darkness and silence, and I learn whatever state I may be in, therein to be content. Sometimes it is true, a sense of isolation enfolds me like a cold mist, as I sit alone, and wait at life's shut gate. Beyond, there is light, and music, and sweet companionship, but I may not enter. Fate, silent, pitiless, bars the way. Fain would I question his impervious decree; for my heart is still undisciplined and passionate; but my tongue will not utter the bitter futile words, that rise to my lips, and they fall back into my heart like unshed tears. Silence si's immense upon my soul. Then comes hope with a smile and whispers, "There is joy in self-forgetfulness." So I try to make the light in other's eyes my sun, the music in other's ears my sympathy, the smile on other's lips, my happiness.

SHE TOOK HER MOTHER'S ADVICE

Now is in the Best of Health because she took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Kessock, Sask.—"My mother has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and upon learning of my troubles advised me to try it, as I seemed all run down after the flu and had a very bad weakness. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine and used the Sanitive Wash also Dr. Brown's Capsules and Prescription and am much better in every way. I am willing for you to use my letter as a testimonial as I recommend your medicines."—Mrs. IRENE NELSON, Kessock, Sask.

It is not always in business that a woman is forced to give up her work on account of ill health. It is quite as often the woman who does her own work at home. When backaches and headaches drive out all ambition, when that bearing-down sensation attacks you, when you are nervous and blue, the one great help for such ailments is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Charles McKee Collapsed From Heart Failure.

PETERBORO, Nov. 25.—While cycling up a hill near the R. A. Garbutt farm in Smith township Wednesday evening, Charles McKee, 213 King street, collapsed and died of heart failure. He was found about 9 o'clock the same evening beside the road. At the time of his death he was on his way to visit Arthur Franks, of Smith.

Mr. McKee was born in Ireland, coming to Canada in 1913. He was 36 years of age and is survived by his wife and one child, four years of age of this city, and his mother, three brothers and three sisters, residing in Ireland.

LOST BARN AND STABLE

Brampton, Ont., Nov. 23.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the barn and stables of George Brown, 9th Line Esquesing last night. Mr. Brown, who has been living retired near Norval, visited the place to feed the stock as usual, leaving everything safe when he returned to Norval at half past five. The fire was noticed by neighbors, who worked hard to save the cattle and horses. All the season's hay and grain were burned. The loss will be in the neighborhood of $2,000 with some insurance.

Headaches Gone

Perhaps you can imagine what this means to one who had suffered terribly with headaches for ten years.

Read about it in this latter.

Mrs. Tena A. Smith, Country Harbor Cross Roads, N. S., writes:

"I feel that if anyone can recommend Dr. Chase's medicines I certainly can. I suffered for ten years from severe headaches, and although I took all kinds of headache powders they just relieved me at the time. I became very nervous and run-down, and everything seemed to trouble me. I have taken eighteen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and it has made an entirely new person of me. I felt that I could not have lived without it. I do not have one headache now for every hundred I used to have, and my nerves are good and strong. I just weighed 109 pounds when I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and now I weigh 121. Knowing what this treatment has done for me, I cannot too highly recommend it to others."

"Tinker Bob" Stories

by Carlysle H. Holcomb

MR. BOBCAT HAS TO WASH IN THE RIVER

Tinker Bob having heard so much about Major Pole Cat decided to find out for himself about the wonders of this little forest dweller. He had been caring for the forest creatures and was respected by all. Even the Mountain Lion and the Bobcat gave him the path every time they saw him. Billy Mink was as much afraid of him as he was of the Hunter. Even Mr. Weasel, the Great, never molested him but turned out of his way to keep from meeting him. Tinker had seen him on many occasions turn the forest creatures away but there were yet some peculiar things about the Major that the King wanted to know about.

So Tinker tapped the stone of Knowledge and the Creature of His Desire was at his side with the Wonderful Magic Basket. The King climbed in and they were away. The Beautiful Creature knew just what Tinker Bob wanted to see and took him to the place where he could see it and yet no one in the forest could see him.

Tinker found himself standing behind a tree on the side of the mountain. There was some underbrush about. He looked every way but at first could see nothing, and began to think that the Creature had directed him wrong, when suddenly he saw Major Pole Cat walking leisurely along. He stopped here to look for a mouse and then he turned over some dead leaves to see if there might be some one in hiding that he should see.

One thing about Major Pole Cat is that he moves very slowly. He never runs away, it doesn't matter who is about—always stays to the path.

Well, he wasn't very far on his journey till there came a sudden change in his appearance. Down the path in front of him came old man Bobcat. He had turned out for Major all he was going to do. He was tired of always giving up to him anyway. So he decided to stay right in the path and show Major that he was the best fellow. The idea of a big Bobcat being afraid of a little fellow who had a bushy tail like Major.

"I'll fix him this time," said Mr. Bobcat to himself. "I'll give him a cuff beside the head and send him rolling on the ground."

Major didn't seem to be afraid of being rolled on the ground for he kept right on in the path. Mr. Bobcat kept right on too but a little careful. When he was only a yard or two away he began to set himself for a jump as he had decided that it was time to put tihs little forest disturber out of the way.

He turned over some dead leaves to see if there might be some one in hiding.

As he was ready to spring Major turned about with his back toward Mr. Bobcat and raised his bushy tail and before Mr. Bobcat could get out of the way he was covered with a poisonous acid that had a terrible smell. It got in his eyes and he rolled on the ground and he cried and he went to the river and jumped in. That's what he got for trying to scheme against Major Pole Cat.

DIED AT OSHAWA

Samuel Disney, aged 66, died at Oshawa Hospital on Tuesday as a result of injuries received six weeks ago in a fire which destroyed H. A. Lebar's store. In attempting to salvage a plough, Mr. Disney cut the finger of his left hand. Blood poisoning set in and he was admitted to the hospital, where an amputation was performed. He appeared to be recovering when the poisoning developed in the lower limb, and he died suddenly. Mr. Disney was a retired farmer. He was for several years a member of Pickering Township Council. His sister, Mrs. Uriah Jones, died four days ago.

BODY ARRIVED HERE

The body of the late Mrs. Jackson who died in Detroit arrived here on Thursday afternoon and was taken to her former home, Thomasburg for interment.

NO APPOINTMENT MADE

It was expected that at the civic committee meeting last night that the selection of a physician as medical health officer of the city would have been made but such was not the case. The matter was discussed at some length but the members of the Council were at variance as to the selection. An appointment may be made at the Council meeting on Monday evening.

TEMPORARILY ABANDONED

No further word has been received as to the fate of the steamer Aragon, which is aground at Salmon Point. The rocks surrounding it ar smooth and flat, and every wave when the wind is high shoves the vessel gradually out on the water. This makes the work of salvaging most difficult and if another high wind springs up the steamer is doomed. The vessel has been abandoned for the time being, and Captain Donnelly has his wrecking crew working on the steamer Pentland, ashore at Weavers Point, below Morrisburg.

MUST PAY COST

The decision of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, which held a sitting at Kingston recently, to hear the appeal of the county of Frontenac against the award of the chief engineer of the Department of Public Highways in apportioning against the whole county the cost of the work on the provincial highway done in the county of Frontenac in 1919 is announced. The Board finds that the said cost should be paid by the six townships, Bedford, Portland, Loughborough, Storrington, Kingston and Pittsburgh, which it finds are the townships benefiting by the highway and by the village of Portsmouth, which also receives direct benefit from the system, the apportionment to be on the basis of the last equalized assessment of these municipalities.

BARN BURNED

A barn the property of Mr. Jacob Lusk on the Sulphide Road, Hungerford Township was on Sunday night destroyed by fire. Cause of fire not ascertained.

PRESENTATION OF MEDAL

Mayor Hanna has decided that the medal of the Royal Humane Society awarded to Master Fred Reeder will be presented at Griffin's Theatre Wednesday evening during the performance of The College Girl. Fred Reeder is the brave Belleville boy who at the risk of his own life jumped into the icy waters of the Moira and rescued young William Palmateer who had fallen into the river and would have been drowned had it not been for the courageous action of Fred Reeder. Mrs. Palmateer, mother of the rescued boy, will be present and take part in the presentation ceremony.

TWO COURT CASES

Before Magistrate Masson this morning a fine of $5 was imposed upon a city motorist for having a spot light upon his car and another citizen contributed $10 and costs for an infraction of the Ontario Temperance Act.

AHRENS VISITS SPOT WHERE WIFE DROWNED

Escorted by Police, He Points Out Scene of Tragedy.

KITCHENER, Nov. 25.—A visit to the scene of the Chicopee drowning tragedy was made yesterday morning by Carl Ahrens under escort of Provincial Inspector A. H. Ward of Toronto, and Provincial Officer H. Gardner, of Kitchener, accompanied by Mr. Ahren's solicitor, Harvey Sims. Mr. Ahrens confined himself to pointing out the spot, as he recalled it, at which his wife had fallen out of the boat in which they were crossing the Grand River. The point which he indicated was some five or six yards upstream and towards midstream from the place at which the body was found. Mr. Ahrens was then returned to custody.

QUIET IN BELFAST

Belfast, Nov. 25.—Disorders which have caused twenty-seven deaths since Sunday appear to have subsided with the arrival of military reinforcements at noon today from Dublin.

DISGRACEFUL CAMPAIGN

Newcastle, Ont., Nov. 25.—Addressing a large gathering in Alexandria Hall here today, Premier Meighen declared that the campaign carried on against the Government was one of the most bitter and disgraceful in the history of Canada. No trickery, or chicanery, he said, which could be resorted to by opponents to win had been neglected.

CHINA PROTESTS

Washington, Nov. 25.—Arms conference discussion of far eastern questions shifted today to the possibility of abridging the system of "extra-territorial rights" under which powers maintain their own judicial agencies in China for trial of cases in which their respective nationals are involved China wants the extra territorial privilege abolished. All other nations have expressed the hope that the system can be modified.

FISH WENT OFF WITH BOY AND NEARLY DROWNED HIM

New York, Nov. 24.—Bradley Sherman, 18-year-old angler, was caught by a fish today at Coney Island.

The fish, whose species could not be learned, because it escaped with Sherman's tackle, yanked the young man off a bulkhead and started out to sea.

Sherman was unconscious and nearly drowned when other fishermen rescued him and sent him to a hospital.

TWO OPPOSING LIBERAL CHIEF

Newmarket, Nov. 23.—North York has had some grand old battles of words in days gone by, but it is doubtful if it ever had so much oratory poured forth in one day as flowed out oven the electors in Newmarket here following nominations. Time-honored custom decrees a joint meeting after the returning officer shuts up shop, but the voters had to chose betwen Hon. Mackenzie King and a comfortable seat in the town hall and J. A. M. Armstrong and a rough pine board in the rink, with the option of passing up both meetings and hearing R. W. E. Burnaby in the evening.

The nominations were held in the rink, a move by which Mr. Armstrong got even with the Liberals for outguessing the Government supporters and engaging the town hall for nomination day. The fact that all three candidates were holding separate meetings was a damper on excitement since the Liberal crowd gathered downtown while the Conservatives tramped up hill and down to the rink seven blocks away. Only a few people were on hand as the papers of the candidates were put in. According to the returning officer's record they lined up as follows:

John Alexander Macdonald Armstrong, conveyancer, Schomberg.

William Lyon Mackenzie King, journalist, Ottawa.

Ralph Waldo Emerson Burnay, farmer.

LONDON'S ICY ROADS CAUSE 11 AUTO ACCIDENTS

London, Ont., Nov. 24.—Ice-clad roads in the vicinity of London last night and this morning were responsible for some eleven motor accidents in which several persons were injured although none seriously. The condition of the roads, while it was responsible for the accidents, was also responsible for lack of serious injuries, as careful driving was an absolute necessity.

Dr. Farewell asks that J. A. C. Cameron be official referee and James P. Langley provisional liquidator.

LLOYD GEORGE WOULD HAVE NO TIME FOR BANQUETS

New York, Nov. 25.—A letter received yesterday by the Canadian Club of New York expresses the regret of the British prime minister that he will be unable to address the club at its annual dinner. In the event of his being able to come to the United States, the prime minister's message runs, "he fears that the time at his disposal will be very short and will have to be devoted entirely to work of the conference on limitation of armaments."

SAMPLE WAS WHISKEY, REST WAS WATER

Patterson, N.J., Nov. 2.—Ferdinand Elia, owner of 26 barrels of 100 proof water, for which he paid $14,000 today identified Emil Wentz of Grand Forks, N.D., as one of the three men who convinced by a tasting test that they contained 103 proof whiskey.

Elia told the police he had been permitted to select a barrel, to bore his own hole, to insert a rubber tube and sample what ran out. He didn't learn until the trio had disappeared with his $14,000 that one of them had connected the tube up with a rubber bag beneath his coat, which contained real red eye.

Wentz was found in a New York jail, where he is held on a charge of having perpetrated a similar swindle on John McLaughlin, a retired policeman. The New York police said they found the trick tube in his home and that he admitted the McLaughlin swindle saying his partners had gone West with most of the proceeds.

HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

Washington, Nov. 25.—It is believed here that the conference might adjourn the first fortnight of December to permit delegates to reach home in time for Christmas.

—Belfast, Nov. 24.—Two persons were killed outright and eight were wounded when a bomb exploded this evening in a tramcar carrying a load of shipyard workers along Royal avenue. Throughout the day the city, which has been the scene of several outbursts of bombing and shooting within the past three days, had been comparatively quiet. STEAM BARGE FOUNDERS ON LAKE ONTARIO--CREW PERISH

DEAD BODIES FOUND IN YAWL

Captain's Wife and Four Men Died of Exposure in Open Boat.

ANOTHER TRAGEDY

City of New York, Out of Oswego, Lost With All Hands.

News of another terrible tragedy on Lake Ontario reached Belleville today, indicating that the large steam barge, City of New York, had foundered and that the crew had perished. The steam barge Isabella H., sailing between Oswego and Trenton, sighted a yawl, on Friday, floating apparently empty. The yawl was picked up and found to contain the dead bodies of four men and one woman.

The steam barge City of New York was the new boat purchased by Capt. Harry Randall to replace the steamer John Randall, which went down off the Main Ducks about a year ago, the crew being given up for dead, but being marooned over a week on the island, later reaching Picton.

With the picking up of the yawl yestreday by the Isabella H., investigation followed and it was ascertained that the New York went down off Stoney Point, near Oswego, and no hope is entertained that any of the crew escaped. The bodies found in the yawl were frozen stiff from the bitter cold and exposure.

Capt. Harry Randall, owner, was on board, with his wife and two children, aged one year and twelve years; the mate, W. Warren; Engineer Dorey, and Deckhand Dorey, all of Seeley's Bay. and Joseph Gallagher and Frank Gallagher, of Kingston. All perished.

The crew was practically the same as was marooned on the Main Ducks for days while a furious storm kept them from venturing forth in a small boat, and they were given up for dead. The waters have now claimed them.

The steamer New York was taking cargoes of phosphate from Oswego to Trenton, the Isabella H. being engaged in the same trade. Captain Oliver of the Isabella H. reached Oswego at eleven o'clock Friday night and reported finding the yawl with the four dead bodies.

One report stated that the dead body of the woman was not that of Capt. Randalls' wife, but this has not been confirmed.

The wreck is said to have occurred ten miles off Stoney Point, which is near Oswego. The steamer New York is a craft of about three hundred tons.

GUELPH PRISON THEATRE BURNED

INDIAN SKELETONS FOUND IN HALTON

Milton, Nov. 25.—While Sydney Mountain was plowing on his farm on the third line of Esquesing township yesterday morning his plow caught in the handle of a large brass kettle, the bottom of which was rusted away. On investigating he found an Indian skull in the pot. Digging revealed the skeletons of 25 bodies arranged in a circle, also tomahawks, a lot of wampum shell and beads.

The farm is known as the Nathan Turner homestead which has been in the Turner family for over 100 years. It is located five miles north of Milton and is said to be an old Indian battlefield where bloody wars were fought nearly 200 years ago. Many people are flocking to the scene of the burial ground in search of souvenirs.

STATE FUNERAL FOR UNKNOWN

Canada Will Honor Unknown Soldier by Burial Under Victory Tower.

Ottawa, Nov. 26.—The body of an unknown Canadian soldier is to be brought from old western battlefront and buried beneath the Victory Tower of the new Parliament buildings.

It is proposed that the body shall be placed in a vault excavated in the solid rock foundation under the great archway of the Victory Tower and between the two portals which give entrance to the buildings. The grave will be set almost immediately below the altar in the memorial chamber overhead and will be marked by a marble slab raised above the grave level. This slab will be suitable inscribed.

Thus, all who enter the Parliament buildings, through the two portals under the archway of the Tower, whether legislators on their way to their duties or citizens on their way to the memorial chamber above, will pass by the last resting place of one who, representing many, was faithful in duty unto death and whose dust will hallow the place dedicated to his memory and that of all of his fellows.

As the Tower has not yet reached completion, and as the arrangements which would have to be made, will take some time, it is unlikely that the ceremony will take place before Armistice Day, 1922.

The action taken comes as the result of suggestions to the Government from various persons and organizations and as the result of conferences between the Prime Minister, Sir Jams Lougheed and representatives of the Great War Veterans' Association. The final consultation took place on Wednesday when the Prime Minister and Sir James Lougheed conferred with S. B. Maxwell, president of the Great War Veterans Association and C. G. MacNeil secretary treasurer. Further conferences were held with John A. Pearson the architect of the new House of Parliament, and elaborate plans are being prepared.

The Official Description

"It is proposed," says an official statement issued by the Prime Minister's office this afternoon, "that the body of Canada's unknown soldier shall be interred at the base of the main entrance to the Houses of Parliament within the confines of the Tower of Victory and Peace.

At the entrance of the tower is a symbolical representation of the struggle between civilization and barbarism. The dominant figures upon the tower are warriors with arms reversed. In sculptured stone upon the walls and in the niches is written the romance of history embracing the beginning of the nation.

"The memorial chamber forms the first floor of the tower above the archway and is entered from the main floor of the central hall, the proportions, arches and columns of which will attune the visitor's mind to the dedicated place where he will presently stand over the sacred dust beneath it. Around the walls of the chamber will be a black marble base, the gift of Belgium, bearing the weight of the memorial as the Belgians bore the terrific shock of war's onset. Reared upon this and disclosing carved and canopied niches will be columns of St. Anne's marble, also from Belgium, suggesting her aspiration to rise to new strength after being bruised and crushed by the invader. Behind the niches, with their bronze tablets recording Canadian battles are two walls of Savonniere stone from France solid and immovable as France at Verdun.

"On the centre boss of the groined and vaulted ceiling where the mitred ribs unite will be carved the Dominion coat of arms, the coats of arms of the provinces, the symbols of England, Scotland, Ireland, France and Wales. The stained glass windows which will cast a cathedral light through the chamber are the gifts of the nine Canadian provinces.

"Stones for the paving of the floor are being gathered in every part of France and Belgium in which the Canadian troops fought. After these have been turned into flagstones, on their surface will be incised and caulked with lead the names of the places at which Canada's forces were engaged. In the centre of the floor surrounded by those French and Belgian walls, will stand the altar of Great Britain, a marble altar carved out of a solid block, the offering of the motherland; that on her breast may lie the book of remembrance, on the pages of which will be written the sixty thousand names of the men who died for honor and the freedom of the world."

POLICE AREAS ARE FORMED

Drastic Changes Made by Commissioner Elliott in Provincial Force.

INSPECTORS NAMED

Big Increase Planned in the Personnel—Returned Men Favored.

TORONTO, Nov. 26.—The first big step in connection with Provincial Police organization was taken by the Ontario Government when the Council approved plans for the division of the province into eight districts and put through orders for the appointment of six of the eight district inspectors who will be in charge under the Commissioner of Police. At the same time a number of other appointments and charges were approved.

The new officers and the districts are:—

A. E. Storie, police inspector at Sudbury, in charge of District No. 5, comprising the counties of Victoria, Haliburton, Peterborough, Northumberland, Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, with headquarters at Belleville.

FORCE TO BE ENLARGED

The eight district inspectors will have jurisdiction over all Provincial officers in their territory, whether those engaged in general work or Ontario Temperance Act enforcement. When the plans that Gen. Elliott, Commissioner of Police, is working on have been completed, the force will be considerably larger than it has been for years, and a good deal of recruiting will have to be done to bring it up to the proposed strength. Yesterday the Commissioner announced the appointment of six additional Provincial constables, all returned men with police experience—Francis Gardner, Toronto; Harry Wilmott, Welland; F. S. Baugh, Niagara Falls; John R. Smyth Toronto; James D. Proctor, Toronto; and Frank B. Creasy, Welland.

The Government has approved the appointment of Provincial Constable Alfred Ward and Provincial Constable James G. Jeffrey as inspectors of investigation.

License Inspector W. S. Blackwall has been appointed Provincial Inspector of Law Enforcement for Northern Ontario. Inspectors Paxton and Elliott, appointed recently, will act in older Ontario, and make up the trio.

Temporary Provincial Officer A. D. Angle has been put on the permanent staff.

SANDRELLI INTENDS TO SUE TWO OFFICERS OF NORTH BAY

North Bay, Ont., Nov. 26.—Chas. Sandrelli, who announced his intention of suing for $100,000 for false arrest, following his arrest in Ottawa in connection with the $4,500 fur robbery here last Saturday, stated that he will probably sue Sergt. Frank Michaud, of the North Bay police force, and License Inspector Bell of North Bay.

Sandrelli's case was cancelled yesterday afternoon and following the release of the two Italians held on suspicion, there is now no one in the toils of the law in connection with this case.

ITALY IS SWEPT BY DISORDERS

Anti-French Riots Follow Publication of Washington Cable.

ATTACK CONSULATES

Alleged Remark by Briand About Army Precipitated Trouble.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—Anti-French riots swept through Italy like lightning yesterday. The riots followed the publication of a despatch from a French correspondent at Washington, alleging that Premier Briand told one of the Italian delegates that "Italy is for disarmament because the moral disintegration of her army prevents armaments."

The French consulate at Turin was invaded by an angry mob and all the furniture smashed.

At Naples the mob was prevented from reaching the French consulate by the Carabinieri. Other incidents in other cities were reported.

In Rome the greatest excitement prevailed in the Italian Parliament.

SERUM TO BANISH THE WHITE PLAGUE

Paris, Nov. 23.—Tuberculosis can be prevented in the same manner as smallpox and typhus, according to what is declared the most important medical discovery of the year. The method has just been announced by Professor A. Calmette, assistant director of the Pasteur Institute, one of the most famous French savants.

Before the Academy of Science, Professor Calmette demonstrated that the Kock Bacillus could be rendered sterile by cultivating a preparation of bile, which, injected in the veins of animals, cause an abundant production of "anticorpos" from which in turn the serum is constructed.

The serum, if injected in human viens, especially children of tender years, absolutely assures immunity from tuberculosis in any form.

Professor Calmette emphasized that the serum has no curative powers. Medical circles here hail the discovery as the greatest in the history of the anti-tuberculosis fight.

ACTRESS SHOT ASSAILANT DEAD

Tragedy in Hamilton Theatre When Attentions of Carpenter Spurned.

CHANCE OF RECOVERY

For Actress, Who Received Three Bullets in Her Body.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Hamilton, Nov. 26.—Miss Cecile Bartley, who spurned the attentions of John Grubb and received three bullets in her body yesterday, has a chance for life, according to attending Physicians.

A sensational shooting occurred at the Lyric Theatre yesterday afternoon at about 5-30. As a result J. Grubb, a stage carpenter, is dead, and Cecille Bartley, a chorus girl, is lying at the city hospital in a very critical condition. According to the statement given the police, Grubb shot Miss Bartley three times in the body and then turned his revolver on himself, shooting three times in the region of his heart. He died before medical attendance arrived. Miss Bartley, after being shot, ran upstairs on the stage and Grubb chased her.

It is believed that Miss Bartley and Grubb had been quarreling, as members of the company stated that Grubb had been paying some attention to her for several weeks since the company left New York. The two were members of the act playing under the name of "Under the Apple Tree." Grubb was the carpenter of the company and Miss Bartley sang in the chorus.

At the City Hospital it was stated that she might recover, in spite of the fact that three bullets had entered her body. Dr. Rennie, chief coroner, was called and an investigation will be held. Miss Bartley's home is in Chicago. Grubb lived in Baltimore and his affairs are being looked after by the local stage employees union.

ELECTORS WILL ENDORSE SENTIMENT

Napanee, Ontario, Nov. 25.—"These flowers are for the best man in Canada."

Tributes both flattering and otherwise have been lavished upon the scholarly head of Arthur Meighen, prime minister of Canada, in profusion during the last two months. But this unequalled enconium quoted above was lisped by five year-old Celestine Daly in presenting a handsome bouquet of roses to the premier here this afternoon. Mr. Meighen received a rousing reception at the hands of an audience which filled the armouries to overflowing. He spoke in support of A. B. Carscallen, Conservative candidate in Lennox and Addington.

GREAT CHANCE FOR PUBLICITY

Hundreds Getting Into the Limelight Through Princess' Engagement.

BRICKLAYER THE FIRST

Handed Lascelles Half a Sovereign for His "Good Lady."

London, Nov. 26.—A flood of sentiment has been unloosed by the announcement of Princess Mary's engagement to Viscount Lascelles. It fills the newspapers, breaks out in every public speech and draws hordes of women and many men to places where they may catch a glimpse of the Princess, whose lineaments have been familiarized by published photographs over a series of years.

Sentiment has so touched the generous instincts of the people that hundreds are already sending to the Princess presents of money, many of the donors supplying the newspapers with their own photographs at the same time.

Charles Stratford, and elderly bricklayer from Bethual Green, has come in an easy first in this competition by forcing into the unwilling hands of Lord Lascelles a half soverign "for the good lady." Then Stratford, guileless royalist that he is, made a clean breast to the newspapers of the whole impulsive business, and he has been photographed with his entire family. His initators have been legion, but though some have given hundreds of pounds, his well-timed half-soverign got the biggest show of all. Viscount Lascelles seems to be rather uncomfortable under the glare of publicity. He manfully tries to smile, but he is of a retiring nature. His cynical friends say he was far happier in the trenches.

GREATER ALBERT CONTINUES TO GROW

Tenders To Be Called for Additional Buildings—Work to Begin Forthwith.

Greater Albert College keeps steadily onward and upward and it will be good news to all Belleville citizens that the Board has decided to call for tenders for additional buildings, administration, dining hall and service building and have construction begin as soon as possible.

The annual meeting of the Albert College Board was held in the reception room Thursday, November 24th. Reports of the different funds Endowment, Extension and Current were read by the Bursar, H. W. Ackerman. W. B. Deacon the Chairman, read the report of the Building Committee. It stated that the foundation of the new College was nearing completion. The following resolution was passed:

Moved by B. N. Davis, seconded by W. H. Hopper, that the Building Committee recommend to the Board of Management of Albert College that instructions be given to the Building Committee to advertise for tenders for the erection of the Administration, Dining Hall and Service Building, with power to accept same, enter into contracts and to do whatever is necessary for the erection there of as soon as practical there after. And also that said Board make arrangements for obtaining new subscriptions to fully complete the entire building according to plans at as early date as possible.

Dr. Baker's report stated that the year just closed had been the most sucpalship. The largest attendance of any palshin. The largest attendance of any year since the war began. The excellent records of other years in the Departmental and University examinations have been sustained. The Committee of Finance was appointed to launch a scheme to raise five hundred thousand dollars to complete the erection of the College.

Music and Drama

"JUST SUPPOSE"

"Just Suppose," a charming play of comedy, romance and love, was presented to a large audience at Griffin's Theatre, Friday evening, and instantly captivated the audience. The play was a delightful effort on the part of the principals and immensely pleased those who saw it.

Mr. Graham Velsey, as H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, showed himself to be a clever actor in all the senses of the word. His comedy was clean and appealing to the audience. Kathleen Stafford, and Mrs. Julia Hurley as Mrs. Carter Stafford ably played their parts, displaying at all times a wonderful ability and splendid expression. Thomas H. McKnight as "Kingsley Stafford," Walter Ainslee as "Hannibal," Murray Bennett as "Montgomery Warren," Norman Cope as "Hon. Sir Calverton Shipley," and Mr. Walter Howe as "The Marquis of Karnaby," rounded out a very able and clever caste. The play dealt with the recent visit of the Prince of Wales to the United States.

SIX REELS OF JOY SPED BY WITH ONLY CLOCK AWARE OF TIME

Charlie Chaplin has hit the high spot in delightful entertainment in his first attempt at a feature length picture, "The Kid," which is the title he has given the story, which he has written himself, is to us, the most enjoyable Chaplin film we have ever seen. In the first place it simply bubbles over with laughter and the situations are so human that you do not feel foolish because you are laughing. Again it is long enough so that it provides a whole evening's entertainment in itself.

Had some one told us before we saw "The Kid" that we could be convinced that the character which Charlie represented on the screen could be presented in such a way that we could visualize him as a living breathing mortal, we would have been inclined to doubt. But several times during the course of "The Kid" this comedian made us swallow a lump in our throats and wipe real tears of sympathy from our eyes by the pathos of his acting and before our handkerchief was back in our pocket it was needed again to dry our cheeks of the tears caused by the shrieks of laughter from the antics of the same actor.

As a comedy the production is a winner; as a dramatic production it ranks high; but the strongest appeal this six reels of joy made to us was to bring the realization that Charlie Chaplin is not a clown but one of the most consumate actors on the screen today. "The Kid" is being exhibited at Griffin's tonight for the last time.

GRIFFITH LATEST PICTURE GREATEST OF THEM ALL

Unusual interest attaches to the opening of the coming engagement in this city of D. W. Griffith's great spectacle, "Way Down East," which will be seen for the first time here at Griffin's next Thursday to Saturday, December 1st, 2nd, and 3rd, matinee daily with a special musical accompaniment by an augumented orchestra.

If such be possible, this latest masterful production by the genius of the screen bids fair to eclipse even the enormous vogue enjoyed by "The Birth of a Nation." Now being offered in the leading cities of the land, "Way Down East" is attracting capacity throngs and seats are sought weeks in advance.

This picturization of the famous stage success furnished by Lottie Blair Parker aand Joseph Grismer goes much farther than the original tale. Mr. Griffith has begun where they halted. He has not made it a provincial thing; attempting to explain nothing he has welded a theory of eternal love and in so doing has removed his people from time and period.

The simple fun of plain people is brought forth in greater measure than the stage play version could ever hope to attain and offers keen contrast to the sufferings and woe of Anna Moore, her hopes and struggles. Probably the greatest cast of capable players ever assembled for a motion picture production was engaged in the making of this work and it ends in a thrilling climax of spectacular scenes amid the veering flaws of a New England blizzard and the explosive breaking of a river ice gorge, all of which enthrall as only a Griffith effort can move audiences.

The tender moments, the tragic episodes, the laughable situations and the stirring scenes are accentuated by unusual orchestral accompaniment, pronounced the most ambitious yet attempted in the theatre.

"THE COLLEGE GIRL"

From the way the seats are selling for the coming production of "The College Girl, it is apparent that the S. R. O. sign will hang out for each performance. The reputation enjoyed by the management and company, owing to the success of "The Girl From Kokomo" and "The Winning Girl" has had the effect of selling seats to all points within a radius of a hundred miles, mail orders having reached here from Lindsay, Peterboro and even Toronto. There are many good seats left and a phone order to Griffin's, 509, will secure them.

Rehearsals are now complete and there is no flaw in this faultless production. The entire company is "on the bit" ready for Monday's opening. There will be no misses! Wednesday's performance will be no better or no worse than Monday's.

The orchestral sellings for "The College Girl" as a particular improvement over its predecessors, Mr. Frank Sills, leader, has the orchestrations well rehearsed and nothing is left undone to make Monday night's performance of "The College Girl" absolutely the best yet.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 1248, or write The Intelligencer.

GENEROUS MINDED

M.E.—I see the graduate nurses of Kingston district have established a fund to meet the emergency cases which will arise during the cold weather. This I think, is a splendid idea and shows the nursing fraternity are not always cold hearted as some seem to thing. Belleville nurses might well come forward and follow such a noble example as there are many needy cases in the city. It would be a great hit to the W.C.A.

DOUBLE DANGER

G.B.—Now that the city has put a sidewalk up the south side of Catherine street, it has increased the danger of the pedestrian doubly. The north sidewalk was a slide and coasting hill for the kiddies and was a danger to the citizens but now that both the sidewalks are being occupied by the youngsters, what are the poor pedestrians going to do. It looks like a case for the policeman.

MUDDY CROSSING

M.P.—Ever since the sewer has been laid up Moira street, the crossing at the Upper Bridge has been in a most deplorable condition. It is a standing mud hole all the time and pedestrians find it a nuisance. Is there no remedy for this crossing?

DID HE RIDE?

M.R.—I saw an item in the "What Did You See" column in Friday's issue of The Intelligencer relating to sand being "not" put on the slippery streets. What I would like to know is, "Does my friend ride or walk that he noticed the lack of sand?" For myself I think he must ride as I scrunched along on sand and fine gravel all the way home Friday and it wasn't very pleasant I assure thee.

ENJOYING LIFE

T.H.—I saw numbers of kiddies on Thursday afternoon and evening making good use of the ice and snow-covered pavements throughout the city. Many had hunted out their skates and were having a pippin of a time while others were searching for some small knoll or other where they could use their sleighs. It does seem a pity that the youngsters of this city have no established slide for the winter. Surely some of our generous-minded well-to-do townsmen could contribute a slide this winter and not leave it like the Corby Public Baths project was left. Here's hoping this seed may drop in fertile soil, for a Bigger, Better, Sportier, Cleaner Belleville!

MUD ON WALK

M.P.—Citizens who have occasion to use Catherine street sidewalk wonder why so much mud covers this walk. The school children taking a short cut go over the bank and track all the mud on the sidewalk. Women get their skirts muddy, men get their tempers soiled and swear words result. Perhaps the principal could get the children to use the walk in preference to distributing the mud all over the walk!

WHAT ABOUT FATHER?

F.B.—Bringing Up Father seems to be lingering about Pinnacle street, for a resident there has a dresser mirror which flashes out the word FATHER ever so often and despite all washing of the glass the letters return. Just what this signifies is at present a mystery to all concerned and why spirits should indicate that there was some reason of watching the Old Man is too deep for the Pinnacle streeters. If this is some father who has reached the farther shore without straightening out all the loose ends upon this weary shore and is endeavoring to signal something for mother to fix up why not use the What Did You See column and get the matter straightened out at once.

Transportation and Your Safety

CAR SHORTAGES have already developed at many of the coal mines of the United States. Without cars to load, the mines cannot produce; without production of coal, the welfare of the public cannot be conserved.

So far the shortages have not been serious in proportions, but with cold weather arriving, it can be expected that they will increase and may materially hinder the movement of coal.

Safety to your family can be secured by immediately stocking your coal. Coal prices will not decrease, and they may advance, if a transportation emergency arises.

WARFARE AND VICTORY.

A SERMON FOR THE "SHUT-IN"—THOSE WHO ARE UNABLE TO ATTEND CHURCH SERVICES THROUGH ILLNESS OR INFIRMITY.

By Rev. W. H. Wallace, Pastor of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

"For whatsoever is born if God overcometh the world; and this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith.

"Who is he that overcometh the world, but he that believeth that Jesus is the Son of God."—I. John v:4-5.

We have in these words a military ring: A fight well fought and victory won. Here is faith's conquest and victory. All through human history there have been many wars. Some have been short and fierce; others have lasted long and ended with fearful and terrible results. There is one grand exception in the annals of war, namely, the war between good and evil, sin and righteousness, Christ and Satan. This war has been waging well-nigh 6,000 years. It is like the serial story in newspaper or magazine, "to be continued." Each individual life is a battleground. This is splendidly illustrated in "Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress." Every regenerated soul becomes a "soldier of the cross."

"Are there no foes for me to face?
Must I not stem the flood?
Is this vile world a friend to grace,
To help me on to God?

"Sure I must fight if I would reign;
Increase my courage, Lord.
I'll bear the toil, endure the pain,
Supported by Thy Word."

Mark the Warfare.

Negatively: (1) It is not this beautiful world God has created that we fight against; for it is "very good." We admire God's creation and praise Him for all His wonderful works. We see nothing in this universe to fight against for it continues as God made it, "very good." (2) Nor is it the great surging mass of humanity, made up of tribes, and nations nad tongues, with all the diversity of needs and longings. (3) Nor is it the flesh, with all its ills, merely, to which we are all heirs. The great apostle to the Gentiles says, "For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places." The foe we must face is unseen, but real. Too many among mankind, the world over, have mistaken man's foe, and the larger part of those who have made the great discovery of the real foe have made this mistake, they have underestimated the real strength of the enemy. The enemy we must face and fight is everywhere throughout this world, ever busy and aggressive.

Positively: The great enemy in this warfare is the organized forces of evil. (1) In ourselves the enemy is found in the form of habit or disposition. It may be envy, jealousy, strife, bad temper, covetousness, or any other evil spirit. We must set ourselves to fight against these and overcome them or they will overcome us. We can sum up the catalogue of evil spirits in ourselves in the form of the original sin. "The lust of the flesh, the lust of the eye, and the pride of life. All of the world of evil which must "pass away." Then there are (2) the forces of evil all around us. The devil has agents in this world and they are legion. Many are afraid of poverty and think it is man's greatest foe. Yet there is a curse that causes poverty, namely, strong drink. This same curse is tolerated by too many who profess to be "soldiers of the cross." And instead of fighting against it, some help the curse in its work of destruction. May God open all eyes to see that this is one of the greatest foes of mankind and may we all have a share in helping to rid this land and other lands clean of the accursed stuff. At one time it may have been looked upon as a "good creature of God," but that time has passed. All who have weighed this matter before God believe it to be a bad creature of the devil. Then there are many other enemies around us besides strong drink, too numerous to mention. Let us fight against them all. (3) The greatest enemies are those in high places. The prince of the power of the air still goeth about seeking whom he may devour. Let us never forget that Satan is busy. He keeps no Sabbath, and he rests not day or night. It becomes us therefore, to "watch and pray" and "put on the whole armor of God that we may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil." Then, and not till then, can we fight the good fight of faith.

Mark the Victory.

There are three things, according to our text, by which we become victors. Let each one examine himself and see if he has the necessary qualifications. The first is the New Nature—"Whatsoever is born of God, overcometh the world." The new nature alone is equal to the struggle. The old is weak and ready to die. The new is all-conquering. Are you born again by the Spirit of God? Then you may hope to conquer. You will find strength and courage in the words of Jesus, the "first-born from the dead," when He said, "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world." Soldier of Christ, you can overcome too by the overcoming nature.

The second qualification for the victory is faith in Jesus Christ as the "Son of God." Do we believe in Jesus Christ as the incarnate word, the divine Son of God? Have we surrendered ourselves to Him and "left all to follow Him? The the victory is ours. This is the secret source of power by which we become partakers of the divine nature and all the spiritual blessings of the gospel of God's grace, namely, by believing in Jesus the only begotten Son of God, Who is full of grace and truth.

The third qualification that promotes and completes the victory is conviction of the truth, "even our faith." The Spirit of God convicts of sin; the same Spirit reveals the truth and convicts of righteousness. Have we been convinced of the truth of the cross? If we have, by this conviction of the truth we shall conquer. Constantine saw the sign of the cross in the heavens and these words over it, "By this sign conquer." This is the sign by which we conquer ourselves and the world. "God forbid that I should glory save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by which the world is crucified unto me and I unto the world."

When the British took the Dargai Heights, regiment after regiment had attempted and failed. At last the Gordon Highlanders were ordered to take the heights. Each man gripped his gun and gritted his teeth and planted his feet firmly down. All gave way for the Gordons. Steadily up and up they went. At last they reached the heights and overcame the foe. The heights of this world must be taken for Christ. The Christian highlanders alone can take them. They alone have the all-conquering nature and the all-conquering faith to overcome the enemy. Let us all be followers of the overcomer, even Jesus, the Son of God.

Christian Conflict.

The Son of God goes forth to war,
A kingly crown to gain;
His blood-red banner streams afar;
Who follows in His train?
Who best can drink his cup of woe,
Triumphant over pain.
Who patient bears his cross below:
He follows in His train.

The martyr first, whose eagle eye
Could pierce beyond the grave;
Who saw His Master in the sky,
And called on Him to save:
Like Him, with pardon on his tongue,
In midst of mortal pain,
He prayed for them that did the wrong:
Who follows in his train?

A glorious band, the chosen few,
On whom the Spirit came;
Twelve valiant saints, their hope they knew,
And mocked the cross and shame;
They met the tyrant's brandished steel,
The lion's gory mane;
They bowed their necks the death to feel:
Who follows in their train?

A noble army, men and boys,
The matron and the maid,
Around the Saviour's throne rejoice,
In robes of light arrayed:
They climbed the steep ascent of heaven,
Through peril, toil and pain:
O God, to us may grace be given
To follow in their train!

EXPERTS SEE VALUE OF CANADIAN PLAN

Borden's Memorandum is Probably of Chief Importance.

Washington, Nov. 25.—Developments at the armament conference daily make increasingly apparent the value of the plan advanced by Canada for the holding of subsequent periodical conferences in order to assure the permanence of whatever is accomplished by the present meeting.

This plan, which is reported to have been embodied in a memorandum by Sir Robert Borden, is probably of chief importance from the naval point of view, but there are a number of other features of the conference work to which it appears applicable. It is understood to entail the consideration of the diminution of naval armaments at fixed periods and would involve the calling into conference of any nations that might from time to time develop considerable naval power. It would give continuity to the idea of armament limitation and would prevent any possibility of a sudden renewal of the shipbuilding race at the end of the naval holiday, for before the expiration of the holiday period was reached the nations would again be brought together and a further limitation agreement would most likely result.

There is another angle to the naval side of the idea, observers here point out. This is the uncertainty regarding the future development of methods of warfare.

There there is the question of land-armaments. The general impression is that it will be impossible to deal in a definite way with the limitation of the nations' military forces at this conference. France has declared its position.

The French people are convinced that any diminution in their present army strength would endanger their national existence, and no amount of talking around a green table in Washington will serve to convince them that they are wrong. Premier Briand in his frank utterances has made this perfectly plain.

PARLIAMENT IN CITY ASSEMBLED

Many Bills Passed When Parliament Opened in Holloway St. Church.

The Parliament of the League of Holloway St. Methodist Church opened its session last night with ancient pomp and ceremony, in the Sunday School Room, Sergeant-at-Arms A. C. Gillett bearing the Mace marched up to the clerk's desk followed by the Clerk of the House, Miss Myrtle Andrews, and the Members of Parliament. The Mace was deposited under the table to await the election of the Speaker of the House. When the members were seated, the Premier moved, seconded by the Leader of the Opposition, that W. C. Mikel, K.C., be the Speaker of the House, and when the Clerk declared the motion carried and the Speaker took his seat, the business of the Session commenced.

The Leader of the Government introduced Bills to increase the Protection Tariff on all imports; to construct an Electric Railway from Albert College to Holloway St. Church so that students could arrive on time at services and other meetings, and to enable the students who were consulting with the young ladies of the Church on the affairs of the Nation ,to return to College in time to avoid the necessity of having to sleep in the skating rink or climb the water pipe. There was also a Bill providing treatment for Pastors who were becoming too stout. The debate proceeded with all the fire and wit of the House of Commons at Ottawa, and the Bills passed with a large majority. The following Members took part in the debate. Hon. Clayton Searle, Premier; Hon. Bessie Vanderwater, Minister of Finance; Hon. Reginald Bedwell, Minister of Railways; Hon. Frank Findlay, Leader of the Opposition, Miss Bessie Holsey, Member for British Columbia; Miss Nettie Williams, Member for Down-by-the-Sea, and John Manuel Member for Stoney Lonesome.

After the Session was over, the Speaker of the House gave a short talk on the value of training young people in the conduct of public business in Parliament, in the Legislature and in Municipal councils, and pointed out that while we have training schools for all branches of service both public and private, there was no place where men and women could be trained for the most important branch of all public services, that is, in the Municipal Councils, Legislature and Parliaments. Consequently persons were elected without any qualifications and the public were always disappointed with the result. He instanced the case of Demosthenes, the greatest Greek Orator, whose fame has lasted two thousand years, to show the effect of training. Demosthenes was the son of a poor blacksmith and left fatherless at seven years of age. His voice was harsh and uncouth, his articulation indistinct, his gestures awkward and constrained, yet by ambition, industry and determination he conquered all his defects and became the greatest orator.

PETER WRIGHT, LABOR LEADER, WISHES PREMIER MEIGHEN GOD-SPEED.

Peter Wright, the famous British Labor leader, who recently toured Canada, and whose lecture in Belleville created such a profound impression upon those who heard him, has addressed a remarkable letter to Premier Meighen. The letter, written on the Empress of Britain, as Mr. Wright was on his way to England, addresses words of grave warning to Canada. It follows:

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen.

My Dear Prime Minister: I went to Montreal for the purpose of attending your meeting, but failed to obtain admission in the hall. I was greatly disappointed, but I was delighted after perusing your speech, and desire to congratulate you on your firm and definite stand at this particular period, when the world is passing through a stage of transition. The old political shibboleths must be scrapped and only by hard thinking and honest dealing are we capable to survive the terrible financial aftermath of this world war. I am convinced in my own mind that the policy for which you stand is the only practical solution at the moment to tide Canada through this crisis. Otherwise Canada will become a mere adjunct for the purpose of dumping the surplus commodities of the U.S.A., which means poverty and starvation for the industrial classes, and a bitter experience for which you in Canada will have to pay an awful price.

At this moment in Canada it is absolutely imperative to combine the forces of common sense and honesty, and rally as a united force against the warring elements that will lead into chaos politically, and land you on a lee shore amongst the wreckage of democratic fallacies that will not bear the test of time. If the democracy is to survive and stand the test of time, it must be based on science as well as sentiment. Anyhow, it is all in the lap of the gods at the moment, and I pray that your health will stand the terrible ordeal of this strenuous contest of a general election, and I feel persuaded that your honesty and the sense of sportsmanship you have displayed so far will be recognized by the Canadian people, and eventually place you in the position of a great leader to make Canada take her place amongst the great nations of the world and our Empire, and become eventually the happiest place on your great continent.

This is my wish, and the sincere desire of one who loves Canada. I wish you God-speed in your noble efforts for a united Canada.

So good-bye,

Yours sincerely,

PETER WRIGHT.

Empress of Britain, Oct. 4, 1921.

CRISP COMMENT

Complaints are made about children using their sleds on the hills about town, endangering their own lives and the lives of pedestrians. This is true; but where is there a public slide that the young folks can use in safety? There should be a number of public slides in safe places, and even the old folks would enjoy the exhilaration of rushing down the hill on the bobs and the tingling, life-giving sensation of joy in living. Civic slides for sleds and slides for toboggans provide harmless healthful entertainment and exemplifies the modern community spirit, and the idea of service.

Quebec was not at all in accord with Canada's Win-the-war Government, and plainly said so in the last Dominion election when all the rest of Canada registered approval so strongly. Quebec returned sixty-two anti-government candidates out of a total of sixty-five. Now the same reactionary bunch is trying to reopen old sores and prevent a single government supporter being elected in that province by calling for revenge. How do the soldiers like that? And Mackenzie King, in whose behalf this campaign is being waged, has neither repudiated it or asked for moderation. Mackenzie King is a cheap politician to accept this kind of support without even a protest.

One of the most amusing incidents of the campaign is the side-tracking of King, the Liberal leader, by Gouin, who is styled by his friends, the little Napoleon of Quebec. The boy leader has been simply brushed to one side. Quebec Liberalism has asserted itself as the power.

If the election be determined on the merits of the respective policies, if it be determined by reason rather than by class prejudice, Canada and the Government need not fear the result. The choice should be an easy one for all right thinking people to make. It is a choice between Meighen with ability, advocating stability, King a doctrinaire without a policy, anxious only for office; and Crerar, a political amateur who would experiment with the country's most vital interests at the most inopportune time in its history.

The Liberals are responsible more than any other party for the railway mess. They built the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Transcontinental railways twenty years before they were needed and in addition bonused the construction of the C.N.R. between Port Arthur and Montreal in the face of the existing paralleling Transcontinental, which was then not earning grease for its wheels. And now Sir Lomer Gouin says, "Trust the Liberals to solve the railway question." As railway builders the Liberals made the most colossal blunders in all Canadian history and they cannot be safely trusted with the handling of these railways now. One experience of their bungling is more than enough.

TANGLEFOOT

Edmonton Journal

From the north has come a very good thing in the way of an election campaign bon mot. Mr. K. C. Corbett, who is taking an active part in the campaign for Captain Robert Campbell in the West Edmonton constituency, said at a meeting in Grande Prairie that the Liberal platform as defined and expounded by Hon. Mackenzie King is a "weird mass of political tanglefoot."

Other definitions of the Liberal policy have used up many words with less telling effect. Mr. Corbett has hit upon expression that exactly fits the situation, and the chances are it will stick.

ONE SORT OF REFORMER

Hamilton Herald

Not long ago a Toronto clergyman indignantly reported to the head of one of the colleges that some of the members of the faculty used tobacco, and he called upon the principal to forbid the practice. Now that same clergyman has lost his pastorate, has been kicked out of the ministry and has run away, because he ruined a young girl, a member of his congregation, whose affections he had insidiously won. However, let it be set down to his credit that he did what he could to compel other people to stop smoking.

Important Omission

A clergyman, who was a widower, had three grown-up daughters. Having occasion to go away for a few weeks he wrote home from time to time. In one of his letters he informed them that he had "married a widow with six children."

This created a stir in the household. When the vicar returned home, one of the daughters, her eyes red with weeping, said:

"Where's the widow you married, father"

"Oh, I married her to another man. I ought to have told you that." said the vicar.

The Poets' Corner

THE CITY AT 2-30 A.M.

Where are the crowds that passed through morning's gate,
And took their place upon day's thoroughfares?
They came and went until the night was late—
But now for hours no hawker hawks his wares.

With yardstick, scissors, pen tired hands are done,
And Toil has bathed her brow in Lethe's stream,
While little red-frocked maidens I saw run
All day are pulling flowers in meads of dream.

No whistle blew at nightfall, no alarm
Could halt the onward march of that stampede,
And yet without protest each took the arm
Of sleep and went. Thus daily men give heed.

To quiet Nature—let him take her crown
Who else can make a city full lie down!

CAN INDIANS BE PROSECUTED

As a result of a visit a few days ago by inland revenue officers and license inspectors to the residence of David Brant, an Indian, residing on the Mohawk Reserve in Tyendinaga Township a still was discovered and a quantity of home-brewed liquor found which was confiscated. Brant was arrested and later Levi Claus was arrested, charged with being implicated in the case.

A charge under the Inland Revenue Act was brought against the accused and the trial was fixed for Friday at Deseronto before Police Magistrate Bedford. Mr. Carnew, Crown Attorney, was present on behalf of the crown, whilst Brant was defended by Mr. Butler and Claus by Mr. Harrington, K.C., of Napanee.

Counsels for the defence raised an objection to the proceedings taken, the contention being that the accused Reserve and were charged with an offence under the Inland Revenue Act, which was not the right procedure. It was also contended that the presiding Magistrate had no jurisdiction in the case under the Inland Revenue Act, and that the case should have been proceeded with under the Act respecting Indians.

The case was enlarged until the 9th of December.

Backache

Backache is the outstanding symptom of kidney disease. Women often make the mistake of attributing other causes and overlook the derangement of the kidneys until serious developments have made it difficult to obtain permanent relief.

This letter points to a treatment which has been so thoroughly tried and proven so effective in the great majority of cases that you cannot afford to overlook it when cause arises for its use.

Mrs. Albert Brunet, R.R. No. 1, Ottawa, Ont., writes:

"I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for the past two months, having been afflicted with kidney trouble. I used two doctors' medicine previous to this, without any good results. A friend told me to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and the second box made me feel a good deal better. I have now used about six or eight boxes, and am completely relieved."

THE RING OF DEATH.

A Story of the Drug Traffic in Toronto.

"Ting" is a name to conjure with in Toronto. It is a short, ugly word which marks a character as ugly as it sounds. When properly pronounced in the Cantonese dialect, it has a peculiar sibilance that seems pregnant of evil. Thus, it fairly typifies the individual whom it names. It conjures from out the murky veil of the Chinese underworld a furtive, shadowy figure who traffics in human souls, a link in the invisible chain of shame which the drug "ring" forges to hold in bondage the lives of its victims, the unhappy drug slaves.

"Ting" is one of the illusive "dope" pedlars at present operating in the city. He is a soulless agent of the "yellow ring" who capitalizes human misery and grows rich upon the ruins of wrecked lives.

It is only a week ago or so, that the name "Ting" became generally known Then it flashed for a second across the screen of a sordid drama of the underworld. To-day "Ting" is nothing more than a name. He was publicly denounced as a drug pedlar; but he could not be found. He had vanished amid the labyrinth of sin in which he lived. So cunningly did he work that, although he played a leading role in a tragedy as grim and as weird as the plot woven around a film romance of Chinatown, only his shadow was seen. It fell athwart a white girl and she died.

This drama of a soul in bondage, as told in a coroner's court, is, in reality, the life-story of many drug addicts who are walking the streets of Toronto to-day; there is but one vital difference in the telling—this girl is dead while the others are wasting away in a living death. I have but to quote an excerpt or two from the evidence given during the inquest to illustrate this point. It was shown that the dead girl had "been keeping company with a Chinaman named "Ting," and that on the day of her fatal illness he brought her a "mysterious parcel." Later, when the contents of this parcel was under discussion, one of the witnesses declared:

"I did not have to give that girl drugs; my girl did not have to give her drugs; there is a crowd in Chinatown that could get her more drugs in ten minutes than any other man could get in an hour."

Again there is the statement of the dead girl's mother, who said of her daughter: "I tell you she is not the only girl who traveled this road. There are dozens of other white girls living around the same way, and they, too, have fathers and mothers."

Here are crystalized the deductions of two witnesses who a personal but highly diversified interest in the operations of the "dope ring" and its pedlars in Toronto. "Ting" was something more than an obstruction in their lives. He was a living, vital force of destruction. The noxious wares he peddled claimed the life of a friend and a loved one. Unquestionably, he is peddling yet. His sly, furtive figure is still skulking about the streets and delivering "mysterious parcels" to rooming houses. One victim of his trade is gone; but doubtless there are others. So long as this drug "ring" of death exists, so long will "Ting" and his ilk be at their work of spreading ruin and desolation.

The foregoing case contains in the main all the elements of sorrow and tragedy which darken the lives of drug addicts. Yet, it is a case that is strangely paradoxical, for it is at once typical of the incurable drug fiend and at the same time unique in the annals of drug cases that have come under police observation: It is typical, inasmuch as from the beginning to the end, it traces accurately the road which the feet of the incurable "dope" slave must walk; it is unique in that it touches the high-lights of drama and plumbs the nadir of despair. Publicity in the coroner's court gave it a factitious value through the sensational lights which flashed across a background of a life's bleak tragedy. For a second, these lights played upon hidden forces of destruction which usually work under cover. That was all; the case itself told nothing new; it points out no new moral; it uncovered no new social vice.

In one form or another a drug "ring" has always operated in every city. Toronto is no exception to the rule. It will always operate in every large city so long as it is humanly possible and so long as fat profits may be made by damning human souls. To-day, New York is in the throes of its grip; only a couple of years ago London was the scene of a tremendous upheaval as a result of the terrible disclosures made of a drug "ring" in the heart of the Empire's capital.

When Society Went Mad

The case of Billie Carlton, the popular London actress, will be remembered by many readers. It will be recalled that she died through an orgy of drugs. An investigation into this tragedy unearthed sensational evidence which showed that their orgies were held frequently by both women and men. So deep had the virus sunk into fashionable society that morphine debaucheries had become a "fad" of the smart set. The drug "ring" had done its work well; it and it pedlars waxed fat upon the lives they had blighted.

Here again is the story of a sordid tragedy brightened by the high-lights of sensationalism. As published in the papers the actual story itself was as artificial as the lives led by the chief characters. There is nothing sensational in the life of a drug fiend; it is merely artificial and grey—as artificial as the craving which has been awakened and the stimulation sought; and as grey as the valley of shadows in which the victim is condemned to live. The outsanding figure in this drab drama is not that of the victim herself, or himself, but that of the pedlar, a form without soul, at once feared, yet welcomed by the victim within his grasp. To the addict the pedlar is a destroying angel who bleeds him of his money to the last cent; but he is also a being of mercy who assuages the soul-consuming torment in which his victim is plunged when the effects of the drug wear away. Here is yet another paradox; but when one delves into the devious ways of the drug traffic one must be content to meet with nothing but paradoxes. Everything is artificial; nothing is real but the valley of shadows in which the victims live.

The last mile-stone in the life of a drug addict is one fraught with suffering and sorrow. Here there are no high-lights to brighten the way. All is drab, sordid and tragic; and there is no relief. I can recall one case of a man who was sentenced to a term in jail in an effort to cure him of this pernicious habit. But he had gone too far. At length, while temporarily deranged through his sufferings, he leaped from the top of the spiral stairway in the old jail and dashed his life out on the concrete floor below.

Then there was another case of an addict found dead in a hovel. He laid himself down on the dirty, bare floor of his room and fell into that sleep which knows of no wakening. When his body was examined at the morgue, there was not a bit of flesh within reach of his arms which had not been stabbed with the hollow-needle of the hypodermic. How much money he had contributed to the drug "ring" during his shameful career as a "dope" slave never will be known. But he must have spent thousands of dollars buying small doles of morphine from the greedy pedlars. He died prematurely and in poverty and despair, so that they might fatten upon the ruins of his life.

Salvage of Wrecks from Drug Shoals

All drug fiends do not sink gradually into the slime of the underworld. Many have been reclaimed and, despite their terrible affliction, threw off the irons which shackled them mentally and physically, and became respected members of society. I remember the case of one man who was picked up on the street by a plainclothesman as an addict. When he appeared the following morning in the police court cells, he was in such a pitiful state of collapse that he lay moaning on the floor. He could not be brought into the dock until a doctor had given him a "shot" of his favorite "dope." He was sentenced to a term at the jail farm which was considered sufficient to wean him away from his pernicious habit. Under of the careful treatment of the jail surgeon he eventually was cured. To-day he conducts a thriving business; but he frequently declares that he never can look back upon his years of bondage without a shudder. He had tasted of the depth of misery and he knows what hells a human soul can plumb in this living death.

It was by this same method of treatment that "Ting," of infamous name, lost yet another of his "customers." At the inquest into the death of his girl victim, a female witness admitted in the box that she had been a drug fiend but having some under the eye of the police, she had been "picked-up" by a plainclothesman and taken into custody. She likewise had undergone a curative sentence and had come through the ordeal and been cured. Now, she stated, she had nothing but loathing for her former habit.

The Police Way

Incidentally, it may be remarked here that by the process of "picking-up" drug addicts, sending them to jail for sentences long enough to effect cures and then discharging as cured, the police hope eventually to wipe out the activities of the drug "ring" in Toronto. The reasoning is simple. If one can cure all the addicts then the pedlars will have no "customers" to sell to and the operations of the "ring" automatically will cease. This is good police reasoning and it seems fairly common in police circles all over the continent. The New York force have started an anti-drug campaign upon the same "broad" policy. Recently no less than 700 cases were "rounded" up in New York within a month. Some came voluntarily: some were brought; but they came. And when they did come the Commissioner could do nothing for them beyond listening to their stories and offering them the "sink or swim" cure.

The Commissioner worked upon the theory that if a person is to be cured of the drug habit, he must cure himself. It is wholly a question of will power. If one wills it strongly enough, he can be cured. All the police can do is to strengthen that will by placing him where he cannot get the drug for a stipulated time and help to overcome the craving by a scientific treatment, such as the police doctors may give. The duration of the treatment depends entirely upon the judgment of the police and the magistrate. Here at once is a weakness. Two bodies of men who are purely laymen must pass upon the case before it reaches professional hands. A second and even greater weakness is the fact that while the treatment is under way, the patient must remain in jail and to a certain degree consort with confirmed lawbreakers.

Making Drug Addicts

It is true that a drug addict is unquestionably a confirmed lawbreaker, in any case he is a daring sneak thief; but he is also a sick man. He is not a lawbreaker from inclination but from necessity. In the process of drug deterioration the first thing that breaks is the will power. this is followed by a complete moral collapse and, lastly, by a physical breakdown. The average dope fiend is a prince among liars, a sneak thief of extraordinary skill and daring and he might be passed through a sieve without a single moral scruple being discovered. He will beg, lie or steal to get money to buy a "deck" of his favorite drug. But this is a secondary condition, imposed by the action of the drug itself.

Here it is that many addicts who once were fundamentally honest are forced by their craving for drugs to commit crime. They are to be pitied rather than punished; to be cured rather than corrected. They did not take to drugs knowingly; hardly one drug fiend did that. They were deceived into the habit; they are now paying the price of their ignorance. The drug addict and the drug pedlar have the pernicious habit of making "converts." It is a matter of necessity for both of them; but the motives differ widely. The drug fiend fears for the time when he, or she, may not have enough ready money to purchase a "deck." Therefore, in their flush time they buy sufficient to give a friend a dose. Usually this is done by some subterfuge; but they know that after a couple of doses or three are administered, then that friend is an addict. He, or she, will continue to take it and when the deceiver runs low in his supply and has no money, he fondly believes that he will be able to beg, borrow or steal a "deck" from this new "convert." The drug pedlar works the same way, only with a different motive. He would put the shackles of bondage upon another soul so that upon its ruin he will reap fat profits.

A Girl's Story

A typical case of such a "conversion," as it is called, was told to the Commissioner of the New York Police recently by an Irish girl. She acquired the habit of taking heroin when a friend gave her some under an assumed name, to relieve the pangs of rheumatism. "The first dose cost me $3," she said, "and I took it quick. It made me a new girl. For a year I used it, and it costing me $3, a day; more than me wages. The time wasn't long when the dope gave me no more help than so much sugar, and says I to the girl, "What's happened to me medicine?" She says I need a bigger dose; but to get it I must come along of her. I went quick; I had gone anywhere, my trouble was so deep The man she took me to done me work, but he sold heroin to poor folk like me. And when he asked $6, for little more than my first dose, I paid it quick. Six dollars a day it has been costing me since, and all me savings out of the Emigrant Bank is gone; he's got them. Now I ain't able to get so much money—but I must have me medicine. I've scraped and borrowed and contrived till I see that to get the money I would steal. And me an honest girl!"

The case of this Irish girl, of New York, whose savings in Emigrant Bank were dissipated in "dope" can be paralleled by easily a dozen Toronto cases that I have heard of. One man whom I knew intimately told me a story along almost similar lines. He had served in the United States' army and was wounded while on active service in some little Moro scrap in the Phillippines. His hurts were both extremely painful and severe and during his long treatment in the hospital the orderlies made it a practice of giving him a steady diet of morphine, so that he would be of less trouble to them. Their criminal conduct brought the natural result. When the patient was invalided out of the army he was a confirmed "dope" fiend. When I met him some years later, "dope" claimed his entire earnings and his agony when he could not secure it in his wonted quantities were pitiful to behold. When his supply ran low and he could not locate his particular pedlar in the accustomed haunts, he has come to me to borrow sufficient money to buy a railroad ticket to a certain town where he had an addict friend who would sell white poison to tide him over the critical period of the pedlar's unexpected absence.

A Modern De Quincy

Think of it; a man, once a fine, upstanding soldier, who for a decade and a half had done nothing but grubbed about on the outskirts of the underworld hunting for "dope;" who, when his source of supply at home was cut off, would jump a train and ride almost 100 miles, with every nerve in his body throbbing in an acute agony, for a "shot" to assuage his torment; De Quincy, in his "Confessions of an Opium Eater," wrote of no deeper hells than has this soldier addict told me of. He, like De Quincy, dreaded that sleep which comes of drugs; he, too, had an Ann to dream of; but it was a different Ann to the one immortalized by the great English author. She was a phantom of the past, a vivid dream image of a love he had foregone for a phial of white pellets and a hypodermic needle.

"I don't know how to describe the hell of the last 15 years," he said to me one day, as he stood on a station platform, waiting to board a train to take him to an institution for treatment. "Hell is the only word I can give it. I had quite a bit of money save up before I quit the army; almost $1,200, it was. But I had got pretty bad in that hospital without knowing it. In less than a year my $1,200, had gone, along with all I earned on the side. And with it I lost her; Ann wrote me she would wait till I came back; but I never came. How could I go to her—I, a morphine fiend? Yet, she often comes to me when I sleep. That is the worst of all my dreams; the others I can stand, but not that. She comes and cries over me. But last week I heard that she was still waiting. I went and saw her—for the first time in 20 years. I told her the truth. I told her I had spent enough in dope to buy the finest house and garden in her home village; and she is going to wait another year for me. I am going away now for those two years. I am going to come out clean or dead. I could not go through another year like the last one and live, now that I know she's waiting still. If I die I'll die fighting."

Some Vital Questions

I should like to add, very much, indeed, that this soldier addict came out of the institution a cured man; that he went back to his home village and married his Ann and lived happy ever after; but I cannot do so. When his train steamed out of the station he passed out of my life. I never heard of him again. I hope that he survived the ordeal and came forth a cured man. I believe that he did. He was made of fighting stuff; but he needed every ounce of it to put up this last and biggest fight of his life. He had a great love fighting for him and that should have made him win.

In the foregoing paragraphs I have given, more or less sketchily, the stories of two addicts; one, the Irish girl, took of her own volition the police "sink or swim" cure; the other he was more fortunate and through a friend was admitted to a Government institution for a scientific medical treatment. Let us assume that both these cases came up through ordinary police channels; should they have been treated as ordinary lawbreakers and sent to jail, where they would have to consort more or less with people of criminal intent? were they friends or relatives of yours, would you be in favor of such a treatment, no matter how scientific it might be?

These are but two questions of many which must be answered, sooner or later, by the community at large if the drug traffic is to be stamped out. There is still "Ting" and his menacing shadow upon our streets; doubtless there are still other girls destined to follow in the footsteps of the Irish girl; and there are still the unfortunate addicts existing in their lying death. Each individual, no matter how remotely he or she may be connected with the traffic at the present time, provides a problem which the city must solve, whether it is to protect, to cure or to punish. In other words, the drug traffic itself is a question mark; it begins and ends in a question; and that question is: What are we going to do about it?

Presently he, too, went up, but it was dark, and he could not find the room. After a good deal of wandering he thought he had at last found it.

He tapped on the door and said, "Honey! Honey!"

A voice from inside the room answered, "Go away, you idiot. This is a bathroom, not a beehive!"

TORTURED BY PILES FOR YEARS; RELIEVED BY INTERNAL BATHS

If you are troubled with piles, constipation or biliousness, don't begin taking drugs.

If you bathe internally with the J. B. L. Cascade you will find yourself always bright, confident and capable. Poisonous waste in the lower intestine is the cause to which a score of common ailments may be traced.

Mr. A. M. Steele, Cupar, Sask., writes: "I had been troubled with my stomach, Piles and Constipation, for years until I had become very thin and looked 20 years older. A leading doctor in Regina told me that the main canal was badly ulcerated. I gradually became worse, until one day, when purchasing a threshing outfit from Mr. Russell of Regina, Mr. Russel noticed my condition and said: 'I can cure you. Get a J. B. L. Cascade.' Well, I did so, and the first night I used it I slept all night for the first time in weeks, and in a short time felt quite myself again. It also cured my piles, which had troubled me for years."

The Internal Bath is a simple and easy treatment, by the application of warm water. It should be available in every home.

The J. B. L. Cascade is the only perfected appliance for Internal Bathing, is shown and explained at J. S. McKeown, Druggist, Belleville, Ont.

Locating Secondary Ignition Circuit Troubles

Short-Circuits Can Be Discovered By The Lowered Voltage They Cause

IGNITION TROUBLES IN THE BATTERY or low tension side of the system, arise mainly from faulty contacts, which interrupt the flow of the very mild electrical pressure there used, but the secondary or high-tension current, which is produced in the coil and is supposed to reach the plugs in full force and make the sparks is, on the contrary, of a decidedly "frisky" nature, always tending to leave its intended circuit and to escape, through short-circuiting, without having done its duty. Locating these points of escape, which may be in faulty coil-insulation, in the wiring or in broken down plug-cores, has always been a difficult matter, as no handy detecting device has been available. When the high tension circuit is in order, the electrical pressure builds up in it, to a high value, at the ignition instant, but when it is short-circuited, no such high pressure is realized and if means were available to indicate whether high voltage were present in any point in the circuit, it would at once appear whether a short-circuit existed or not. Most motorists will recall, from high school or college days, the gas filled "Geissler tubes," which glowed when attached to an induction coil or "static machine" and they may be interested to know that this principle is being applied in testing ignition circuits. A suitable gas filled vacuum tube, if touched to a point in the high tension circuit, will light up in proportion, to the electrical pressure there present and if the point touched is short-circuited it will not glow at all. The ignition testers recently placed upon the market consist of a protected glass tube, filled with the rare gas neon, which glows an orange red at electrical pressures lower than other gases light up. Such a gage or tester should, for instance, indicate at once that a plug-porcelain is leaking or short-circuiting the sparking current, by lighting up only slightly or not at all, when applied to the plug binding screw.

TWO SPEEDS ENGAGED AT ONCE?

G. C. asks: What can cause the universal or other part of the drive to lock, so that a car can be moved neither forward or backward? My car once became locked thus, while it was standing.

Answer: Assuming good lubrication and the bearings all right, about the only thing which could cause this locking would be some moving part of the driving system getting loose and wedging against a housing or some other part. Locking, such as you describe, sometimes occurs from a defect in the gear shifting mechanism, which permits two gears to be in mesh simultaneously. For instance, if something goes wrong with the shifting fork, high gear may be left in mesh and the lever be drawn through neutral and low gear engaged, which would prevent car motion. Sometimes brake bands fail to release, although the pedal or lever have been moved to the off position and the car is immovable until some shock releases the locked bands. You better inspect your gearshift and also make sure that your brakes release reliably.

COOLING WATER WON'T CIRCULATE

G. C. writes: The cooling water will enter the block of my engine, from the bottom of the radiator but it will not circulate from the block to the top of the radiator. All connections have been checked up and the radiator has been cleaned out thoroughly. Do you think that the pump can be so worn that its moving part slips past the water without moving it?

Answer: This pump is of the centrifugal type and we do not see how it can be worn enough to make it fail. It is possible, however, that the moving part or impeller has become loose on its shaft and does not turn at all. You better take it apart and see about this. We can think of nothing else that can cause a total failure of the circulation, although there are things that can greatly reduce it, such as the spreading of the gaskets under the flanges of the intake and outflow manifolds. There have been cases of a piece of hose lining or other foreign object getting into the system and obstructing water movement.

Questions of general interest to the motorist will be answered by Mr. Clough in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Y.M.C.A. BOWLING

The members of the Intelligencer bowling team last night demonstrated the fact that it is possible to come back after having fallen down to a considerable extent. The opposing team was the Curlers and at the finish of the first game the typos found themselves in a minority of 156 pins. This naturally would be considered a lead sufficient to win the game, but it proved otherwise. In the second game the Intelligencer team won out by 141 pins being only 15 pins behind. In the third and final game they won out by 64 pins thus defeating the Curlers by 49 pins. It proved to be an interesting game and was witnessed by a number of spectators. Hill, for the winning team had the highest score in single game namely 218, whilst Ridley for the same team had high three string, namely 521. The players and scores were as follows:

Intelligencer:

Ridley	162	192	167—521

ANOTHER ATHLETIC PHENOM UNEARTHED IN SOUTH AFRICA

South Africa has developed another schoolboy athlete in L. B. B. Betts, whose performance early last month at the Jeppe high school sports, and later in the Transvaal inter-high school championships suggest that he may better the records of Reggie E. Walker and B. G. D. Rudd, both of whom are credited with exceptional performances as schoolboys.

Betts, a lithe and clean-limbed youth of seventeen, won the 100, 440 and 880 yards at Jeppe school. In the quarter he won his preliminary in 50 7-8 seconds, while in the final on the following day, he covered the distance in 50 seconds and won the 100 yards in 10 seconds. The half-mile was the next event, and without retiring to the pavilion he went on to his mark and won from L. Phillips, of Krugersdorp, by twenty-five yards, who put up a record last year of two minutes, six seconds.

Mr. Motorist

Do you need any special repair parts for your Auto, Tractor or Machinery of any kind? We have a well equipped Machine Shop and can make these parts for you. We also re-grind cylinders, babbit bearings, or overhaul any type or Gasoline, Coal Oil or Internal combustion engine.

How are your springs rough roads? If they flat-standing the strain of ten down we can set them up. If they break we can supply new leaves or make the whole new spring if required.

Have you any parts or castings that are broken? We can weld these parts with OXY-ACETYLENE. It very often saves an expensive part to have it repaired in this manner.

Is your engine carboned up or dirty? We burn out the cylinders with oxygen.

If we in any way can be of service, please call on us at 15 Station St. or Tel. 83.

90% of People are Constipated

New medicine relieves almost instantly

Your headaches, you have indigestion, piles, rheumatism, kidney pains, your complexion is not clear, your tongue is coated, foul breath, tired, out of sorts. All these aches and pains are due to constipation. Take one Tanated Calomel tablet before meals or two at bedtime. The calomel acts upon the liver, causing it to excret bile into the intestines forming an emulsion, and a natural, easy movement of the bowels result; alway keep a few Tanated Calomel tablets and do not allow your system to be poisoned from the waste in the bowels. A Bad Case
Eczema All Over His Body—His Legs—His Arms Covered

John Clark of Brookville, N. B., crowds a story of great suffering into a few words.

"I was tormented beyond words. I could not sleep. You could not put a pin on my whole body. I tried several doctors. They said it was scrofula. Three dollar bottles of D. D. D. is all I used. I have not had a sore for five months."

Each week we are selecting a letter from some Canadian sufferer to show what can be done to itching, burning skin disease by the clear, purifying liquid wash, D. D. D.

Stop that itch today. You are not asked to use D. D. D. for weeks before you receive results. If you don't get relief from the very first bottle we hand your money back. $1.00 a bottle. Try D. D. D. Soap, too.

FIRE AT MARMORA

A fire occurred at the village of Marmora on Monday. A double house on William street owned by Miss M. O'Connor was discovered to be on fire and the blaze spread rapidly. Mr. Bruce Morrison and family occupied the west half of the house and the fire started in their part. The fire had made such headway before they were aroused, that it was impossible to save any of their household effects. Mr. Lorne Gray lived in the east half of the house and most of his furniture was removed before the flames spread to his part of the building.

A NARROW ESCAPE

Roy C. Mullins, a tinsmith at Lyn, had a narrow escape from serious injury. He was working in his shop with a gasoline soldering iron, when the tank part containing the liquid exploded. He was alone in the shop at the time but managed to crawl out and a young lady passing, seeing his predicament, gave an alarm. Walter Billings responded, assisted Mr. Mullins and succeeded in putting out the fire in the shop.

HAND BADLY TORN

Mr. Ralph Culvert, Little Britain, met with a painful accident last Wednesday when his hand was caught in a turnip pulper. The back of his hand was badly torn up, but luckily he lost no fingers. The latest reports are that he is doing quite nicely.

UNFORTUNATE ACCIDENT

Friends will be sorry to learn of the unfortunate accident which happened to Mr. Thomas Westlick Thursday morning. Mr. Westlick was engaged at a circular saw at Chalk's Carriage Shop when his right hand slipped from the board he was working with and came in contact with saw, his thumb being completely severed. Mr. Westlick was taken to the hoppital and at the time of writing is resting as comfortable as can be expected but the injury is very painful.—Port Hope Guide.

SATURDAY'S MARKET

Buyers appeared to be more prominent upon the market to-day than sellers, and in consequence all products of the farm offered for sale were disposed of at good prices. Fresh eggs were a scarcity and sold from 75c to 80c. per dozen; dairy butter sold from 40c. to 45c. a pound; dressed fowls were quite plentiful, and prices varied; chickens sold from $1.25 to $2 a pair, according to quality; ducks, at $1.50 to $1.75 each and a few geese were sold at $3 each. Garden products were readily disposed of.

MEETING AT CANIFTON

POLICE COURT CASES

Mayor Hanna and Mr. H. F. Ketcheson, J. P. presided over the police court this morning. A fine of $10 and costs was imposed upon two parties who pleaded guilty to an O.T.A. case.

SPECIAL MEETING

A special meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held on Thursday evening in St. Michael's Academy. A splendid crowd of ladies was in attendance and the enthusiasm and interest shown by those present is most encouraging to the organizers of the League which has but lately been organized in this city. After the business of the meeting was transacted, a social evening was enjoyed by all, refreshments being served by the ladies of the Executive during the social hour.

ANNUAL INSPECTION OF CANTON BELLEVILLE

No. 8 At Oddfellows' Temple Friday Evening—Short Addresses Given.

RECEIVES RICHEST PLUM EVER FALLEN

Into Lap of Woman in N. Y. Experience of New Registrar.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—There'll be no regulation of skirt lengths, no ban on bare knees, no outcry against the bobbing of tresses or the parking of corsets by her employes when Miss Annie Mathews takes over on January 1 the office she has just been elected as register of the County of New York—the richest political plum that has ever fallen into the lap of a woman in New York, if not in the entire United States.

Not that the $12,000 a year register-elect hasn't very decided ideas on clothes and all the allied arts so precious to women. Indeed, she has spent part of her 40-odd years studying the clothes problem, first as dressmaker, then as designer and finally as an importing modiste.

But she has even more decided ideas in the question of personal liberty.

"I am opposed to all prohibition," she said. "It is impossible to make women or men moral by legislation. The human race can be improved only by education that will make them appreciate the good and the artistic.

"If any of my young women employes ask for my advice on clothes I shall give it. And the most important thing I will tell them is to wear something appropriate for the occasion. A woman's business attire, or house attire certainly should be simple.

Busy herself at the time, receiving congratulations at her campaign headquarters, Miss Matthews' attire emphasized her formula. A plain blue serge dress, softened at the throat by a bit of embroidered linen collar. Black high shoes. No jewelry. Copper colored hair simply coiffed.

"Skirt lengths, bobbed hair, the question of corsets or not," she went on, with a twinkle from behind her pince-nez glasses, "are largely matters of taste—and of figure. All this talk about depravity among young women makes me a bit weary. I believe the young people are as good as young people ever were.

"Of course there are and always have been extremists. But—well, I don't think I will be troubled with these, for I can tell a great deal about character by the clothes one wears. Yes, even the standardized clothes of men.

Miss Matthews enters on her new job of keeping the country's deeds, mortgages and leases with but one preconceived idea—that there shall be no prejudice either for or against any of her 150 employes because they happen to be women.

BRONCHIAL ASTHMA

Choking and Gasping for Breath Relieved by "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MRS. PENNINGTON
New Rockland, P.Q.

"In 1919, I was taken with Bronchial Asthma and no one knows what I suffered with it during the winter. I began having Choking Spells—gasping for breath and could not speak. I would have one of these bad spells in the evening, one during the night, and one in the morning. The doctor said he could do nothing for me.

"In the spring of 1920, I started taking "Fruit-a-tives" and in a few days, the choking spells stopped, and I have had none since May 7th, 1920. I have so wanted to tell other sufferers who have the same trouble about "Fruit-a-tives" for I know how they must suffer.

Some thought the Asthma would come back on me as winter came on but it has not, thanks to "Fruit-a-tives" Mrs. J. M. PENNINGTON.

BE SURE GARAGE IS WELL VENTILATED

Else Your Relatives May Have to Call an Undertaker.

New York, Nov. 24.—Cold weather "don'ts" of the past have been increased this year with a new one by the ventilation experts. It is that you make sure your garage is properly ventilated or your relatives may have to call an undertaker. Deadly carbon monoxid, a poisonous gas given off by automobile engines in motion, has taken a big toll of human lives in the past in the case of chauffeurs or car owners who failed to realize that working in a poorly ventilated or closed garage with the engine running was really as foolish as "blowing out the light" in the good old days.

New discoveries o fthe virulence of carbon monoxid recently have been made by Professor Yandell Harrison and other engineers working to solve the problem of ventilation for the proposed vehicular tunnel under the Hudson river. Among their tests was one to show the effect of the gas when it is confined in closed spaces. A summary of their observations, with particular reference to garages, appears in The Journal of The American Medical Association.

Great Danger

It showed that if the quantity of carbon monoxid in air did not exceed three parts in 10,000, no physiological effects were produced. Between three and six parts to the 10,000 the effects were hardly perceptible. Above that, headache and nausea were induced, increasing in severity with the rising of the ratio and when it reached 15 to the 10,000 life was in jeopardy.

Motor car owners and operators are warned that an engine emits a square foot of the deadly gas a minute when in motion and in three minutes the air in a closed garage is surcharged to a sufficient degree greatly to imperil human life. The victim falls unconscious before he realizes he is in peril and death is the outcome unless he is speedily rescued and brought into the open air.

RHEUMATIC PAINS HAVE DISAPPEARED

As a Result of Treating The Trouble Through the Blood

The chief symptom of rheumatism is pain. The most successful treatment is the one that most quickly relieves and banishes the pain. Many rheumatic people suffer pains that could be avoided by building up the blood; when rheumatism is associated with thin blood it cannot be corrected until the blood is built up.

Mr. Ed. Hall, Main-a-Dieu, N. S., suffered from rheumatism for years but was more fortunate than many victims of the disease for he found a remedy that so built up his entire system that he is now free from rheumatism. Mr. Hall says: "I was taken down with rheumatism, and at times was under the treatment of several of the best doctors in Cape Breton, but they held out no hope for my recovery from the trouble. I was confined to bed for three years and a helpless cripple from the trouble. I could not move, and had to be turned in sheets. My legs and fingers were drawn out of shape and sores developed on my body as the result of my long confinement to bed. I was in this serious condition when a friend advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I began taking them. The first benefit I felt from the pills was an improved appetite, and then I began to feel stronger and was finally able to get out of bed and go about on crutches. I continued taking the pills for months, slowly but surely getting my strength, and finally I was able to lay the crutches aside. I will always be lame, as the result of my long stay in bed, my left leg has shortened somewhat, but otherwise I am feeling fine and able to do my work as Fishery Overseer. I may add that when the rheumatism came on I weighed 140 pounds, and when I began going about on crutches, I only weighed 67 pounds, and now I am at normal weight. There are many here who know and can vouch for the truth of these statements."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2:50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FREIGHT RATES TO BE REDUCED

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—A general reduction of ten per cent. in freight rates on all steam roads, under the jurisdiction of the Board of Railway Commissioners, will go into effect on Dec. 1, it was announced by Chief Commissioner F. B. Carvell. The order of the board giving effect to this decission will be issued Thursday. Announcement of the reduction was made following a conference between the presidents and representatives of the Canadian National, Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways and the comissioners.

After the conference Chief Commissioner Carvell explained that the reduction was not a straight ten per cent. of the present freight rates, but was to be deducted from the increase in rates made effective by the order of the board, issued in December, 1920, when the increases of forty per cent. in the east and thirty-five per cent. in the west, made effective Sept. 13, 1920, were reduced to thirty-five per cent. in the east and thirty per cent. in the west. The forthcoming order will further decrease freight rates to a basis of 25 per cent. in the East and 20 per cent. in the west above the rates effective prior to the first increase in September, 1920.

The order will also provide for a decrease in all sleeping, parlor and Pullman car rates of one-half of the increase granted in 1920.

Railroad officials in conference with the commissioners were: D. B. Hanna, president Canadian National Railways; E. W. Beatty, president Canadian Pacific; H. G. Kelley, president Grand Trunk Railway; W. R. MacInnes, vice-president C.P.R.; C. A. Hayes, vice-president of C.N.R., and Frank J. Watson, general freight agent, G.T.R.

FINDING OUT IF GERMANY CAN PAY

Allied Commission Investigates Financial Condition of Germany.

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—A vast mass of material on German raw materials, productivity, labor, wages and the country's financial status is being gathered by the members of the Guaranties Commission, the sub-committee of the Reparations Commission now in Berlin.

Almost daily consultations are being held with various government officials as well as financial and industrial leaders as to the prospects of Germany meeting her $100,000,000 gold installment to the Allied powers on January 15, and in some of these conferences, Roland W. Boyden and Col. James A. Logan, the unofficial American representatives are having a part. The second four installments, another $100,000,000, is due next April.

The commissioners are expected to remain here until December 1, when they will go back to Paris to report to the full Reparations Commission. One of the most important phases of their investigation has been currency inflation and the decline of the mark. It is interesting to note that since the reparations payments began last May the outstanding paper money circulation in Germany jumped from 69,724,403,000 marks to 91,347,101,000 marks for the week ending October 31.

A comparison with pre-war issues shows even more pronouncedly the extent of inflation. For instance, in the week ending July 25, 1912, the paper money issue aggregated only 1,004,260,000 marks. The same week of 1913 it was 1,826,920,000 marks and in 1914 it was 1,890,893,000. The week of November 6, 1916 it had jumped to 7,246,260,000. The same week a year later it was 10,403,740,000 marks and two years later it had gone to 16,959,260,000. The week of May 24, 1919 it was 27,286,480,000 and the same week in 1920 it reached 49,127,540,000 marks.

A recent statemen tby Dr. Friedrich Rosen, former Foreign Minister, that the amount of German property sequestrated in various countries is sufficient to meet her reparations obligations has been the subject of discussions. The United States at one time possessed $150,000,000 worth of property belonging to the German Government.

PR. EDWARD DOCTORS MEET

Picton, Nov. 22.—The Prince Edward County Medical Association held its annual meeting today. Dr. F. N. G. Starr of Toronto gave a lecture on abdominal surgery, and Dr. Geo. S. Strathy, Toronto, lectured on differential diagnosis of pains in the back. The proceedings closed with a banquet at the Royal Hotel, Dr. Philp President of the association, being Chairman.

THE REBUFF DIRECT.

"To milk the public, if I can," she said.
"May I go with you, my pretty maid?"
"No you can't! my dear sir," she said.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Local Option Method Has Produced Crazy Quilt In Canada.

Analysis of Canada's much-muddled civic time systems reveals many peculiar situations. The local option method re daylight saving has produced through a sort of patchwork process a veritable crazy-quilt of time areas. The result discloses some method in the madness of that irate citizen who vehemently declared that the Federal Government should make it a criminal offence for any City Council to interfere with "God's time" by the introduction of daylight saving ordinahces.

The Quebec Legislature having taken the time bull by the horns and made daylight saving a provincial measure, there is in that province general uniformity of time, so far as the big cities are concerned.

The cities of Halifax and Sydney, Nova Scotia, and St. John and Fredericton, N.B., are also on daylight saving time. Apparently in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces the daylight savers hold the majority of the cities. When it is noon in Montreal it is 1 p.m. in the maritime cities. There is the same difference in time under the standard system.

It is in the populous Province of Ontario where the discrepancies are most awkward provincially. Kingston and Ottawa have put their clocks ahead one hour; Peterboro and other Eastern Ontario cities have not. Toronto also has daylight saving in conformity with Montreal and New York; so have St. Catharines and Niagara Falls, Ont., because of their New York state connections. But the cities of Hamilton, London, Brantford and Windsor and all of a dozen others in Western Ontario, with the exception of Kitchener, prefer to stay on standard time, with the result that they are running their clocks one hour behind that of the provincial capital.

The City of Winnipeg having decided to stay with standard time, is now two hours behind Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa. Regina, which is normally one hour behind Winnipeg, is just now on a par with her sister prairie city, having adopted daylight saving time, Calgary and Edmonton, still on standard time, are now three hours behind the big eastern cities.

Going over the Rockies one would naturally expect to find some agreement among the city hall clocks at the Pacific coast. On the contrary, it is 8 a.m. in Vancouver when it is 9 a.m. in Victoria, despite the fact that Victoria is a few miles nearer the setting sun. The latter city has adopted daylight saving.

Vancouver time is four hours behind that of Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa, instead of three hours, as under the standard system.

The transcontinental railways which are the most inconvenienced by the variations in time, are running on standard, or sun time, throughout Canada. Time tables have been altered in many instances, however, to meet the situation in districts which have adopted daylight saving.

Windsor's Granny.

Mrs. Martha "Granny" Stewart, 110 years old, Windsor's oldest resident, died on May 13th in the Home of the Friendless, Windsor. Mrs. Stewart, who had lived in the home since 1888, resided in Amherstburg for more than fifty years. The daughter of a soldier who fought in the war of 1812, Mrs. Stewart could recall incidents of the rebellion of 1837. She was thrice married. Her first husband was James Young, to whom she was married in Amherstburg. Jason Graves was her second husband. She was married to him in Dresden, Ont. Her last marriage was with William Stewart, who died in Windsor 30 years ago.

Asked and Answered.

A lady decided to give a house party. She had recently bought a hatstand, and she was showing this to one of the visitors when her little son came in.

So engrossed was the good hostess in pointing out the good points of the hatstand, that for a few moments she did not notice the arrival of the little boy, but as she did she saw to her disgust that he was still wearing his hat.

"Tommy," she said crossly, "what did I buy that hatstand for?"

"For $1.50!" retorted Tommy; "but you said I wasn't to tell anyone."

Tit for Tat.

A woman walking one day in the country. She saw a boy preparing to climb a tree after a nest.

"You wicked boy," she said. "Are you going to rob that nest? Think how the mother will grieve at the loss of her eggs."

"Oh, she won't feel it," said the boy; "she's in your hat."

Interrupted.

"Here is a letter it would hardly do for us to publish," said the patent-medicine quack. "A man writes, 'I have just taken the first bottle of your medicine'——"

"Well?" said his partner.

"There it breaks off short, and is signed in another handwwriting, 'Per executor'."

Practical Kindness.

Fond Mother—And so my little angel joined the Little Defenders today, and will always be kind to dumb animals?

Little Angel — Yes, ma. Comin' home I met a man with a bag full of kittens he was goin' to drown, and he promised to bring them here for us to be kind to.

Rather Chilly!

That the Arctic lands of northern Canada, where the thermometer goes down to 91 degrees below zero, offer unusual opportunities for growing sheep, cattle, Siberian alfalfa and even fruit, is the announced belief of an American agricultural expert.

GOVERNMENT REPORT ON CROP CONDITIONS

Reports from Every Part of the Province on Farm Prospects.

The following is a sumary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

The marketing of grain is very slow. Most of the wheat is still in the barn. Local millers are paying $1 a bushel.

Grey says that the price of sweet clover seed has declined to $3 a bushel.

Hay has wide spread in values, selling at from $17 to $30 a ton.

Potatoes have been going at around 80 cents bag in some parts of Simcoe Co., where the yield turned out to be better than was expected.

The turnips and other roots left out in the snow during the last week or two do not seem to be much the worse for their exposure, and now have favorable weather for their housing.

Fall wheat on the whole is looking promising, most of it having a good top. Here and there are evidences of injury from Hessian fly.

Fall plowing, which was held up by the snow storm, is again being pushed forward. Most of the farmers have completed their task.

The snow and heavy rains of this this month have been helping the water supply in some of the eastern counties where the wells have been running dry.

Most of the live stock are stabled, but are being let out during the day. There will be plenty of roughage, especially corn, for wintering.

Middlesex says that over forty carloads of cattle left Ailsa Craig during the week, all for Great Britain.

There has been a brisk demand for cattle in Carleton. Seven carloads were shipped from Carp during the week. Prices varied from three cents a pound for common to four cents for finished.

Waterloo reports that several carloads of feeders have been brought into the county during the week, some of them from Toronto stockyards, at prices ranging from four to five cents a pound.

A few beef cattle have changed hands in Kenora around three cents a pound.

Most of the cheese factories in eastern Ontario have ceased making cheese and are selling cream, the patrons getting the skim milk.

Hogs are still going at from $8 to $8.50 a cwt.

Peel states that a few good horses of the waggon type changed hands recently.

Bruce says: "One carload of black-faced sheep and one half carload of long-wools were shipped from Wellington recently. The black-faced brought $8.65 while the long-wools brought $8.25 at Toronto market. The sheep were fairly uniform, although some were overweight to bring top prices."

Chickens and ducks have been selling in Grey at 20c. a lb.

The Dundas representative says that Mr. N. Summers of Winchester, who has a large apiary, buries his bees during the winter. He interred them a week ago.

Perth observes that live stock and implements are going very cheap at auction sales.

CAMPAIGN NOTES

That there will be an election in West Hastings has inspired many of Mr. Porter's friends with the idea that organization is necessary to get out the vote in the city. Last night the popular candidate's committee rooms in the Robertson block, Front street was filled to the doors with supporters of the Conservative candidate. Ward organization was gone on with and all present were determined that the majority in this city for Mr. Porter would be all that could be desired.

At Ivanhoe, Huntingdon Township, a meeting will be held this evening in Mr. Porter's interest. It has been arranged chiefly by the ladies of that locality, who are taking an active interest in the campaign. The candidate, Mr. H. F. Ketcheson with others will speak.

On Monday evening next in the City Hall, a Labor mass meeting for Mr. Porter will be held. Sergt. McNamara, M.P.P., of Toronto will be the speaker with Mr. Porter and others.

The Three Guardsmen

He then perceived that the ground, trampled here and hoof marked there, presented confused traces of men and horses. Besides, the wheels of a carriage, which appeared to have come from Paris, had made a deep impression in the soft earth, which did not extend beyond the pavilion, but turned again toward Paris.

At length D'Artagnan, in following up his researches, found near the wall a woman's torn glove. Then he became almost wild. He ran along the high road, took the path he had before taken, and, coming to the ferry, closely interrogated the boatman.

About 7 o'clock in the evening, the boatman said, he had taken over a young woman enveloped in a black mantle, who appeared to be very anxious not to be seen. Everything conspired to prove to D'Artagnan that his presentiments had not deceived him and that a great misfortune had happened. He again ran back to the chateau. It appeared to him that something might have happened at the pavilion in his absence and that fresh information awaited him. The lane was still empty, and the same calm soft light shone from the window.

D'Artagnan then thought of that silent, obscure cottage. The gate of the inclosure was shut, but he leaped over the hedge, and in spite of the barking of a chained-up dog, went up to the cabin and knocked. It soon appeared to him that he heard a slight noise within, a timid noise, which seemed itself to tremble lest it should be heard.

"In the name of heaven! Listen to me. Speak!"

Then D'Artagnan ceased to knock and prayed with an accent so full of anxiety and promises, terror and cajolery, that his voice was of a nature to reassure the most fearful.

"In the name of heaven!" cried he. "Listen to me. I have been waiting for some one who is not come: I am dying with anxiety. Has anything particular happened in the neighborhood? Speak!"

The window was opened slowly, and the pale face of an old man appeared.

D'Artagnan related his story simply, with the omission of names. The old man listened attentively. When D'Artagnan had ended he shook his head.

"What do you mean?" cried D'Artagnan. "In the name of heaven, tell me, explain yourself!"

"Oh, monsieur," said the old man, "ask me nothing, for if I told you what I have seen certainly no good would befall me!"

"You have then seen something?" replied D'Artagnan. "In that case, in the name of heaven," continued he, throwing him a pistole, "tell me what you have seen and I will pledge you the word of a gentleman that not one of your words shall escape from my heart."

The old man said: "It was scarcely 9 o'clock when I heard a noise in the street. I opened the gate and saw three men at a few paces from it. In the shade was a carriage with two horses, and a man held three saddle horses.

"'Ah, my worthy gentlemen!' cried I. 'What do you want?'

"'Have you a ladder?' said the leader.

"'Yes, monsieur, the one with which I gather my fruit.'

"'Lend it to us and go into your house again; there is a crown for the annoyance we have caused you. Only remember this, if you speak a word of what you may see or what you may hear, you are lost.'

"After giving the ladder I pretended to return to the house, but immediately went out at a back door, and, stealing along in the shade of the hedge, I gained yonder clump of elder, from which I could hear and see everything.

"The three men brought the carriage up quietly and took out of it a little man, stout, short, elderly and commonly dressed in clothes of a dark color, who ascended the ladder very carefully, looked suspiciously in at the window of the pavilion, came down and whispered:

"'It is she!'

"Immediately he who had spoken to me approached the door of the pavilion, opened it with a key he had in his hand, closed the door and disappeared, while at the same time the other two men ascended the ladder. The little old man remained at the coach door, the coachman took care of his countenance, was so visible, that Bonacieux was terrified at it.

"Ah, ah, but you are joking, my worthy man!" said D'Artagnan. "It appears to me that if my boots want a sponge your stockings and shoes stand in equal need of a brush. May you not have been philandering a little also, Master Bonacieux?"

"Oh, no," said Bonacieux. "Yesterday I went to St. Mande to make some inquiries after a servant, as I cannot possibly do without one, and the roads were so bad that I brought back all this mud, which I have not yet had time to remove."

The place named by Bonacieux as that which had been the object of his journey was a fresh proof in support of the suspicions D'Artagnan had conceived. Bonacieux had named Mande because Mande was in an exactly opposite direction to St. Cloud. This probability afforded him his first consolation. If Bonacieux knew where his wife was the mercer might at any time by the employment of extreme means be forced to open his teeth and allow his secret to escape.

"I beg your pardon, my dear M. Bonacieux, if I don't stand upon ceremony," said D'Artagnan, "but nothing makes one so thirsty as want of sleep. I am parched with thirst. Allow me to take a glass of water in your apartment. You know that is never refused among your neighbors."

And without waiting for the permission of his host, D'Artagnan went quickly into the house and cast a rapid glance at the bed. The bed had not been slept in.

"Many thanks to you, Master Bonacieux," said D'Artagnan, emptying his glass. "That is all I wanted of you. I will now go up into my room. I will make Planchet brush my boots, and when he has done I will, if you like, send him to you to brush your shoes."

At the top of the stairs D'Artagnan found Planchet in a great fright.

"What's the matter now, Planchet?"

"Oh, monsieur, the visit I have received in your absence about half an hour ago while you were at M. de Treville's."

"Who has been here? Come, speak!"

"M. de Cavois, the captain of his eminence's guards."

"Did he come to arrest me?"

"I have no doubt he did, monsieur, for all his gracious manner. He came, he said, on the part of his eminence, who wished you well and to beg you to follow him to the Palais Cardinal."

"What did you answer him?"

"That the thing was impossible, seeing that you were not at home, as he might perceive."

"Well, what did he say then?"

"That you must not fail to call upon him in the course of the day, and then he added in a low voice, 'Tell your master that his eminence is very well disposed toward him and that his fortune perhaps depends upon this interview.'"

"The snare is not very skillfully set for the cardinal," replied the young man, smiling.

"Oh, yes; I saw the snare, and I answered you would be quite in despair on your return.

"'Where is he gone to?' asked M. de Cavois.

"'To Troyes, in Champagne,' I answered.

"'And when did he set out?'

"'Yesterday evening.'"

"Planchet, my friend," interrupted D'Artagnan, "you are really a jewel of a man. In a quarter of an hour we will set off."

"Where are we going, may I ask, without being too curious?"

"In the opposite direction to that which you said I was gone. So, then, pack up our necessaries, Planchet, and let us be off. On my part, I will go out with my hands in my pockets that nothing may be suspected. You can join me at the Hotel des Gardes."

D'Artagnan directed his steps toward the residences of his three friends. No news had been received of them, only a letter, all perfumed, and of an elegant writing in small characters, was come for Aramis. D'Artagnan took charge of it. Ten minutes afterward Planchet joined him at the stables of the Hotel des Gardes. D'Artagnan, in order that there might be no time lost, had saddled his horse himself.

"That's well," said he to Planchet, when the latter added the portmanteau to the equipment; "now saddle the other three horses."

"Do you think, then, monsieur, that we shall travel faster with two horses apiece?" said Planchet, with his cunning air.

"No, master joker," replied D'Artagnan, "but with our four horses we may bring back our three friends, if we should have the good fortune to find them living."

Our two travelers arrived at Chantilly without any accident and alighted at the hotel of the Grand St. Martin, the same they had stopped at on their first journey. The host on seeing a young man followed by a lackey with two led horses advanced respectfully to the door. Now, as they had already traveled eleven leagues, D'Artagnan thought it time to stop, whether Porthos were or were not in the hotel. And then perhaps it would not be prudent to ask at once what had become of the musketeer. D'Artagnan gave the horses to the care of his lackey, entered a small room destined to receive such as wished to be alone and desired the host to bring him a bottle of his best wine and as good a breakfast as possible.

D'Artagnan was served with miraculous celerity. The host desired to wait upon him himself, which D'Artagnan perceiving, ordered two glasses to be brought and commenced the following conversation:

"My good host, let us drink to the prosperity of your establishment."

"Your lordship does me much hon-

MASONS DEDICATE TRANSPORT LODGE

Brethren of the Iron Road Marked Event by Unique Features.

TORONTO, Nov. 24.—Col. W. N. Ponton, the Grand Master, assisted by over a score of Grand Lodge officers and the D.D.G.M.'s of the Toronto District, regularly instituted and consecrated Transportation Lodge A.F. and A.M., No. 583, at Freemasons' Hall, College street, last night in the presence of nearly 400 brethren. The consecration ceremonies, carried out with full musical ritual, were rendered in a most impressive manner. Following the installation and investiture of the lodge officers, W. Bro. John Boyd, W.M. of the new lodge, presented the W.M. Grand Master with a fine landscape oil painting as a souvenir of the interesting and historic event. Col. Ponton, in accepting the painting, said it would always have a warm place in his heart, as he happened to be a farmer as well as a lawyer and no one had a greater appreciation of the beauties so splendidly depicted in the picture than himself.

As the name of the new lodge implies, its membership is composed of transportation men, and at the conclusion of the consecration ceremonies they gave remarkable evidence of the fact at the fourth degree. This was a unique affair, the banquet hall having been converted into a miniature replica of the new Union Station as it is and will be when completed. The tables were laid out as railway tracks with the customary signals, telegraph lines, lights, etc., in a proper location. At the head table there was a model Grand Trunk locomotive with electric headlight and bell. The latter was used by W. Bro. Boyd instead of a gavel. The menu card was in the form of a railway time table, and contained the usual toast list, designated by numbers. On the front of the engine was the number of the lodge, 583. Among the brethren present holding high positions in the railway service were: Mr. U. E. Gullen, Superintendent of the Toronto Terminals; Assistant General Superintendent Neal of the C.P.R.; the Assistant Commissioner of Industries of the C.N.R. and the train masters of Toronto, Hamilton and Belleville districts. It was announced during the evening that Mr. D. B. Hanna, President of the Canadian National Railways who wrote expressing regret at his unavoidable absence, had recently become a member of the craft. The musical program at the festive proceedings was of an exceptionally fine character, all numbers being rendered by members of the order.

SNEEZE POWDER THROWN BY WOMAN

Berlin, Nov. 25.—Women Communist members of the Prussian Landtag, angered by cheating during a vote, to-day threw sneeze powder and bombs containing foul smelling gases in the Chamber. Afterwards they lit pipes and cigarettes and blew smoke clouds into the face of the President of the Landtag, who had ordered the members to cease smoking. When the President attempted to speak he was greeted with cries of "coward" and "liar." An effort to suppress the agitation on the part of the woman failed.

CLAIMS POLITICS BEHIND PETITION

Gordon Waldron Issues a Statement on Winding-up Motion.

TORONTO, Nov. 25.—Politics and not the interests of the shareholders is the basic reason for the winding up petition which has been presented against the United Farmers' Co-operative Company, according to Mr. Gordon Waldron, solicitor to the company.

In a statement today, Mr. Waldron says: "In the absence of the directors of the company I feel it my duty to say as their solicitor that the motion or petition filed is maliciously filed not for the advantage of the shareholders or creditors, but for political purposes, that is, to damage the United Farmer candidates.

"Now then, I have consulted Mr. Clemes, the manager of the company who is an able business man and also a man of high character in whom I have the fullest confidence. He assures me and I believe that the United Farmers Co-operative Company, Limited, is solvent; is able to carry on with success; is paying its debts when they come due and is taking its discounts and that it enjoys the complete confidence of its backers.

"The company will not be wound up on this petition but will go on doing business."

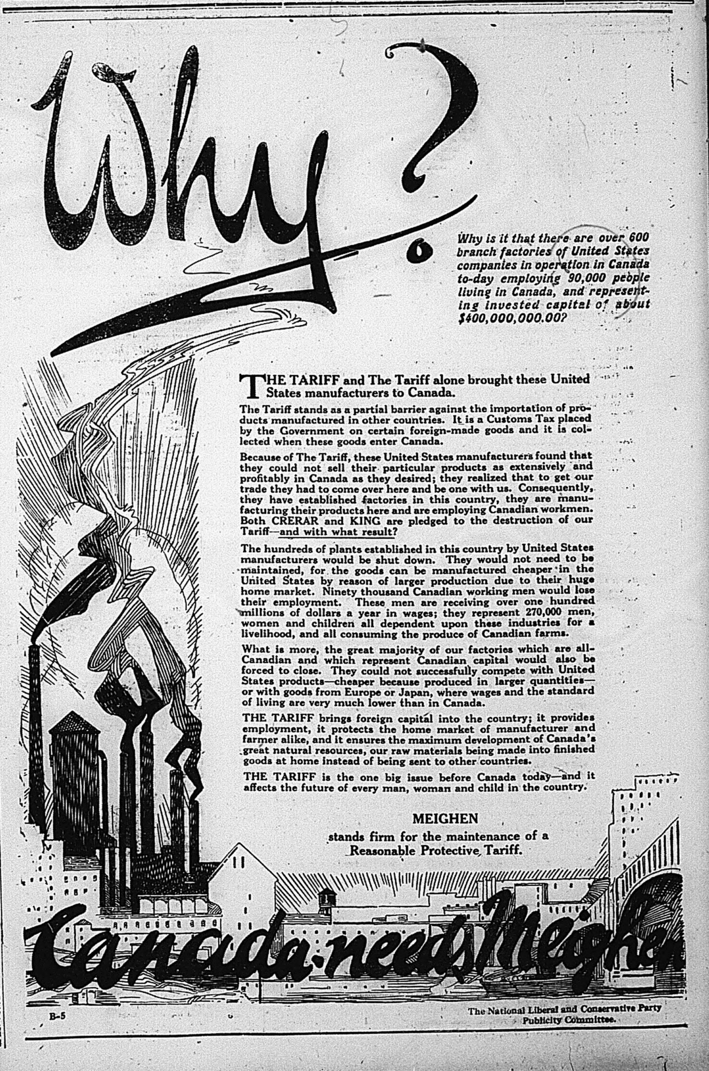
In the meantime Dr. A. A. Farewell's winding up petition will be returnable before the judge-in-chambers at Osgoode Hall on Tuesday next, Mr. Justice Middleton may be sitting.

The Oshawa petitioner has notified certain officers of the company to attend for examination before Col. Bruce, official examiner, on Saturday of this week.

The petitioner, among other grounds relies on the allegation of impairment of capital.

WIRELESS MESSAGES WALES TO AUSTRALIA

London, Nov. 25.—Announcement was made to-night by the Marconi Company of the successful sending for the first time of a series of test messages by wireless from Carnarvon, Walse, direct to Australia.



Why is it that there are over 600 branch factories of United States companies in operation in Canada to-day employing 90,000 people living in Canada, and representing invested capital of about $400,000,000.00?

THE TARIFF and The Tariff alone brought these United States manufacturers to Canada.

The Tariff stands as a partial barrier against the importation of products manufactured in other countries. It is a Customs Tax placed by the Government on certain foreign-made goods and it is collected when these goods enter Canada.

Because of The Tariff, these United States manufacturers found that they could not sell their particular products as extensively and profitably in Canada as they desired; they realized that to get our trade they had to come over here and be one with us. Consequently, they have established factories in this country, they are manufacturing their products here and are employing Canadian workmen. Both CRERAR and KING are pledged to the destruction of our Tariff—and with what result?

The hundreds of plants established in this country by United States manufacturers would be shut down. They would not need to be maintained, for the goods can be manufactured cheaper in the United States by reason of larger production due to their huge home market. Ninety thousand Canadian working men would lose their employment. These men are receiving over one hundred millions of dollars a year in wages; they represent 270,000 men, women and children all dependent upon these industries for a livelihood, and all consuming the produce of Canadian farms.

What is more, the great majority of our factories which are all-Canadian and which represent Canadian capital would also be forced to close. They could not successfully compete with United States products—cheaper because produced in larger quantities—or with goods from Europe or Japan, where wages and the standard of living are very much lower than in Canada.

THE TARIFF brings foreign capital into the country; it provides employment, it protects the home market of manufacturer and farmer alike, and it ensures the maximum development of Canada's great natural resources, our raw materials being made into finished goods at home instead of being sent to other countries.

THE TARIFF is the one big issue before Canada today—and it affects the future of every man, woman and child in the country.

REQUESTED RECIPES

Mrs. S.: To Salt Peanuts or Almonds—Use only raw peanuts. To blanch either the peanuts or almonds, cover them with cold water, bring to boil, let stand for a few minutes, drain and husk. (Do not blanch more than ½ pound at a time.) Now let the husked nuts dry for several hours on paper towelling. To salt them, heat olive oil or any pure vegetable cooking fats to the point where it will brown a cube of bread as you count slowly up to 40. Cover the bottom of a frying basket with the husked nuts (indeed, nuts with their skins on may be salted in this way, if desired) and immerse them before they are brown enough; their own heat when draining will finish the browning of the nut. Spread them on paper towelling again (crumpled brown paper will do) and dredge lightly with table salt. When dry they are ready to eat.

Cinnamon Buns: Scald 1 pint of milk in the top of a double boiler; add 1 scant teaspoon of salt, 1 tablespoon of sugar, 1 tablespoon of lard and 1 tablespoon of butter. When these are dissolved remove the milk from the fire and let it cool until blood-warm; then add 2 well beaten eggs, ⅓ cake of compressed yeast dissolved in 1 cup of tepid water and enough flour to form a stiff batter. Beat this batter well, stirring into it 1 cup of mixed seeded raisins and currants and adding a little more flour—enough to form a soft dough. Cover and let rise over night. In the morning knead well, form into buns, place these buns side by side in an oiled pan and let rise again till double in size, then spread the tops of the buns lightly with a paste made to taste by blending ground cinnamon, melted butter, granulated sugar and a little milk. Bake in moderate oven for 35 minutes. The heat dissolves the sugar and gives a glaze to the tops of the buns.

Stuffed Green Pepper Pickles: (The term "mangoes" is commonly used to describe all sorts of stuffed pickled vegetables such as cucumbers, large green tomatoes, green peppers and small green watermelons or green canteloupes). If cucumbers are used they should be short and stubby. Tomatoes should be just turning ripe and should not be peeled. Peppers should have the stem ends removed. Any of these vegetables used for stuffed pickles will of course have their interiors scooped out, forming cups. The vegetable should then be put to soak over night in a brine made of 1 cup of salt and 2 quarts of water. In the meantime prepare the stuffing, to use in the morning, as follows:

Stuffing for a Pickled Vegetable: (This recipe will stuff two dozen green peppers, medium size). Mix together 4 quarts of finely-chopped raw cabbage, 2 quarts of finely-chopped celery 3 cups of chopped raw onion, 1 tablespoon each of ground clove, ground cinnamon, allspice, mustard seed and pepper, and let this mixture stand overnight also. In the morning drain the peppers from their brine, stuff them with this mixture, replace the caps that were cut off when you scooped out the interiors, fasten these tops with twine or toothpicks, cover with cold vinegar and let stand in this way over night. The next day simmer them for ½ hour in the vinegar then remove, put them in a stone crock and cover with cold, fresh vinegar. This process is for stuffed peppers or tomatoes. In making stuffed melon or cucumber mangoes, pour off this vinegar after standing over night, add ½ cup sugar to each quart of it, scald it, and pour it hot over the mangoes again. Repeat this for three or four mornings.

Tomorrow—A Good Home Supper.

A GOOD HOME SUPPER

The following supper menu is delicious enough to set before a guest on Sunday night:

Olives
Devilled Clams
Graham-Wholewheat "Quick Bread"
Apple Raisin Pudding
Hot Coffee Nuts

Devilled Clams: 1 dozen clams, 1 cup milk, 5 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon minced onion, ⅛ teaspoon paprika, 1 tablespoon green pepper chopped, 6 tablespoons bread crumbs, and 1 hard boiled egg finely minced. Mince the clams and drain them from their liquid. Now blend the milk and flour in a saucepan and boil for 3 minutes; add the clams and other ingredients. Mix well and fill the well-cleaned clam-shells with this mixture. Brush over tops with raw beaten egg, cover with more bread crumbs and cook a golden brown in hot deep fat, lowering them into the fat in a frying basket.

Graham-Wholewheat Quick Bread: Mix together 1½ cups each of whole wheat and graham flour, ½ teaspoon of salt, 3 teaspoons of granulated sugar and 4 teaspoons of baking powder. Gradually moisten these dry ingredients with 1½ cups of water and 3 tablespoons of molasses which have been mixed together. Stir well,, turn into a greased bread pan and let stand for 20 minutes to become light. Then bake 50 minutes in a moderate oven.

Apple Raisin Pudding: Pour 1 cup of hot milk over 1 cup of bread crumbs Let soak for 5 minutes, then add 1 teaspoon of ground cinnamon, 1 cup of peeled and finely chopped apples (measure apples after chopping), 1 scant cup of brown or maple sugar, 1 small cup of currants, 1 tablespoon melted butter and 1 well-beaten egg. Mix well, turn into a greased pudding dish, and bake for 35 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve hot with the following sauce:

Lemon Liquid Sauce: Thicken 1 cup of boiling water with 1 tablespoon of cornstarch which has been mixed to a paste with a little cold water. Now cream together 1 cup of sugar and ½ cup of butter and pour over it the boiling water. Flavor with 1 teaspoon vinegar and ½ teaspoon lemon extract. (Vanilla extract may be substituted for the lemon extract if desired.

Answer to Mrs. H.: Here is the Apple Gelatine recipe you want: Dissolve 3 tablespoons of instant gelatine in half a cup of hot water. Slice 1½ pounds of peeled and corded apples into a saucepan and add ½ cup of cold water, 3-4 of a cup of granulated sugar and the grated yellow rind and the juice of 1 lemon. Stew slowly and rub through a sieve; then add the dissolved gelatine and turn the mixture into a glass dish, putting it in a cool place to cool and stiffen. (This will take a couple of hours). Serve with custard or cream. If you wish, you can color it attractively with a little red vegetable coloring matter. If you cannot buy the different colored colorings (red, green and yellow) for such puddings as this or for cake icings send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I will tell you of a name of a firm that will sell you these by mail.

All inquiries addresed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

OUT OF THE OLD HOUSE, NANCY

By Will Carlton

Out of the old house, Nancy—moved up into the new;
  All the hurry and worry is just as good as through.
Only a bounden duty remains for you and I—
  And that's to stand on the door-step, here, and bid the old house good-bye.

What a shell we've lived in, these nineteen or twenty years!
  Wonder it hadn't smashed in, and tumbled about our ears;
Wonder it's stuck together, and answered till to-day;
  But every individual log was put up here to stay.

Things looked rather new, though, when this old house was built;
  And things that blossomed you would've made some women wilt;
And every other day, then, as sure as day would break,
  My neighbour Ager come this way, invitin' me to "shake."

And you, for want of neighbors, was sometimes blue and sad,
  For wolves and bears and wild-cats was the nearest ones you had;
But lookin' ahead to the clearin', we worked with all our might,
  Until we was fairly out of the woods, and things was goin' right.

Look up there at our new house!—ain't it a thing to see?
  Tall and big and handsome, and new as new can be;
All in apple-pie order, especially the shelves,
  And never a debt to say but what we own it all ourselves.

Look at our old log house—how little it now appears!
  But it's never gone back on us for nineteen or twenty years;
An' I won't go back on it now, or go to pokin' fun—
  There's such a thing as praisin' a thing for the good that it has done.

Probably you remember how rich we was that night,
  When we was fairly settled, an' had things snug and tight:
We feel as proud as you please, Nancy, over our house that's new,
  But we felt as proud under this old roof, and a good deal prouder too.

Never a handsomer house was seen beneath the sun:
  Kitchen and parlour and bedroom—we had 'em all in one;
And the fat old wooden clock that we bought when we come West,
  Was tickin' away in the corner there, and doin' its level best.

Trees was all around us, a-whisperin' cheering words;
  Loud was the squirrel's chatter, and sweet the songs of birds;
And home grew sweeter and brighter—our courage began to mount—
  And things looked hearty and happy then, and work appeared to count.

And here one night it happened, when things was goin' bad,
  We fell in a deep old quarrel—the first we ever had;
And when you give out and cried, then I, like a fool, give in.
  And then we agreed to rub all out, and start the thing ag'in.

Here it was, you remember, we sat when the day was done,
  Aand you was a-makin' clothing that wasn't for either one;
And often a soft word of love I was soft enough to say,
  And the wolves was howling in the woods not twenty rods away.

Then our first-born baby—a regular little joy,
  Though I fretted a little because it wasn't a boy:
Wa'n't she a little flirt, though, with all her pouts and smiles?
  Why, settlers come to see that show a half-a-dozen miles.

Yonder sat the cradle—a homely, home-made thing,
  And many a night I rocked it, providin' you would sing:
And many a little squatter brought up with us to stay—
  And so that cradle, for many a year, was never put away.

How they kept a-comin', so cunnin' and fat and small!
  How they growed! 'twas a wonder how we found room for 'em all;
But though the house was crowded, it empty seemed that day
  When Jennie lay by the fireplace there, and moaned her life away.

And right in there the preacher, with Bible and hymn-book, stood,
  "'Twixt the dead and the living," and "hoped 'twould do us good;"
And the little whitewood coffin on the table there was set,
  And now as I rub my eyes it seems as if I could see it yet.

Then that fit of sickness it brought on you, you know,
  Just by a thread you hung and you e'en a'most let go;
And here is the spot I tumbled, an' give the Lord his due,
  When the doctor said the fever'd turned, an' he could fetch you through.

Yes, a deal has happened to make this old house dear:
  Christenin's, funerals, weddin's—what haven't we had here?
Not a log in this buildin' but its memories has got,
  And not a nail in this old floor but touches a tender spot.

Out of the old house, Nancy—moved up into the new;
  All the hurry and worry is just as good as through;
But I tell you a thing right here, that I ain't ashamed to say:
  There's precious things in this old house we never can take away.

Here the old house will stand, but not as it stood before:
  Winds will whistle through it, and rains will flood the floor;
And over the hearth, once blazing, the snowdrifts oft will pile,
  And the old thing will seem to be a-mournin' all the while.

Fare you well, old house! you're naught that can feel or see,
  But you seem like a human being—a dear old friend to me;
And we never will have a better home, if my opinion stands,
  Until we commence a-keepin' house in the house not made with hands.

TINKER BOB TALKS WITH THE GREAT CREATURE

Tinker Bob tapped the Stone of Knowledge and the Beautiful Creature of His Desire was instantly ready to carry him to the place where he wanted to see the most exciting thing in the forest.

"How wonderful you are," said he to the creature, "You have never failed to come to me when I call. You must live a happy life for you are always smiling when I see you."

"Why shouldn't I live a happy life, I always live in the future, and it is so pleasant to be living ahead of everyone else," said the Creature. "I know what is going to happen long hours before it happens."

"Tell me, how do you know what is going to happen?" asked Tinker.

"Oh, Experience told me all about these things when I was made centuries ago," said the Creature of His Desire.

"You must be very old," said Tinker Bob, "but you don't look old."

"The joy of living always keeps me young and it will keep you young also if you find it."

"Oh, I'm so glad you told me that. I will try to find it. I think I have found joy in living here in the forest. I wonder if I could find it anywhere else in all the world?"

"I don't think you could ever be so happy as right here, for this is the simple life among the wonderful forest dwellers, and that is the life that brings happiness more abundantly."

"I want to go away tihs Winter to the forest of a far-away land."

"I know all about what you want to do and I am here to carry you to the place you want to see and to give you anything you heart desires."

"That's what I wanted to know. I have heard that there are wonderful creatures in the jungles of far-away lands, much larger than any of those in this great forest. I want to see them and talk with them that I may bring back to the forest here a story of my trip."

"That will all be possible for you to do. I want to say it is a dangerous land and you will have to be careful about your actions and about what you say for you would only be a mouthful for the creatures who live over there."

"Will you not be with me to help when help is needed?" asked the King.

"You would only be a mouthful for the creatures who live over there."

"Indeed I will be there to help for that is the thing Experience told me to do, and I have to obey the words of my master."

"That is what I have been waiting for. I wanted to know if you would be ever with me. When I go I will call you. Now take me into the forest and show me the place where Major Pole Cat will stay till I return. Off we go." And they went away in the Magic Basket to the middle of the great forest where the King was surprised to see the things that were there.

English Fruit Gingerbread

A fruit gingerbread that is very popular with the school children here is made by heating half a cup of butter in a saucepan with one and a half cups of molasses and half a cup of milk; when cool stir into six cups of flour that has been sifted with half a cup of brown sugar, one teaspoon of soda, half a teaspoon of salt, two teaspoons of ground ginger, three-quarters of a teaspoon of ground cinnamon and three-quarters of a teaspoon of ground mace. Mix well and beat in one cup of seeded raisins and the well beaten yolks of two eggs and the whites of three eggs. Bake in a well greased and floured shallow pan. When nearly baked brush the top with the yolk of an egg beaten with two teaspoons of milk. Return to the oven and finish baking.

Corded Stems in Embroidery

Here is an easy way to do corded stems in embroidery: First, run the line with fine stitches; then double the goods exactly on the linen and sew over and over placing the stitches close together, and not drawing the thread too tight. Be careful too, not to make the stitches too deep, but just run over the run line. This is fine for the long straight stems; but curving ones can be done nicely and much more rapidly than in the usual way.

Molasses Cookies

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal trouble of the ears, is hard of hearing or has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

NEW TYPE OF BANDIT APPEARS IN WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Nov. 25.—A youthful bandit, about 22 years of age, entered a drug store at the corner of Gertie and Notre Dame Avenues at six o'clock this evening, shot the proprietor and his assistant, cleaned out the till and escaped.

J. Wilder, the proprietor, was shot in thearm and hip, and A. Davis, the assistant, was shot in the abdomen and seriously wounded. Both are in the hospital.

No "hands up" command was given by the assailant, who simply entered the store and started firing at the two victims. It is not known how much money was stolen.

Rinso

You need not rub

You need not boil your clothes

The wonderful new soap in granules, just soaks the dirt out of your clothes in a few hours. No need to use the wash board or boiler.

Moreover, Rinso saves your clothes. In these pure, cleansing suds they soak as safely as in water alone. There are no harsh chemicals to eat the fabric. Just rich, pure suds, so mild they do not even redden your hands.

If you have a washing machine—

Soak the clothes overnight in the usual Rinso way. The cleansing suds loosen every bit of dirt. In the morning operate the machine for a few minutes and the clothes are perfectly clean—even the most soiled spots.

DURHAM'S REPORT.

How Queen Victoria Heard Famous Document.

Lord Durham's report on Canada at the time of the rebellion is one of the most famous documents in Canadian constitutional history.

How the young Queen Victoria first heard it, read to her by the Prime Minister, Lord Melbourne, is told in her own journal, and referred to in Lytton Strachey's "Life of Queen Victoria," now running in the New Republic.

Lord Melbourne, when Victoria began to reign, was fifty-eight years old. He was a man of great personal charm, and the girl Victoria at once began to like him and trust in him.

His name, before he became Viscount Melbourne, was William Lamb. He had been born into the midst of riches, brilliance, and power. His mind was supple and copious, his temperament calm and sensitive. He was a notable talker and a captivating companion.

One day Lord Melbourne told Victoria a despatch had arrived from Lord Durham in Canada. He would read it to her. But first he must explain a little.

"He said," writes the queen, "that I must know that Canada originally belonged to the French, and was only ceded to the British in 1760, when it was taken in an expedition under Wolfe; 'a very daring enterprise,' he said. Canada was then entirely French, and the British only came afterwards. Lord M. explained this very clearly (and much better than I have done) and said a good deal more about it. He then read me Durham's despatch, which is a very long one, and took him more than half an hour to read. Lord M. read it beautifully with that fine soft voice of his, and with so much expression, so that it is needless to say I was much interested by it."

McGills Wanted.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the search for a direct descendant of James McGill, the founder of McGill University, being carried on in connection with the McGill centenary preparations.

The latest communication reaching the office of the graduates' secretary at McGill is from Henry McGill Desrivieres of Ottawa, and states that there is no direct descendant of James McGill, as the latter gentleman had no children, but that the writer is the grandson of James McGill's adopted son.

According to this letter, James McGill married a widow, Mrs. Desrivieres, who had a son by her former marriage. This young man, James McGill adopted and later made his sole heir on condition that he take the name of James McGill, which he did, becoming James McGill Desrivieres.

A New Post.

O. S. Finnie, well-known mining engineer, has been apointed administrator of the new oil territory on Mackenzie river. The position is virtually that of governor of this vast wilderness. The advance guard, consisting of a party of about 35 men, is now in Edmonton collecting supplies and making preparations for the journey into the north. Others will follow, and the staff of the administrator will be most complete. It will include a detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police for the preservation of law and order. There will be civil servants, as well as geologists, surveyors and engineers, and all the workers necessary for the opening up of a new country and the establishment of a government.

Full Up.

The village Sunday school treat was in full swing, and after the games the youngsters all sat down to a rattling good feed.

Little Johnnie, although unaccustomed to such rich fare, had eaten unsparingly as far as both himself and the food was concerned. To be more explicit, he had eaten until he could eat no more.

And now, at the end, he was feeling rather uncomfortable.

"Can I lift you down?" asked a kind old lady.

"Yes, please, ma'am," replied the boy; "but"—and he looked pleadingly up into her eyes—"please don't bend me."

The Scot's Retort.

An angler, thinking his Highland boatman was not treating him with the respect due to his station, said. "Look here, my good man, you don't seem to grasp who I am. Do you know that my family has been entitled to bear arms for the last three hundred years?"

"That's nothing!" was the reply. "My ancestors have been entitled to bare legs for the last three thousand years!"

Drink.

"I have a cousin," related the son of Erin, "who can stand on his head, take a bottle between his feet, draw the cork with his teeth, and take a drink. Can you bate it?"

"Verra good for an Irishman," assented the pawky Highlander. "But it's naethin' to what a Scotsman would do for a drink."

Must Uphold His Dignity.

Fond Mother—"Reggie, dear, now that you have gone through college you must really look for some form of employment."

Reggie—"Don't you think, mother, it would be more dignified to wait until the offers begin to come in?"

She Had a Mackintosh.

"I trust, Miss Jones," said an employer to his typist, "that you have something in reserve for a rainy day."

"Yes, sir," was the reply; "I am going to marry a gentleman named Mackintosh."

THIEF-PROOF ALARM FOR AUTOMOBILE

If Any Unauthorized Person Touches Car, Electric Bell Will Ring.

The prevention of automobile theft now takes a new turn. Instead of applying all manner of locks, ignition safeguards, chains, tire rings and free steering wheels that cannot steer, there has been developed an alarm which, when mounted on any automobile, advertises the fact to everyone when the automobile is being tampered with by an unauthorized person.

This new device is a well-protected self contained alarm which is placed on the running board of any car, and is always visible. The alarm is contained in a heavy aluminum case which is riveted or bolted to the running board in such a manner that its removal requires considerable time, during which the alarm must sound. There is nothing intricate or complicated and cannot be silenced by application of high-voltage current, or in any manner, except by spending an hour dissembling it. A special large gong bell is installed inside the case, and draws approximately ½ ampere. The current is supplied by three standard dry cells, mounted within the case.

It appears that this device makes use of a floating, compensating mercury switch which gives instant and continuous contact under laternal vibration, and no contact under vertical or road vibration. The switch is thrown into contact by a 12-key push-button combination swich, which, so it is claimed, gives over 1,000,000 combinations. To ensure against tampering, the upper and lower halves of the case are made a circuit, so insulated apart that until the case is sprung or tampered with the circuit is open. Any attempt to force the case will close the circuit and cause an alarm.

When a car is to be left standing, the top of the device is opened and the proper keys depressed to set the alarm. If anyone raises the hood of the car, steps on the running board, tampers with spare tires or otherwise touches the car, the sensitive mercury switch closes the circuit and the bell rings continuously until the owner of the car resets the device.

FOUR KILLED IN PANIC WHEN NEW HAVEN THEATRE BURNS

PIECES OF BONE HUMAN TEETH

'Astounding Identifications Made at Trial of French "Bluebeard."

256 SMALL SECTIONS

But Experts Swear They Had Belonged to at Least Three Women.

Paris, Nov. 26.—Landru's life today hangs on the single thread as to whether the jury will accept as positive the identification by experts of 256 pieces of bone found in the rubbish heap back of the Gambais villa.

The positive testimony was that the bones had belonged to three and possibly more persons, one expert positively affirming that those persons were women.

Professor Sauvaize, head of a French dental institution, this afternoon took a tiny fragment of charred ivory scarcely bigger than a piece of a match stick, and deduced from it that it was once a part of a hollow tooth of an adult person, probably a woman about five feet tall and middle aged.

Similar astounding identifications made by other experts as well as by other famous chemists during the day produced the most unfavorable impression against the Bluebeard that has appeared since the trial began.

Rumors of a bitter quarrel between Landru and his attorney, the famous Moro-Giaferi, seemed to be confirmed when Landru several times waved aside the warning of his counsel and insisted upon explaining the naswers to questions. At a quarrel in Landru's cell late last night it is declared Giafferi threatened to throw up the case unless Landru left the defense wholly in his hands, to which Landru is said to have retorted:

"You have only your reputation to lose, but I have my head."

The present indications are that the case is steadily going against Landru.

ARMS PARLEY DISCUSS CHINA

Foreign Postoffice Privileges Will be Relinquished in China.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Washington, Nov. 28.—The resolution declaring for relinquishment of foreign post office privileges in China was adopted to-day by nine powers sitting as a committee on the Pacific and Far Eastern questions. The date of January 1, 1923 was set for the abandonment of foreign post offices, and this was agreed to by all powers represented except Japan, whose representatives asked for time to hear from their government.

Washington, Nov. 28—United States naval experts presented to the Japanese and British officers to-day detailed answers to questions presented last week as to the Hughes naval reduction program. Specific nature of the points involved was not revealed, but it is understood that the United States experts feel that they have been able to show that there exists no reason to change any of the tonnage estimates for the three powers upon which the plans were based, and it is assumed that during the week, naval reduction problem will be returned to the conference for action.

PANIC OCCURS IN PLAYHOUSE

Entire Proscenium Broke Into Flames in New Haven Theatre.

INCENSE IS IGNITED

Four or More Persons Killed and Many Trampled in the Aisles.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 28.—Fire to-night razed the Rialto Theatre in College Avenue, opposite the Hotel Taft here, resulting in the death of four persons and in the probable injury of more than 200 persons. First reports indicated that at least fifty persons had been burned to death

All three hospitals in the city, however, were crowded with injured, some of whom, it is feared, may die as result of their burns.

Hundreds of women and children were trampled, some of them fatally, in the mad panic which ensued when the entire proscenium of the theatre a moving picture house, which was once a Congregational church, burst into flames.

Persons jumped from the balconies, and the aisles were jammed as the spectators struggled to leave the building.

The fire started at 8.10 and rapidly consumed the theatre.

Hundreds of Yale University students were in the theatre, which faces Kitty-Corner to the campus.

Just before the performance started and while the crowds were still filing into the theatre, an attendant back of the stage ignited an incense pot.

The fumes were spreading over the audience and the orchestra had just struck up the opening serenade, when flames burst across the silver screen.

Immdiately more than 1,200 patrons started in a frenzied rush for the exit, screaming and fighting their way out.

University students from Yale formed temporary police lines and co-opearted with the city officials in an effort to prevent casualties in the open.

Every piece of fire apparatus in New Haven and the surrounding communities responded to the call, and soon great lines of water were fighting the blaze from every available angle.

When it was learned that efforts to save the theatre from destruction were futile, some of the streams were directed on nearby buildings, notably the magnificent Hotel Taft, with the view to preventing a further spread of the fire.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Detained as prisoners in Morocco on the allegation that they smuggled to England letters complaining of their treatment as members of the Spanish Legion, are two British subjects, one of whom, Private Curry, is said to be a Canadian. WOMAN'S DUTY AND OPPORTUNITY

VITAL REASONS WHY WOMEN SHOULD VOTE FOR CANDIDATES SUPPORTING Rt. Hon. ARTHUR MEIGHEN

1. Because the leader, the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, is able, courageous, truthful and of irreproachable character.

2. Because the National, Liberal and Conservative party legislates for all the people of Canada without discrimination.

3. Because at this time of abnormal conditions and unrest following the war, we need men of experience to guide the country through this difficult time. Mr. Meighen helped largely to bring Canada safely through the war and understands better than new and inexperienced men the difficulties and problems of Government.

4. Because the Meighen Government have managed the finances of the country with wonderful economy. Outside our actual war obligations, of which every red-blooded Canadian is proud, the expenditure of the Meighen Government is only two million dollars more than the annual national expenditure in the last ten years, despite greatly increased prices.

5. Because the National Liberal and Conservative party stands for moderate protection, the conserving of Canada's national resources for Canada, the building up of Canadian agriculture, Canadian industries, Canadian labor, and is unalterably opposed to free trade, which would mean ultimate absorption by the United States.

6. Because under a protective tariff Canadian agriculture and the total trade of Canada has increased manifold since protection was adopted in 1878, and Canada is today one of the richest countries in the world per capita. Why destroy what we have built up? Why make experiments at the most critical, the most dangerous time in our history?

7. Canada cannot lower the already low tariff or adopt Free Trade because every other country in the world is protectionist and is increasing its tariff.

.8 Because Canada cannot compete with the cheap labor of the Orient or of Western Europe, particularly Germany.

9. Because it is vitally important to women that their fathers, husbands, sons and daughters should have steady work and good wages within Canada. Free trade would close down our industries, bring ruin to the country by flooding it with American products produced by American workmen, while our men and women would be walking the streets unemployed.

A VOTE FOR E. GUSS PORTER, K.C., IS A VOTE FOR RT. HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN.

FAMOUS ADMIRAL AT TORONTO

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

TORONTO, Nov. 28.—Replying to addresses of welcome in the City Hall, the famous Admiral declared he was glad that the citizens of Ontario appreciated the service to which he belonged. One thing that had impressed him in Canada was that if there was any other place in the world that required education on sea power, it was not Canada.

Referring to comradeship brought about between various parts of the Empire and Associated Allies during the war, he declared that if it prevailed in peace there was no doubt but that the world would be a much happier place for humanity.

EIGHT PERSONS PERISH IN LAKE

Steamer City of New York Lost off Stoney Point With Entire Crew.

FIVE BODIES IN YAWL

Capt. Harry Randall, His Little Son, and Boy of 12 Still Missing.

KINGSTON, Nov. 27.—Latest developments in the loss of the steamer City of New York, which foundered ten miles off Stoney Point while on her way from Oswego to Trenton with a cargo of phosphate, show that eight lives were lost. Five bodies were found in the yawl, picked up late Friday afternoon by the steamer Isabella H., and Captain Harry Randall, his ten-months-old child, and Stanley Papa, aged 12, of Seeley's Bay, are still missing.

Four of the five bodies found in the yawl have been identified by Captain John Randall, father of the master of the ill-fated steamer. Those identified are:

Mrs. Harry Randall of Seeley's Bay, 31 years of age.

Mate Wesley Warren, Seeley's Bay, aged 30.

Engineer Harry Dorey, Kingston, aged 31.

Deckhand Gilbert Dorey, Kingston, aged 17.

The fifth body has not yet been identified, but it is described as that of a fair-haired boy about 16 or 17 years of age.

It was first reported that two Gallagher brothers of Kingston, Joseph and Frank, had been lost, but it is now believed that they were not on the steamer when it left Oswego. The description of the unidentified boy does not answer that of either of the Gallagher brothers, who are declared to be dark-haired men.

DEATHS DUE TO EXPOSURE

The bodies found in the yawl were all fully dressed. The deaths are attributed to exposure. Whether Capt. Harry Randall and the two children were in the yawl of the City of New York, which was picked up yesterday upside down, will never be definitely known. But it is thought that the Captain would never venture in a yawl alone with the children, and determined to be the last to leave his ship, must have gone down with the vessel, not having time to jump into the yawl in which the other five were, and which holds twelve persons.

The time of the accident will never be definitely known. The City of New York left Oswego at 3.15 Thursday morning with 350 tons of phosphate, and the yawl with its five lifeless bodies was picked up Friday afternoon about 5 o'clock.

TO EARN MONEY FOR XMAS.

Mate Warren and the Dorey brothers were unmarried. The father of the two latter, Matthew Dorey, of Kingston, has been a sailor nearly all his life, but was employed this summer at Hamilton. The Doreys were with Capt. Randall for about a month. The younger, who had a land job this summer, when laid off, said he would go sailing in order to earn some money for Christmas.

Captain Harry Randall was about 33 years of age.

HAD MISHAP A YEAR AGO

Capt. Harry Randall, it will be remembered, was in command of the steamer John Randall, which was lost off the Main Ducks a year ago this fall. The crew of the Randall escaped but were held at The Ducks for a few days owing to the stormy weather and could not communicate with the outside world. This spring Capt. Randall bought the steamer City of New York and fitted her out of the collier trade. It is a remarkable coincidence that almost the entire crew which is now wiped out was on the John Randall when that vessel was lost.

ANOTHER MEMBER OF CREW

Oswego, N.Y., Nov. 27.—Capt. Ben Bowen of the steamer Sicken arrived here late today with the report that he had seen considerable wreckage, which he believed to be that of the City of New York, about 15 miles northeast of here.

A relative of the Dorey brothers was on his way here tonight to ascertain in the identification of the victims.

It was reported here that another member of the crew whose name has not appeared among those identified was Stanley Tappen, a 12-year-old cabin boy of Kingston, Ont.

Mrs. Randall was found with her body half-way out of the boat, her hands in the water. The bodies of the men were all found huddled under the seats.

When about 30 miles in the lake it is believed that the steamer's seams opened up and she foundered. The lifeboat in which the bodies were found had its bow stove in, and the falls that held the boae at the davits had been cut, and trailed in the water.

The steamer Isabella H., Captain Joiner, was on her way from Cape falls that held the boat at the davits picked up the boats.

NAVAL EXPERTS CLEAR DECKS

Have Examined Hughes' Proposals and Are Ready to Report.

THE "SUB" TANGLE

Question of Underseas Tonnage is Yet to Be Settled.

Washington, Nov. 28.—So much progress has been made by the naval experts examining details of the United States reduction plan that some of the arms delegates expect another plenary session may be held in the near future to permit Japan and Great Britain to submit their counter proposals in concrete form.

The United States and British naval experts were said virtually to have completed their examination of the technical points involved in Secretary Hughes' proposal. The Japanese experts, however, were still considering the figures and facts involved.

The British were said to feel that highly satisfactory progress had been made, but their spokesman would not indicate the trend of the expert examinations, beyond stating that it was certain the submarine question would be one of the chief points involved in any agreement reached by the conference.

There is strong belief in Great Britain, it was said, that the conference will not be an unqualified success unless some action is taken to curb the size and nature of future "underseas navies" similar to the steps proposed as surface fleets.

The statement that British experts were ready to present their findings to the conference follows the assertion yesterday that the United States group has found nothing in the figures presented by the Japanese to warrant any departure from the United States schedule of tonnage in fixing the present or proposed proportionate strength of the three navies.

A bulletin issued from British headquarters to-day said that Lord Lee, First Lord of the British Admiralty, and one of the British delegates to the conference, who has been suffering from an attack of lryngitis, was better to-day, but was still confined to his room. He hopes to be able to resume his conference duties to-day.

BORAH WARNS OF ARMS PARLEY

League of Nations in New Clothes Says U. S. Senator.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Washington, Nov. 28.—Last night Senator Borah issued a formal statement designed to warn the public of the United States of hidden dangers of arms parley. "It is not it, but what it is that counts," he declared pointing out his belief that President Harding's proposed association of notions is the League of Nations in a new suit of clothes.

BLUEBEARD LANDRU HAILED "ASSASSIN"

Guillotine is Demand of Lawyers at Murder Trial.

Versailles, Nov. 28.—Two attorneys representing the heirs of two of the eleven alleged victims of Henri Landru, on trial here for the murder of ten women and a boy, repeated demanded the "Bluebeard's" conviction, in summing up the case before the jury.

"There sits the greatest and shrewdest criminal of all time," dtclared one of the attorneys in his address. "Citizens, do your duty. Send him to the guillotine," he shouted.

A WEEK'S DINNERS FOR THE MARRIED WOMAN WORKER

This morning's mail brought me a letter which reads, "I am writing for a bunch of us who are married wage earners. When we leave the shop for our homes at night we have to do our marketing and then get dinner for our husbands. Would you help us by printing a whole week's set of dinner menus that we could get in a hurry, after getting home at night? It's so hard to think up good meals that we can get in about half an hour. And they must be substantial for our men folks need hearty meals."

I take pleasure in helping out these girls with the following.

Monday Night's Dinner: Cold meat left from Sunday's roast. Boil just twice as many potatoes as you need for this meal—so you'll have some cold tomorrow night for hash. Open and heat a can of string beans. Dice a couple of oranges, mix them, then sprinkle with sugar for dessert. Bread, butter and coffee are taken for granted in these menus. Also pickles, relishes, and other such things that help to make a meal taste good.

Tuesday Night's Dinner: Hash from the last bits of Sunday's roast and the cold boiled potatoes on hand. Open and heat a can of tomatoes. Make a cornstarch pudding (this is a quickly made dessert, and the egg in it helps to make the meal substantial.

Wednesday Night's Dinner: Hamburg steak meat balls. Make a double quantity of white potatoes again (half for tomorrow night) and mash them all. Open and heat a can of peas. Pare, core and dice a couple of apples put them over the fire with water to cover, and boil them about 20 minutes, or till soft, then sweeten them to taste; this apple sauce is even better if a dash of ground cinnamon is added for flavor, or a little lemon juice, or a drop or two of vanilla extract.

Thursday Night's Dinner: Buy two or three slices of raw ham and broil this as you would chops. Make potato cakes from the cold mashed potatoes you have on hand, frying the cakes a rich brown. Cut up a few stalks of celery, put it on the fire with water to cover, and boil it till soft; then drain it and "cream" it by adding a little milk, butter, flour and seasonings. Tapioca pudding made with the minute tapioca—which takes only about 20 minutes.

Friday Night's Dinner: Make a Salmon Loaf-recipe printed Wednesday, November 30th. Double quantity of boiled potatoes (half for tomorrow night's dinner). Open a can of corn, turn it into a baking dish, add a beaten egg and seasonings, and bake 20 minutes in a hot oven (as long as you have to light the gas oven for the salmon loaf, you might as well bake other dishes). Pare, core and cut up 4 apples into a buttered baking dish, adding an equal quantity of bread crumbs and 1 cup of brown sugar; bake this "Apple Betty" 20 minutes, then serve hot with hard sauce made by creaming butter and brown sugar together and flavoring it with vanilla extract.

Saturday Night's Dinner: Chops Cold boiled potatoes fried with strips of raw onion. Stewed prunes (soak over night before stewing).

Tomorrow—Answered Letters!

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. "Tinker Bob" Stories

SILKY JUMPS FOR A RABBIT, BUT—

"Well Sir," said Silky, the monkey to Three Legs, the muskrat, "if the King of the Forest goes to the great jungles of the far-away forest I shall go too. You don't think that I will stay here, do you?"

"You have no business going with the King everywhere he goes. If the King takes anyone he will take one of the forest dwellers who live here, this isn't your home anyway. You came from the land far South and here you are trying to tell me that you know more about what the King of the Forest is going to do than I do who have lived here all of my natural life. I know the King will not take you with him."

"I don't know who gave you so much knowledge. I suppose you think that the King will take you. He would be a funny King to take such a fellow as you are along. You are even afraid to travel by day. If he took you along he would have to do all of his traveling by night. Then he couldn't see anything. That would be a fine way to travel."

"I think if he takes anyone from the forest he will take me," this was the voice of Jack, the Rabbit. "The King is a friend of mine."

Silky, the Monkey, went after him at top speed

"Well of all things! The King take a helpless rabbit. I never heard of such a thing in all my life before. Why would the King want to take a fellow who could not even climb a tree? Then Silky laughed.

"Well, I can run faster than any of the creatures of the forest. I can jump into the briar patch and no one, not even Red Fox can find me. I think a fellow must know something more than to climb a tree."

"You talk about running, why, I can catch you anywhere, you can't run half so fast as you think. I can catch you before you ever think of jumping into the briar patch. If you don't believe it just you go ahead and I'll catch you right now. You are no runner. You just think that because you can fool Red Fox sometimes that you can fool me and some of the other folks. You wouldn't last long in the land of Jungles.

"If you think you are so smart, just you try to catch me right now. I'll show you that there is something in my brains besides something in my legs." Then Jack, the Rabbit, started to run as fast as he could.

Silky, the Monkey, went after him at top speed. Jack turned the corner and Silky could hardly keep track of him. He jumped over logs and around trees and thru bushes and at times Silky lost sight of him. He had agreed to do something that was a bigger task than he thought. He made a great effort anyway and at last he thought of what the King had said about Jack running in a circle so he waited for him and thought he would spring out and catch him as he came along.

Suddenly he saw the grass move and he thought it was Jack. He sprang and held tight to the fellow till he discovered to his sorrow that it was Major Pole Cat instead of Jack, the Rabbit. Then he ran for the river.

VETERAN OF THE CRIMEA IS DEAD AT WINDSOR

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 28.—After a long illness, Alfred F. Smith, 85 years old, former yardmaster of the Michigan Central Railway, died at his residence here Saturday. Of Interest to Women

Another woman has been elected to the British House of Commons. Mrs. Wintringham, who was chosen for Louth, is the widow of the man who previously held the seat. Politically she is a Liberal. It is reported that at least nine women are already preparing to stand for elections when the next general election comes off— and by that time there will no doubt be others ready to try their fortunes.

Two of the most famous pictures in the world, Gainsborough's Blue Boy and Reynild's portrait of Mrs. Siddons, are for sale and may pass to this side of the Atlantic. The Duke of Westminister has sold them to a New York picture dealer. It is reported that the purchaser paid £200,000—almost a million dollars for the two pictures. The Gainsborough is the more famous and valuable of the two and has always been esteemed as the gem of the Duke of Westminister's valuable collection. That the Duke was willing to sell it at all is significant. He is generally spoken of as the richest peer in Great Britain and until a few years ago owned a good part of land on which London stands. But the great landed fortunes of England are being taxed out of existence. The duke, rich as he is supposed to be, has had to sell the Blue Boy to pay his taxes.

Another Hero

L.M.—In a recent paper I saw where the Royal Humane Medal will be given to Master Fred Reeder for rescuing a young gentleman. Why not present one to Morley Caron, who a few months ago rescued a young lady from drowning while a thousand stood by. Really I think Belleville ought to get her eyes open to see things like these, don't you?

I.X.L.—My neighbor, whom I call the Terrible Tempered Mr. Bang because he is so alike and yet so different, if you know what I mean, is considerably sot in his ways. One day he saw something he did not like in the paper. I met him on his way down town and saw at once that his temper wasl ike a fiery furnace, white hot, ready to lick up anything combustible in the twinkling of an eye. Whither bound, old top, said I, keeping a weather eye open for an explosion. I'm going to stop the paper, said he, and by heck, he meant it too. That was several days ago but he must have fallen in the crick for the paper keeps on coming out every day, and I know if he got there he would stop it, sure. Perhaps he is more of a bung starter than a stopper.

Transportation and Your Safety

CAR SHORTAGES have already developed at many of the coal mines of the United States. Without cars to load, the mines cannot produce; without production of coal, the welfare of the public cannot be conserved.

So far the shortages have not been serious in proportions, but with cold weather arriving, it can be expected that they will increase and may materially hinder the movement of coal.

Safety to your family can be secured by immediately stocking your coal. Coal prices will not decrease, and they may advance, if a transportation emergency arises.

BIGGER MARKET FOR MANITOBA POWER

A. W. McLimont, Vice-President and General Manager of Manitoba Power Company, Points Out That Eastern Canada Hardly Realizes the Big Industrial Field Built Up in and Around Winnipeg.

A. W. McLimont, vice-president and general manager of the Winnipeg Electric Railway Company, also vice-president and general manager of the Manitoba Power Company who is in town to-day, states that conditions in the West are much more promising, and that a number of the leading business men there are looking for a revival and an industrial expansion, and that labor conditions are very favorable.

The work on the new plant of the Manitoba Power Company is progressing very favorably, and the prospective demands for commercial power are even better than anticipated. The demand for power can be gauged by the fact that the Winnipeg Electric Railway Company connected 650 customers in October, 1920, and 1,287 customers in October, 1921.

A. W. McLIMONT
Vice-President and General Manager of the Manitoba Power Co.

There are a few points, he remarked about Winnipeg, the average citizen in Eastern Canada does not realize, namely: Winnipeg is entered by seven main line steam railways; twenty branch lines radiate from Winnipeg. All Canadian transcontinental lines pass through Winnipeg. Bank clearings over $3,000,000,000. Taxable property in Winnipeg is worth over $255-000,000. It is the third retailing centre in Canada. Winnipeg has the largest individual railway yard in the world, also the largest stock yards in Canada. In the grain business in the world, Winnipeg ranks second. The value of industrial products manufactured in and around Winnipeg amounted to $118,000,000 last year, and it is anticipated will increase materially with power available for industrial purposes, through the development of the Manitoba Power Co. Limited.

Music and Drama

"THE SHARK MASTER" BEST MAYO PICTURE

There are two important requisites for success as an actor—personality and histrionic ability. Some directors say that for the screen the former essential is the most important, while on the stage it is the latter that counts most. The history of the screen actually reveals a number of stars who have met with a great measure of success who possessed but one of these qualities to any considerable degree. A closer investigation, however, discloses the fact that these stars rose meteorically, blazed for a while on the the horizon of silent drama, and as swiftly disappeared from view.

The permanent successes of the screen have been scored by actors who possessed both personality and the ability to act, and foremost among these stars is Frank Mayo, who has appeared for the past three years in Universal films. His latest production, "The Shark Master," is probably the best story in which he has appeared in many months. Directed by Robert Thornby, it is said to be a dramatic masterpiece. Belleville theatregoers will have an opportunity to judge of its merits at the Regent Theatre To-night to Wednesday, matinee daily, where it is being exhibited along with the popular western play "Vanishing Trails", featuring Franklyn Farnum and Mary Anderson, a selected comedy, and three other varied attractions of interest.

GRIFFITH PICTURE THE HIT OF THE YEAR

D. W. Griffith's wonder spectacle "Way Down East" will open at Griffin's Theatre Thursday, where it is booked for an engagement of three days, with matinees on Friday and Saturday.

"Way Down East" is the outstanding hit of the current season on the American stage. It is being seen throughout the country simultaneously and playing to the greatest crowds that were ever drawn to see an American story since the establishment of our stage. Over a quarter of a million theatre-goers in the different cities of the county are weekly witnessing its presentations. This is a good average attendance for a season for an ordinary attraction and speaks plainer than any words of description as to the merits and the appeal of the Griffith masterpiece.

The screen version is based upon the simple tale of plain people revolving around the love of David Bartlett and Anna Moore in a New England rural community as originally played upon the stage in the dramatic tale by Lottie Blair Parker for a decade. Griffith has embellished it with those rare touches that he brings to everything that he does for a motion picture but upon such a scale that he has literally evolved a new art form. It possesses scenes of such sweetness and charm that they are pronounced worthy to hang in the art galleries of the land and he has added a thrilling climax showing the rescue of Anna by David after her battle through the night with the storm and the great ice jam and the floe on the river which is universally proclaimed the greatest scene ever seen within a theatre in the world's history.

Following the opening performance Thursday night, the production will be offered Friday, and Saturday, matinee and evening. There will be a special musical program.

COLLEGE GIRL TONIGHT AT GRIFFIN'S

Everything is in readiness for the opening of Belleville's own musical comedy, "The College Girl". No previous effort of amateurs in this city has been as well prepared and the production so finished in the rehearsal stage. There is usually hustle and hustle to trim up the rough spots at the last moment.

As there are no rough spots in "The College Girl" tonight's performance will be absolutely finished. There are some good seats still unsold so everyone will have an opportunity of enjoping Belleville's best effort.

FARM WAGES BASED ON EARNING CAPACITY

Farmer Offered Land to Employees Who Refused Offer.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—S. F. Edge, a scientific farmer, offered some weeks ago, to hand over farm land valued at £20,000 to a committee of his employes without cost, but subject to the proviso that they should pay their own wages out of the proceeds.

It is announced that they have declined the offer, and Mr. Edge has extended it to any reputable labor body, such as the agricultural workers unions.

The purpose of this offer," said Mr. Edge, when interviewed at his Sussex farm, "is to prove to the trade unions that farming, like every other industry, will only pay wages that are earned, unless they are drawn from capital. Agricultural laborers have been misled as to the profit a farmer makes from corn-growing or ordinary agriculture, and it was to teach them the truth that I made this offer.

"My employes on my farms, which have grown in the last two years from a modest 50 acres to some 2,000 acres, have not accepted my offer, knowing that they will make more money in wages than they could make out of the farm.

"I now suggest that one of the farms should be run on a co-operative scheme in charge of the workers and their unions. There would have to be an agreement that accepted methods of good husbandry be observed. It would be possible, of course, to enjoy several years of prosperity by taking everything possible out of the land and putting nothing back. The farm must be kept in good order, fences kept up, ditches drained, land fertilized, and buildings maintained.

"What I am deeply concerned with is that the whole of the land of this country should be farmed at a profit, so that many more families may be employed on the land. Tens of thousands can be employed on pig-breeding, at present by far the most remunerative side of agriculture. We have immense areas of unproductive land. Why should we not connect unproductive land with unemployed people, and make the land produce pigs."

"LOOT HOUSES" OF RUSSIAN BOLSHIES

Confiscated Goods Have Been Disposed of By Officials.

MOSCOW, Nov. 28.—(By a Staff Correspondent of The Associated Press)—Goods acquired by the government when it took over all property have been dissipated to a very great extent and probably constitute a considerable part of the material offered on the local street markets.

The Bolshevists confiscated the stocks of merchants and the contents of offices and residences and stored them in government houses which have been named "loot houses" by the non-Communist public.

These stocks were drawn on very heavily by the army and for other government purposes. But they also proved a gold mine for dishonest officials, and the dearth of all sorts of small articles in these houses indicates that pilfering has been pretty general.

Concert pianos, gigantic divans, immense bedroom suites and wardrobes abound, but flat silver, table linen, small rugs and other household articles which guards could carry are lacking. When the American Relief Administration opened up the houses where its personnel lives the government was to supply all furnishings under the food agreement.

It was with the greatest difficulty that enough dishes were found in the "loot houses" for the use of the Americans and, although assurances were given that the government stores would yield plenty of table silver, the relief workers were obliged to use tinned iron spoons. Repeated searches were made in warehouses where silver was listed, but it was always missing.

Many old-time Russians who are employed by the American Relief Administration have recognized pieces of their own furniture in the lot supplied to the American Relief Administration houses by the government.

Many of the better pictures from private houses have been put into galleries in Moscow and Petrograd. Old furniture and tapestries have also been saved for museums in many cases but the great mass of confiscated furniture and carpets has gone into government offices or residences of government officials.

The property of foreigners was treated the same as that of Russians.

$125,000 IN GOLD IS STOLEN AT SEA

San Francisco, Nov. 26.—Gold bullion valued at more than $125,000 stored in the specie tanks of the ocean liner Sonoma was stolen while the vessel was on the high seas en route to this port from Sydney. The theft, one of the most daring robberies of the sea, was discovered when the steamer arrived here Tuesday morning. The gold was consigned from Australian banks to the International Banking Corporation.

Investigation showed that the supposed burglar-proof locks of the tanks had been filed off and five strong-boxes containing the bullion removed. Locks the exact duplicates of those removed were then snapped on the tanks. This precaution of the robbers covered up their act until the Sonoma arrived here.

Extreme care was taken in the substitution of the locks, which showed that time was taken in planning the looting. How the bullion was removed from the vessel is unknown at present but it is believed that the act was committed before the Sonoma reached Honolulu and that the gold was removed there.

Brockville, Nov. 24.—Terence Sullivan, a young son of J. E. Sullivan of Elgin, was accidentally killed in a peculiar manner in that village yesterday. With another small boy named J. Dunn he was playing in an empty buggy, when the top started to fall and his head became caught in the iron bows, causing almost instant death from strangulation.

INTERMEDIATES IN TRAINING.

If the players on the Belleville Intermediate Hockey team are not in the pink of condition this season, it will be no fault of Jimmie Barry, who is training those chosen assiduously. Many muscles ache and much puffing is heard when the crew is assembled and treated to a lovely little jaunt out Herchimer avenue way, just a nice distance. But, strange to say, all those in the running do not agree. After their run the fellows swim around the pool at the "Y.M.C.A." have a good rub and their "play" for one evening is over, that is under the supervision of "Jimmy". Workouts of this order will, we are sure, toughen up the weak muscles, the good run will lengthen the wind of each and every player, which will tell when they're on the ice. Training, with splendid material available for our Intermediate group this winter will make a winning team. Among those who have turned out for training are: Vern Weir, Bouncer Holway, Daw Whelan, Gunner Arnott, Pat Boland, Soup Goyer, Al. Swayne.

SELECTS PREMIER AS BUSINESS MAN

Hon. S. F. Tolmie Applies Acid Test to Three Leaders.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 28.—Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Minister of Agriculture, in making his first speech of the campaign in his own constituency, said:

"I am not married to politics at all, I still feel so independent that if I did not agree with the Premier, I would not hesitate to tell him so

"I have sized up all three leaders. As a citizen of Canada—yes—and as a farmer—it would not take me a minute to select the man I would choose to carry out a big stroke of business."

Capt. Belle Chamber, Salvation Army officer, becomes Windsor police matron.

HOURS OF POLLING ARE EIGHT TO SIX

Advance and Border Polls the Only Exceptions So Far.

Ottawa, Nov. 28.—Polling day: Tuesday, December 6.

Hours of polling: 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., standard time governs in all cases.

In all districts—whether rural or urban—the general hours of voting will be identical on election day.

The only exceptions to this general rule are, (1), a few municipalities near the international boundary; (2) a number of points throughout the Dominion at which advance polls are authorized for sailors, railway employes and commercial travelers.

In the first category come a few municipalities in West Lambton, Ont., which are, so far, the only municipalities to take advantage of a special provision in the act. For them, the hours of voting will be from nine in the morning till eight in the evening of December 6. The change in hours is permitted under the act to accommodate electors, resident in Canada, but whose occupation renders it necessary for them to be absent from Canada during the ordinary polling hours.

Advance polls for sailors, railway employes and commercial travelers are authorized at 352 points in the Dominion. The hours for advance polls are: seven till ten in the evening of the three days, exclusive of Sunday, immediately preceding election day.

CHIPPAWA NOW ABOUT TO OPEN

Sir Adam Beck and Newspapermen Tour Power Canal.

TO RELEASE NIAGARA

New Year's Will See 55,000 Horsepower Unit in Operation.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 28.—With the great Queenston-Chippawa power project within weeks of completion, Sir Adam Beck and Commissioner Fred Miller took a party of newspaper men over the works Saturday. By the middle of December it is estimated the work will be completed and three weeks later the big power house at the base of Queenston Cliffs will be operating its first 55,000 horsepower unit. Already the engineers are making their plans for lifting the core that will release the waters of the upper Niagara.

But there will be no great rush of water into the canal. The pumps which now take care of seepage will be stopped next week and the canal allowed to fill gradually, so that by the time the core is removed the force of the waters above will be reduced to a minimun.

While the water will be turned into only one penstock at first, there will be two generators in the powerhouse ready for operation with a capacity of 110,000 horsepower and by next Fall two more grand generators will be at work.

There will be no surplus of power even with this increase in the supply. The steady piling up of power load on hydro system, the fact that the present plants are taxed to capacity and that large blocks of power are being secured from American power companies under temporary arrangements is assurance of a market for every horsepower developed. Sir Adam's party, which includes newspapermen from Toronto, Hamilton, Kitchener, Guelph and other points, motored over the route of the canal, and inspected the progress made in recent months.

HARD TIMES HIT THE KITCHEN FIRST.

As far as surface indications go the women of Canada are not taking a great interest in the election. The fact that the Conservative party in power gave the women the vote, also satisfied their desire to abolish the bar, initiated the Mothers' Allowance movement, and other progressive measures of immense importance to women should induce the women to get busy in this election, which is one of the most important ever held in Canada. It is an absolute fact, easy for anyone not blind with political partizanship to see, that if the government of Sir Arthur Meighen fails to secure a majority at the coming election there will be chaos worse confounded and the return of good times will be delayed until the return of stable government. Hard times hit the household and the housewife's vote and influence should go for good government and better times, not for a political jumble and business holdup until the political eggs are unscrambled at Ottawa.

FARMS INCREASING IN NUMBER.

Mr. T. A. Crerar and his so-called Progressive followers keep repeating the old falsehood that Protection is draining population from the land.

Yet what are the facts?

According to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, there were 544,688 farms of all sizes in Canada in the year 1901. By 1911 the number of farms had increased to 714,646, a total increase for the decade of 169,958, or an annual average increase of 17,000 new farms. During this decade the number of farm holdings increased in the prairie provinces as follows:

	1901.	1911.
Manitoba	32,495	45,606
Saskatchewan	13,612	96,372
Alberta	9,486	61,496
	55,593	203,474

That is, between 1901 and 1911 the number of farms in Manitoba increased by 40 per cent.; Saskatchewan by 607 per cent.; in Alberta by 540 per cent.

That is the answer to the charge that the national policy of protection discouraged settlers from going on the land. Unfortunately the figures for the next decade, now in the hands of the Census Department, will not be available until 1922,, but there is every reason to believe that they will show an increase for this decade which will compare favorably with the remarkable expansion which took place between 1901 and 1911.

WHY LABOR MUST SUPPORT PROTECTION.

Every member of a labor union must be a believer in a protective tariff from the very fact of his membership in a labor union. A protective tariff is enacted to protect Canadian labor and Canadian manufacturers against unfair and unequal competition from abroad.

Labor unions even go further than this because they aim to protect against possible unfair competition by workmen of their own country, in fact, against workmen living in the same city, possibly in the same street.

Canadian industry requires protection against foreign competitors, but will take its chances against home competitors. Theorists like Mr. Crerar, often make the academic charge that a protective tariff is immoral and selfish and solely for the benefit of the manufacturer, and is not reflected in the wage-earner's pay envelope. We have heard such men say that if some other country can produce goods cheaper t hawneNps,forF other country can produce goods cheaper than we can, then it is an imposition on those not engaged in that particular industry not to be permitted to buy the foreign goods. What those engaged in the home industry will do when driven out by foreign competition is a subject carefully ignored by these academic critics.

Industries to which protective tariffs apply have some measure of protection against foreign competition, but labor unions have protection against both foreign and home competition, and, consequently, labor unionists should be the strongest supporters of the principle of a protective tariff for Canadian industries.

CRISP COMMENT

Sunday was a good day for skidding, and many a car started something that the driver had to finish.

* * *

The women of Canada can decide this election by their votes and influence; can they afford to take a chance on the best government not being returned?

* * *

Ten miles an hour is the legal speed for vehicles at street intersections and not even that if the traffic is congested. How is it so many drivers have speed mania which forgets legal limit and even the ordinary rules of safety?

* * *

Crerar is a dreamer, intoxicated with the golden glamor of the west, and he can see no poetry in factory smoke or workingmen's cottages. He may mean well, but his free trade theories would wreck Canada's prosperity so quickly that the rails would rust on the transcontinental railways leading to Crerar's paradise while he was trading with Uncle Sam to the south and sidetracking Canada's great east and west railway traffic,

BRITISH UNEMPLOYMENT

Vancouver Province

"We are confronted with the worst period of unemployment that this country has seen probably for a hundred years." This was the opening sentence of Mr. Lloyd George's speech on October 10, in presenting his measure for relief.

The Premier went on to say that the present trouble was not one of the usual cycle of trade depression. It was due to one abnormal cause that 1,500,000 workers were out of employment. There had been nothing like it since the end of the Napoleonic wars. The causes were the same, and the symptoms the same.

THE THREE LEADERS

Montreal Herald

Mr. Mackenzie King is reported to have said that he had given the country an answer in Parliament and was prepared to stand by that. He also stated that he did not need to mention that neither Mr. Meighen nor Mr. Crerar had been in uniform, but all three had probably been unable to serve their King and country better than they did. Mr. King then declared he was proud to have been able to serve his King and country as he had done.

In view of the interest that is being taken in the war records of the three leaders it may be just as well to state briefly the facts. Mr. Meighen, though he did not serve in uniform, did splendid work for the country as a member of the Government throughout the war. Mr. Crerar was also a member of the Government but did not stay the course. Mackenzie King did no direct war service for Canada, whatever he may have done for the United States.

The Poets' Corner

IN THE TENDER IRISH WEATHER

Lillian Middleton in Exchange.

Oh! the calm, brown mountain and the endless miles of heather,
And the rugged, grave horizon, where the white clouds roll;
And my cheek against the soft cheek of the tender Irish weather,
And in all the space around me not a soul—not a soul!

There the skylark and the blackbird and the linnet sing together,
With ne'er a one to still them, nor human voice to speak—
Oh! 'tis long since I have lulled me in the tender Irish weather,
And my heart is hot within me for the touch of her cheek!

But they say that on the mountain where I've lain among the heather
With the plover's note a-mourning thro' the haze of blue,
That the cold and dead are lying in the soft-cheeked Irish weather,
And oh! my heart is breaking for the mountain that I knew!

A Laugh or Two

"Your teeth are like the stars," he said,
And pressed her hand so white.
And he spoke true; for like the stars
Her teeth came out at night.

Mrs. Beame was admiring Mrs. Deare's baby.

"Oh, what a darling!"

"Da-da! Goo-goo! Ho-o! Da'" replied the baby.

"The dear!" exclaimed Mrs. Beame "He's trying so hard to talk."

"Yes, he talks that way all day, but he doesn't say anything," ventured Bobbie, the five-year-old brother of the baby.

"The baby is so much like his father apropos to nothing, of course.

CARL AHRENS IS RELEASED; BAIL TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS

Kitchener, Nov. 28—Carl Ahrens was released from custody this afternoon on bail of $10,000. He will appear for hearing on Tuesday.

Although the Coroner's jury in tthe death of Helen Ahrens, his wife, who was drowned in the Grand River on the night of November 16, brought in a verdict of accidental death, Ahrens is still held on a murder charge. This charge was laid Monday. Provincial Inspector A. H. Ward, of Toronto asked for time to visit Mrs. Ahrens' home in Carleton Place to pursue investigations there.

Mrs. Elizabeth Clark, aged 115, eyewitness of burning of Buffalo by the British in 1814, is dead.

ENORMOUS CROWDS GREET ADMIRAL

Admiral Has Joyous Time With Citizens at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Nov. 28.—Admiral Earl Beatty scored his first Canadian triumph when he took the capital by storm Saturday morning. In sharp Winter weather and driving snow, thousands of people jammed the Central station and the streets leading to the City Hall to catch a glimpse of the famous sea fighter and to cheer.

As Earl Beatty stepped off his private car, the guard of honor presented arms while the bugle band crashed out the general salute. The distinguished visitor was immediately greeted by Sir James Lougheed, acting head of the Government; Hon. J. A. Stewart, Minister of Railways; Senator Gideon Robertson; Major-Gen Sir Henry Burstall; Commander W. Hose, Director of Naval Services; Mayor Frank Plant, and the civic officials. The supreme Court of Canada was represented by Chief Justice Sir Louis Davies.

When inspecting the guard, Earl Beatty chatted with Captain McCullough, M.C., the guard commander, congratulating him on the splendid appearance of the men. Following the inspection, Sir James introduced Earl Beatty to the members of the Government, Commander Hose to the officers of the naval services, and Major Gen. Burstall to the army officers.

And A Tiger

On his way to the station concourse, Earl Beatty stopped to shake hands with and chat to members of the naval service. Entering the concourse, he was greeted with three roaring cheers and a tiger from the assembled war veterans, and to which he responded with a salute and a smile. The greeting from the veterans seemed to cause the admiral's cap to tip to an even more jaunty angle, and something of a "Well, I'm at home" look passed over his face.

55 DESERTED WIVES GETTING ALLOWANCES

Brought Under Mothers' Pensions Law by New Amendments.

Since May 3rd last more than fifty deserted wives in Ontario have been placed on the list of those receiving mothers' allowances. On that date an amendment to the mothers' allowances' act enabling the province to make provision for wives who had been deserted for five years received the royal assent.

Another change in the law made this year provided that foster mothers with two children under the age of 16 years could receive allowances under certain conditions. Fourteen such persons have been granted allowances.

"We are also taking care of 170 cases in which the man is totally incapacitated, in most cases by tuberculosis," said Rev. Peter Bryce, chairman of the Ontario mothers' allowances' commission to The Star to-day. "Then there are 64 cases where the parent is in an asylum for insane and 55 deserted wives."

The commission is paying out nearly $100,000 every month. It has 2,800 widows or guardians receiving allowances and these are taking care of 8,500 dependent children.

"That makes a total of 11,300," observed Mr. Bryce, "and if the other children in the families were included, the total would reach 15,000. In other words, population equivalent to that of a large town are assisted by the act."

WRECK OF TREASURE SHIP HOLDS FORTUNE

In Gold and Gems—Efforts to Recover Wealth Fail Again.

New York, Nov. 28.—The third attempt to salvage the $4,000,000 gold and silver cargo of the Ward Line steamer, "Merida," sunk ten years ago off the Virginia Capes, has resulted in a failure, it was admitted to-day at the office of the H. L. Gotham Corporation, which financed the salvage expeditions.

Inclement weather has been responsible for the three failures. The project now has been abandoned until next Spring at least.

Ten years ago last May the Merida, bound from Havana to New York, was struck in a fog by an American mail liner, and sunk in 35 fathoms of water. The passengers and crew were rescued, but the entire cargo went to the bottom. This consisted of 22 tons of silver bars, six kegs of gold coins, $500,000 in gold bars and 4,700 tons of copper and jewels.

AEROPLANES TO CARRY BALLOT BOXES FROM NORTH

Winnipeg, Novr. 26—Airplanes may be used to carry the ballot boxes to the northern part of the constituency of Springfield. This is considered by Returning Officer A. Potvin the only possible means of permitting 500 British subjects of Rupert's Land to register their vote in the forthcoming federal election December 6th.

Seeking adventure and finding it aplenty was the lot of Dan McDonald of Manigotagan, who, with a party went out into the wilds of Northern Manitoba to establish polls for the federal election, and register qualified electors in Springfield constituency.

The party set out from Winnipeg, November 4th, being in charge of Stanley McLeod of Manigotagan. After experiencing the loss of their motor boat, hired from C. Sorgeren of Heckla, the party obtained canoes from the Indians in order to proceed on their journey and complete their duties.

Nine polls were established in the far northern parts of Springfield.

"I do not know how I am going to get the ballot boxes out to these isolated polls," said Mr. Potvin this morning. The only possible solution may be the engaging of an airplane to make the trip.

Health turns the Clock Backward

Nine Reasons Why Spinal Neglect is a crime

1. The backbone is the foundation of the body.
2. It is composed of 26 joints, 24 of which are movable.
3. From between these joints radiate the nerves of the body.
4. When these joints are in alignment the nerve openings are full sizes and the nerves deliver 100% of their power.
5. A nerve under pressure at the backbone opening causes disease in the part it serves.
6. Chiropractic removes the pressure by an adjustment by hand, and this adjustment opens the way for health (free nerve energy).
7. If chiropractic seems too simple to do all that it can do, remember that every phenomena of growth is caused by as simple a thing as heat.
8. To neglect the backbone invites disease, which is a crime because it is in violation of Nature's laws.
9. Don't be a criminal.

Removing the Cause of Backache

MONDAY HEALTH TALK No. 56

By WM. P. REDICK, D.C. Ph. C.

As the gravy thickens, as pancakes grow in popularity, and the holidays near, there is a tendency among those who suffer from liver and kidney weakness to experience backache and its brother, lumbago. Failure of the kidneys and bowels to throw off the waste of heavier foods develops the soreness as the blood absorbs the waste.

Chiropractic spinal adjustments get at and remove the cause of this sluggishness and recovery comes about naturally. Many who are learning the all-around efficacy of chiropractic are turning in increasing numbers to the aid it offers.

BACKACHE IS GONE.

"Before taking chiropractic spinal adjustments I was bothered with my back and kidneys and could not sleep after two or three o'clock in the morning, but after two or three adjustments I could sleep till I got up. The adjustments were continued and now the backache is gone for good. At the same time I was cured of piles."—Marion Morgan, Chiropractic Research Bureau Statement No. 1237H.

BROKE NIPPLE OFF HYDRANT

At a few minutes after 11 o'clock on Sunday morning, Mr. Brice Richardson of Thurlow was driving his car down Front street when, he alleges that he was at the corner of Front and Bridge streets, crowded to the walk owing to another car coming in the opposite direction and the result was a collision with the hydrant. NARROW ESCAPE.

Harry Fallis, of Bethany, narrowly escaped drowning last Saturday afternoon while repairing the walls of a well on Mr. Lang's farm in Cavan. Fallis was working about ten feet down when the scaffold on which he stood gave way, but miraculously, after a drop of some thirty feet, he managed to catch hold of a cleat on one side of the well, and eventually climbed back to safety. The well is seventy-five feet deep and contains thirty feet of water.

KELLY'S HILL COMPLETED.

Work has been completed at Kelly's hill in the 12th concession of Emily, and is now open for traffic. About 1500 cubic rods of rock has been removed and the hill reduced to a satisfactory grade.—Lindsay Post.

BARN BURNED NEAR OAKWOOD

Early Saturday morning Mr. Louis Martin, who lives one and a half miles northwest of Oakwood, lost his barn by fire. Mr. Martin was in the barn with a lantern loading hay when he accidentally upset the lantern, and in a few minutes the barn was a seething mass of fire. Telephone calls were sent out and neighbors responded, but could do nothing. Fortunately the cattle and horses were out at the time. Mr. Martin has some $1500 insurance, but his loss will be heavy.

KILLED BY AN AUTO DRIVEN BY BROTHER

Colborne Township Man Struck Down Crossing a Street at Goderich.

GODERICH, Nov. 28.—Saturday night, about 8.15, Leonard McManus, age 18, son of James McManus of McManus Dairy, Colborne Township, who, with his sister, was crossing the street on the square, in front of Wilson's restaurant, to attend the picture show, was struck and fatally injured by a car driven by his brother, Wilmer.

It seems that, owing to the downpour of rain, neither brother saw the other. Leonard's view being obscured by the umbrella which he was holding over his sister. They crossed immediately in front of the car, were both knocked down and seriously hurt, the car wheels passing over the brother. He was rushed to the hospital and at first the doctors thought the accident had resulted in only a few bruises and a scalp wound, but it proved otherwise, as death occurred on Sunday afternoon about 2.15 from concussion of the brain.

ONTARIO WOMAN GAINS 24 POUNDS

Says Her Troubles Have All Disappeared and She Feels Like a New Woman.

"When I began taking Tanlac I only weighed one hundred and four pounds, but now I tip the scales at one hundred and twenty-eight, which is exactly thirteen pounds more than I weighed even before my troubles began," said Mrs. Elizabeth Crozier, 739 Broadview Ave., Toronto, Ont.

"Over a year ago I noticed I was getting in a run-down condition. My appetite was very poor and what little I did eat seemed to do me no good. I was nervous and restless, couldn't sleep to speak of, and always felt tired and listless. I fell off over ten pounds in weight and was so weak and nervous I felt perfectly miserable all the time.

"But by the time I finished my first bottle of Tanlac I was eating and sleeping better and was picking up in weight. When I had finished my fourth bottle my troubles were all gone, and although three months have past I am still feeling fine. I have a wonderful appetite, everything agrees with me perfectly and I am twenty-four pounds heavier than I was at the time I began taking Tanlac. My nerves are steady and I sleep well every night. Tanlac is simply grand."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store.

$4,000 WORTH OF FURS SEIZED

Alleged That Belleville Man Had No License to Have Furs.

Game Warden Woodcock of Peterboro, who was in the city on Friday and in company with some members of the local police force visited the home of Mr. Harry Yanover, South John street and confiscated a large quantity of furs valued approximately at $4,000. The furs consisted of rare fox skins, coon, beaver and other animals, there being nine bags full. It is alleged that Mr. Yanover had no license to have furs in his possession hence the seizure.

RUSSIAN THEATRES HAVE BEEN SPARED

Weathered Demoralization Period and Are in Good Shape.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 28.—(By a Staff Correspondent of The Associated Press)—Petrograd's government theatres and opera have been spared the general demoralization which has swept Russia, through the good judgment and organizing power of Ivan Vassilievich Ekskuzovich. Since 1917 he has been director of the Academic Theatre and head of the theatrical organization of Petrograd. He is a professional actor, but also an architect and mechanical engineer and has no interest in party politics.

When the theatrical organization elected Ekskuzovich to be its head, Lunacharsky, the Minister of Education, recognized him as an ideal man to conserve and continue the theatres and opera. Actors, dancers and singers pledged themselves to keep out of politics and under Ekskuzovich the organizations have been held intact.

The Academic Theatre, on the Nevski Prospekt, together with the dramatic school, the ballet school and the theatrical museum and library which adjoin it, stands forth as an untouched island of old Russia. Glasses rule on as usual in spite of limited food supplies and the lack of fuel.

Davidoff, the veteran comedian who has been the idol of Russian audiences for over half a century, lectures every day to the student actors on the traditions of the Russian stage. Barbara Ivanova Likhoserstova, the directress of the ballet school, has held the position since 1884.

The American Relief Administration is establishing a kitchen in the dramatic school and will provide dinners for the young people who are in training to be future directors, composers, singers, actors, dancers and dramatists. Gregory G. Iscaienko, who has been in charge for 33 terms, is director of the Boys' school.

Many efforts were made by political leaders to commandeer the ten thousand costumes owned by the dramatic academy organization, but Ekskuzovich has been able to keep the supplies intact, with the assistance of Lunacharsky and the dramatic profession has won such confidence by its abstention from politics that both government and public will doubtless continue to protect the organization which has continued its work with great loyalty to or under most trying conditions.

SONS OF SCOTLAND ATTEND CHURCH

March to John St. Church, Where Splendid Sermon Was Delivered.

On Sunday morning the Sons of Scotland and brethren of L.O.L. and Sons of England societies attended divine services at John street church. The occasion was St. Andrews' Anniversary. From the encampment Front street, the lodges headed by the Sons of Scotland Pipe Band paraded to John street church and listened to a well-delivered sermon by Rev. D. C. Ramsay. After the service the parade headed down Church street to Bridge down Bridge and up Front to their encampment.

The Sermon

The subject of discussion by Rev. Ramsay, was "the Test of Nationhood".

The text was Psalm 33-12. "Blessed is the Nation whose God is the Lord."

The welcome hand was extended to the Sons of Scotland and all visiting brethren. The discussion was the value of national ideas. The values were:

1. The Cradle of world ideas.
2. The Christian Religion rose out of the nation of Israel.
3. The system of law from Roman Empire.
4. The freedom of modern democracy arose from the British Empire.

We have also to suppose that great ideas in the future will arise from the doings of different nations. Nationalism. Most nations exist on their service to the world in general. The first service by Scotland was its love for education.

POLITICS AT POINT ANN

This Busy Industrial Centre Would Suffer Under Free Trade.

EAST HASTINGS

W. C. Mikel, K.C., Made a Powerful Appeal in Behalf of T. H. Thompson

Point Anne with its big cement plant and stone quarries was the scene of a political meeting Saturday night in the interests of T. H. Thompson the Conservative candidate for East Hastings. These plants that have given employment to hundreds of men and circulated hundreds of thousands of dollars would be among the first to shut down if the policy of the Progressives or Liberal Parties were carried out. The meeting was held in the school room. T. A. Sills acted as chairman.

W. C. Mikel, K.C., on being called to the platform addressed the electors. He said there were some things we did not have enough of in Canada but we certainly had enough of politics. Nevertheless some people wanted Canada to have more politics because they were busy creating more parties. Every new party created had its politics so the more parties we have the more politics. Mr. Denyes came before the electors as a U.F.O. Mr. Caskey comes as a Progressive and we find a number of variations. The Conservative party is consolidated on one policy from East to West.

Real Progressive Party

If it is decided by results rather than promises, the Conservative party is the real progressive party in Canada, because it originated and carried into effect (1) —The Confederation of the Dominion of Canada, thereby creating a nation as big as the continent of Europe, and nearly one-third of the the British Empire; (2)—The acquisition from the Hudson Bay Company of the great North West Territories, over two million square miles; (3)—The surveying and opening up of this vast territory for settlement; (4)—The formation out of this territory of three Provinces now containing millions; (5)—The building of the C.P.R.; (6)—The construction of our great canal system; (7)—Votes for Women; (8)—Temperance Legislation; (9)—The Hydro Electric system; (10)—The National policy. If you take out of Canada the achievements of the Conservative party there will not be much to boast of. There has always been a considerable number of our political opponents who, believeing in the benefits of these great national works have left their party and supported the Conservative party from time to time. A man may call himself the King of England or President of the United States but that does not make it so. It is results that tell.

Lower Tariff Means Lower Labor Conditions

The National Policy means Protection to Canadian industries. Every civilized country to-day has adopted this policy; even England since October 1921. Canada could least afford to drop protection. If we did we would put our manufactured goods on a par with the goods of under paid labor of Europe and Asia. Labor in Canada does not want that. Our opponents say take the tariff off necessities. Necessities consist of all we eat, wear, use in our homes, workshops, stores, on farms, in mines. You cannot take the tariff off one man's necessity and leave it on another's, and if you take it off all that means doing away with protection. If it is good policy to shut out the goods the foreigner makes. Our opponents pick ot three or four big industries that have become rich and perhaps could get along without protection and propose therefore to destroy the whole system; but there are 15,000 industries in Canada brought into existence by the policy of protection scattered throughout our villages, towns and small cities which have a struggle to keep going. If Protection was taken away these would go out of exisence though, perhaps, a few of the big ones could stand. Trusts and combines come into existence under free trade as well as protection. From the earliest times people moved from rural to urban communities in every country, also in England under free trade. It is not caused by protection Without Protection the Canadian farmers cannot compete with the farmer of the Southern States where he has several crops a year and can raise his stock out doors all the year round. The farmer in the Northern States cannot compete with the farmer in the Southern States, therefore, the farmers in the Northern States, by the thousands, are selling their farms and moving into Canada. You never hear of Canadian farmers moving to the Northern United States, because they would be worse off there than here.

U.F.O. Not Intended for Politics

The farmers' organizations were not originally intended for politics. Hon. Mr. Drury said at Milton last January "The farmers' organization should not go into politics as an organizations. I believe the farmers' organizations has altogether too big a work to do in other directions to risk its life or waste its energies by participating directly in politics."

Joshua Fletcher, the originator of the farmer movement in Canada resigned from office last month and said "During the past year or more there has appeared an element of deception, intrigue and falsehood. I am offering my resignation at this time as an emphatic protest against the administration of President H. W. Wood, and against the policy which he dictates. I consider the one-man power policy of our provincial president in its effect on the U.F.A. as injurious and destructive. In our provincial matters I are sure it will prove deceptive, disappointing and costly; in our federal or national affairs it would be one dangerous step toward national suicide."

Liberal Party Discredited

The Liberal policy supported by Mr. Walsh has been discredited by one of its own great leaders, the Hon. John Oliver, Premier of British Columbia. The Globe reports him as saying: "It is not a square deal and is not Liberal. It is a get-by proposition and the Liberal party in this crisis should not put any get-by proposition before the people."

Unfair Criticism

It is said Canada has a big debt and a big annual expenditure. Neither King or Mr. Crerar objected in the Public Accounts Committee and Mr. Crerar was a member of the Government and approved of it.

If the government had forced the immediate payment of the Riordon taxes it would have put the company in bankruptcy and turned hundreds out of work. Our opponents would then say we were too harsh. I have known business men on Front street, Belleville to be behind two, three and four years' taxes. Bankruptcy would have resulted from forced payment, but by reasonable consideration they came through all right. No money is lost, no money is jeopardized. Since 1911 the Conservative government has handled over four billions of dollars without even one charge of dishonesty.

They draw a herring across the track by yelling "Big Interests" They are careful not to say that they will destroy the "big interests" because that would destroy Canada. It would be a sorry day for Canada if the "big interests" were destroyed and those of "little interest" ran things. North Dakota is experiencing that now. North Dakota cannot borrow money at 9 per cent. while South Dakota gets it at 6 per cent.

JAPAN ACCEPTS TONNAGE RATIO

Tokio Government Will Not Endanger Naval Understanding.

ACTION BY CABINET

Admiral Kato Said to Have Received Explicit Instructions.

Washington, Nov. 27.—The Japanese Cabinet and Diplomatic Advisory Council at Tokio are taking a hand in the negotiations at Washington over the tonnage ratio of capital warships to be allotted Japan. Admiral Baron Kato, senior Japanese delegate, has laid the entire situation growing out of the discussion by the committee of experts, before his own Government.

It is understoood that Admiral Kato received from Tokio today very explicit instructions as to his procedure in reply to communications from the delegation giving the series of figures submitted by Japan to show the total strength of its navy under various classifications, as well as the opinions expressed by, and technical issues put forth, concerning measurements by the other experts at Washington.

It is pointed out that, while the Japanese have made it known publicly that they believe they are entitled to ratio of seventy per cent., there is no available evidence that, so far as the conference itself is concerned, Japan has formally laid claim to the seventy per cent. ratio.

The report was in circulation today that Japan, failing to have her own standard measurement accepted the "5-5-3" arrangement. This impression seemed to be growing among Japanese who follow closely the work of their delegation. They were of the opinion that Japan would not, by over-insistence, go so far as to endanger the success of a general naval agreement.

MARMORA FAVORS GOOD GOVERNMENT

Enthusiastic Meeting Shows Popularity of Conservative Candidate.

Marmora was the scene of a political rally in the interest of E. Guss Porter, K.C., Saturday night, and the interest taken in the campaign was evidenced by the attendance, the Town Hall being filled to the doors and standing room was at a premium. All the country round about was well represented and many came from long distances to hear the issues of the day discussed. The meeting was attentive and enthusiastic indicating that Mr. Porter's candidature and the policies of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen are popular with the electors of Marmora section.

Reeve Bruce Airheart acted as chairman in a very capable manner, and rousing speeches were made, by Robt. Cook, M.P.P., Geo. A. Reid, of Belleville, and the Conservative candidate, E. Guss Porter, K.C. Vocal solos were rendered by Mr. Sandy Burrows, of Belleville, in his customary capable manner, and the audience showed their appreciation with enthusiastic applause. The speakers all received a cordial reception and not one interruption marked the meeting, liberal applause punctuating the addresses.

The meeting terminated with cheers for the candidate, Mr. E. Guss Porter, Premier Meighen and His Majesty the King.

STORM SWEEPS NEW ENGLAND, CAUSING LOSS OF $1,000,000

NEW ENGLAND STORM SWEPT

Damage Done in Central District Estimated at $1,000,000.

COLLAPSE OF WIRES

Street Lights Cut Off and Telegraphs and Telephones Suffer.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 29.—A storm of sleet and snow that reached its height early yesterday and then turned to rain, caused heavy damage across central New England.

Telephone and electric light services were almost seriously affected the collapse of ice-laden wires and poles causing traffic interruptions that will take days to overcome. Suburbs north of Boston were without lights to-night in most cases, and at least 2,000 subscribers in those places without telephones. Telegraph companies also reported service breakdowns. Many points in Massachusetts and Southern New Hampshire and Southern Vermont were without means of outside wire communication. Street cars were stalled over a wide area, north of this city, because of power troubles and tracks blocked by storm debris.

Two deaths resulting from the storm had been reported both in Nantucket Harbor. An eighteen-year-old boy in Woonsocket and a baker's driver in Pawtucket, were electrocuted when they grasped fallen wires.

In Northern New England the snow fall was heavy. Portland, Maine, reported a foot in parts of Vermont and New Hampshire from 18 to 22 inches fell.

The financial loss was estimated to exceed $1,000,000.

MAYOR HANNA AT BRANTFORD

Represented Belleville at Meeting of Ontario Associated Boards of Trade.

Mayor Hanna represented Belleville at the recent gathering at Brantford in the annual convention of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce. At the City Council meeting Monday evening the Mayor reported as follows:

Having been chosen by this Council to represent you at the annual meeting of the Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, held in Brantford, I beg leave to report on the same.

The meetings were presided over by the president, Mr. John Elliott, and many matters of national and local improvements were dealt with, fully discussed and favorably disposed of. Among them were:

Excessive freight and express rates.

The marriage laws of Canada.

Western land settlement.

The Stock Companies Act.

The carrying of lights on all vehicles on the highways.

Provincial grants to urban municipalities.

The Ontario Assessment Act, in which a school for the education of assessors was advocated.

The Immigration Act.

Better educational facilities.

Much could be said of each subject, but assuming that you have read the detailed reports in the newspapers, I will not dwell on them.

We were accorded a very fine reception and banquet by the citizens of Brantford.

Brantford is a very fine city, with a population of 33,000 and many industries. The working men of Brantford are apparently very contented and about 75 per cent. of them own their homes. Their assessment is $29,865,305. They have twenty parks and playgrounds with a total of one hundred and fifty acres and a free open air skating rink in every ward. In my opinion Brantford is just what they make it, as they one and all boost their city from morning until night, and there is no room for a pessimist there.

C. OF C. ELECT DIRECTORS

Five Chosen to Serve Two Years on Board of Directors.

ONE NEW MEMBER

Four Former Members Re-elected—Other Officers to be Appointed.

The annual election for the directorate of the Chamber of Commerce which was concluded at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon has resulted in the return of five of Belleville's most prominent, energetic and influential citizens. The five chosen will serve for two years. They are Messrs. H. W. Ackerman, Jamieson Bone, Arthur McGie, J. G. Moffat and Mackenzie Robertson. Messrs Ackerman, Bone, Moffat and Robertson were re-elected to the directorate. Mr. McGie will be new to the Board.

It will be particularly gratifying to the four directors re-elected that the course they have pursued in administering the affairs of the Chamber of Commerce has proven so popular with the membership. Mr. Scott, the retiring director would also undoubtedly have been re-elected had he not intimated to a number of his friends that he wished to drop out for a time at least and see some new material in the directorate. It is with the utmost regret that his colleagues on the Board have learned of Mr. Scott's retirement. He has, since the organization of the Chamber of Commerce two years ago, taken the keenest interest in every phase of the work and has been among the foremost to promote the interests of the new organization and by that means to promote the best interests of Belleville. Mr. Scott, will, however, continue to be quite as much concerned about the progress of the Chamber of Commerce as he has in the past and it is hoped that at another election in the not distant future he may find the time again to devote himself more intensively to community effort along Chamber of Commerce lines.

Mr. Arthur McGie, who succeeds Mr. Scott, does not require any introduction to the citizens of Belleville. He is regarded as one of our sanest and most level-headed business men, has been for a number of years a prominent member of the Board of Education and is now serving as its chairman. Prior to that he had been a leading member of the Belleville Board of Health. In all his public duties Mr. McGie has displayed a generous and progressive spirit, such as will make him a most desirable acquisition to the group who are to guide the destinies of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce the coming year.

A large vote was polled at the Final Election and the contest for fifth place was particularly close, less than a dozen votes dividing the totals of five of the candidates.

A particularly gratifying feature about this election, as about preceding elections of the Chamber of Commerce, is that there was no "slate" prepared. No candidate conducted a campaign in his own interests. The vote was a spontaneous tribute to the ability and popularity of those in the running.

On Thursday of this week the nine directors will meet and choose their president, two vice-presidents and a treasurer for the coming year.

TEACHING IN LONDON SLUMS

Canadian Exchange Teachers Have Strenuous Experience in London.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

London, Nov. 29.—Seventy seven Canadian teachers who recently arrived here to gain experience in English schools are for the present teaching in the poorest of London schools although they had hoped to take spells in teaching in schools in other centres. Some of them are rather depressed by the squalid surroundings of these London schools and they find the scholars more difficult to manage than the pupils at home.

WOMAN'S DUTY AND OPPORTUNITY

1,250,000 WOMEN ENTITLED TO VOTE

It has been estimated that on the federal election day 1,250,000 women will be entitled to vote. The total voting strength of both sexes is set at, approximately, 3,000,000. Past experience with male voters has proved that not more than half the number qualified to present themselves at the polls avail themselves of their privileges. In countries, and in provinces where women are enfranchised on equal terms with men it has bene found that a far larger proportion of the female vote is cast. Political forecasters are anticipating that the same rule will apply in the coming Dominion elections.

This advent of the woman voter into the federal political field is a matter of great importance to the history of the country, for should the female vote be distributed as a majority weight on one side or the other, it would unquestionably decide the result of the election. Opponents of the franchise for women used a stock argument that the women would simply vote as did their men; but in the New Brunswick provincial election last year it was found that a sufficiently large number of women voted according to their own ideas to make them a factor that had to be seriously considered by the political parties in the field.

In her home woman is a power for good. Those who are interested in better citizenship contend that moral and uplifting influences will mark the casting of the vote by that element in our population which is on the side of good, and it is thoroughly believed that the introduction of women to the ballot will make immediately or ultimately for better citizenship, and for laws which will crystallize the best sentiment of the Dominion.

This tremendous power has been placed in the hands of the women of Canada. Henceforth for better or for worse the fate of the Dominion will rest equally on the shoulders of the women and the men. But it is not a plaything that has been so generously given to Canadian women by the present government. It is a sharp-edged weapon to be used for the good of the country. Noblesse Oblige. Women must recognize that it is their bounden duty to make use of the vote and to make use of it in the right way. To feel content with the fact that they are entitled to votes yet not use them is to stamp themselves as bad citizens, insensible to their obligations.

To change the government of Canada now would be to take a leap in the dark.

A VOTE FOR E. GUSS PORTER, K.C., IS A VOTE FOR RT. HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN.

ULSTER'S REPLY KNOWN TODAY

Answer is to be Given to Overtures of British Cabinet.

AT A CRITICAL STAGE

If Craig Answers "No" Whole Negotiations Go Overboard.

BELFAST, Nov. 29.—Sir James Craig, speaking before the northern Parliament today, said he had told Lloyd George that the British Government's proposals to Ulster for a settlement of the Irish question were utterly impossible. He said Ulster would not enter an all-Ireland parliament under present conditions, but was prepared to discuss other avenues for settlement.

"By Tuesday next the negotiations will have failed, or the Prime Minister will send me new proposals," said Premier Craig in the northern Parliament today on the Irish problem.

London, Nov. 29.—The Irish parleys are at a critical stage. Ulster will give her answer to the overtures from the British Cabinet on Tuesday. Political circles are excited tonight, and worrying about what answer Sir James Craig will make.

If Craig answers definitely "No," the whole negotiations go overboard, because the Ulsterites, backed by repeated promises of British statesmen, have the power to veto any settlement.

During the week-end the Ulsterites stood firm in their refusal to join an all-Ireland parliament, but the latest news from Belfast indicates that Craig will not give a point-blank refusal to continue the negotiations.

Scheme Submitted.

The scheme submitted to the Ulsterites by Premier Lloyd George is said to be attractive to the Belfast commercial men. It would relieve them of two-thirds of the present income tax, which amounts to 30 per cent., and would give them adequate safeguards on the religious question. The alternative is to continue under the present scheme.

The British Cabinet still hopes that the Sinn Fein will accept the partition scheme, giving the south of Ireland full dominion home rule with safeguards. This hope is declared not to be justified.

Whatever happens, Lloyd George has definitely made up his mind to go to Washington before the end of December.

A DISASTROUS FAILURE

TRANSPORTATION CHARGES

Washington, Nov. 29.—The railroads of the United States will be given from December 14th to 21st to justify in a hearing the present level of transportation charges, the Interstate Commerce Commission announced today. FORM A LABOR PARLIAMENT

Hon. Arthur Henderson Suggests Parliament of Labor Men.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

London, Nov. 29.—The formation of a labor parliament was urged by Hon. Arthur Henderson, speaking at Burnley to an audience composed of employees and workers. The whole field of industry he said would be thus capable of expressing the mind of industry. The main functions of the proposed parliament would be to bring into industrial life and activity the harmony of modern requirements.

PRINCIPLES OF LABOR DISCUSSED

Protection the Only Safeguard for Canadian Workingmen.

CITY HALL CROWDED

Able and Patriotic Addresses by Representatives of Labor.

One of the best political meeting held in Belleville was that which took place last night at the City Hall in the interest of Mr. E. Guss Porter, the government candidate for West Hastings. It was a labor meeting and the labor element of the city filled the building to overflowing. Every available seat was taken and many were compelled to stand during the speech making, but all were amply repaid for attending.

Mr. Robert J. Stevenson and Sergt.-Major McNamara, the Labor M.P.P., for Riverdale, Toronto were the speakers and as both are well versed in the subject, they presented facts in a manner that was telling and to the point. Mr. Stevenson was interrupted a few times, but he was equal to the occasion. No interruptions whatever occurred whilst the Sergt.-Major was speaking. It is no exaggeration to say that he simply held the vast audience spell bound by his arguments.

Mr. Barney Ellis was chairman and fulfilled that position in a manner that was most creditable. Associated with him on the platform were a number of working men and others.

R. J. Stevenson

Mr. Robert J. Stevenson of Toronto, was the first speaker and expressed the pleasure it gave him to be present and address a Belleville audience. He said he was born and raised in the city of Belleville and he was proud of that fact. He was a union man and had been for 25 years and had a paid-up union card. The questions before the electors to-day were momentous and all should be greatly interested in what class of a government we have in Canada the next four or five years.

The world at present is upset and there are many unemployed, but Canada was by no means in as bad a condition in this respect as many other countries are. In England upwards of three million are unemployed and were it not for the assistance of the government many would be on the verge of starvation. In the United States the situation in this regard is bad. In speaking of England and its free trade policy which was in vogue for many years and it progress was considerable. This policy was continued until the war with Germany, when a change took place. England was the only country that prospered under free trade. Why has the United States been so successful? Because of its high tariff wall and a highly educated industrial population. Mr. Stevenson referred to the National policy as inaugurated by the late Sir John A. Macdonald and it has been in force virtually ever since, but has been modified to some extent. Under the Laurier regime we had protection, although it was generally conceded that the Liberal party was in favor of free trade. In the present campaign there are two defined policies. And what are these policies? The Progressive party headed by Mr. Crerar, and there was no class of men more prosperous than the farmers generally. They are able to add to their bank account yearly whilst such cannot be said of the artisan. With free trade policy, Canadian industries could not compete with the large industries which are established in the United States. The United States is full of industries that when it supplies that huge market they have a surplus and it would be a real heaven to have the pleasure of dumping it into Canada even half cost. What chance would a Belleville industry have with free trade. Crerar was a free trade artist out west but was a part protectionist when he came into Ontario.

He (the speaker) was not on the labor platform to-day because he could not support the platform enunciated by the parties outside of the government party.

For a quarter of a century he had been identified with the labor party and he thought industrial constituencies in Canada should have at least one representative in Parliament, and this can be done under a party system of government at Ottawa. Mr. Porter was not a seat warmer at Ottawa, as he took much interest in Parliament

PRINCIPALS OF LABOUR ARE DISCUSSED

and was ever ready to take part in the proceedings of the House. There were two candidates in West Hastings, one a U.F.O. and the other who has never changed his coat. All are interested in whether Canada has free trade or protection. We are not going to have free trade as the electors will decide on protection. Industries are coming to Canada because of the protective policy. The Columbia Phonograph Company has invested nine millions in Canada because of protection. The Government has been doing all it was possible to do for the people under the load it has been laboring under. It is a colossal undertaking. Canada is in its financial position to-day because of the patriotism of its people.

In conclusion Mr. Stevenson said he felt confident the Belleville working class would not fall for the policy of the Progressive party.

Sergt. McNamara

In his opening remarks, Sergt.-Major McNamara said he desired to approach the subjects under discussion in a dispassionate manner and to make a common appeal upon the questions that are confronting this nation to-day. A very important matter is that of our future prosperity. He (the speaker) was a labor man and was greatly interested in labor and he would be a traitor to the cause did he not expound the principles. What were the two great economic questions of to-day? Protection and free trade. The free trade theorists he had no use for. Sergt. McNamara drew vividly a picture of Canada with its millions of acres, its sea coasts and its undeveloped wealth. It was also confronted with other countries which we must not ignore. We have to the south of us, a mighty nation with its population of over 100 millions, whilst we in Canada number only about eight and a half million. That country was a keen competitor and we must look to our laurels.

In referring to the railway problem, the speaker stated that we had two transcontinental railways and the present government was not responsible for the financial position they got into and public ownership was the only and ultimate recourse. There were three leaders in the country at the present time, namely, Meighen, King and Crerar, and what are their policies? Meighen is for necessary and adequate protection; King, a reduction of the tariff and Crerar ultimately free trade. The question for all to answer was which of these policies is for the best interest of Canada. A question also to decide was how could the labor party affiliate with the U.FO Premier Drury of Ontario, is expounding the policy of Crerar. Is he a free trader? Is he not demanding free trade when he extolls the platform of the progressive leader. Mr. Crerar's platform was compared by the speaker as follows:

"We have three great departmental stores in Canada—Simpson, Eaton and the Grain Growers. The catalogue of the latter shows every implement they have catalogued is manufactured in the United States. How can labor affiliate with the U.F.O. with such a policy.

He (the speaker) was born and raised in a free trade country, but from a study of protection in the country of his adoption, he was in favor of protection, and a free trade advocator should be left at home. We want to see our industries protected, because if we had free trade it would mean ruin. Let us compare Canada and the United States, the former with a population of over one hundred million and only about eight million in Canada. What opportunity have Canadians against the billions that is invested in industries in the United States as against some millions in Canada. If we have free trade it means dumping into Canada the over surplus products of the U. S. Markets to the detriment of the Canadian workmen. Lower the bars of protection and the textile industry of Canada will go to the board. How long can we compete against such odds. Let us protect ourselves first.

Through the stamina of the Belgian, French and British navy to-day millions in Germany are engaged in industrial pursuits. Germany is not dealing in a scrap of paper to-day, it has to deal in gold. In speaking of Australia and its policy, the speaker said that Australia today is afraid of free trade as it can see in the Orient a mighty population which may be a menace to that country. Our welfare is to be judged by what action we take on December the 6th. Free trade did not make Great Britain great. It was the union of steel and coal, backed by her sea-power that made what she is to-day—(Applause). Are conditions better to-day than they were. Decidedly so. We want to place this country of ours where she belongs. What are we going to do. Some years ago a bill was introduced in Canada for $13,000,000 for a transcontinental railway which sum was to build it but it cost $300,000,000. This was a bill introduced by Hon. Mr. Fielding. Will we scrap that railway now? And will we scrap the war debt? No.—(Applause). These are conditions we are confronted with to-day in the public-ownership problem.

Let us play the game fair and honorable. We in Canada are purchasing a considerable amount from the United States and we have to pay a large amount for discount. He contended that a Canadian dollar was worth as much as a United States' dollar. Are the Grain Growers' Association playing a square game. From sworn evidence it was shown that in 1910 the Association placed in elevators 10,160,000 bushels of grain and took out 11,616,000 in 1920, over a million bushels of grain more was taken out than was put in. Were not the farmers making great profits during the war in disposing of their produce. Everybody was making profits except the man that was in the front line trenches. Will the working man support the government and will the returned men support the government that backed them ing his able address, the Sergt.-Major fortunate affair that labor and he U. F.O. are linked up together in this campaign. We must turn around and make a strategic retreat. In concluding struggle we are confronted with more said that after every great military struggle we re confronted with more or less with a disease and that disease is industrial stagnation. The heart of Europe to-day is torn by shot and shell and poisonous gasses.. Many of the countries are bankrupt by reason of the terrible struggle that was enacted. The intelligent man knows it is not a national but an international problem. This is not a question of Meighen or Porter, but an international question. Thank God that the shoulders of Canada are big and broad enough to carry the war debt.—(Applause). He wanted to see labor prosperous as when labor was prosperous we all prosper. Mackenzie King was fluctuating with the policy of the country as he did to the demands of the country in 1917 when the war was on and the demand for men was great. We want protection. Quebec was even demanding a higher protection than was protection Toronto.

Labor ideals are pure and clean, but labor will not be successful if it follows the idea of propounders who are only for class legislation. We must unite our efforts and place Canada where she properly belongs. Place your confidence in him who is carrying the flag of protection from one end of Canada to the other and is not deviating from that path.—(Loud Applause.)

The meeting was closed with the singing of the National Anthem after a vote of thanks had been tendered to the speakers.

MEDICAL HEALTH OFFICER SELECTED

Dr. Cronk Secures Position —Not Legal to Buy Land for Industrial Sites.

At the City Council meeting held Monday evening, the selection of a Medical Health Officer was made, the appoitment going to Dr. Cronk, who has been acting temporarily in that capacity. Dr. Wallbridge was a close contestant for the position.

The proposed bylaw to submit to the electors a proposition to raise $25,000 by debenture for the purchasing of property for industrial sites is in the opinion of the City Solicitor not a legal transaction. Some other business of a routine nature was transacted.

Members present: Mayor Hanna, Aldermen Bennett, Woodley, Fisher, Ostrom, Adams, French, Treverton, and Ballinger.

Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed.

Communications, reports, etc., were laid on the table and on motion the Council went into committee of the whole on reports, Ald. Adams in the chair.

REFUND OF TAXES

The committee voted to refund $20 to Mr. John Harte for overpayment on taxes. Ald. Ballinger objected to the rebate. The aldermen explained that he was ill when the Court of Revision sat.

Ald. Treverton favored no more rebates.

WOMEN'S CELL

Aldermen Bennett and French were appointed a committee to consider the advisability of building a women's cell in the police station. Ald. Bennett asked for engineer to join committee.

Ald. French wanted this matter laid over till next year as the funds in his department were rather low.

MEDICAL HEALTH OFFICER

A recommendation was presented that Dr. Cronk be appointed Medical Health Officer of the city.

Ald. Fisher moved an amendment the name of Dr. Wallbridge.

Ald. Bennett said he was four square for a returned man. Mayor Hanna, and Aldermen Woodley and Bennett spoke in support of Dr. Cronk, who was selected on the following vote:

For Cronk—Mayor, Aldermen Bennett, Woodley, French, and Treverton.

For Wallbridge—Aldermen Ostrom, Fisher, Ballinger, and Wensley.

Ald. Woodley asked the vote of the chairman, Ald. Adams, and he voted in favor of Dr. Cronk.

EXHIBITION TRAIN

A communication to the Council was read from Mr. H. C. Thompson and Mr. W. H. Millison, passenger traffic managers, expressing thanks to Mayor Hanna and Council for their action in facilitating the exhibition train of the Canadian National Railway, recently brought to Belleville.

UNEMPLOYED

The following letter from Hon. Mr. Biggs, Minister of Public Works and Highways, was read.

"Regarding your inquiry of November 17th re work for unemployed during the coming winter, I may say the Government's policy in connection with this matter is definitely defined, in that they are willing to pay one-third of the excess cost of work carried out under unemployment conditions and during the off season for construction that is to say your Engineering Department would be required to submit a plan and estimate of the proposed work under summer or normal conditions, and then to also furnish the department with an estimate of the work under unemployment and write conditions and after the estimates are considered proper the government will be willing to pay one-third of the difference in cost between the two estimates.

The following communication from City Solicitor Masson was read:

Your favor enclosing copy of a recommendation of the City Council viz that a bylaw be prepared and submitted to the solicitors at the Municipal election, authorizing the raising of $25,000 for the purpose of acquiring industrial sites received.

"I know of no authority for the City Council to pass any such bylaw or to invest any money for such purposes even if the bylaw was passed.

"I think the Council had better, if they wish to pass any such bylaw, obtain legislative authority to do so though in my opinion it is very doubtful if the Legislature would grant any such authority."

Council filed the recommendation.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

MARTHA—Housework and washing is only an excuse for red and ugly hands. I know a great many women who do all their own housework and yet have beautiful white hands. They use, what I use, CAMPANA'S ITALIAN BALM. It is the most wonderful thing in the world for preventing chapping and redness of the hands. I wouldn't be without it. Keep a bottle of CAMPANA'S ITALIAN BALM on your bathroom shelf and rub a little on your hands every time you have had them in water to do cleaning. It will soften and whiten them and will protect them from the wear and tear of housework. You can buy CAMPANA'S ITALIAN BALM at any Druggist. 40c a large bottle.

Transportation and Your Safety

CAR SHORTAGES have already developed at many of the coal mines of the United States. Without cars to load, the mines cannot produce; without production of coal, the welfare of the public cannot be conserved.

So far the shortages have not been serious in proportions, but with cold weather arriving, it can be expected that they will increase and may materially hinder the movement of coal.

Safety to your family can be secured by immediately stocking your coal. Coal prices will not decrease, and they may advance, if a transportation emergency arises.

SILKY PRACTICES THE GOLDEN RULE

"I'll die, I'll die, I'll surely die," this was the cry of poor Silky, the Monkey, as he stood in the river washing his eyes and his nose. "Oh, I want to see the King. I want to see the King of the forest."

He was feeling so badly that he didn't know what to say first. But that is the way everyone feels who comes in contact with Major Pole Cat. If Silky hadn't been so hasty in announcing himself he would not have been in the river trying to wash off the poison acid that Major threw on him. It was not the fault of the Forest Major for he was minding his own business. But Silky thinking that it was Jack the Rabbit, didn't stop to find out the truth in the matter.

"Oh, the more I wash the worse I smell," said Silky, and he began to cry. "Where is the King of the forest?"

Poor Silky's eyes smarted and the smell of that acid reminded him of the first time he ever saw Major Pole Cat. On the bank of the river sat Jack, the Rabbit, laughing as hard as he could laugh. "You will say you can catch me, will you," then he laughed some more. "I told you you couldn't catch me." Jack just laughed and shook his head to see that silly monkey out in the river trying to wash off the acid that Major had sprinkled on him.

"Wait till I get hold of you, I'll fix you for that," cried Silky.

"It isn't my fault that Major Pole Cat gave you a taste of his poison fluid. I told you that no creature in the forest could catch me and you said you could and you caught Major instead. You have no reason to be angry with me because you did not catch me."

"You had no business to run so fast that I couldn't see you anyway."

"It was your business to run fast enough to catch me so that I could not get out of sight." Then Jack laughed and laughed till his sides were sore, for it was a funny think to see that monkey in the river up to his knees blinking and then rubbing his eyes and sneezing, trying to get away from that terrible smell.

While Jack stood by watching he became so interested that he didn't notice any other creature about. But there was someone sneaking up on him and was making ready to catch him. It would have been better for him if he had watched his own business a little more than to laugh at the poor monkey.

Jack laughed and laughed till his sides were sore.

"Smack," and it was all over.

"Wow, wee," and Jack squealed as loud as he could. It was Red Fox who had pounced upon him unnoticed. He held poor Jack tight.

Presently Silky saw what had happened and went to the rescue. As he ran he picked up a stick at the river's edge and when he came within reach of Mr. Fox he beat him over the head with that stick till he was glad to let poor Mr. Rabbit go. This is the way Silky paid Jack for laughing at him. He saved the poor fellow's life.

A Kind Thoughtful Act

W. B.—I saw Captain Ruston on Saturday through the kindness of Mr. Forhan passing into the Griffin's Theatre the little kids from the Childrens Shelter and the Big Kids from the House of Refuge. Just like him always thinking of others pleasure.

Pity The Horses

B. B.—I saw many horses this morning slipping along on the icy slippery pavements barely able to keep their feet, and no doubt a number fell and received painful bruises. This is the season of the year when we must expect slippery roadways, especially the city pavements, and our horses should be provided with shoes that will grip and not slip. A bad fall and possibly a broken leg is often the penalty of not being prepared for weather changes. Lets remember that the horses have feelings as wil as humans

Let There be Light

P. Q.—Will some City Councillor please demand answers to the following questions in the interests of long suffering ratepayers who would like to know:

What was the cash deficit rolled up by the City Council 1920?

What was the reason for the enormous overdraft in the bank at the close of 1920?

What is the prospective surplus or deficit this year and why?

Is it the intention of the council this year to have a financial report before election day which even a child can understand?

If it is possible to get answers to those few questions there are some other things people would like to know.

When The Leaves Began to Fall

R. P.—Senator Corby's five thousand dollar gift to the city of Belleville for public swimming baths seems to be ignored entirely by the city council, following the example set by predecessors. Now this question was brought to a head by the Rotary Club and facts and figures presented to the City Council, but the proposal to start digging this year fell upon deaf ears. The council is still looking for more information on the subject and I understand that the city engineer was rapped over the knuckles for giving some of his time to the Rotary on the Corby baths question. Now before this council dies it would be nice to have something constructive from them, either in words or in deeds. They cannot do much on the Corby Baths construction this year but they might get the thing started with plans, specifications, etc., call for tenders and have everything ready for the next council to start digging in the spring. If this year's council wish to be remembered by what they have done they had better start doing something.

ONE OF MINER'S GEESE SHOT IN FAR LABRADOR

Windsor, Nov. 28.—For the first time since the institution of the method of marking wild geese on the Jack Miner farm at Kingsville, a tag has been received from Labrador. This was received by Manley Miner last week, it having been found on the leg of a goose shot in the far eastern district. Mr. Miner states that he has never before heard of the Canadian wild geese going so far east as the Labrador peninsula.

"THE SHARK MASTER" GRIPPING ADVENTURE PLAY

Although Frank Mayo's personal popularity is such that the mention of his name would be enough to fill the Regent theatre, where he is now appearing in his latest Universal photoplay "The Shark Master", he always insists on being surrounded by a splendid company of players. There may be some film stars who cannot stand comparison with good actors in their cast; but Mayo is such a finished artist himself, as well as a perfect physical specimen that he prefers not to shine by contrast with a weak supporting cast.

Lillian Rich, who plays the leading feminine role, came to America with a record of success on the London stage, and has made a name for herself on the American screen by her beauty, charm and talent.

The popular Western chapter play "Vanishing Trails", an amusing comedy, Pathe Review, "Jungle of the Juggernauts" an interesting animal play preceded the feature offering and proved entertaining.

EFFECTIVE PRESENTATION FOR GRIFFITH PICTURE

The wonder attraction of the contemporary stage is announced for presentation at the Griffin Theatre, where D. W. Griffith presents here for the first time on Thursday night, his great screen enlargement of "Way Down East" for an engagement of three days.

"Way Down East" is not a mere expanding of the stage play of the same name. Rather, the "Way Down East" that Griffith has provided is an idylic tale of plain and honest people and there is a distinct moral impressed—that of a single standard for conduct of men and women. The poor disconsolate girl who is turned out into a terrific storm is a pathetic figure, indeed, and when she is seen lying helpless on an ice floe, drifting toward a menacing fall, there is a thrill that gets each onlooker in its grip. In the nick of time she is saved from death and then pent up feeling comes forth in overwhelming applause, Lillian Gish, in the leading role, has achieved a success that at once places her in the foremost rank of American actresses. Richard Barthelmess, Mrs. Morgan Belmont, social leader, Creighton Hale., Kate Bruce, Vivia Ogden, Mary Hay, Burr McIntosh, George Neville, Edgar Nelson, Lowell Sherman, Porter Strong, Florence Short and others are seen.

As usual with a Griffith production there is a thematic score played by a large orchestra, and, the music is a succession of delightful melodies and impressive compositions, accentuating each situation.

The seats for 'Way Down East" go on sale at Griffin's as follows, for Thursday night—Wednesday morning; for Friday night—Thursday morning, and for Saturday night—Friday morning. The seats are not reserved for the Friday and Saturday matinee performances.

Efficient Housekeeping

BY Laura A. Kirkman

K. M. B.: Please tell me how to remove spots from pieces of ivory furniture which have been left near open windows."

Answer: Do you mean real ivory or ivory-colored paint? Real ivory may be bleached by wetting with alcohol or water and placing in the direct sunlight under glass This process being repeated until the desired degree of whiteness is obtained; but this bleaching is usually done when ivory has become yellowed, not to remove spots from it. If you refer to furniture painted ivory-white, washing with luke warm suds of a good white soap, then rinsing with a clear warm water, ought to remove the spots.

A Yearly Contributor: "My brown leather dining room chairs are covered with white fluff from the clothing people who sat on them in the hot weather. How shall I remove this fluff and how prevent the chairs from sticking to clothing next summer?"

Answer: Remove the fluff with a little gasoline and paint the chairs with white shellac.

Mrs. T.: "Is it necessary to call on ones hostess within two weeks after attending her bridge party? B, If so, how many cards are left? C, What other functions call for cards, and how many? D, Just when does a woman leave her husband's cards beside the first call?

Answer: 1, Yes. 2, One for the hostess. 3, A dinner, a breakfast, a luncheon, a musicale, an evening party of any sort (or an afternoon party) and after a wedding the guests call on the mother of the bride, and, later on the bride herself. 4, Only after her husband has been entertained along with herself.

Miss F. J. B.: "Kindly print recipes for Mexican Chile Con Carne and Orange Marmalade."

Answer: A recipe for the Chile Con Carne appeared in this column on October 1st. Get a back copy of this paper for that date. Here is the other recipe you wish:

Orange Marmalade: To make 6 glasses of it, take 6 large oranges, wash and weigh them. They should weigh around three pounds, and if this is so, set aside 2½ pounds of granulated sugar—to be added later. Slit the peel of the oranges into quarter sections and pull off this peel with the fingers, putting it into the preserving kettle with 1 quart of boiling water and letting it simmer for ½ hour—Drain the water from the peel and let it, the peel, cool slightly.

While the peel cools, wash out the kettle and put into it small pieces of the oranges from which you previously removed the peel; discard the seeds from the orange pulp, and also throw away the tough white fibre between the pulp section—although small pieces of it may, of course, remain in. Now, after putting the pulp from the entire six oranges into the kettle, add to it the thick white underpart of the cooked peel-quarters; it is this thick white which lies under an orange's skin that contains "pectin"—that substance which makes the marmalade thicken. Now take a pair of scissors and cut the peel into thin strips (add only half the amount of peel-quarters unless you like the marmalade bitter). Put the kettle on fire, bring to boiling point, all the sugar you set aside, and let boil for 2 hours then turn it into hot, sterilized glasses or jars and seal or cover with paraffine.

POLITICS WILL NOT MIX WITH BUSINESS.

If the farmers' organizations do not eliminate politics and the politicians from their business enterprises they will soon have no business. Politicians at fat salaries are working hard with their mouths while eating up the profits of farmers' business organizations, and their personal financial interest is so small that it is easy to see how much confidence they have in their own financial ability. The Grain Growers' candidate for Premier, Tom Crerar, is paid fifteen thousand dollars per year as president of the business organization; salaries from subsidiary companies are said to contribute another eight or ten thousand, and he draws four thousand dollars a year from the government for indemnity, besides a free railway pass. His principal business activity is talking and fighting against any inquiry into the business of the Grain Growers' Association until after election. If the farmers wish to retain their business they must divorce it from politics.

AN INVASION OF COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS

Although the people of Canada voted decisively against the reciprocity pact with the United States arranged by the Laurier Government some years ago, Mr. Fielding has not changed his mind about it and the general attitude of both Liberal and Progressive candidates indicates that if they are successful they will insist upon the reopening of negotiations with the Washington authorities. The feeling in the United States is so strongly protectionist at the present time that it would be necessary for the Canadian government to agree to sweeping reductions in the duties on manufactured goods and perhaps to unrestricted reciprocity in order to secure free admission of Canadian farm products into the United States. The feeling of the Liberal and Progressive politicians is so strongly in favor of freer trade with the United States that there would be grave danger that they would completely abandon the protective policy for the sake of reciprocity.

If unrestricted reciprocity were arranged between Canada and the United States nearly every manufacturing establishment in the United States would send commercial travellers into Canada within six weeks after the reciprocal arrangement was put into effect.

Compare the number of factories in the United States with the number in Canada and the amount of capital invested in American industries with the amount invested in Canadian industries and consider what this would mean to Canada. It is a low estimate to say that the number of commercial travellers in Canada representing American industries would soon be ten times as great as the number representing Canadian industries. The Canadian commercial travellers might be energetic and pushing, but one Canadian traveller could not hope to take as many orders from Canadian merchants as ten Americans could.

The wealthy manufacturers of the United States could also afford to spend much greater amounts of money in advertising their wares in Canada than the Canadian manufacturers could and this would help their travellers to get orders.

Every order given by Canadian merchants to American commercial travellers would mean additional work for men employed in the factories of the United States and less work for men employed in the factories of Canada. The workmen employed in the factories of the United States making the goods ordered by Canadian merchants, would eat food produced by American farmers. The workmen thrown out of employment by the closing down of Canadian factories would starve or leave the country. Canadian farmers bringing vegetables, fruits, eggs and dairy products to market would have to take them home again or allow the unemployed Canadian workmen to have them for nothing as they would have no money to buy them.—Watson Griffin.

CRISP COMMENT

Canadian industries and Canadian workmen are passing through one of the most critical periods in their history. Tight money, overproduction, and a big slackening of buying by the public has forced many industries to reduce their staffs and wages. The storm will only be weathered by whole-souled co-operation—a strong, hard pull together. How dangerous then is the agitation to lower Canada's protective tariff and lower the bars to a flood of foreign goods. Canada's industrial stability rests on the permanence of a protective tariff. No worse time could be chosen to talk about lowering the tariff.

Peter Wright, the British Labor leader, wrote to Premier Meighen to express his conviction that "the policy for which you (the premier) stand is the only practical solution at the moment to tide Canada through this crisis. Otherwise Canada will become a mere adjunct for the purpose of dumping the surplus commodities of the U. S. A."

The Ottawa Journal says: "The question, therefore, which the average Canadian must ask himself is this: "if, with the tariff in existence, and bringing 33 per cent. of the total revenue, we face a deficit of 62 millions in a year, what would happen under a condition which reduced tariff revenue by at least 100 millions?"

To the students in a girls' college in Baltimore, Md., was put the question: "On how small an income do you think a young couple could safely marry?" The amounts mentioned in the replies averaged about $48 a week. It is safe to say that the parents of most of these girls began their married life with incomes considerably less than that, says the Hamilton Herald.

The woman heckler was too much for Mr. T. A. Crerar in Brantford. When he was heckled by a woman auditor, who asked him if the purchase of American farm machinery by the United Grain Growers did not have the effect of throwing operatives of Brantford factories out of work, the Progressive leader was 'stumped.' Someone on the platform whispered some suggestion to Mr. Crerar, but he turned and replied in an aside: "I can't fight against a lady."

ENGLISH IN MOSCOW

Buffalo Express

A visitor to the Soviet Government bureaus in Moscow is likely to hear the English language spoken more frequently than any other tongue. Refugees from the old czarist regime who lived in England and America, deportees from the United States and others who willing left English-speaking countries to take part in the great communist experiment, found English the best for general communication, and so its use grew. The leaven of the language of freemen may yet aid in breaking up the Russian clod.

COMMON SENSE

Vancouver Province

Election prospects do not authorize any candidate to seek support on the ground that his party is sure of success in the coming election. No party is sure of success. The prospects are against any party obtaining a clear majority of seats in the next Parliament. The Liberal press asserts that Mr. Meighen does not expect or claim a majority over all opponents. The Toronto Globe, which be as good Liberal authority as any, claims ninety-six seats for Mr. Mackenzie King. this is twenty-two seats short of a majority. The Farmer's party is not strong on prediction and is awarded all the way from thirty to a hundred seats by various authorities. In view of these uncertainities it will be well for the voter not to vote on the prospect of parties. Wisdom and patriotism alike suggest that men and women vote for the party which in their opinion deserves to win.

LAND OF OUR BIRTH

Land of our birth, we pledged to thee
Our love and toil in the years to be,
When we are grown and take our place
As men and women with our race,
Father in Heav'n, who lovest all,
Oh, help Thy children when they call,
That they may build from age to age,
An undefiled heritage.

Teach us delight in simple things,
And mirth that has no bitter springs
Forgiveness free of evil done,
And love of our birth, our faith, our pride,
For whose dear sake our fathers died,
O motherland, we pledge to thee,
Head, heart and hand thro' the years to be!

Teach us to look in all our ends,
On Thee for judge and not our friends,
That we with Thee may walk uncowed
By fear or favor of the crowd,
Teach us strength that cannot seek,
By deed or thought, to hurt the weak,
That under Thee we may possess
Man's strength to comfort man's distress.

One of the Tallest

A lieutenant of an English regiment stationed in Africa was hunting for big game. He was fearless, but for some reason he hesitated to shoot at the great lioness that approached.

Nearer and nearer she came, and was limping. The big-hearted soldier took out the thorn that he saw was in her foot, and she limped away gratefully, and the Britisher forgot the incident.

Not so with her ladyship. She returned the next night, looked over the roster of the regiment, and ate every officer that ranked higher than the lieutenant, who was, therefore, by her act of gratitude, made a colonel.

Letters to The Editor

WORK AND ORGANIZE

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir,—

Not long since a letter of mine appeared in your valuable journal in reference among other things, to our excessively heavy taxation for municipal purposes claiming also that this condition brought about by the mismanagement and extravagance of the present and other Councils of recent years coupled with the big ideas of our school board, including the expense of its frills and foibles was causing a state of stagnation in our city, especially in the matters of building operations and influx of population. In confirmation of my claim that excessive taxation has the effect mentioned, I quote the following from the editorial columns of the Toronto Globe of November 5th, 1921.

"The way in which New York City is overcoming the housing shortage is a lesson in taxation for all communities. The situation last year was so critical that a special session of the Legislature was called to try to find a remedy. While the rent law gave the tenant some protection and prevented evictons, it was not a stimulant to building. In restraining the greed of landlords, it probably restrained also the erection of houses.

A bill was introduced at the special session of 1920 providing for the exemption from taxation for ten years of dwellings begun before April 1, 1922, and completed before April 1, 1924. The bill was permissive, leaving it to the various municipalities to determine whether they would apply it or not. The city of New York early this year adopted the principle, but limited the exemption to $5,000 per house or apartment. In no case was the exemption to exceed $1,000 per room. The effect was immediate and decisive. Between February 26 and October 1? this year plans were filed for dwellings to house 38,500 families at an estimated cost of $189,000,000. Eighty-five per cent. of this construction is in progress. If the same ratio is maintained until March next, accommodation will have been provided for 260,000 people.

The defect of the plan is, of course that it gives one group of property owners a special privilege for a period. But it is being used as an argument against the system which taxes land and buildings in the same rate. It proves that the way to promote building is to reduce its burden."

Although one might not endorse to its fullest extent for Belleville the policy adopted in New York as shown in the above it serves to prove that a low tax vote acts as a stimulant to building operations, and that is what we want in our city in order to attain the measure of prosperity that we should expect.

Mr. Flint's letter which appeared in your issue of November 22nd has the same bearing. He says, speaking of an individual with whom he appears to be well acquainted, "He prospered and acquired many real estate properties and helped to build up the city. Now, for some time he has been selling his properties as rapidly as possible. He has offered by advertisement all of his real estate on almost any terms. He is determined to get rid of every foot of land in the city." Then Mr. Flint puts the interrogation, "Why?" and refers his readers to my letter, mentioned herein, for the answer which he sums up in two words namely "Heavy Taxation." And there are many others trying their best to sell also as well as the individual Mr. Flint alludes to.

Now, Mr. [illegible] is not only serious, but it [illegible] alarming and the question [illegible] what are we going to do about it. Whatever is accomplished to remedy this state of affairs must be done through our municipal council. Therefore if we fail to elect a council with good ability for municipal business and with ideas of judicious economy we will continue to remain a prey of all sorts of extravagance and mismanagement resulting in another boost in taxation in 1922.

It seems to the writer that "if the proposed Real Estate Owners' Association could be formed with a large membership it would be an important medium for the purpose of selecting and electing proper persons for next year's council. I see that Mr. Flint in his letter says, "If you real estate owners desire to save your city, get to work and organize."

This is good advice, but perhaps some of the property owners would prefer to save the fifty cents membership fee and lose fifty dollars in excessive taxes in 1922. This organization if established will take a hand in discussing municipal affairs and will act also as advisors to the council with probably good results.

In closing I may mention that over three hundred property owners have signed the membership requisition, but the desire is to get a thousand eventually. There are only a few days left for signatures previous to organization, which will take place almost immediately after the Dominion election. The date of organization will be announced in the papers.

FUN, FAST AND FURIOUS IN THE COLLEGE GIRL

Joyous Riot of Music and Fun Marks Latest Production of Belleville's Talented Amateurs

Belleville has had many amateur theatrical productions in the past with varying degrees of merit, generally high; but it is safe to say that "The College Girl" presented at Griffin's Theatre Monday evening caps all its predecessors in genuine worth. It is well acted, well staged and is admirably adapted to the talents of the company which presents it. The presentation is under the auspices of The Argyll Chapter I.O.D.E. and officers of that organization occupied boxes draped with the Union Jack. During the course of the evening a wealth of flowers in beautiful bouquets of roses, chrysanthemums, etc., passed over the footlights to the principals from admirers in the audience.

The first night of "The College Girl" was a triumph for all concerned and especially the director, Mr. W.L. Doyle who has produced some very fine dramatic entertainments in Belleville but none quite as good as this one. The performance was smooth and remarkably free from first night nervousness and breaks and the audience had one long evening of genuine enjoyment, with splendid music, laughs a-plenty and pretty stage pictures.

The cast was remarkably well-balanced and the principals took their respective parts with a natural grace which evidenced talent and careful training.

Mrs. A. P. Allen, as Betty Gardiner the Professor's ward, had the leading part, and a very congenial one, she was the pivot of the entire play and sang and acted like a professional. Mrs. Allen's solos were particularly well rendered and it is doubtful if she ever sang better.

Mr. Bob Gorman, Mr. W. L. Doyle and Mr. Fred Sprague, the chief funmakers, were always there with the merry materials and took their parts well. Mr. Jack McGie as Peddlar Benson working his way through college by the alarm clock route was all to the good, as were Mr. James Booth, Mr. Jack Williams, L. Manley, H. G. Davison, Mrs. Russell Baker, Mrs. Jack Wiliams, Miss Jeffreys, in the speaking parts and all the merry bunch of co-eds, college boys and dancing girls.

Miss Ponton as Aunt Minerva Boulder, for twenty years on the trail of a base deceiver and now a man-hater of the sourest type, gave a finished character performance of a very laughable person, and her solos were well rendered and appropriate.

Miss Ivy Dickens, as Petunia Muggins, queen of the kitchen, was perfect in the role, and Miss Eva Davis as Olga Stopski, recently from Russia, made a distinct hit with her acting and singing. Miss Davis has a very pleasing voice and her solo was one of the choice bits of the evening.

Mr. Jack Williams, another newcomer to the local footlights made a hit in a vocal number with dance accompaniment by Mrs. Williams, which was exceedingly well done.

Miss Gwen Lazier in The Butterfly Dance was graceful and clever and the violin solo of Mr. Harry Adaskin, of Toronto, was a musical treat. As an encore Mr. Adaskin played The Rosary and the audience were loath to permit him to leave the stage, so pleased were they with his exceptional talent.

The Plantation Melody by Mrs. Allen and male quartette was one of the outstanding hits of the evening.

An interesting feature of the evening was the presentation to Musical Director D. M. Clarke, of a handsome ebony baton. The presentation was made from the box by Mrs. (Col.) Vanderwater on behalf of Argyll Chapter, I.O.D.E., and marked the appreciation of the ladies of the Chapter for Mr. Clarke's faithful and efficient service as musical director.

ST. ANDREW'S DAY.

Scotsmen all over the world will celebrate the national festival on the thirtieth of November. On the evening of the thirtieth Scottish societies will hold a festival, upon which occasion the haggis will be paraded with due ceremony and be treated to speeches of extraordinarily high order. For with all due respect to the native reserve of Scotsmn there can be no For, with all due respect to the native reserve of Scotsmen there can be no are dealing with the glories of their national inheritance. But it must not be forgotten that the distinctive character of Scottish oratory depends upon the strong ethical quality which is usually in evidence, a moral glow which sheds its beneficent warmth upon the Scotsman's audience. Turning over the pages of Lord Rosebery's memoirs, one is everywhere impressed with this. In dealing with his great fellow-Scotsman, Chalmers, Rosebery says:

"Oratory must have been one main secret of his amazing power. Energy was another. Tenderness, the tenderness of sympathy, was another. But his base was character. Through all the splendors of his speech, through all his powerful and voluminous writings, there flamed the glow of a living soul, a supreme, unquenchable, fervent soul. For him Christianity was everything; his faith inspired every action of his life, every moment of his day, every word that he uttered, every letter that he wrote. That was the real secret of his power that drew all hearts, willingly or unwillingly, to him and that gave a mystery of inspiration to his discourse."

Lord Rosebery has mentioned distinctive Scottish characteristics, oratory, energy, the tenderness of sympathy and character, and the greatest of these is character. Not all Scotsmen have it, but it is pre-eminently a Scottish national trait. Moody used to describe character as what a man is in the dark, not what he says, but what he is; not what he does in the public eye, but the intention of his soul; not whether he passed muster with the crowd, but whether he won the approval of his own conscience.

The Scottish people have been lovers of good literature, and this has unquestionably been a real factor in the making of character, for Scottish and English literature generally until the last dozen years or so has been clean, wholesome and strongly ethical. Who can judge the effect on the reading public of Scotland of Sir Walter Scott, Robert Louis Stevenson, Robert Burns and Thomas Carlyle! And who can judge the effect upon Scottish character of the deeper influence of the Scottish kirk and parish minister's sermon.

The Scots are, at their best, profoundly and movingly religious people. Lachlan Maclean Watt, writing as a chaplain at the front, depicts a scene behind the lines which if not typically Scotch, is at least illustrative of their attitude in moments of high solemnity. After describing the dirty, draughty hut to which he expected at most a score, he says some of the men asked him to wait a while, for some of the Camerons and Seaforths might be coming. So they waited, and the solemn hush was broken by the crooning of old psalm memories. When the service began, a communion service, it was the twenty-third Psalm, the psalm of shepherding, the comradeship of the Divine in the valley of the shadow, the faith and the hope of the brave. They sang it very tenderly as their fathers had sung it, in quiet places, and by foreign streams, when to be true to the faith committed to them meant outcasting, exile and death. One always needs some background such as this to understand the real significance of St. Andrew's Day.—Kingston Whig.

COULD WELL RECALL HAPPENINGS OF 1812

Bridgeburg, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Margaret Clark, the oldest resident along the Canadian Niagara frontier, was buried here, aged 115 years. Mrs. Clark, who was colored was the daughter of an escaped slave, who fled from the South and settled in Canada about 118 years ago. She could clearly recall the war of 1812, and the burning of Buffalo in 1814. She remembered Buffalo when it was but a small village, and could vividly recall the Fenian Raid, the Mackenzie Rebellion, Mackenzie's flight across the river at this point, and events connected with the Civil War.

Her husband, who was the village barber of Fort Erie at a time when the village had 20 saloons, a boxing arena and races six months of the year died several years ago.

CHARITY BALL A SPLENDID SUCCESS

Over One Hundred Couples Enjoy Delightful Program of Dances.

The Charity Ball held in Johnstone's Academy on Monday evening under the auspices of the Belleville Medical Association and Nurses, was a splendid success. Dancing started at 9 p.m. and there were about one hundred couples present who thoroughly enjoyed the program, judging by the way they danced. A splendid program of music was furnished by the Sills' eight-piece orchestra. Encores were frequently demanded and were accorded without any delay, which was greatly appreciated.

At midnight a dainty, substantial luncheon was served by the many stewards, who were as follows: Drs. Boyce, Tennent, Blakslee, Faulkner, Forrester, Cronk, Hill, Daly, Tower, McCulloch, Wallbridge, Chant, Branscombe, Denyes and Stobie. Dancing was again indulged in at the conclusion of the luncheon and continued well into the early hours.

The large ball room was tastefully and appropriately decorated with many red streamers, red shades over the electric lights and several large red crosses were placed at various points about the hall. Everyone present seemed to enjoy to the full the whole evening and declare the Charity Ball a great success.

The following are the officers of the Association who deserve a great deal of credit for the arranging of the whole affair: Dr. J. J. Robertson, Pres., Francis E. Hamilton, Sec., Margaret Tait, Treas.

The patronesses for the evening who looked after the strangers and saw to it that everyone had a good time were: Dr. Connor, Mesdames Boyce, Tennent, Blakslee, Faulkner, Forrester, Cronk, Hill, Daly, McCulloch, Tower, Wallbridge, Chant Branscombe Denyes and Stobie.

Got No Sleep

But now the neuritis has gone, the pains have ceased, the nervous system is restored and the writer of this letter pays a grateful tribute to the medicine which made him well.

Mr. John Woodward, P.T.O., Lucan, Ont., writes:

"It gives me much pleasure to recommend Dr. Chase's medicines, especially the Nerve Food. I was a sufferer from neuritis for several years, and tried all kinds of remedies, yet never seemed to get any better. At last my nerves and whole system seemed to give way through not being able to get any rest or sleep at nights for pain, which mostly used to take me in all parts of the limbs and feet. My nerves would twitch till my whole body would seem to jerk right up as I lay in bed. Almost at the point of despair, I decided I would get Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which I did, and after taking twenty boxes I believe myself almost normal again. I also keep a box of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills on hand, and for the past year I seem to enjoy my usual health."

Hints for the Motorist

Inadequate Fuel Feed

Sometimes An Engine Runs Badly Because It Is "Underfed."

IF AN ENGINE FAILS to pull as it should, when wide open or running at high speed and perhaps misses, fires back into the carburetor and discloses any play in its bearings by knocking, and if these symptoms are especially pronounced on long, severe hills, and in extreme cases the engine even stops entirely, there may be a number of explanations for these shortcomings, but it should not be forgotten that they may be accounted for on the ground that gasoline does not reach the carburetor at a sufficient rate to meet the maximum demand. When compression, ignition and carburetor adjustment all are satisfactory, inadequate fuel feed becomes a very plausible diagnosis, and when this trouble is suspected this test should be made: Open the draw-off in the bottom of the carburetor bowl, hold a receptacle under it and see if gasoline will escape at the full rate that the supply pipe should afford, until at least a pint has run out. If it only trickles or runs freely for an instant and then nearly stops, the feed is insufficient and the cause may be one of the following derangements: An obstructed filter screen, foreign matter in the piping, or a plugged-up vent hole in the supply tank (in a gravity flow system). Inability of a vacuum tank to keep itself supplied with gasoline, owing to weak vacuum also produces the same result.

ENGINE IS WEAK ON HIGH GEAR

W. R. J. writes: My Ford car runs all right on low gear, but when it is put into high, the engine back-fires and stops. What do you think is wrong?

Answer: The most usual cause of back-firing and weak pulling power is that the engine receives an overlean mixture, which may be due to faulty carburetor adjustment., an obstruction in the carburetor or fuel line or to an air leak in the engine intake system. Very little throttle opening and very little gasoline are required to make the engine run the car on low gear, but as soon as high gear is engaged, the throttle has to be opened further and there is a call for more gasoline, and if there is anything which restricts the amount of fuel passing through the carburetor, the mixture almost immediately becomes too weak and the engine "spits" and soon stalls. You better make sure that gasoline reaches and passes through the carburetor freely, that the magneto is up to full strength and that there is no unusual "drag," to overload the engine, when high-gear is engaged.

HIGH AND LOW SPEED ENGINES

R. H. S. asks: Why do some vehicle engines run at higher speed and develop more power than others of the same bore and stroke? What are the advantages and disadvantages of high and low speed engines?

Answer: The faster an engine runs, the more explosions it is making per minute and the more fuel is being converted into power. Assuming that its valves are large enough and that its moving parts are sufficiently light and well balanced, the horsepower of a given engine increases almost directly with its speed, through a wide range. By gearing an engine to the driving wheels so that it turns say five times to each rear wheel turn instead of three times, for instance, the engine turns over considerably faster at all car speeds, the power developed is greater at all car speeds and the engine so geared ranks as a high speed one. With such a low gear-ratio, a small engine can do the same work as a larger one geared higher, with fully as good fuel efficiency, but theoretically, at least, it will wear out sooner. The lighter the engine the less the dead vehicle weight and the smaller its size, the more useful room in the car.

Questions of general interest to the motorist will be answered by Mr. Clough in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

PRINCE DROVE IN GEM-STUDDED CAR

Cheering Thousands Crowd to Catch Glimpse of Royal Guest.

Baroda, India, November 28.—The Prince of Wales is experiencing his first taste of the opulence and splendor of Indian princes as the guest of the Gaekwar of Baroda, one of the most powerful native rulers whose resources are said to be almost unfathomable and whose yearly income is placed at many millions of dollars.

The Gaekwar's son, Prince Jasingh, was educated at Harvard and his allowance was so great as to make him a sort of mysterious Monte Cristo among his less fortunate comrades.

It is a novel experience even for the heir to the throne for the world's greatest empire, for undoubtedly no present-day monarch has at his disposal the facilities for such gorgeous display and pomp as the Gaekwar and many other Indian potentates who will play host to their future sovereign.

The Prince's train drew up at the station today amidst the thunder of cannon, and awaiting him was the Gaekwar himself, with his shining retinue. From there the young prince was driven in a barouche scintillating with gold and jewels through the elaborately decorated streets in which cheering thousands crowded to catch a glimpse of the heir to the imperial throne.

Gun of Gold

It was a most imposing procession. At one point were arranged the famous battery of gold and silver guns with silver carriages and richly caparisoned horses, together with six colossal elephants bearing silver and gilded thrones, each one of which represented a fortune.

The procession was followed by the durbar (as the official reception is called), which took place in Durbar Hall, with its carpets of gold and walls of marble and teak. Everywhere gorgeously attired dignitaries participated in the state ceremonies reserved for British royalty.

During the afternoon there was a garden party in the spacious grounds of the palace, where Indian musicians, acrobats and dancers entertained. The Prince also was shown the crown jewels and saw displayed the glittering mass of gems of inestimable value.

Tonight the city was illuminated on the same scale of lavish magnificence. For hours the capital was a blaze of colored fires, with the city's multitudes wandering in the midst of glowing colonnades, minarets and pylons.

This is a sample of what the Prince of Wales is expected to meet throughout India.

PRINCE AT UDAIPUR

Udaipur, India, November 25.—The Prince of Wales on his tour of India camped here today. He was tendered a banquet by the Maharana of Udaipur, which was given with the customary magnificance of Indian feasts.

Replying to a toast to his health, the Prince made an appropriate speech, which was filled with historical allusions to India. He recalled the unwavering friendship of the Rajput states and the valuable services rendered by the Maharana during the world war.

GERMAN WORKMEN BETTER PAID NOW

Than Prior to the War, and Working Shorter Hours.

Coblenz, Germany, Nov. 29.—Workmen in most parts of Germany are said now to be receiving better wages everything considered, than prior to the war, and working shorter hours. This is particularly true of the occupied area, according to American army officers who in their line of duty have come in contact with the German working classes.

That the workmen is able to live better under present conditions is due, in large measure, to the fact that strict regulations of food prices has been enforced by German authorities and has prevented shopkeepers from boosting the cost of the necessities of life, despite depreciation in the value of the mark. The regulations apply chiefly to house rent, meat, potatoes and other staples produced within the country.

Many luxuries have increased in price, especially within the last few weeks when the mark took a tumble; but the currency fluctuation has not materially affected food in the markets patronized by the working classes.

100 Marks Fair Wage

One hundred marks a day is considered a fair wage for the average working man, skilled workmen and miners receiving considerably more, some as high as 200 marks per day, while the common laborer makes but 50 to 60 marks for eight hours.

Professors in the universities and school teachers maintain that they have not fared so well as the working man, receiving on an average of less than 80 marks a day.

Since the war, the Germans do not eat as much meat as formerly, potatoes forming the principle article of food. Dark bread in three pound loaves is sold for 7 marks, this being a mixture resembling rye bread as made in America. It is considered very wholesome and it is eaten by many Americans, among them Major General Henry T. Allen, commander of the American forces in Germany, who has it on his table at home at every meal.

The Fate of the Dominion rests in the hands of The Women of Canada

WOMEN OF CANADA—Today you hold the greatest power ever held by the women of any nation in the history of the world. The fate of the Dominion rests in your hands. The whole outside world is watching what you will do with your vote, watching to see whether you are going to let Canada lose in peace what she gained in War.

Through the long struggle of the war you proved yourselves equal with men in stern, unselfish patriotism and fervent devotion to duty. In war you gave your husbands, sons, brothers, lovers and carried Canada over the top. In peace you are to decide whether Canada is to become the great nation for which your men fought and gave their lives, or whether uncertainty, unrest and discord are to prevail.

In the days that are past, Canada's progress has been hampered by different factions pulling in different directions. East and West, Quebec and Ontario, farm and factory, labor and capital, various races and creeds, have all been acting in opposition, selfishly, and to the disadvantage of the nation as a whole.

WOMEN OF CANADA—in this election you can compel all the factions in the Dominion to pull together. With all communities and interests from the Atlantic to the Pacific acting in unison and in harmony, Canada will take its rightful place as one of the foremost nations of the world.

The only thing that can hold back Canada's prosperity is lack of national unity. WOMEN—Vote for a united Canada—compel unity. United, Canada is safe; divided, Canada faces the financial collapse that is at present engulfing half the world.

MEIGHEN is the leader of the Government which gave you the vote. He is the only leader in Canada today who stands firm for policies which are a guarantee of unity, for policies which have respect for the interests of all classes. His policies will conserve the home, give employment to your bread-winners, and ensure security and prosperity for farm and factory, forest and mine, for the whole country.

Women of Canada

Here is an appeal written specially for this advertisement by Arthur Meighen. Read it, think for yourselves, and go to the polls. Don't let it be said that Canadian women don't care — that Canadian women won't vote.

My Special Appeal To Women

To the Women of Canada, I make this especial appeal. I ask you to earnestly and thoroughly study the great issues that now confront the country, and to conscientiously seek a personal decision, refusing steadfastly to be moved by reckless appeals, or by the cry of prejudice or by class appeal. I ask you to review my record and if you find my past and present stand on the great questions concerning the Dominion's National policies acceptable, I ask you not only to vote for my candidate in your constituency but to exert all possible influence on his behalf. The Government which extended the franchise to the Women of Canada invites you to help to build up that which was torn down by the War and to take your proper share of the responsibilities in shaping the destinies of your country.

I ask the Women of Canada to destroy definitely and forever the plans of those who, through selfish motives, attempt to unbalance the people of Canada and thus wreck the unity which made it possible for us to take such a valiant part in the great War.

I ask the Women of Canada to force that unity which will be abiding, which will result in permanent prosperity for all classes, and which will make Canada the envy of the world—that unity which is my one aim and ambition.

WERE NEARLY DROWNED

When the boat in which Emery Slate, Jr., and son, Robert, of Alexandria Bay, were fishing off Hayden's Island a few days ago, was overturned through the shifting of a heavy bait can, both had a narrow escape from drowning. Elmer, Charles and Clark Patterson noticed their predicament and succeeded in getting them ashore Mr. Slate is caretaker of Hayden's Island.

FARMER ENDED LIFE

In a fit of despondency, Robert Summers, a resident of the vicinity of Balderson, Lanark country, a few days ago, practically blew his head off with a gun. He was about 50 years of age and had been brooding for some time past.

APPOINTED INSPECTOR

T. C. Smith, M.A., principal of the Gananoque High School, has been appointed inspector of public schools for Lanark County by the County Council. He succeeds F. L. Mitchell, who retires at the end of the present year. The salary is $3,000.

BURGLARS AT KINGSTON

Two hold-up men entered the home of Mrs. Clarke at 380 Brock street, shortly after four o'clock on Saturday afternoon, held her up, secured about $25 and made their escape while the police, who had been summoned by a Central telephone operative, were disentangling themselves from an acident at the corner of Brock and Barrie streets, in which their auto had been smashed into by one owned by Edward Aiken. Mr. Aiken was the only one hurt in the mishap. Thus the element of fate entered into the happening in at least two places, first when the telephone operator notified the police after hearing Mrs. Clarke's cries for help, and when Aiken's auto smashed into the police patrol.—Kingston Standard.

TOWNSHIP PAYS

Judge Lavell has given his decision in favor of the plaintiff in the Vanluven-Township of Bedford action for damages, which aroused much interest at Verona where it was heard before the Division Court two weeks ago. The plaintiff sued the township for damages to his automobile caused by the township's placing clay on the road, which when wet, became so slippery as to make it impossible to control his auto, which swerved from the travelled highway and hit a rock adjoining it with rather disastrous results. Judgment, reserved at the time, has been given for $100 and costs. Other actions against the township on account of bad roads, were heard at the same sitting but for the most part they failed.—Kingston Standard.

SUMMONED TO APPEAR

County Constable R. C. Smith was in Welcome last week investigating the shooting affray which took place there on Hallowe'en whereby Austin Chestnut was so seriously injured that his leg had to be amputated. As a result of this investigation Edward Martin has been summoned to appear in Court next Wednesday on a charge of shooting with intent to cause bodily harm.—Port Hope Guide.

AUTOMOBILE BURNED UP

The engine, chassis and tires are practically all that remain of Mr. Herbert Lingard's five passenger McLaughlin car. When driving near Newtonville on Saturday Mr. Lingard's car suddenly burst into flames and before the fire could be extinguished the body of the car was practically destroyed. The fire was caused by a short circuit at the battery. It is estimated that the cost of repairing will reach nearly four hundred dollars.—Port Hope Guide.

DIED OF INJURIES

After suffering for a week from terrible injuries received as a result of an accident, Patrick Dommic Fitzpatrick, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Hillary Fitzpatrick, West Ops, passed away Saturday. The deceased was helping to fill a silo when a barn door blew over, crushing him against a pile of stones.—Port Hope Guide.

WOMAN ELECTORS BUSY

Belleville women are showing more interest in the campaign as election day approaches. Monday afternoon there was a large attendance of women electors in the Oddfellows Hall at a meeting called in the interests of E. Guss Porter, K.C. The President Mrs. J. McFee occupied the chair and presided over a very interesting meeting. After a brief address by Mrs. I. E. Bowell, a very interesting speech was made by Mr. R. J. Stevenson, of Toronto, a former resident of Belleville, who outlined some of the principal issues of the campaign. Refreshments were served and a very interesting round table conference was held in which many confusing matters to women voters were explained. Another similar meeting will be held on Wednesday at the same place.

COE HILL IN LINE

At Coe Hill Monday evening a meeting was held in the interest of E. Guss Porter, K.C., the Conservative candidate. The hall was packed to the doors and the addresses were listened to with close attention and applause was frequent and hearty showing that candidate Porter is popular in that section. Mr. Porter made a splendid speech and effectively disposed of campaign canards and half truths which are being used in the whispering gumshoe campaign against him.

QUITE SATISFIED WITH SALES TAX

Do Not Think It Has Been a Deterrent on Business in Canada.

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 28.—Judging by the contentment of the Toronto Manufacturers' Association it is more than probable that when the United States congressmen visit Ottawa in quest of first-hand information as to the value and work-ability of Canada's sales tax, they will be advised that it is not only a good revenue producer but one of the fairest methods of securing revenue that is known.

Revenue from this source has been running around $6,000,000 a month.

The tariff and tax expert of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association states that this form of taxation has apparently proven fairly satisfactory to the Canadian manufacturers, and, so far as he is aware, has not been a deterrent in any sense upon business. The luxury taxes, however, which were abolished after being tried out for several months, were a distinct deterrent upon business, and with their removal manufacturers appear to be quite satisfied with the present state of affairs.

A Loophole

Under the operation of the present sales taxes, the consumer does not pay any sales tax directly. At the same time it cannot be said that the consumer pays this tax indirectly or ultimately for it is inevitable that in a movement of merchandise from manufacturer to wholesaler that at least 1 per cent. of the sales tax is absorbed before the consumer has been reached. In articles of manufacturer or merchandise which are sold to consumers at a standard price this 1 per cent. must be absorbed and paid by either the manufacturer or the wholesaler, but in case where the price of goods may be varied there is a loophole through which the consumer can be made to pay in the higher price. On the whole, however, the sales tax is a tax rather on production than upon consumption.

In this country the revenue from the sales tax would be many times the larger figure than it is were it not for the long list of important exemptions which are now in force. These exemptions upon which no sales tax is imposed include, generally speaking, foodstuffs, farm products, fuel, bread, flour and wheat, fruits, vegetables, sugar, hay and straw, butter, milk and fresh meats, etc. In addition there is no sales tax on all articles of production for export, but this exemption is counter balanced by the tax on imports.

CROWD OF CRIPPLES BESIEGES SURGEON

Police Reserves Needed to Control Line Before New York Hospital.

New York, Nov. 26.—Cripples—in wheel chairs, in automobiles and on crutches—stormed the Hospital for Joint Diseases to-day when Dr. Adolph Lorenz, famous Austrian surgeon, held the first of a series of clinics for the city's deformed. So great was the congestion, and so eager the patients to be near the head of the long line, that hospital authorities found it necessary to summon police reserves to handle the crush.

An hour before the towering, grey-bearded surgeon arrived, more than 200 persons had taken their places in line. Automobiles and wheel chairs lined the street outside.

Dr. Lorenz performed one operation to rectify a condition of knock knee in a 19-pear-old boy, chiselling through the bone and re-setting it, then encasing the patient from shoulders to feet in a plaster cast. Following the operation, which was watched by scores of surgeons, Dr. Lorenz proceeded swiftly from room to room where other patients had been sent to await examination, making appointments for operations in other cases. He examined about 100 applicants. The others, estimated to number nearly 1,000, were told they would have to come back for later clinics.

Almost destitute himself, as a result of the war, Dr. Lorenz is holding free clinics here, and will hold them in other cities, as a testimonial of gratitude for the aid rendered by the United States to Austria's starving children. He declared he could not even have come here but for the intervention of friends who made the trip financially possible.

The Three Guardsmen

his horses, the lackey held the saddle horses.

"All at once great cries resounded in the pavilion, and a woman came to the window and opened it as if to throw herself out of it. But as soon as she perceived the other two men she fell back and they got into the chamber. Her cries were soon stifled. Two of the men appeared, bearing the woman in their arms, and carried her to the carriage, into which the little old man got after her. The leader closed the window and came out an instant after at the door. His two companions were already on horseback. He sprang into his saddle, the lackey took his place by the coachman, the carriage went off at a quick pace, escorted by the three horsemen and all was over. From that moment I have neither seen nor heard anything."

D'Artagnan, entirely overcome by this terrible story, remained motionless and mute for a minute.

"Do you know anything," said he, "of the man who led this infernal expedition?"

"A tall, dark man, with black mustache, dark eyes and looked like a gentleman."

"That's the man!" cried D'Artagnan. "Again he, forever he! And the short one?"

"Oh, he was not a gentleman, I'll answer for it. Besides, he did not wear a sword, and the others treated him with no consideration."

"Some lackey," murmured D'Artagnan. "Poor girl, poor girl! What have they done with you?"

With a heavy heart D'Artagnan again bent his way toward the ferry. Sometimes he hoped it could not be Mme. Bonacieux and that he should find her the next day at the Louvre; sometimes he feared she had had an intrigue with another who in a jealous fit had surprised her and carried her off. His mind was torn by doubt, grief and despair.

"Oh, if I had my three friends here," cried he, "I should have at least some hopes of finding her! But who knows what is become of them?"

It was past midnight. The next thing was to find Planchet. D'Artagnan had appointed 6 o'clock in the morning with his lackey.

It came into the young man's mind that by remaining in the neighborhood he should perhaps have some light thrown upon the mysterious affair. At the sixth cabaret, then, D'Artagnan stopped, asked for a bottle of wine of the best quality and, placing himself in the darkest corner of the room, determined thus to wait till daylight. But be it remembered he was only twenty years old and at that age sleep has its rights, which it imperiously insists upon even in the saddest hearts.

Toward 6 o'clock D'Artagnan awoke with that uncomfortable feeling which generally follows a bad night. He got up, paid for his wine and went out. The first thing he perceived through the damp gray mist was honest Planchet, who, with the two horses in hand, awaited him at the door of a little cabaret.

CHAPTER XIX.

Porthos.

INSTEAD of returning directly home, D'Artagnan alighted at the door of M. de Treville and ran quickly up the stairs. This time he was determined to relate all that had passed. He would doubtless give him good advice in the whole affair, and, besides, as M. de Treville saw the queen almost every day, he might be able to get from her majesty some intelligence of the poor young woman, whom they were doubtless making pay very dearly for her devotedness to her mistress.

M. de Treville listened to the young man's account, and when D'Artagnan had finished:

"Hum," said he, "all this savors of his eminence, a league off."

"But what is to be done?" said D'Artagnan.

"Nothing, absolutely nothing, at present, but quitting Paris, as I told you, as soon as possible. I will see the queen. On your return I shall perhaps have some good news to tell you."

Determined to put the advice of M. de Treville in practice instantly, D'Artagnan directed his course toward the Rue des Fossoyeurs in order to superintend the packing of his valise. On approaching the house he perceived M. Bonacieux, in morning costume, standing at his door. D'Artagnan remarked something perfidiously significant in the play of the wrinkled features of his countenance.

M. Bonacieux accosted him. "Well, young man," said he, "we appear to pass rather gay nights! Seven o'clock in the morning! Peste, you seem to reverse ordinary customs."

"No one can reproach you for anything of the kind, Master Bonacieux," said the young man. "You are a model for regular people."

Bonacieux became as pale as death and grinned a ghastly smile. "Ah, ah!" said he, "you are a jocular companion! But where were you gadding last night, my young master? It does not appear to be very clean in the crossroads."

D'Artagnan glanced down at his boots, all covered with mud, but that same glance fell upon the shoes and stockings of the mercer, and it might have been said they had been dipped in the same mud heap.

Then a sudden idea crossed the mind of D'Artagnan. That little stout man, was Bonacieux himself. The husband had presided over the carrying off of his wife.

A terrible inclination immediately took possession of D'Artagnan to seize the mercer by the throat and strangle him; but, as we have said, he was occasionally a very prudent youth, and he restrained himself. The revolution, however, which had appeared upon

IRISH NEGOTIATIONS MAY BREAK DOWN IMMEDIATELY

BREAK DOWN NOW PROBABLE

Irish Negotiations May Break Down Almost Immediately.

GOVERNMENT OPINION

Alternative Plan Demands Sinn Fein Take Oath of Allegiance to Crown.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

London, Nov. 30.—Government circles to-day expressed the belief that the Irish negotiations would break down almost immediately and that a resumption of hostilities could not be postponed.

An alternative settlement plan submitted by the government to the Sinn Fein demands definite undertaking to take the oath of allegiance to the Crown, but Sinn Fein will refuse, it is stated.

The hope of prolonging the truce has receded and a break is imminent.

An Anxious Day

London, Nov. 29.—An anxious day in the negotiations designed for the pacification of Ireland ended to-night with the hope that a complete collapse of the parleys might still be averted.

Sir James Craig, Premier of Ulster, as was expected, declared before the Northern Parliament in Belfast that Ulster had absolutely refused to accept an all-Ireland Parliament, demanded as a solution by the Sinn Fein delegation. But he announced Ulster's willingness to discuss other proposals for an Irish settlement if they were submitted by next Thursday.

David Lloyd George, the Prime Minister, immediately summoned the Sinn Fein delegates to consult with him and his Ministers and submitted to them new proposals which, if they meet with the approval of the Sinn Fein, will be presented to the Ulster officials before next Thursday. The nature of the alternative proposals will not be divulged pending their consideration by the Sinn Feiners.

The situation still is very critical owing to the double deadlock in Ulster refusing to enter an all-Ireland Parliament, and the Sinn Fein steadily refusing to yield on the question of allegiance to the Crown. The negotiations, however, have not been broken off and may be continued on a new basis.

Eamonn de Valera has left Dublin for a to[illegible] of his constituencies.

Ulst[illegible]patches indicate that, whi[illegible]ituation is critical, the [illegible]l not be broken. Downing [illegible]urces consider Craig's statement [illegible] threat. Lloyd George is not [illegible]eful of finding basis for settlement.

Light of Hope Still Burns

Mr. Winston Churchill to-day addressed a gathering of overseas bankers. In favoring a continuance of the negotiations until an honorable settlement of the Irish problem was attained, he declared that those conducting the negotiations were "animated by an obstinate persistence in the cause of peace.

"I did not think that the light of hope had been extinguished," he continued. "On the contrary I am certain that anyone who failed to persevere at this juncture faithfully and patiently would be taking upon himself responsibilities for which history would hold him accountable."

EIGHT KILLED; A SCORE INJURED

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Eight men are known to have been killed and more than a score seriously injured in the collapse, late today, of the American Theatre, under construction in Brooklyn.

It is feared that the death list may total twenty or more. Firemen and police worked throughout the night searching the debris for more bodies.

Eighty-eight workmen were in the building when a wall collapsed, burling from the scaffolds, suspended from the ceiling, the two score victims. The ceiling then fell in, fatally crushing the injured.

The owners of the structure insist the building was inspected and approved by city building inspectors a few days ago.

5,000 ELECTORS HEAR MEIGHEN

Premier Speaks in Three Ridings, at Tara, Hanover and Chesley.

PROTECTION URGED

Better Times for Government Railways are Predicted.

Chesley, Ont., Nov. 30.—Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen carried his campaign into three constituencies, each of which is largely rural in character, but dotted with industrial centres, and in each of which three candidates are in the field, and in two at least of which Liberal nominees are, as the Prime Minister put it, walking the tight-rope all right, on the tariff issue. In North Bruce, where he delivered his first speech at Tara in the morning, Col. Hugh Clark, who has represented the riding since 1911, is making a vigorous and successful fight against R. E. Stacey, a Progressive candidate and James Malcolm, of Kincardine, a Liberal, who is stated to be circulating in rural sections of the district the Liberal convention tariff platform, calling for the deprivation of practically all essential industries of protection, and to be proclaiming himself a protectionist in the towns. In South Grey, R. J. Ball, who has been a member of the House of Commons, also, since 1911, is opposed by Miss Agnes McPhail, a candidate of the United Farmer's organization, and W. Hales a Liberal. In South Bruce, where the Prime Minister's task was ended for the day, John Purvis, the Government's standard-bearer is facing J. W. Findlay, who was formerly a Liberal but is now the nominee of the Progressives, and R. E. Truax, Liberal, who has sat in Parliament since the Autumn of 1913, who was elected as a Laurier Liberal in 1917, and who is now representing himself as a follower of Hon. Mackenzie King, but, nevertheless, a protectionist.

Government Candidates Hopeful

In face of the divided opposition in the three electoral districts, the Government candidates are hopeful of success, especially as the equivocal character of the Liberal candidates' positions is realized. The Prime Minister's expositions of his tariff policy and replies to criticisms levelled against the Government, too, very evidently impressed his hearers at his three meetings, and the enthusiasm with which he was welcomed and applauded were happy auguries of the result on election day. The Premier spoke to some 5,000 people during the day of whom 3,000 were at Hanover in South Grey, in the afternoon, and 1,500 at the meeting in the evening. Only twice was his address interrupted. At one point when he began to speak of the tariff policy of Great Britain, an elector triumphantly intervened with the exclamation that that was a free trade country.

He was rather disconcerted, when the Prime Minister demonstrated that the British Parliament by the Safeguarding of Industries Act had abandoned free trade and adopted a protective policy, had imposed customs duties on six thousand commodities and had empowered its Board of Trade to impose duties on others which were manufactured in foreign lands at a lower cost than that at which they could be manufactured in Britain. The elector followed with an enquiry why the Massey-Harris Company was able to export its implements and sell them over protective tariffs in other countries. To this Mr. Meighen rejoined that that company would suffer from free trade probably less than any other in the Dominion.

If Implement Duties Were Repealed

If Canadian implement duties were repealed it would be able to manufacture for the Canadian as well as for other markets at its factory in the United States and would thus either draw Canadian workers to another country or give employment to citizens of the United States.

ACCEPTS RESIGNATIONS OF 87 SCHOOL TEACHERS

New Westminister, B.C., Nov. 30.—The resignations of 87 teachers from the high, technical and public schools of the city were accepted last night by the Board of School Trustees. The resignations which take effect December 31, were handed in last week as a protest by the teachers against alleged unfair treatment in the matter of salaries.

A motion to dismiss six teachers who had not handed in their resignations was dismissed.

WOMAN'S DUTY AND OPPORTUNITY

THE CANADIAN HOME, FOUNDATION OF THE NATION

The Canadian home is the foundation of the Canadian nation. The mother is the centre around which the home is built. A national policy, therefore, is of the greatest concern to the mother and home-maker, for she will want to know what effect it will have on the home.

What effect will Free Trade or Lower Tariff have on the home and the nation? Premier Meighen in his manifesto of October 8th says:

"Already there is unsettlement of business conditions resulting in unemployment and loss to all classes. A persistent anti-protection campaign, resulting in uncertainty and lack of confidence, has so disturbed and curtailed production as to account for many thousands being out of work today.

"A decisive verdict by the Canadian people will be the signal for returning confidence for renewed productive activities and for better times.

"The laboring population of our country will be the first to benefit by such a verdict, and would be the heaviest sufferers should the tried and proven policy of this country be exchanged for manifestly fallacious theories."

Farmers Would Lose.

"Canadian farmers would soon find that with the reduction or destruction of our industrial centres would pass away not only their most profitable market, but at the same time the source of the greater portion of our revenue, with the result that the burden of taxation would thereafter have to be borne more and more by themselves.

"The time has come to settle this issue, and the well-being of one and all depends upon its being settled right."

If the fear of free trade has already had such disastrous effects, can it be doubted that fulfilment would bring ultimate ruin financially, followed, perhaps, by loss of national entity? We need tariff to raise revenue for expense of government, and to preserve the very existence of our industries. There is only one country on earth today that pretends to have any other than a protective system—Great Britain—and now it has adopted laws which constitute protection of the most effective kind. Its patent laws, its shipping laws, its cattle embargo and its safeguarding of industries act all rest on the very basis of protection. And these laws were introduced by statesmen who years ago were devotees of the theory of free trade.

Tariff Protects Industries.

The tariff is the means by which, in a world where protection prevails, a country is able to keep within its borders a system of industries to give labor to its own people, to hold and advance its population and to avoid being made a dumping-ground for the surplus of other nations. That, in a nutshell, is what Mr. Meighen founds his policy upon. That is what the women of Canada want—protection for their industries so that all men in the country can have work.

A VOTE FOR E. GUSS PORTER, K.C., IS A VOTE FOR RT. HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN.

AMPLE OUTLETS FOR ALL ENERGY

Objects in Dominions Deserving of Financial Support.

WORD TO INVESTORS

Churchill Says the British Empire Offers Good Returns.

London, November 29.—Winston Churchhill, Colonial Secretary, in speaking in London to-night, said that if Great Britain was able only to look to the East and to the West, her position would be unhappy, but in the great dominions she had outlets for her energy, with objects deserving financial support and with great potentialities for development. Before British investors cast money upon strangers, let them, he said, be quite sure there was not in the British Empire a more certain means of securing swift and and certain returns. In future they would need to draw more from Imperial resources, and as the years passed this process would conduce to the greater strengthening of the British position. They were advised to repose themselves confidently on the broad security of the Empire. If that failed there would be little else in any part of the world. If it stood the money invested in the great overseas plantations of the dominions would return, bringing with it means for future enterprise.

The debate continues today.

PROMINENT LIBERAL SUPPORTS MEIGHEN

Isaac Campbell, K.C., Winnipeg, Endorsing Government Candidate.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 30.—For thirty years Isaac Campbell, K.C., Winnipeg, has been the most respected and most influential Liberal west of Ontario. He had the complete confidence of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Unable through illness to take the platform in support of Hon. Arthur Meighen, he has issued the following statement:

"I am supporting George N. Jackson for South Winnipeg. Since the union in 1917, the Borden and Meighen Governments have done well. Their problems have been more difficult than Canada ever faced before. The problems still ahead give cause for anxiety. We need a steady, firm and consistent administration."

George N. Jackson is Meighen's candidate in South Winnipeg, and is opposed by Hon. A. B. Hudson, former Attorney-General in the Norris Government.

VETERAN FIRE HORSE IS VOTED EASY WORK

Montreal, Nov. 30.—After 16 years of faithful service as a fire horse, "Tom," of the Verdun Fire Department, is to be rewarded with a pension of easy work for the rest of his life, according to a resolution passed by the Verdun City Council. "Tom" is now in his twentieth year and is still considered a beautiful and spirited horse.

ARMS PARLEYS BOOMING PEACE

Washington Meeting the World's Greatest Advertising Stunt.

PUBLIC SENTIMENT

Purpose is to Interest People Everywhere in its Objective.

Washington, Nov. 29.—The Washington conference is the "greatest advertising stunt for peace the world has ever seen," said Lord Riddell, the famous English newspaper proprietor, who is unofficially attached to the British delegation, in the course of a little talk to the members of a local peace organization.

Perhaps the greatest purpose of the conference, Lord Riddell declared was the directing of the attention of the people of the world to peace.

"Hitherto," he continued, "many attempts have been made to stop war, but they have started in the wrong place; they have started with officials. There is only one way to stop war—the people of the world must determine they must have peace. This conference, by advertising peace is developing in them that determination.

"Great Britain is bent on peace. We all want peace in our country. But we want peace with security. We are willing to share in all efforts towards disarmament, but disarmament must be a general disarmament. Great Britain and the United States cannot scrap their armaments until all nations are willing to scrap theirs. Therefore, the world must be educated."

FIVE MEN RESCUED BY BRITISH STEAMER

Welshman Picks up Captain and Four of Crew of St. John's Schooner.

Halifax, N.S., Nov. 28.—The British steamer Welshman rescued the captain and four members of the crew of the schooner Stanley Joseph, of St. John's, Newfoundland, in latitude 46.08 north, longitude 53.02 west, according to a message received by the Intelligence Department of the Canadian Naval Service here last night. The Stanley Joseph had been stripped of sails and rudder in a heavy north-west gale, the message said. Before being abandoned she was set on fire, but when last seen the fire was apparently dying out and the wreck seem likely to remain afloat and be a menace to navigation. After effecting the rescue, with much difficulty, the Welshman was unable to take her lifeboat aboard again, and had to cast it adrift because of heavy seas.

OPTIMISM AT ARMS PARLEY

Japanese Situation Cleared and Steady Progress is Now Assured.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer.

Washington, Nov. 30.—With the atmosphere in the armament division cleared by the announcement that Admiral Kato, when talking of a seventy per cent. ration, was merely expressing personal opinion and not the attitude of the Japanese delegation, and with steady progress on the far-eastern and Pacific questions, a renewed spirit of optimism prevailed as the conference resumed its deliberations today.

DELEGATES MAKE IT CLEAR

Washington, Nov. 29.—British Delegates today made it clear that there is no intention on the part of the British Government of bringing up the subject of international indebtedness at the conference.

Letters to The Editor

TOBOGGAN AND SLED SLIDES

To the Editor of the Intelligencer:

Dear Sir:-Would you kindly allow me a little space in your paper, to point out the need of city Toboggan and Sled slides in this city. Last evening on my way down town my attention was attracted by the large numbers of boys and girls skating on upper Front street. The youngsters were having the time of their lives but with little regard for the automobile traffic. On arriving at the corner of Bridge and Pinnacle I saw a very narrow escape from death a boy on a sled was coming down the hill behind a big car, when the car turned down Pinnacle another car was coming up Bridge and the driver had to swerve over to prevent hitting the lad. Sergeant Trulasch came up the hill and stopped the lads from coming down anymore which I believe was very fortunate for them.

This shows the need of a central place for the boys and girls of Belleville to gather and enjoy the sports of winter other cities have these places but the trouble is that the City Council will not spend any money for slides and therefore the lives of future citizens are endangered. The organization of Boy Scouts in this city have a petition started for Toboggan and sled slides which will be put before the City Council for approval but we believe that they will only go on puffing their cigars and forget all about it, well here's for a winter amusement place.

"TRUSTIES" HELP SAVE PRISON FROM FLAMES

Guelph, Nov. 28.—With "trusties" rendering gallant assistance, both on guard and in fighting the blaze, a spectacular effort to save the Provincial Reformatory was made early Saturday morning. The theatre was totally destroyed and Saturday was a mass of ruins, with only the walls left standing, but the spread of the fire was prevented. Adjoining buildings were scorched.

The reformatory fire brigade played three lines of hose, while the trusties saw to the safety and custody of other prisoners and then turned to assist the brigade. The watchman found all right at 8 o'clock but noticed the flames at midnight. The origin of the blaze is unknown. Painters were at work in the building in the afternoon.

GAINS REPORTED BY BUSINESS MAN

Resident of Salt Lake City Adds Ten Pounds While Wife Gains 28 Pounds in Weight.

John J. Perry, 370 Quince St., well-known Salt Lake City, Utah., business man, in reporting remarkable gains in weight both by himself and his wife, says:

"My wife gained twenty-eight pounds and I gained ten pounds in a few weeks by taking Tanlac. The change in Mrs. Perry is all the more remarkable, as she had been going down hill steadily for four or five years. She got no nourishment from her food and I don't believe she averaged three hours sleep out of the twenty-four.

"While my condition was not as serious as hers, I had been under the weather for some time, had no appetite and was bothered a good deal by indigestion. Tanlac has certainly proved all and more than is claimed for it with us."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville at Ostrom's Drug Store.

Transportation and Your Safety

CAR SHORTAGES have already developed at many of the coal mines of the United States. Without cars to load, the mines cannot produce; without production of coal, the welfare of the public cannot be conserved.

So far the shortages have not been serious in proportions, but with cold weather arriving, it can be expected that they will increase and may materially hinder the movement of coal.

Safety to your family can be secured by immediately stocking your coal. Coal prices will not decrease, and they may advance, if a transportation emergency arises.

"THE DUMBELLS" IN "BIFF, BING, BANG!

Captain M. W. Plunkett's world-famous "Dumbells" are billed to present their great overseas revue, "Biff, Bing, Bang," at Griffin's next Monday night after a record of twenty five weeks at the Grand Opera House, Toronto. "Biff, Bing, Bang," is the same snappy soldier song show, that made New York sit up and take notice It had been presented for one solid year in Canada before the New York invasion, and has but recently concluded a tour of six months playing many of the important cities in the United States, with wonderful success.

It was Captain Plunkett's intention to produce a new "Dumbells Revue" in New York this season, but the demand for a return of the old show to Canada was so emphatic that he has post poned the new production until next spring.

"WAY DOWN EAST" THE YEAR'S SENSATION

D. W. Griffith's new art wonder picture spectacle, "Way Down East," is to be seen at Griffin's Opera House, Tomorrow to Saturday, with matinees on Friday and Saturday at 2.15 p.m. and evening performance at 8.15 p.m.

Taken from the Lottie Blair Parker play of the same title it is the sensation of the current theatrical year. Nothing like it has ever been dreamed of in the theatre before and it's record is the most astonishing thing of the kind known to date.

Muhmurs of delight greets its scenes of exquisite beauty in a pictorial sense, hearty laughter accompanies the foolish antics and the simple drollery of its relieving characters and a soul stirring interest rushes with its unfolding to a climax the like of which was never known on any stage in the world until Griffith broke loose with his blinding storm and ice jam on the river which is the tour de force of "Way Down East" and has aroused so much comment that it is breaking records in every city where it is being presented.

One of the greatest casts ever known on stage or screen is shown in the picture and the action is accompanied by an augumented orchestra and score that adds charm and intensity to a story of singular appeal and power.

AL. PLUNKETT, who is appearing with the world-famous "Dumbells," who appear at Griffin's next Monday night in their big overseas revue, "Biff, Bing, Bang," after a record of 25 weeks at Grand Opera House, Toronto.

THE COLLEGE GIRL

Standing room only was the signal of popularity which marked the second presentation of "The College Girl". Mr. W. L. Doyle's latest contribution to a long list of excellent amateur theatrical productions in Belleville. Griffin's Opera House was filled to the doors and the play was presented with a snap and precision which would do credit to a professional company in the middle of a season. The manifest approval evidenced by the first night audience was repeated in ample measure by the large audience Tuesday night and the general verdict is that "The College Girl" is the best yet.

Between the acts Miss Phyllis McManus and Miss Lillian Manley sold bunches of heather for St. Andrew's Day in aid of the funds of the Children's Shelter and were given a cordial reception by the audience.

As on the previous evening the Moonshine number by W. L. Doyle and chorus made a great hit and Billy's little still from behind the hill added to the volume of laughter evoked.

"A Rose Called Sweetheart", as sung by Mr. Jack Williams and danced by his wife, Mrs. Jack Williams, is a very pleasing feature and remarkably well done.

"The Butterfly Dance" by Miss Gwen Lazier, is a pretty number and presented with a grace and talent which compels admiration. Miss Lazier is a very clever dancer.

Mr. Harry Adaskin in violin solos made a great hit with the audience.

Bobby Gorman never had a better part or one in which his talents as a comedian have greater scope.

Miss Eva Davis repeated her success of the first night, in the vocal solo, "That's How I Believe In You."

PROGRESSIVE MEETING AT CONSECON

The Progressive Rally at Consecon Saturday evening was a pronounced success. The hall was filled by an eager, attentive audience, the addresses being received with a tumult of approval and applause.

Mr. F. Ward, Consecon, ably occupied the chair and addresses were delivered by the candidate James R. Anderson, Mountain View, Mr. Clayton Burr, and Mr. Clarence Mallory, Bloomfield and Mr. Hyatt of West Lake. A noticeable feature of the gathering was the fact that among the prominent speakers were two local preachers, a Sunday School Superintendent, and other church workers which augurs well for the success of the cause.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

THE GUMSHOE, WHISPERING, BACK LANE CAMPAIGN.

The gumshoe whispering campaign against Mr. Porter is neither decent nor honest. Come out in the open and fight like men. A good cause can be blazoned from the house-tops and fearlessly shown on the printed page and on the public platform, but the whispering back-lane campaign can not be answered because it slinks along the dark corners in secret.

Premier Meighen has carried his great Canadian message from coast to coast and painted his policy even on the skies, as he has nothing to hide. In West Hastings the opposition campaign is silent and secret and open to the imputation which secrecy implies.

NO SUPPORTERS IN BELLEVILLE.

No enthusiasm is visible anywhere in West Hastings for the candidature of Mr. McIntosh, nominated as a progressive candidate. One significant feature of his nomination was the fact that not one elector of Belleville signed his nomination paper.

His candidature has been a haphazard, hopeless thing from the start and is now recognized as a mistake. The McIntosh campaign, if any there be, is not visible to the naked eye; there are no meetings, no public statement of policy in the newspapers, just a great and significant silence, eloquent of a lost cause.

Mr. McIntosh is a good citizen and an honest man, and even at this late date he should acknowledge the mistake and ask his friends to vote for Mr. Porter and the all-Canadian policy of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen.

A BETTER UNDERSTANDING.

Electors of all shades of politics may find common ground in the "Better Understanding" movement, the chairman of which is W. C. Mikel, K.C., of Belleville. A few years ago this movement was launched with bright prospects, but its horizon soon became somewhat dimmed. The clouds of political exigencies intervened. The sun was obscured for a time. But not all those who, with high hopes, saw its beginnings failed it. Some of its promoters were staunch and true, among them Mr. Mikel, who is holding aloft its banner in this campaign. He has obtained the endorsation of the leaders of the three parties, Messrs. Meighen, King and Crerar, and the Prime Ministers of the nine provinces. Thus protected against charges of political intrigue, Mr. Mikel has sent to every candidate a warning against allowing speakers in the heat of a political campaign to use language calculated to create racial bitterness.

> "Canada," remarks Mr. Mikel, "cannot become a happy and a prosperous country unless those noble sentiments are put into operation. In your position as candidate you can materially help this great movement by exerting your influence to prevent speakers using expressions that are likely to retard its progress. If this campaign is carried on without controversies on questions relating to nationality, Canadians will have taken a long step towards a better understanding."

In drawing politicians' attention to this matter, in the midst of a campaign such as this, Mr. Mikel is doing real patriotic service.—Montreal Star.

CRISP COMMENT

Crerar's golden meal ticket, the Grain Growers' Company, must be protected from the inquisitive eye of the law, hence injunctions to hold up the enquiry. The enquiry must go on, but Crerar, et al., have succeeded in blocking it until after election.

* * *

If the farmers do not divorce politics from their business the business will be swallowed up by the politicians.

* * *

If the political spouters of the farmers political-business organizations are to be measured by the amount of money they have invested in farmers' business ventures, then they have no great confidence in the ultimate success of those ventures. When the car stops they will be near enough to the ground to step out without jolting their pocketbooks; all they will lose will be their meal ticket.

* * *

Mr. Crerar neither faces the busy marts of the east nor the golden promise of the west, but turns his face toward Uncle Sam's domain. As a true Canadian Mr. Crerar should look, think and act Canadian and forget this silly free trade thing—not only silly, but dangerous in the extreme.

* * *

Doc Edwards and Bob Bushell had a one-round bout at a political meeting in Frontenac which is said to have been worth the price of admission several times over. Bob is alleged to have been heckling and when called rather sharply by the worthy doctor made motions with his hands which were interpreted as of a hostile nature and the doc countered with one on Bob's classic nose. The meeting broke up in confusion, but these two do not love each other any more than before. Bob should have the next round of this fistic duel staged at his beloved Kingston Fair. It sure would be a knock-out.

* * *

While Belleville is not as hard hit as other places in regard to unemployment there are a number out of work and with no money coming in and a long winter ahead are wondering just how they are going to carry on, keep warm and get enough to eat. The City Council should keep as many men employed as possible, even anticipating work which otherwise would wait until spring, and every householder should see what little odd jobs can be attended to—wood chopped, furnace repairs, cellar cleaned out, inside painting, snow shovelling, etc., about the house. Men for odd jobs can be readily obtained by calling up the Government Employment Bureau. There are married men who need work of this kind, also soldiers who went through the hell over there for all of us. Let us not forget our obligations to humanity and to the soldier most of all.

The Poets' Corner

THE TRAIL THAT IS ALWAYS NEW

There's a whisper down the field where the year has shot her yield,
And the ricks stand grey to the sun,
Singing: "Over then, come over, for the bee has quit the clover,
And your English summer's done."
You have heard the beat of the off-shore wind,
And the thresh of the deep-sea rain;
You have heard the song—how long, how long,
Pull out on the trail again!

Ha' done with the tents of Shem, dear lass,
We've seen the seasons through,
And it's time to turn on the old trail
Our own trail, the out trail,
Pull out, pull out, on the long trail,
The trail that is always new.

It's north you may run to the rime-ringed sun,
Or south to the blind Horn's hate,
Or east all the way into Mississippi Bay,
Or west to the Golden Gate.
When the blindest bluffs hold good, good, dear lass,
And the wildest tales are true,
And the men bulk big on the old trail
our own trail, the out trail,
And life runs large on the long trail,
the trail that is always new. . . .

Fly forward, O my heart, from the foreland to the start—
We're steaming all too slow,
And it's twenty thousand mile to our little lazy isle,
Where the trumpet orchids blow.
You have heard the call of the off-shore wind,
And voice of the deep-sea rain,
You have heard the song—how long—how long?
Pull out on the trail again!

Complex

I have a Freudian complex,
A funny little complex,
That's lurking in the hinterland
Of my subsconscious brain:
It's frightfully perplexing,
And really rather vexing;
I half suspect, to tell the truth,
It's driving me insane.
It's not an inhibition,
Nor yet a prohibition,
But be assured it's troublesome
As either one could be;
Indeed it's so annoying,
I know it is destroying
The very small intelligence
The odds vouchsafed to me,
Why I'm so much annoyed
Is, before I studied Freud,
I never knew thing about
These complexes at all;
But since they are in season,
I'll have mine or know the reason,
Though the up-keep on a complex
Is a figure to appeal.

PUBLIC TO BLAME FOR MAIL ERRORS

During Three Days 128,300 Pieces of Incorrectly Addressed Mail Found.

Whenever delay to, or misdelivery of a letter occurs, the sender or the addressee is prone to adversely criticize the Post Office. Frequently, however, the delay or misdelivery is due to the carelessness of the public, in failing to properly address the mail matter in question.

During three days this month, 128,300 pieces of incorrectly and insufficiently addressed mail matter were handled at 55 of the larger Post Offices. This is a daily average of 42,800 for the 55 offices, or at the rate of 16,000,000 for a year of 365 days. Think of the number of postal clerks engaged in handling this misdirected mail, who could, if the general public were more careful, be used to give better service in other lines.

Much trouble is due to careless writing, to the use of a pencil in writing the address, and to failure to give the proper street address or to keep mailing lists up to date.

With the Christmas season at hand, bringing immense quantities of mail to be dealt with, it will be necessary that the public adopt more careful methods in the preparation of its mail matter, if the daily average of misdirected mail is not to amount to an overwhelming figure.

In this connection the following points to be observed are pointed out:

Prepay postage fully;

Address plainly and fully;

Place name and address of sender on all mail matter;

Carefully pack and wrap all articles sent by parcel post, but do not seal the parcels as sealed parcels are subject to letter rate of postage.

Mail Christmas parcels early;

Insure valuable parcels.

OUR NATIONAL POLICY

The old M.P. made by John A.
When Canada was new,
Fills just the need of this our day,
You all know this is new.

Chorus—
Come Tories all and vote for Meighen,
Successor to John A.:
He stands to guard the tariff wall:
Our National Policy.

John A. MacDonald when in power,
Built up a tariff wall;
To guard Canadian industries,
'Twas called the old N.P.

Some folks there are who think that wall
Old-fashioned has become;
They'd like to break the tariff bars
And trade with Uncle Sam.

The farmer when he sells his grain
Would get a smaller fee
Free trading with old Uncle Sam.
He'd miss the old N.P.

2nd Chorus—
Come Tories all, and vote for Hubbs;
This next election day.
He stands to guard our tariff law,
Our National Policy;

The price of butter, eggs and pork,
Would take a sudden drop;
Our market ruined by a rush
From Uncle Sam's big crop.

John Hubbs of Picton, is the man,
We Tories would elect;
To help maintain our Tariff laws,
Our interests to protect.

THEFT OF $10,000 FROM MAIL CAR

Registered Bag Intended for North Bay and Toronto Stolen.

Toronto, Nov. 28.—It became known on Saturday night that a sack containing registered mail, made up of cash and securities, said to be valued at approximiately $10,000, and intended for North Bay and other western points, and the head office of the Imperial Bank here, had disappeared from the mail car of the southbound T. and N. O. train at Porquois Junction on November 19. Federal investigators and postal authorities, who are investigating the case, are of the opinion that the mail was stolen. Postal officials, when questioned, refused to discuss the matter, but one tacitly admitted that a theft of large dimensions had occurred when he stated that the affair spoken of was in the hands of the federal authorities.

POLICE USED AXES IN AN OPIUM RAID

New York, Nov. 28.—Armed with axes and crowbars, detectives on Deputy Police Commissioner Simon's squad beat their way through an ironclad door into a sumptuously furnished apartment on the fourth floor of a five storey tenement house in Canal street, where five Chinese were taken. They found an opium den such as those pictured in the average fiction story of the Chinese in the underworld.

Forty men and women escaped by way of the fire escapes through a secret trap door while the detectives were battering their way into the room.

According to the police, complaints had been coming into headquarters for some time past that touring cars and limousines were seen driving up to the house in Canal street. Persons who made the reports were curious since there apparently was nothing about the place to attract such a clientele. After several days of preliminary investigation the police staged the raid.

When detectives rushed into the room they saw men and women, some of the latter richly clad, rushing out through a street trap door. The detectives confined their attention to the Chinese, who, they felt assured, were conducting the establishment. The raiders confiscated 150 drums of opium found in a well-concealed place.

PUNCH FROM GIRL FOILS BANDIT ATTACK

West Hill, Nov. 27.—Two daring attempts were made last night to hold up A. McCormack, manager of the Standard Bank, here. Both failed through the pluck of Mr. McCormack and his lady companion, Miss Olive Atkinson of Scarboro' Village.

Mr. McCormack was motoring along St. Clair avenue, near Scarboro' Junction when an automobile drew alongside and a man jumped to his running board and ordered him to stop. Instead of screaming Miss Atkinson doubled her fist and struck the man in the face and then wrenched his hands from the side of the car.

McCormack attempted to speed away, but in a minute or two the other car passed him and then drew across the road to block his path. He attempted to pass in front, but the bandits barred the way. Then he swerved to the rear of the obstructing automobile and just managed to clear it.

Once again the bandits tried to catch up, but Mr. McCormack had a good start and was soon in the city limits.

WHAT NELLIE M'CLUNG SAW IN THE OLD LAND

And Heard, Too—Redistribution of Population One Thing Needed.

In her own inimitable humorous fashion Nellie McClung set forth for a large gathering in Massey Hall England and the English as she had seen them on her recent and first visit. In her breezy colloquial way Mrs. McClung gave her impressions of England with its tidy "manicured" appearance; of the cleanliness of London, with streets like a newly polished hardwood floor; with its domestic work done in such a hard way; with its time immemorial customs and habits which to her were new; its love of ceremonials; its love of the royal family and the aristocracy; and its contempt for the newly rich. But, when she referred to Westminster Abbey, which was her first pilgrimage after she had arrived in London, and her visits to the unknown soldier's grave, it was with a different manner that Mrs. McClung gave her impressions of this great centre of the Empire's religion. She told her audience, which she carried with her all the time, of the numbers who were always paying their tribute to the unknown soldier, of the white-faced little child she saw placing a few faded daisies on the grave, and the wreath of violets which bore the name of the Ontario teachers who were in England. "I sat down and cried for all the mothers and wives and sisters who could not visit that spot," confessed Mrs. McClung.

Her visit to the House of Commons, and also to the House of Lords, furnished her with a rare fund of material. When she entered the strangers' gallery of the House of Lords "I increased Lord Lansdowne's audience 100 per cent," she explained, "for he was talking without anyone to listen, although there were eighteen press reporters in their gallery." Lady Astor, who, Mrs. McClung declared has through her conduct in the house worn down the prejudice which other women had had to her because of her nationality, gave a luncheon for the Canadian M.L.A.

A visit to France impressed Mrs. McClung with the effectiveness of the Imperial War Graves Commission's work. She visited a number of the cemeteries.

Mrs. McClung saw some of the east end of London and the effect of drink there. Prohibition she thinks is still a generation away, but nearer in Scotland. The crowded millions of England, and Alberta with "half a person to every square mile" brought home to Mrs. McClung the need of a redistribution of population, an aggressive policy for immigration and on this side of the water a country fit to receive the newcomers. She found much to admire in the peoples of the old land their courtesy above all. Referring to labor conditions, Mrs. McClung said the hope of trade lay in an early getting together of employers and employes and to this end the labor leaders are urging their followers.

REQUESTED RECIPES

Some of my Reader Friends have written to ask me to print the following recipes:

Salmon Loaf: Open a can of salmon, free it from skin and bones, and chop finely. Mix with it 2 beaten eggs, 1 cup of fine bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon of chopped parsley (if you have it); 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon melted butter, and salt and pepper to suit individual taste. Turn this mixture into a greased baking pan and bake in a hot oven for 20 minutes.

Thousand Island Salad Dressing: Rub 1 hard-boiled egg through a sieve and mix it with 2 tablespoons of finely chopped raw onion, 1 small cooked beet finely chopped, ½ cup of mayonnaise salad dressing, 1 tablespoon chili sauce put through a sieve and 4 tablespoons of whipped cream. Chill before using. (This is such a rich dressing that it is usually served with plain lettuce or romaine, no other ingredient being necessary in the salad. It is especialy dainty for a company meal).

Easilly Made Mincemeat (without brandy): 1 cup cooked and chopped beef, 1 cup seedless raisins, 1 cup dried currants, ¼ cup molasses, 2 cups chopped apples, 1 cup of the water in which the beef simmered, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon mace, ½ teaspoon cloves, the juice and grated rind of 1 lemon and 1 orange. Mix all these ingredients and cook them all together, until the apples look transparent, then cool before putting it into the pie crust. Or if you wish to store it for future use, turn it, from the fire, into hot jelly glasses which have been boiled 10 minutes in clear water; seal with melted paraffine when cold. (One jelly glassful will fill 1 pie-crust.

Clam Chowder: Dice a two-inch square piece of pork and fry it with 4 large, sliced onions, then strain off the liquor. Cut the necks from the soft parts of 1 quart of shelled clams and chop the necks finely. Cut 6 large raw and pared potatoes into small pieces and put these potatoes together with the chopped clam-necks, the pork liquor, and 2 quarts of boiling water into a large saucepan to simmer for at least three hours. A half hour before serving time, add 6 Boston crackers which have been broken small and soaked in ½ pint of milk. Ten minutes before serving, add the soft parts of the clams. Thicken all with a little flour stirred to paste with sweet milk. Season to taste with salt and pepper and, the very last thing, add 1 large cup of hot, strained tomato juice. (In some parts of the country the addition of the tomato juice is in disfavor—so the housewife may add it or not, as she wishes. Many people believe that it spoils the clam flavor. Rhode Islanders, however, believe that a clam chowder is not a clam chowder without it).

A Pepper Relish that Can be Made in 45 Minutes: Stem 12 large green peppers and 12 large red peppers. Peel 6 large onions. Put peppers and onions through the food chopper, then boil them 10 minutes in water to cover. Drain off this water, cover the vegetable mixture with 3 cups of vinegar, add 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon each of ground cinnamon and salt, and let boil 20 minutes, when it is ready for the table. I recommend this relish as the easiest to make and the most delicious.

U. S. DELEGATION COMING TO CANADA

New York, Nov. 27.—A special Pullman train left the Grand Central terminal in New York City, at 7.45 o'clock tonight freighted with the most important economic mission that ever sped towards the Canadian border.

Its passengers were sixty members of Congress, the most distinguished delegation that has ever gone out of Washington into a foreign country.

Their purpose is to study the Canadian sales tax system, with a view to its application in the United States.

The noteworthy array of lawmakers, which set forth for Canada last night from Washington and New York, has been commissioned, in a way, by American public opinion, to learn if our tax system cannot be simplified as the tax system of Canada has been.

ADMIRAL SAILED FOR HOME

New York, Nov. 30.—Admiral Lord Beatty sailed for home on the Adriatic this morning. The fact that he was going home was proof that everything at Washington was satisfactory, he said. The Jutland hero said he would return to this continent "just as soon as I jolly well can."

USEFUL GIFTS FOR CHRISTMAS GIVING

Gifts both useful and simple for the Christmas season may be fashioned from various fabrics and in many pretty ways. A pillow for an aching head has a sweet balsam filling encased in a China silk bag, 7 to 9 inches, with an easily laundered slip of lawn or organdie, the hems finished with colored cotton in darning stitch and a small green tree cross-stitched in one corner. This same idea may be used for the linen closet or a sachet for the bottom of the bureau drawer.

A novel lingerie bag is made as follows: Sew up wrong side out a striped bath towel, 44 to 23 inches; fold over tops to depth of 7 inches, insert colored tape draw string and attach white tape tassels with buttonhole stitch.

To make an "apple-pie" table cover, cut and hem a circle of crash the size of table top and fold it both ways, creasing firmly. Now draw and cut out an irregular pattern, turn back both sides half an inch and edge them with half-inch centre-deux. The four pieces fit together, or may be used as individual doilies.

Roller towelling makes an effective runner and plate doilies when a thread is drawn two inches from each end, and, using this drawn thread as a base, a loose buttonhole stitch is worked in red, a quarter of an inch deep, and blue stitches are inserted between the red. Threads are drawn below stitching to form fringe. Children will be delighted also with the linen crash towel upon which there is a carrot-eating brown muslin squirrel, to whom form is given by straight black stitches. The borders are of orange Chinese crepe, buttonholed in black.

Hunt up your old hat boxes and some of those nice, flat boxes that once held stockings; buy a few odds and ends of bright figured wall-paper; cover your boxes smoothly with the paper and coat them with painters' sizing and then with shellac. They will be more than welcome for the closet shelves these days when boxes are scarce.

DANGERS OF :: :: :: :: EYE-STRAIN

Many persons are suffering from eyestrain either through ignorance or through abstinacy. The misery that some apparently slight defect of vision, if uncorrected by glasses, may cause is hard for anyone to realize who has not himself experienced it. It may cause not only headache and pains in the eyes but also reflex neuralgia often in the distant parts of the body. It may cause giddiness and other nervous disturbances of the most varied character. It often induces dyspepsia; it leads to constipation; it has produced symptoms so closely resembling those of appendicitis as to lead the surgeon to operate. St. Vitus's dance and even convulsions of epilepsy have been entirely relieved by the fitting of proper glasses.

Sometimes a sufferer is able to recognize his own condition. He has what is called weak sight; after reading or doing any other work that requires to be looked at closely and continuously he finds that his eyes begin to water, and that objects become blurred and finally fade away. Although such a person may discover that by closing his eyes for a few moments, by massaging them gently or by bathing them with cold water he can restore his normal vision for a while, he finds that if he persists in using his eyes the symptoms always return. Such a person is comparatively fortunate, for he does not keep on straining his eyes but goes of his own accord to have his eyes fitted with glasses.

It is the person whose eyes have only a slight defect that is most in danger, for he does not know that his eyes are wrong and unless the doctor or a wise friend warns him he will never think of referring his sufferings to them and may go for years unrelieved.

People sometimes object to using glasses on the ground that if they start wearing them they will be unable to dispense with them; that objection also applies to the man who has lost a leg, and who gets a crutch. If glasses are needed they should not be dispensed with! Properly fitted glasses may save years of misery, and may also prevent cataract, which is the not infrequent result of a long period of unrelieved eyestrain.

FACES SERIOUS CHARGES

St. Catharines, Nov. 30.—Charles Miller aged 23, arrested in Buffalo on Saturday was today positively identified as the man who criminally assaulted little Agnes Lawson at St. Davids, attempted to assault Nellie Afleck and shot Raymond Lawson at St. Davids on Nov. 17. He faced five charges including rape, attempted rape and shooting with intent to kill, in Magistrate Campbell's court to-day and was remanded for a week.

QUICKER THAN SCAT THE KING WAS AWAY

"Well, well, well," said Tinker Bob, King of the Forest, "I thought you must be somewhere about, but I never could have guessed where." He was talking to Silky, the silly monkey, who was standing in the river trying to wash the terrible acid off his face that had been sprinkled on him by Major Pole Cat.

"O King, I am here and I guess I will stay here for a long time too. It isn't getting any better," said Silky.

"What isn't getting better?" asked the King as he looked at Silky.

"O King, haven't you heard about it yet? I supposed you had heard and all of the other forest creatures, about my meeting with Major Pole Cat in the woods. Oh, it's the most terrible smell that I ever smelled and the longer I smell it the worse it gets."

"Why Silky, I thought you knew better than that. Didn't you meet Major Pole Cat when you first came to the forest? That ought to have been enough for any forest dweller. It was only the other day that I was in the woods and saw one of the Mountain Lions turn out of his path so that he would not have to meet Major as he was taking a leisurely walk along the mountain side. Then too I saw Red Fox, that slick fellow, as he came along. He left his track and ran for the water because he got a drop of the poison acid on his nose. Really, I thought you knew more than to do anything like that."

I guess I will stay here for a long time

Then poor Jack, the Rabbit, told the King all about it. But Jack didn't laugh this time, he was very serious for he remembered how Silky had saved his life and he didn't forget to tell the King about that either.

"Bob-white! Bob-white! Bob-white," came the sudden cry as Tinker was hearing the story of Jack and Silky.

"I wonder what that fellow wants, he's calling as though he wanted to see me. I wonder if there is anything the matter with him?"

The call came clearer and clearer; "Bob-white, Bob-white."

"Mr. Bob White is in some kind of trouble or he would never call that way," said Jack, the Rabbit. Then Jack sent forth a call also; "Thump! Thump! Thump!" He always called by thumping his feet on the ground.

It seemed but a moment till his call was answered by his young son. "What does this all mean?" asked Jack of his son Pete.

"I don't know," answered Pete, "unless Bob White wants to see the King."

"Bob-white, Bob-white, Bob-white," it was very close this time.

"Here I am Mr. Bob White," called the King. Then he spied the King and came fluttering toward him.

"O King, Major Pole Cat must see you at once," cried Bob White.

"I will go to him," and Tinker Bob tapped the Stone of Knowledge and was away before you could say "Scat."

A Man is just as Young and Strong as his Blood

No man can fight the battles of life and hold his own if his blood is not pure, for rich red blood is what strength is based upon. When you see a strong, vigorous man, who never knows when he is licked, you may wager that such a man has coursing through his veins rich, red blood. Many people have thin, pale blood. They are weak, tire easily, become discouraged quickly, and sometimes feel like giving up the struggle. Such folks need Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which is sold by druggists in liquid or tablet form. Contains no alcohol.

Central Butte, Sask.—"I have used Dr. Pierce's Medical Discovery for a number of years, and am pleased to recommend it as a blood purifier. I know it has no equal, as I used it for my boy. My neighbors and friends were surprised with the results; in fact, I do not think he would be alive to-day had it not been for the 'Medical Discovery.' I also keep it on hand for coughs, as it differs so from other cough medicines, instead of upsetting the stomach, as most cough syrups do, it is good for the stomach. I only wish I had known about Dr. Pierce's medicines sooner."—Mrs. Percy Wood.

The Kidneys

The office man and the outdoor worker suffer alike from derangements of the kidneys.

Backaches and headaches are among the symptoms. In some cases Bright's disease soon develops, others suffer from high blood pressure until hardening of the arteries sets in.

In order to forestall painful and fatal diseases prompt action should be taken at the first sign of trouble.

Mr. A. D. MacKinnon, Kirkwood, Inverness county, N.S., writes:—

"I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to all suffering from weak kidneys. I suffered from kidney disease for a long time. I may also say that for three years I was nearly always troubled with headaches, and no treatment seemed to do more than afford temporary relief. I was finally told of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and after using a few boxes was completely relieved. I have also used Dr. Chase's Ointment with the best results, and never fail to recommend these wonderful remedies."

Hockey Here and There

A movement is under way to bring about the formation of a hockey league composed of Belleville, Queen's, Kingston, Frontenac, Cornwall and Brockville teams. A meeting for that purpose is being called for at an early date.

The Intermediates and Juniors are working out every night and Finnegan Hill says the ice can't arrive too soon to suit him.—Port Hope Guide.

Ben Simpson, of Hamilton, who will referee the Argo-Eskimo game is a former Peterboro man, and taught school for some years in Bobcaygeon. He is a veteran of the old Hamilton Tigers.

Peterboro Juniors and Intermediates are digging in at the "Y" preparing their muscles for the season ahead.

Somebody please give "Peeny" Mills Sr., a mask and that is all he will need to tend goal as he could fend the puck off like the old pill. How about it?

The Midland Hockey Club is asking the town council for permission to hold a tag day for the purpose of raising funds to engage a professional trainer for the intermediate and junior O.H.A. teams.

CLEGHORN FOR THE CANADIENS

That Edouard Bouchard, the Quebec amateur, would in all likelihood be found on the lineup of the Canadien Hockey Club this season, was the announcement made by Leo Dandurand, managing director of the Frenchmen. He has been offered a contract.

There is a possibility that Sprague Cleghorn, who is now the property of the Hamilton club, will be seen in a Canadien uniform this season, as a trade is being arranged by which Mummery and another player will be exchanged for him.

HAD NEW OFFERS

Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, has had two new offers for a championship match, one from Bill Brennan and the other from Jack Carpeter of St. Paul. There are prospects for a satisfactory purse for a bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, next summer.

GOOD IDEA

There is some talk of putting a swimming tank in the Arena Gardens in Toronto, for use during the summer season.

HOCKEY

Picton, Ont., Nov. 29.—The Picton A. A. A. met this evening to deal with the local hockey situation, it being decided to form a Town League, and to enter both junior and intermediate teams in the O. H. A. series. A great deal of enthusiasm was evidenced among the younger players, and, whilst there will be some difficulty getting together an intermediate sextette, it was felt that an effort should be made to run both teams.

The officers in the Picton A. A.A. for the season 1921-1922 are: Hon. Presidents, Judge E. H. McLean, Ben Leavens; President, John Hazel; Vice President, Nelson Hudgin; Secretary, R. W. Sharp; Treasurer, W. R. Adams Committee, J. Phillip Browne, R. Hadden, W. Pope, E. B. Purtelle, H. Soanes.

UNLUCKY JIMMY SMYTH TO TRY A COMEBACK

Jimmy Smyth, once with Montreal and who was one of the brightest prospects in all baseball before he broke an ankle early in 1920, is going to attempt a comeback with Milwaukee in 1922. His broken ankle was not set properly and he seemed crippled for life, but more capable surgeons took his case in hand, with the result that he is again standing on both his feet. Anyway, the Milwaukee club, taking the doctor's word for it, has signed Smyth to a 1922 contract and he will test himself out in the spring. He may never show the old speed, but his .300 batting eye hasn't been dimmed any.

FOOTBALL POETRY AS SHE IS WROTE

J. C. Squire, editor of the London Mercury, and a poet who has written much good stuff, has printed in his high-brow journal a long poem that he has just written entitled "The Rugger Match." After reading lines like the following we wonder what English poetry is coming to:

Whistle! A kick! A rush, a scramble, a scream,
The forwards are busy already, the halves hover round,
The three-quarters stand in backwards diverging lines,
Eagerly bent, atoe, with elbows back,
And hands that would grasp at a ball, trembling to start,
While the solid backs vigilant stray about
And the crowds give out a steady resolute roar,
Like the roar of the sea; a scrum, a whistle, a scrum;
A burst, a whistle, a scrum, a kick into touch.

Y.M.C.A. BOWLING

The Ritchie bowling team last night put it over the Intelligencer team to the tune of 263 pins rolling up a score of 2119 as against 1856 for their opponents. In the first game the typos had a lead of 53 pins, but in the two succeeding games the Ritchie team won easily. For the winning team, Mr. Bryant was high for a single game with 175 and high for the three string namely 466. Harrison of the losing team was high for a single game, 208, whilst Hill of the same team had the highest score for the three games, namely 411. Whilst the game was being played, a number of spectators were present. The score and players were as follows:

There will be a meeting, at which Mr. Porter will speak, in the City Hall on Monday, Dec. 5, the day befor election day.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 1248, or write The Intelligencer.

Not Considered

B. T.—I see that a petition signed by eleven doctors of the city endorsing one of the applicants for the office of Medical Health Officer apparently was accorded no consideration whatever by the members of the Belleville City Council. This seems strange as such a recommendation should carry great weight. Why?

Where Has It Gone?

M. E.—A long, long [illegible] an item in the paper which stated a Humane Society had been formed in this city with all due pomp and ceremony, its object, I believe, to extend aid and befriend all stray, suffering and ill-used animals in this city. But where has it gone? We hear no more of this long-needed society. Many poor animals suffer and look in vain for a member of aforementioned society to relieve 'em.

Great Idea

R. O.—I saw a piece in the Peterboro Examiner lately which informed the readers that the Rotary Club of that city were trying to procure free water to flood a rink which would be free three afternoons a week, it being proposed to charge at other times, revenue to go towards the construction of a summer camp for underprivileged boys at Stoney Lake. Sad to relate, however, the request was refused. This little incident goes to prove that the Rotary Club of that city are fully alive to the fact that youngsters need a means of recreation all the year round to make good, clean, upstanding citizens of them later in life. It also reveals the sad fact that water is no longer free.

STEADY INCREASE IN BRITISH EXPORTS

London, Nov. 30.—The significance of the steady increase in the British export trade has been pointed out by Sir William Clark, Comptroller-General of the Department of Overseas Trade, before the London Shipping Agents' Conference. In June last, he said, the lowest point was touched at £38,000,000, but there had since been a steady increase until, in October, this country exported goods to the value of £62,000,000. The signs, Sir William said, were that the British people were getting nearer to the point of stability which whas so important if traders were to be encouraged to recommence business on anything like a large scale.

DETAILS OF PLAN DISCUSSED

Washington, Nov. 30.—The details of Hughes plan for limitation of naval armaments were discussed today at a brief session of the subcommittee of naval experts of Britain, United States and Japan. After adjournment optimism was apparent among members of the British delegation, the spokeman stating that he believed an announcement along lines of naval armament might be expected next week.

HELD UP WOMAN

A bold piece of work was pulled off in broad daylight when two young men called at the home of Mrs. Clark, at 380 Brock Street, Kingston and after being given permission to use the telephone, forced Mrs. Clark, to tell them where she had her purse, and taking its contents, $35, made good their escape. Mrs. Clark sent in a telephone call to the police as soon as they left the house, but unfortunately the "Black Maria" was in an collision, and Constables Vernon Campbell and Fitzgerald arrived too late.

CHANGES IN PARISHES

The following announcements were made regarding changes in the parishes of the Archdiocese of Kingston; Right Rev. Monsignor Hartington of Deseronto will go to Prescott, to succeed Right Rev. GOVERNOR VISITS BELLEVILLE ROTARY District Governor Hart Seely Entertained by Local Club.

Belleville Rotarians had an opportunity of meeting their District Governor, Hart Seely, on Tuesday, and the meeting was mutually satisfactory. Governor Seely was very much pleased with Belleville Rotarians and the work that Belleville Rotary Club is accomplishing, and Belleville Rotarians were very much pleased with Governor Seely.

Waverly, N.Y., is the home of Governor Seely, who follows the occupation of glove manufacturer and he is a big man in every way, large-hearted, with a broad vision of community service and thoroughly imbued with Rotarian principles of good fellowship and helpfulness. The District Governor conferred with the Rotary Board of Directors for several hours and went thoroughly into the Rotary plan of service, making many helpful suggestions for local work. At the regular luncheon in the Hotel Quinte Governor Seely met the members of the club and delivered an inspiring address which was very much appreciated, punctuated as it was with humor and sound common sense. Governor Seely congratulated the Belleville Rotary Club upon their helpful efforts to serve the community, and emphasized the necessity of concentrating on the effort to create a better citizenship through boys welfare work. Commending the local club upon their efforts in behalf of the little crippled Belleville boy who is receiving treatment in Toronto the speaker cited the work carried on by the Rotarians of Ohio which has resulted in a number of hospitals being erected and maintained for crippled children, and a general plan of care, cure if possible, and education of crippled children. Governor Seely also pointed out the necessity of not only looking after under privileged boys but also of becoming a chum and confidant to our own boys.

Governor Seely emphasized the necessity of Rotary Clubs concentrating upon education in Rotary, fellowship, and attendance as the three fundamentals, and keeping always in view three objectives, viz.

Higher ideals in modern business.
Good citizenship.
International good-will.

Rotarians should take stock of themselves to see whether they are an asset or liability to Rotary, and ask themselves "Am I a True Rotarian?"

Rotarian Tom Caldwell, President of the Waverley Rotary Club who is accompanying Governor Seely upon his official tour, gave a brief address, humorous and practical. Rotarian Caldwell is a Presbyterian minister and a real Rotarian.

In honor of the visitors "The Star Spangled Banner" was sung following the toast to the King, and the Union Jack and Stars and Stripes were entwined over the head table.

A pleasing feature of the program was the violin solo by Mr. Harry Adaskin, Russian violinist, accompanied on the piano by Prof. Wheatley. Mr. Adaskin is a master of the violin and he was enthusiastically encored.

Visitors present included Jim Wheatley, Montreal; Dr. Daly, Belleville: Jeff Lawson, Ottawa; Harry Adaskin, Toronto; James Booth, Prof. Wheatley and Jack Deacon, Belleville.

Assistant Secretary Glen McKinnon a patient at the hospital, following an operation for appendicitis, was reported as making favorable progress toward recovery. A letter of thanks from the Children's Aid Society was read acknowledging Thanksgiving day treats for the children.

He was unable to walk any further, but bound up the wound roughly and crawled painfully through the bush for a distance of two and a half miles to the Wahnipitae power dam, near Massey Bay, where he secured assistance.

The wound was dressed and Mr. Higgins was brought back to Sudbury by Messrs. D. Humphries and O. H. phone. He is now progressing favorphone. Hhe is now progressing favorably.

CASE OF CHINA IS ADVANCED

Four Powers Interested Agree as to Foreign Post Offices.

PROPAGANDA NAILED

Rumors Denied by Delegates That Friction Has Arisen.

Washington, Nov. 29.—The Far Eastern Committee to the Washington conference advanced China's affairs a step by securing the agreement of the four powers interested in the question of foreign post offices in China to the abandonment of these offices provided an efficient Chinese postal service is maintained.

But perhaps the most useful work accomplished yesterday was the nailing down of some of the propaganda which is being circulated apparently with the object of defeating the ends of the conference.

Several of the delegates and spokesmen for the delegations put in a very busy day denying rumors. The result is that to-night the atmosphere of doubt and distrust which had been created by the circulation of these yarns and which promised to seriously embarrass the efforts of the delegates, has been cleared.

There have been many stories from obscure sources of friction between the various delegations.

At the session of the Far East Committee, Mr. Hughes declared this report to be "absolutely false" and "made out of whole cloth."

Later a spokesman for the United States delegation, referring to other recent stories of alleged friction within the conference, declared that perfect harmony prevailed.

The Far Eastern committee's decision regarding foreign post offices in China serves to strengthen the belief that much which will be done in regard to China's demands will be provisional. The abandonment of the foreign post offices is made contingent upon assurance by the Chinese Government that they will retain the French co-director general, who has effected notable improvements in recent years, and that an efficient postal service will be maintained.

U. F. O. COMPANY CAN CARRY ON

Justice Middleton Holds Insolvency Has Not Been Proven.

TORONTO, Nov. 30.—Justice Middleton yesterday at Osgoode Hall dismissed Dr. A. A. Farewell's motion for a winding-up order for the United Farmers' Co-operation Company Limited. His Lordship held that the Dominion Act under which the motion was brought did not apply to Ontario unless the insolvency of the defendant concern was proven, mere impairment of capital being insufficient.

The argument preceding the court's decision was of only eight minutes' duration and was to all practical purposes concluded when Mr. H. S. White, K.C., solicitor for the plaintiff, admitted that the Co-operative Company operated under an Ontario charter. The Cramp Steel case was then quoted by his Lordship as a precedent illustrating the inadequacy of impairment of capital as a ground for granting a winding-up order and as declaring the necessity of insolvency being shown before such action could be forced. His judgment, he pointed out, was without prejudice to the merits of any case that might be brought under the Ontario Winding-Up Act.

With the dismissal of the action with costs also went the subsidiary motion to commit President A. A. Powers and Secretary J. J. Morrison.

FATHER AND SON PERISH IN FLAMES

Man Enters Burning House to Save Boy and Dies With Him.

CHATHAM, Nov. 29.—George Howell, a returned soldier, and his 14-year-old son perished in a fire which destroyed their home here early this evening.

The fire broke out just before 7 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Howell and the other children escaped to the street, but the boy was trapped in the burning building. Instantly he was missed, his father plunged into the smother of smoke in an attempt to find and bring out his son.

The firemen did not at once learn of Howell's return to the house. When they were told by the frantic wife several of them instantly entered the house, and, despite the almost overpowering billows of smoke, succeeded in climbing the stairs and entering a room where they found father and son side by side upon the floor. Both were dead.
